NEW DEAL MEN READY TO PUSH HOUSING DRIVE

May Spend Millions on Projects.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special.]—The next of the major Roosevelt experiments in the struggle to push the New Deal to success was announced today by Frank Walker, chairman of the President's national emergency council.

The new scheme contemplates the putting up of more hundreds of millions of federal money to finance housing projects all over the United States.

New homes are to be built; old homes are to be repaired, remodeled, spruced up. Mortgages are to be given on generous terms, with interest low and payment permitted over 10 and 20 years.

Single Control Planned.

All of the activities of the government related to housing—such as the subsistence homestead plan, the Home Owners' Loan corporation, the home loan bank board, the farm credit administration, the department of agriculture's program of new housing for farmers—are to be coördinated under a single authority.

There is both an emergency and a permanent program in the scheme, and the temporary program as contemplated will be a rousing campaign of ballyhoo, with citizens, real estate men, building contractors, union leaders, and laborers all being exhorted to join in a patriotic movement toward the restoration of the still slumbering construction industry.

Slogans Are Ready.

Slogans such as "Rebuild America" already are being tossed about by the proponents of the plan, and to top it all off Hugh S. Johnson, most colorful and flamboyant of the administration's heavy men, is expected to lead the campaign.

Mr. Walker said today that no decision had been made on whether Gen. Johnson will be drafted for the job, and it is known that the NRA chief has little taste for it. Reports are current that Johnson would like nothing better than to retire to private life for a much needed rest, and it may be he will have his way, but it is believed President Roosevelt probably will be able to influence the general to take on the housing campaign.

The plan for financing the housing program has not been definitly worked out. Mr. Walker said, however, that it was the administration's hope that private capital will back the project, with the federal government guaranteeing the investors against any losses.

Would Guarantee Mortgages.

The NEC chairman revealed that legislation is now being drawn whereby real estate mortgages will be guaranteed as to principal and interest by a government controled "mortgage insurance" corporation. As to how this corporation will be financed, Mr. Walker declined to say. He gave the impression that no definite plan has been worked out, but declared that the corporation would be so organized that the federal treasury will hold no responsibilities.

It was indicated that the plan will be to set up the corporation with government funds and then provide for earnings out of its financings, setting aside certain percentages for losses.

Mr. Walker said the whole purpose of the immediate program is to stimulate the "durable goods" or "capital goods" industries, which thus far have failed to respond to any of the New Deal panaceas.

Securities Act Blamed.

Industrialists have insisted that the reason for this failure lies in the brain trust's securities act, which has put such drastic restrictions upon the issuance of new securities that few corporation managements are willing to risk new flotations.

But the President thus far has shown no disposition to remedy this situation, and he has insisted that no weakening changes will be made in the securities act with his consent.

His alternative, as revealed today by Mr. Walker, is to attempt stimulation of the dormant industries by creating demands for heavy goods such as are used in housing projects.

The program in the beginning will call for the organization of the "insured mortgage" system, and then for the construction in various parts of the country of many small housing units.

Small Buildings Planned.

"We have no idea of promoting any Park avenue apartment buildings," Mr Walker declared, as he said that an effort would be made to limit the proj-

TWO NORWEGIAN TOWNS SMASHED BY GIANT WAVES

OSLO, Norway, April 7.—(AP)—A huge crag weighing thousands of tons fell into a fjord on Norway's west coast early today and caused huge waves that trapped sleeping residents of two villages. At least fifty were drowned.

Many other inhabitants of the fishing hamlets, Tafjord and Fjoraa, on opposite sides of Nordals fjord, were still missing tonight and were believed victims of the sudden, terrifying disaster—the worst Norway has experienced in years.

First a small part of the cliff, long regarded as a menace, fell, throwing up a small wave. Two other falls followed in rapid succession, just after 3 a. m., and sent a wall of water as high as 30 feet sweeping over the flimsy houses, and coursing relentlessly a half mile inland.

Pastor's Eyewitness Story.

Many of the small structures were carried off like doll houses. Others were reduced to splinters by the heavy impact of the mass of water. Boats in the harbor were tossed upon the land like toys. Motor cars and other vehicles were borne far inland.

A clergyman who was visiting his parents in Tafjord for a birthday celebration gave this account:

"I was awakened by a noise of rushing waters and the shaking of the house. It was only by clinging to the side of the bed that I saved myself. The next moment the windows of the room collapsed—then came the terrifying flood of water.

"Soon I realized the water was rising almost as high as the house. Toward me, borne along by the surging inflow, came a man, helpless but conscious. I opened the door and clutched at him as he was being swept past. To my amazement I found he was a relative of mine, named Tafjord, the same as the village."

Father Lost But Saves Son.

Another eyewitness, who described the waves as coming in series of three, each more violent than the predecessors, related this experience:

"Mother's clutching children to their breasts were caught up and swirled away on the third and most violent wave, as the fathers fought frantically but in vain to rescue their families.

"One of the most pathetic sights was a father who was seen hurrying to the brow of the hill, carrying his tiny son in his arms.

"Reaching the summit, the man apparently thought he was safe, but the water rushed upon him higher and higher until he was last seen standing there holding the boy above the water as the waves eddied about his neck. The boy was later found alive but we have no trace of the father."

Family of Nine Lost.

Another witness told of the loss of an entire family of nine, the mother of which climbed to the roof of their humble home as the waters lapped at her feet.

"As the water rose she climbed from the bedroom window with her three smallest children in her arms or clinging to her skirts," the witness said. "Gaining the edge of an adjacent roof, the woman cried vainly for help. Nothing was seen of the four until the waters receded and their bodies were found."

Other survivors told of hearing heart rending screams and plaintive pleas for aid from trapped men, women and children as the water rushed through the villages, carrying boats toward shore, splintering the wooden houses, and virtually destroying everything in its path.

Flood Recedes Rapidly.

An eerie and spectacular flash of light momentarily illuminated the countryside and threw the scenes of death and destruction into stark relief as the waters reached and engulfed the electrical transformer. A column of light flashed up and then all was quiet and dark again as the flood receded almost as rapidly as it came.

Those fortunate enough to escape huddled terrified, as they awaited relief in the cold weather preceding dawn. So sudden had been the disaster that they had had no time to dress.

Steamers were sent from Aalesund and other surrounding points to help the survivors. The government telegraphed similar offers of aid. Twenty children were believed among the victims.

The fjord separating the villages is narrow and has steep, mountainous sides. The scenery nearby is familiar to many American tourists.

Betty Jane McCarrell, 11 years old, 616 South 20th avenue, Maywood, a student in the eighth grade of the Irving school, was hailed as the champion speller of the Cook county schools when she won the finals yesterday in the spelling contest conducted by County Superintendent of Schools Otto F. Aken.

Betty Jane misspelled only one word —vilify—in the group of seventy words given in the superintendent's office in the county building to the six contestants who were successful in previous elimination contests. Betty Jane was given a gold medal for herself and a blue banner for her school. She is the youngest student in her class and will graduate in June. She is the daughter of Gordon W. McCarrell, an electrician.

Lemont Girl Is Second.

Second prize was won by Betty Kettering, 14 years old, 720 Warner avenue, Lemont, who is an eighth grade student in the Lemont Township school.

She was awarded a silver medal for herself and a red banner for her school. Three words, which were misspelled by Miss Kettering, are consensus, supersede, and incarceration.

Frances Tottenhagen, 14 years old, Bartlett, an eighth grade student in the Ontarioville school, who won third prize, stumbled on five words. She won a bronze medal and a purple banner for her school. Fourth place was awarded to Stewart Barnard, 11 years old, of Northfield, a student in the sixth grade of the Sunset Ridge school of Northfield, who misspelled six words.

Some Trick Words.

Janet Vellera, 14 years old, a student in the eighth grade of the Oaklawn school, and Thomas Newman, 13 years old, a student in the eighth grade of the Thornton school, who were other contestants, misspelled seven words each.

A few of the words given to the contestants to spell are, ecstasy, gorgeous, furor, tier, weird, characterize, assiduous, harass, and rarefy.

PARANA, Argentina, April 7.—The Entre Rios provincial government has imposed a fine of $38,000 on Saturnino Unzue, Argentine millionaire, under a law penalizing absentee landowners. Unzue owns racing stables in France and England. He spends most of his time in Europe.

GERMAN SPY IN WAR IS WEDDING GUEST OF BRITISH CAPTOR

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 7.—Capt. Franz von Rintelen, famous German world war spy, was a guest today at the wedding of Miss Faith Hall, daughter of Admiral Sir Reginald Hall, who was responsible for the capture of Von Rintelen in 1915. His daughter, Marie Louise von Rintelen, was one of the bridesmaids.

The bridegroom was Lieut. Peter Stubbs of the destroyer Sabre. Nineteen admirals, including Earl Jellicoe, attended the ceremony, held at Lyndhurst, Hampshire. Movies recorded the wedding scenes, which will be incorporated in a film now being made, based on Von Rintelen's wartime exploits, in which both Von Rintelen and Sir Reginald will portray themselves.

Sir Reginald was director of the naval intelligence service when he succeeded in trapping Capt. Von Rintelen while he was returning from the United States to Germany aboard a Dutch vessel. Ever since the two enemies have been firm friends. Von Rintelen's daughter will be married in August, and Sir Reginald has promised to attend.

Mystery Fire in Prison at Michigan City

Michigan City, Ind., April 7.—[Special.]—Fire of mysterious origin swept through the two story receiving room and storehouse of the Indiana state penitentiary here late tonight. For a while it was feared that the conflagration might spread to other prison buildings, but this danger was averted by prompt work on the part of prison, Michigan City and La Porte fire departments. Property damage was estimated at $50,000.

While prison officials were inclined to believe that the fire was of accidental origin and not the result of a planned jail plot, they were not overlooking the possibility of incendiarism. At least one official expressed some doubt on the accidental theory because, he said, "the fire started too fast to have been an accident."

Guards Rush to Their Posts.

If any delivery scheme had been involved in the fire it had no chance to succeed, for with the discovery of the fire scores of heavily armed guards rushed to their posts. They were fully prepared against any repetition of the sensational delivery engineered by John Dillinger last September.

The building attacked, about 150 feet long and 40 feet wide, stood in the prison yard. It was used as a receiving room for new convicts and as a storehouse for their civilian clothes and other articles. No one stayed overnight in the structure. Five minutes before the fire broke out W. J. Griswold, a guard, made a routine inspection of the building. He discovered nothing unusual.

When guards discovered the flames soon afterward an alarm was sounded and prison firemen rushed to the scene. The fire spread rapidly and calls for help were sent in to the Michigan City fire department and later to La Porte.

150 Prisoners Are Moved.

One of the first acts by the prison authorities was to move 150 prisoners in cell J, situated near the burning structure, to another cellhouse. They marched out quietly under the guns and watchful eyes of the guards. Other guards circulated through the prison cellhouses and calmed many convicts who were aroused by the fire. No disorder of any kind was reported. It was noted that a special police detail stood outside the prison gates, some with riot guns, in case of emergency.

The fire burned on for more than an hour before being brought under control. One wall of the receiving house caved in and it was said that one fireman was injured.

Congressmen Play a Joke; 2 Arrested

New York, April 7.—[Special.]—Far from the dignified reaches of the capitol, two representatives from Ohio—members of a delegation of 100 on a week-end visit here—decided this evening to indulge in a hoax at the expense of their fellow members. Two hours later the following were under arrest in the Hotel New Yorker:

Representative Warren J. Duffey of Ohio.

Representative Martin L. Sweeney of Ohio.

A reporter of an evening newspaper who was innocently involved.

Several other persons were under suspicion and three police detectives and the house detective of the New Yorker were being goaded into making other arrests when Representative Sol Bloom extracted a full confession from one of the prisoners. Thereupon all were released and the case, both officially and unofficially, was closed.

Blow to Southern Honor.

It began late this afternoon in a room of the hotel where Mr. Bloom and Col. Francis W. Perry were discussing the next item on the program of the legislative forum under whose auspices the group of representatives are visiting the city.

Upon them descended Representative Allard H. Gasque of South Carolina, waving a slip containing the following message received by telephone for him during his absence:

"Your son, Allard," it read, "is detained at police headquarters for passing spurious checks on complaint of Gimbel Brothers. Please arrange for bail and an attorney Monday morning. [Signed] P. J. O'Brien."

Inquiry by telephone at police headquarters revealed that there had been no such arrest.

Bloom Tries Direct Action.

At that moment Mr. Bloom's phone rang and some one describing himself as "Mr. Watson, a reporter," sought more details concerning the Gasque case. Mr. Bloom softly inquired where "Mr. Watson" was.

"Room 640," was the reply.

Mr. Bloom went into action. He called the newspaper and discovered it had no Mr. Watson on its staf. Next he summoned the house detective and three city detectives from the West 18th street station. They came on the run.

"Arrest Mr. Watson in Room 640," Mr. Bloom ordered.

The detectives made for the room. Meanwhile a reporter had gone to the room to see if he could identify "Mr. Watson." When the detectives broke in they found only two representatives from Ohio and the reporter.

Just a Jolly Joke.

The arrests followed. Later explanations were forthcoming and everybody joined in laughing off the joke.

During their stay here the congressmen, most of whom were accompanied by their families, visited the stock exchange, the federal reserve bank and two newspaper offices.

FURIOUS OVER COLD SAUSAGE, BOARDER STABS 3

For four months Walter Dusek, 28 years old, had been a boarder in the home of Mrs. Anna Nielsen, 42 years old, 2321 North Oak Park avenue. Last night, when he arrived at the house for supper, he quarreled with the landlady because the sausage was cold.

"Haven't you got money to buy gas to heat the food?" he demanded.

Mrs. Nielsen made no reply. Her silence further angered the boarder and he drew a pocket knife and stabbed her several times. She screamed and when her son Ralph, 19 years old, and her daughter Betty, 12 years old, went to her assistance Dusek stabbed them also. Then he fled. He was arrested soon afterward.

"She knows I am ill and have to have my food warm," Dusek told the police. "But I wouldn't have stabbed her if I hadn't been drinking."

At the Belmont hospital the condition of Mrs. Nielsen was regarded as critical. The hurts of the son and daughter were not so serious.

Township Permits Hens; Bars Noisy Boy Friends

Maplewood, N. J., April 7.—Oscar Kuhn of Maplewood may keep thirty hens, but no roosters, according to a permit granted by the Maplewood township committee. Miss Marie A. Harrison, health officer, recommended granting of the permit. Roosters, Miss Harrison and the committee agreed, get up too early in the morning and make too much noise about it.

INFLUENCE SEEN ON DECISIONS OF STATE VOTERS

Confusion Caused by Kerner Ruling.

BY PARKE BROWN.

All of the efforts of both Democrats and Republicans to keep national issues out of the Illinois primaries on Tuesday have failed. Reports from all parts of the state yesterday indicated that questions of federal policies will play a strong part in the decisions of the voters.

The politicos say such a situation is absurd, that the primaries are simply intra-party disputes that do not array the Republican outs against the Democratic ins, and that no candidates except those for congress are concerned with matters national in their scope.

Skilled observers, however, state unqualifiedly that approval and disapproval of the New Deal, of easy money and of national regimentation are being discussed nearly everywhere more than any other subject on which the primary activities have touched. They even enter into scraps between rivals for precinct committeeships.

Covers Wide Territory.

Although this is called an "off year" in elections, Tuesday's battle covers a wide territory, involving thousands of candidates for hundreds of offices. Nominees for two state offices, for all of Illinois' twenty-seven seats in congress, for the 153 seats in the state house of representatives, for twenty-seven of the fifty-one places in the state senate, for a whole string of important local offices in every one of the 102 counties, and for the entire machinery of both parties, both the state and county committees being elected at this time.

There has been no one great state question in either intra-party contest. The Democratic leaders have complete control of their party organization. The chief state questions to come into their family arguments have concerned Gov. Horner's veto of the bill to permit the sale of beer over bars, his proposal to take one-third of the gas tax for school purposes, and his patronage methods, or lack of methods.

New Deal Occupies Stage.

These subjects also have come to the front in the Republican activities, but here more than among the Democrats the New Deal and all its subsidiaries gradually have come to occupy the center of the stage. The big appeal that has stirred the recently lethargic G. O. P. has been that its full strength must be rallied for the national welfare.

The exact degree to which this will affect the voting is extremely uncertain because of the tangle over the legal question whether the elector who voted in the 1932 primary can change parties next Tuesday. In Cook county the election authorities have ruled emphatically that no change can be made because the required two calendar years since the last primary will not have elapsed by Tuesday.

Attorney General Kerner threw the situation into confusion by giving an opinion that the 1932 primary voter may shift now. He said that the two year restriction was based on election years and not calendar years. Judge Barnes of the United States District court ruled against him without reservation; but Kerner maintained his position.

May Rule Either Way.

The result has been to give the authorities of the 101 downstate counties a chance to rule either way. Some have ruled one way, some the other and some have made no ruling leaving the decision in the hands of polling place judges and clerks.

The effect of these developments is to make it impossible to determine precisely from the vote next Tuesday whether the swing of sentiment is for or against the national administration. In Cook county alone, it has been estimated, there are many thousands of voters who would change parties this year—one way or the other—if the ruling were not against their doing so.

The indications further are that it will be impossible to determine because of conflicting rulings whether the proportionate votes of the two parties in the state indicate a vote of confidence or of condemnation.

Ickes Sets Off Blaze.

Veteran observers say that the match that set the field of national issues ablaze in the state was the action of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, in taking part in the Illinois congressional contest between Congressman James Simpson Jr. and Ralph E. Church in the 10th district.

Mr. Ickes, a Winnetkan, still claims membership in the Republican party although he is a member of a Democratic cabinet. He is said to have ruled that his wife, Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes, must not seek renomination for the general assembly while he is a part of the Democratic administration, but he, himself, wrote a letter attacking Congressman Simpson which was read over the radio.

He pointed out in Washington interviews that he had not said anything about Church, but the battling in the north shore district has brought two fresh developments. One is the disclosure that one of the few important parts of Church's organization support comes from Harold W. Snell, Republican county committee representative for the Third country towns district.

Snell a Winnetka Resident.

Like Secretary Ickes, Mr. Snell is a Winnetkan. He was elected as Ickes' candidate for district committeeman. The Winnetka city directory lists him as a glue manufacturer. But the congressional directory shows him as general freight, passenger, and immigration agent of the government owned Alaska railroad, which is under Secretary Ickes' control.

Further, it is cited that Church is officially listed by the Newton Jenkins "liberal" or "radical" faction as one of its candidates. Mr. Jenkins is considered "close" to Secretary Ickes.

The second recent development was an announcement that Congressman Simpson will make four radio speeches today and tomorrow in which he will discuss Secretary Ickes' part in the campaign. With his announcement he made public copies of his speech.

"When Harold Ickes, posing as a private citizen sent his rather weak letter," read a part of this manuscript, "he was not so much opposed to me personally as he is opposed to my firm stand on the fundamental principles of American freedom.

One Who Won't Fight.

"He prefers to have as a member of congress a man who is dependent on him and who will not have the backbone to fight and vote against taking away from the people's representatives the powers given to them in the constitution and placing it in hands like his own.

"Less than a month ago the house of representatives voted down 2 to 1 a proposal to establish a furniture factory at Reedsville, W. Va. Yet Ickes, with supine indifference to this command, has since used $1,000,000 of PWO funds to establish a government owned rum factory in one of our insular possessions.

"His record of Socialist leanings is too well known to discuss at length, but I am reliably informed by members of the Civil Liberties union that Mr. Ickes himself is a contributor and member of that communistic affiliate."

In answer to questions by Church, the manuscript disclosed, Simpson intends to hurl the word "lie" at his opponent in connection with two different subjects.

BANDITS SEIZE $50,000 JEWELS IN LOOP STREET

The jewelry, consisting mostly of set diamonds, was being conveyed by Joseph Raymond, 48 years old, 440 North State street, a sample carrier employed by Commercial Travelers, a concern which furnishes salesmen with help in carrying their cases.

Raymond and the salesman, William J. Jackson of Shiman & Co., commercial jewelers, 234 W. 39th street, New York, had boarded a south bound Wabash avenue street car at Madison street, after calling on several jewelers in the Heyworth building, Madison street and Wabash avenue. They intended to take the gems to Jackson's room in the Congress hotel.

The car was crowded and Raymond was about ten feet ahead of Jackson when the Congress street stop was made. The sample carrier alighted first and was immediately set upon by two men with revolvers. They beat him, and, snatching the case, leaped into a small black sedan bearing Illinois license 451-668. A third man sat at the wheel and the machine sped east in Congress and presumably out on Michigan avenue.

Police at the detective bureau believed the thieves had followed behind the car bearing Raymond and Jackson after they left Madison street. The jewelry, Jackson said, was insured.

OPEN ANTI-NAZI SESSION TODAY; 1,000 TO ATTEND

More than 1,000 delegates from 25 middle western cities will assemble at 10 o'clock this morning in the Standard club for the midwestern conference of the Chicago committee for the defense of human rights against Naziism.

Principal speakers will be Congressman Edward A. Kenney of New Jersey, a Catholic leader; James W. Gerard, former United States ambassador to Germany; and James A. Reed, former United States senator from Missouri.

Congressman Kenney came into the limelight recently when he introduced a bill in the house of representatives asking that Albert Einstein, the scientist, be made a citizen of the United States by congressional action. Prof. Einstein took refuge in the United States after Hitler began his campaign against the Jews.

The conference will be presided over by Dr. Paul Hutchinson of the Christian Century publication, who is president of the committee. Salmon O. Levinson, noted for his efforts to outlaw war and recently made chevalier of the Legion of Honor by the French government in recognition of his work, is chairman of the conference committee.

Robbers Get $596 Cash in Holdup of 2 Couples

Two young bandits stole $596 in cash and a $70 overcoat last night when they held up Mr. and Mrs. Mason Stein and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wright in front of the couples' residence at 7372 Parkhurst avenue. The Steins and the Wrights were returning from a house party when the bandits accosted them. ADVOCATES RELY ON PASSAGE OF PARK UNITY ACT

Mayor Compiles Names for Advisory Committee.

Civic and political agencies favoring the consolidation of Chicago's 22 scattered park districts expressed confidence yesterday that the voters will favor the unification at Tuesday's election.

Mayor Kelly, one of the leading advocates of the consolidation, was so assured that the referendum would pass that he has already compiled a list of 25 persons who, in the event of passage, would act as the citizens' recreation committee to advise the five commissioners of the Chicago park district, the agency set up in the pending act, in administering the consolidated parks.

Indorsed by Both Parties.

In a final word to the voters, John C. Bowers, chairman of the Chicago park district campaign committee, recalled that both major political parties have indorsed the proposal. "The Cook County Republican platform declares for park consolidation," he declared, "and the Cook County Democratic managing committee has indorsed the act and is urging ward and precinct leaders to work for it."

For years the Circuit court judges have named the south park commissioners and the governor the Lincoln and west park commissioners. The new act would vest the appointive authority with the mayor in choosing five commissioners to administer all of the 22 unrelated park districts.

The new plan was given added impetus yesterday by Bernard E. Sunny, former vice president of the south park commissioners, in a letter to Chairman Bowers.

"The time has come to simplify our tangle of governments," Mr. Sunny wrote. "The voters must begin to centralize responsibility for the various public services if we are not to find ourselves in a chaos of misrule.

A Mistaken Theory.

"In the nature of things the Circuit court judges are not so well qualified as a mayor is to select park commissioners. Their problems are legal and judicial, whereas those of the mayor are administrative, and the judges do not come sufficiently in contact with the park problem to meet the situation. The appointment by the governor of the west and Lincoln park commissioners has always been a mistaken theory. In most cases he comes from downstate and hasn't the slightest conception of the local park requirements."

Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel, advanced the argument that a vote for the consolidation was a vote to take the Circuit court out of politics.

"There is no surer way of putting the courts into politics than by giving them political functions of this sort," Mr. Busch said. "The voters can, by their approval of the park consolidation act, register their opposition of any political functions by the judiciary."

The consolidation campaign committee yesterday listed 62 political, civic, and business organizations who view the new act favorably. They range from large groups such as the Chicago Association of Commerce, the State Street council, and the Union League club, to neighborhood improvement associations, nationality groups, and educational clubs.

Leaders Favor Proposal.

Such authorities on government as Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago and Prof. A. R. Hatton of Northwestern university were also enlisted in support of the consolidation. Frank J. Loesch, veteran president of the Chicago Crime commission; Col. A. A. Sprague, former commissioner of public works, and Joseph K. Brittain, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, were others among the proponents.

It was, however, with the political organizations that the campaign committee seemed to place a major portion of their trust that the referendum will pass. Ward and precinct workers have been asked to urge upon the voters the advantages of eliminating unnecessary overhead expense and thereby reduce park taxes in the future.

It was reported that the chairmanship of Mayor Kelly's citizens' recreation commission, which will advise the new park board, would be offered to Otto C. Doering.

Commemorate Founding of G. A. R. 68 Years Ago

Sons and daughters of Union veterans of the civil war commemorated the 68th anniversary of the organization of the Grand Army of the Republic with a banquet and reception last night at the Hotel Sherman. The Rev. William Gorman, chaplain of the Chicago fire department, spoke. Special guests were George A. Robinson, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic; Miss Litta M. Law, department president of the Daughters of Union Veterans, and Harry Morgan, department commander of the Sons of Union Veterans.

SEEKER OF ELECTION AS SHERIF IS USING OFFICE OF HIS RIVAL

Officials of the Republican county central committee declared yesterday that George A. Ringler, candidate for sherif, whose name closely resembles that of the organization candidate, James P. Ringley, is working in the Brevoort hotel headquarters of Patrick T. Roche, another candidate for the same nomination.

Ringler, it was said, is paying no attention to his own campaign but is handling the speaking arrangements for Roche and otherwise making himself useful to his opponent. Ringler is a Republican precinct captain in the 47th ward.

James P. Ringley, the organization choice for sherif, is entering politics in the current primary. He has held no public office but is a power in the American Legion of Illinois. He was state commander last year.

He reiterated the warning that the names of those who fail to renew their licenses before April 15 will be given to the police, and those found selling liquor after that date without the necessary license will be prosecuted.

COL. ROOSEVELT SEES MANY G. O. P. VICTORIES IN HOUSE SEAT RACE

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(AP)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. paid a brief visit to the capital today and conferred with several prominent Republicans, including James W. Wadsworth [Rep., N. Y.] and Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.].

He was understood to have told those with whom he talked that he considered Republican chances of winning back a number of house seats in the elections this fall as especially good.

Roosevelt good naturedly declined to discuss reports he would succeed Everett Sanders as chairman of the Republican national committee, but he would not deny them. Only recently Roosevelt returned from a fishing trip with Lawrence Richey, secretary to former President Hoover.

While here the former governor general of the Philippines visited his sister, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth. He left tonight for New York.

Coöperating with State's Attorney Courtney in his efforts to keep pace with the advent of new cases, five Criminal court judges were on duty yesterday. PRESIDENT OF POSEN IS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Woman with Him Drives Machine Into Ditch.

Victor J. Kaminski, 35 years old, village president of Posen, was killed early today and a woman companion was injured when their automobile ran into a ditch at 159th street and Brennan avenue, Worth township, about two miles west of Midlothian.

His companion, Mrs. Charlotte Testard, 34, of 932 West 67th street, Chicago, a divorcée, was driving the car. Police said that the accident occurred when she failed to make a turn from Brennan avenue into 159th street. Kaminski was killed instantly. Mrs. Testard suffered cuts and bruises and possible internal injuries, and was taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey. She will recover.

Serving Third Term.

Kaminski was married and father of four children. He was serving his third term and his sixth year as president of the village board. Mrs. Testard, county highway police said, was formerly the wife of James V. Testard who operated a roadhouse at 147th street and Western avenue. They were divorced in 1929. At the trial before Judge Sabath Mrs. Testard created a panic in the courtroom when she took poison in an attempt to kill herself after she had been awarded alimony of $75 a month. She had demanded $100 monthly.

Arthur Olson, 48 years old, 6351 North Merrimac avenue, was fatally injured last night when his automobile crashed into a post at Elston and Peterson avenues. He died soon afterward at the Belmont hospital.

The deaths of Kaminski, Olson, and two others, increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 225. The victims:

John Kwak, 42 years old, [illegible] North California avenue, died at St. Elizabeth's hospital of injuries suffered when his car collided with a surface car at Ogden and Chicago avenues on Tuesday.

Harry Flagler, 40 years old, 2112 Harrison street, a painter. Fatally injured last night when he was struck by a southbound hit and run car at Cicero avenue and Harrison street. He died in the Frances Willard hospital.

Seven Hurt in Crash.

The overturning of a car at 55th street and Cicero avenue yesterday caused injuries to seven persons. One was Miss Loretta Cartwright, 18 years old, of West Liberty, Ill., who was on her way home from a hospital. She suffered a broken ankle. Mrs. Florence Coleman, 36 years old, of West Liberty suffered a fractured skull. Hurts of the others were not so serious.

John Connelly, 56 years old, 9132 Houston avenue, was seriously injured last night when he was struck at La Salle and Huron streets by an automobile driven by Nathan Mendelson, 6540 North Ashland avenue.

The Fillmore street police were requested yesterday to search for a motorist who struck a pedestrian at Jackson boulevard and Hamlin avenue and, after pulling the victim into his car, fled with him. The incident was reported by Frank Smith, 320 South Seeley avenue, a witness. Inquiries were made at nearby hospitals, but the injured pedestrian was not found.

ROOSEVELT JR. EXPLAINS SOCK AT CAMERAMAN

Philadelphia, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., 19 year old son of the President, commenting on his altercation with a photographer at a wrestling show, today was quoted as saying:

Young Roosevelt, a week-end guest at the home of Hallowell Vaughn Morgan Jr. of Bryn Mawr, in a telephone conversation discussed his action at the arena last night, when he is reported to have knocked down Don Corvelli, the photographer, and smashed his camera.

"I am thoroughly fed up with what happened last night. I wouldn't have minded it if the photographer had asked me to have a picture taken alone, or with a wrestler."

He was asked if he would consent to pose for a photographer, but said he didn't want his picture taken.

POLL OFFICIALS ATTACK DATA OF CITIZENS' GROUP

Precinct Inquiry Shows Faulty Figures.

Election officials last night challenged the accuracy of figures given out earlier in the day by the Citizens' Committee for Honest Elections, which purported to show that nearly 5 per cent of the registered voters in Chicago are not qualified to vote on Tuesday from the addresses shown for them in the poll lists.

The committee, of which J. W. Badenoch is the chief, had turned over to County Judge Jarecki 19,605 mailing list checking cards that had been sent to voters registered in 970 precincts, but had been returned marked "not found," "not there," or "moved to another address." The judge, who is head of the election machinery, ordered an investigation of these cards, and clerks were busy at the task all night at the election board office.

Result of Precinct Inquiry.

The election board investigators turned first to the 76th precinct of the 5th ward, from which the Badenoch committee said that 96 cards had been returned marked "not found," etc. The official investigators said that instead of 96, there were only 11 cards which indicated faulty registrations. The committee, it was said, had sent cards to 68 persons in the precinct whose names previously had been erased by the election board, had mailed three cards to persons not registered in the precinct, had incorrectly addressed eight cards, and six cards of the 96 had been marked "O. K." by the postman.

"The figures show that in this precinct only 11 persons on the poll list do not live at the addresses shown for them," said Judge Jarecki. "That is possible, as people in Chicago are moving continuously, and that number could have changed their residence since the last revision of the registration books. On the basis of the survey of this precinct, it was pointed out, the Badenoch committee's charges of fraudulent registration in the precinct is only 11 per cent correct.

As further discrepancies in the Badenoch committee's report were uncovered, election officials expressed the opinion that on the completion of their investigation they would have definite proof that the poll lists would not sustain the contention of Mr. Badenoch that the cards indicate a "probable total of approximately 100,000 voters who cannot lawfully vote from the addresses given them."

Judges to Get List.

Another point uncovered by the election board investigation was the apparent concentration of the cards in wards that ordinarily are found in the Democratic column. It was pointed out that none of the precincts investigated by the committee are in the 2d or 3d wards, where the vote is overwhelmingly Republican, or in the north side wards in which Republican voters have predominated for years.

The names of those persons who are found not to be living at the addresses shown for them on the poll lists will be sent by Judge Jarecki to the judges of election in their precincts with instructions to challenge the voters if they appear. The voters so challenged will have to produce at least two affidavits from householders in their precincts certifying their right to vote.

"Then, if the voter does not live at the poll list address," said Max Murdock, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Union League club, which has been coöperating with the other committee, "we have a case of perjury, and perhaps a criminal case. Our object is not primarily to prosecute, but to eliminate the fraudulent voting that has been present in other elections."

To questions as to whom he suspected of placing fraudulent registrations on the poll lists, Mr. Murdock replied: "We believe this activity has been cut out of the same piece of cloth as the frauds uncovered in recent canvasses, which were followed by prosecutions of judges and clerks of election."

Appeal Sent to Farley.

The survey that the citizens' committee had been making secretly of the registration lists was disclosed by Mr. Murdock on Friday when he announced that he had appealed to Postmaster General Farley to order the release of 137,000 cards, the delivery of which had been halted by Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen. The committee had sent out a total of 501,000 cards, of which 364,000 had been returned to it with the required information.

Yesterday, instructions were received by Mr. Kruetgen to release the 137,000 cards to the committee. Mr. Badenoch charged, however, that the cards had been held just long enough so that if they disclosed any fraulent registrations it would be too late for the election board to take any action before Tuesday.

ACCOUNTANT IS SUED FOR $150,000 BY ART MODEL

New York, April 7.—[Special.]—Marion Mackenzie, artist's model, who came from Chicago last November seeking enshrinement on canvas as a Madonna, found a flesh and blood attraction instead, according to papers filed today in a $150,000 breach of promise suit.

Instead of advancing her career through posing for a famous Manhattan painter, she became the inspiration of Herman H. Rosen, a certified public accountant, she told her attorney, Herman Roth, who filed the suit on her behalf against Rosen in Supreme court.

"I am considerably disillusioned," Miss Mackenzie lamented today. "I had hoped to find fame as an art model, now I find myself the plaintiff in a $150,000 breach of promise suit."

Attorney Roth recently obtained a court order from Justice Aulius Miller in Supreme court appointing a guardian for his client, who is only 20 years old.

FALL FATAL TO BARTENDER.

Andrew Hall, 50 years old, 3716 North Clark street, died at the American hospital yesterday after he had fallen down a flight of stairs in a saloon at 3700 North Clark street, where he was employed as a bartender.

Property Owners Can't Get Insurance.

Owners of property leased to saloons, taverns, and cafés were reported yesterday to be having difficulty obtaining insurance protection against their liability under the state liquor law. At the offices of the state department of insurance it was said that so far only two companies are authorized to issue this form of policy and they are tentatively accepting applications for this form of policy.

Other insurance companies are studying the risks attendant upon this form of business. Under the state liquor law passed last January the seller of drinks is liable for "all damages sustained and for exemplary damages," and those who may recover damages include the "husband, wife, child, parent, guardian, employer, or other person who shall be injured in person or property, or means of support, by any intoxicated person or in consequence of the intoxication, habitual or otherwise, of any person . . ."

Property Owner Liable.

In the same act there is a provision that the owner of the property wherein intoxicating liquors are sold is equally liable with the one who sells or gives away intoxicating liquor. It provides that the building may be sold to satisfy a judgment in a case of this kind, and that, where the property is owned by a person under guardianship, the guardian or conservator is liable instead of the minor owner.

One feature of the law, which insurance men said is causing concern, is in the language "means of support." They said a court decision would be needed to determine whether a wife can obtain damages if her husband loses his job because of drinking in one or more places. The point was also raised as to whether children could get an award if the father were killed or disabled as a result of intoxication.

Law Is More Drastic.

The insurance companies also are seeking further light on the liability under the language "or other person" in the event of damage or injury caused by an intoxicated person such as an automobile accident or the careless causing of a fire; or whether an employer could recover from the drink seller and the property owner for any losses due to the action of an intoxicated employé.

So far it is the banks and trust companies having charge of buildings where liquor is sold that are most anxious to obtain this insurance. The provisions of the present law are said to be much more drastic than those in the old dramshop act which was in force before prohibition, and the property owners want some sort of protection.

In insurance circles it was reported there is a fear that unscrupulous lawyers may develop a racket by means of this law and start a flood of suits against liquor dealers and property owners.

L. V. L. LISTS ITS SELECTIONS FOR ASSEMBLY SEATS

Urges Voters to Choose Fit Candidates.

Following its custom THE TRIBUNE presents today the recommendations of the Legislative Voters' league for nominations for state senators and representatives in the metropolitan district at the Tuesday primaries.

In announcing the candidates it prefers, the league urged the voters "to support only fit candidates for the general assembly."

"As the legislature determines the tax rates of the city, county, and other local governing bodies and enacts laws which affect the wellbeing of the people in countless ways, its members should be carefully chosen," the report said.

"As it is difficult for the voter to get adequate information about the multitude of primary candidates, the Legislative Voters' league tries to give disinterested help by investigating the fitness of all candidates whom it finds best qualified."

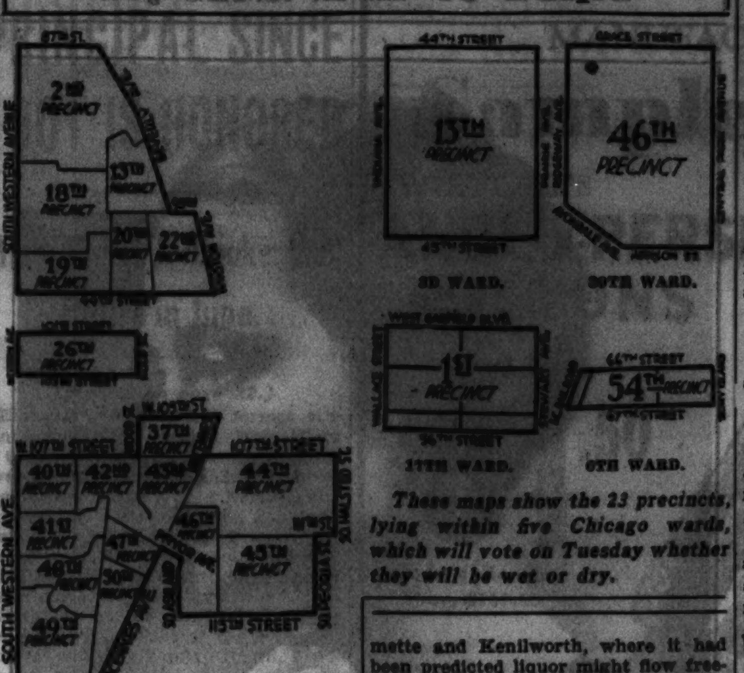
23 Precincts to Vote on Liquor



These maps show the 23 precincts, lying within five Chicago wards, which will vote on Tuesday whether they will be wet or dry.

23 OF PRECINCTS IN CITY VOTE ON LIQUOR TUESDAY

Voting in the county on wet and dry propositions on Tuesday will be confined principally to Chicago. Voters of 23 city precincts will decide whether the districts in which they live shall be wet or dry. Beyond the city limits only voters in the unincorporated section of New Trier township will vote on the liquor issue.

Some of Chicago's suburbs already have voted dry, and in efforts to start local communities in Chicago on the same path anti-liquor organizations have been campaigning extensively. Pleas for dry votes will be made from some church pulpits today. These and other efforts are inspired by the knowledge that under the state law the sale of liquor will become legal May 10 in all districts unless the residents vote dry.

Only five wards are represented among the precincts in Chicago that are voting on local option. Nineteen of these precincts are in the traditionally dry Beverly Hills residential section of the 19th ward, while the other four precincts are in the 3d, 6th, 17th, and 39th wards.

Redistricting Causes Problem.

A peculiar situation exists because of the provision in the local option law requiring the vote on Tuesday to be taken in precincts as they existed at the time of the gubernatorial election of November, 1932. Consequently, because of the redistricting of some precincts since then, there are seven cases, all in the 19th ward, where the old precinct lines now overlap other precincts.

The effect of this complication is illustrated in the old 45th precinct, which takes in the new 45th precinct and part of the new 65th. Voters in the 65th, whose homes are within the boundary lines of the old 45th, are not voting the issue in their own new precinct, but the decision as to whether their homes shall be in wet or dry territory lies largely with the voters in the new 45th precinct.

Four precincts constituting the unincorporated section of New Trier township also vote on Tuesday. These precincts are sparsely settled and political observers along the north shore predicted that probably not more than 225 votes would be cast on the local option proposition.

Aimed at "No Man's Land."

The circulating of petitions to place the question on the ballot here was for a definite purpose. The vote is being directed at "No Man's Land," a small section lying between Wilmette and Kenilworth, where it had been predicted liquor might flow freely under county and state licenses unless action was taken to make it dry also.

Evanston and Winnetka voted by big margins on April 3 to be dry. Wilmette and Kenilworth will vote on April 17 and are likely to follow the example set for them by the neighboring suburbs. The importance of the question of whether "No Man's Land" shall be an oasis or a unit in a solid dry strip along the north shore thus can be seen.

Zion, in Lake county, will vote on a liquor proposition on Tuesday. Lake Bluff and Gurnee, in the same county, will vote on April 17.

BAINS ALLOWED TO APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

John Bain, former South park commissioner and head of a chain of banks which failed, together with his sons, John H. and Robert A., and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, were allowed an appeal to the state Supreme court yesterday against their conviction of conspiracy to defraud depositors. The elder Bain was sentenced to prison from one to five years, while his sons and son-in-law were fined.

The Appellate court has upheld the finding of guilt against the bankers. Yesterday the Supreme court granted a writ bringing the records from the Appellate court for consideration by the high court at the June term.

Another conviction of John Bain, John H. Bain, and Fisher, for accepting deposits while knowing the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank was insolvent, is also awaiting an appeal. In addition, the three Bains are under a federal indictment charging use of the mails to defraud.

Woman Lashes MacDonald; Cancels $1,000,000 Gift

LONDON, April 7.—(AP)—An offer of $1,000,000 toward the air defense of London was withdrawn today by Lady Houston, wealthy air enthusiast who backed several Schneider Cup efforts, with a strong criticism of Prime Minister MacDonald.

"I alone have dared to point out the dire need for air defense of London," she wired the prime minister. "You have treated my patriotic gesture with a contempt such as no other government would have been guilty of towards a patriot."

NEW TRAFIC PLAN READY FOR FAIR; WILL END JAMS

Many Improvements Over 1933 System.

BY HAL FOUST.

A trafic plan has been completed to handle a Century of Progress crowds greater than in 1933. It is a refinement of the system that was developed during the five and a half months of the Fair last year after much bungling of trafic control in the early weeks.

The bungling last spring started rumors throughout the country that congestion was so great that motorists should avoid Chicago. The Fair administration was concerned about these rumors because a majority of the out of town visitors were arriving over the pavements.

Ready with New Plan.

The trafic problem has been studied early this year so there will be no repetition of last spring's experiences. Otto K. Jelinek, south park engineer, has prepared detailed plans for every entrance to the Exposition and workmen will be put on the job within a couple of weeks to prepare for the opening of the Fair on May 26.

On the whole, the 1934 plan will follow the arrangements developed from five months of errors and corrections last year. In the final months of 1933, vehicles and pedestrians were moved in volumes and with a promptness that outclassed any trafic control of large crowds ever undertaken in America. But no system was ever perfect, and the 1934 scheme will remove outstanding imperfections of 1933.

Bridges for Pedestrians.

As in 1933, passerelles will be used for pedestrians to cross the busy pavements over vehicular trafic. Not all of these foot bridges were finished when the Exposition was opened last year.

Bus and taxicab terminals at the Roosevelt entrance are to be enlarged to accommodate the demands in rush periods, such as at the outbreak of rains. The loading and unloading platforms will be closer to the turnstiles.

This year they will be accessible to the stadium by walking to the east of the Field museum instead of to the west. The stadium and the Shedd aquarium as well as the museum will be outside the Fair fences.

North of Roosevelt road, the only change in the control system will take south bound buses off Michigan avenue into Grant park sooner than last year. Last fall, Michigan avenue downtown was more congested than the pavements immediately adjacent to the Exposition.

New Loading Zones.

South of Roosevelt road in the outer drive a major improvement will be the establishment of vehicular loading zones outside of the lanes for moving trafic. At each gate to the Fair the curb will be cut back on both sides of the boulevard to accommodate simultaneous loading and unloading of private cars as well as buses and taxicabs.

An important improvement for handling Stadium crowds includes a protected sidewalk on the east side of the drive from 16th street, the south end of Soldiers' field, to 18th street, where an overhead bridge will take pedestrians over the boulevard to the street car terminal and to a large parking lot. Last year, at the break up of popular events in the Stadium, pedestrians over-ran the pavements notwithstanding police efforts.

Solve Cab Problem.

The 23d street bridge, scene of several bad trafic jams last year, will have street car loading zones controled by means of gates. Also, cruising taxicabs will be barred from the bridge, a storage lot being opened for them between the north and the south one-way drives below.

"The South park commissioners," said Mr. Jelinek, "plan to inaugurate the Fair trafic arrangements about a week or ten days before the Exposition opens. This will give our normal year-round trafic a chance to accustom itself to the system before the influx of a million out of town cars."

MODEL VILLAGE OF FUTURE TO BE SHOWN AT FAIR

Prizes for Individual Miniature Homes.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The American homes of the future, as garden clubs and landscapers visualize them, are to be seen at the World's Fair this summer. They will be complete, but in miniature, and an entire community is to be constructed within the Horticultural building, in which each home and lot will be produced by a different individual or garden club.

These model homes, replete with their tiny evergreens, birdhouses, homes in detailed and modern designs, shrubs and tiny flower gardens, are being meticulously produced now in hundreds of communities over the nation.

Prizes for Best Designs.

The realistic designs are to be entered in competition for prizes offered by the Society of American Florists, who will manage the three acres of gardens in the horticultural exposition this year.

A committee of landscape and home architects was named yesterday to pass upon each model submitted and accepted for the model American village. This village is to be laid out by city planners, utilizing the best of the models presented.

Contest Open to All.

On the committee are Daniel H. Burnham, secretary of A Century of Progress; Alfred C. Hottes, Des Moines, Ia., gardening authority; Jacob L. Crane Jr., city planner; August Koch, chief florist of the Garfield park conservatory; Jens Jensen and Ralph Rodney Root, landscape architects.

Any garden or women's club, society, school, church, or individual is eligible to submit a model, which, according to the planners, must represent a house on a lot 75 by 100 feet constructed on the scale of one-fourth inch to the foot. There is no entry fee, and for the six best models entered medals and cash prizes are offered.

The judging standards of the committee announced yesterday provide 30 points for layout of house and grounds, 25 for design of the garden picture, 25 for practical nature of the planting, and 20 points for workmanship, scale, and finish of the design.

RAMON NOVARRO SAILS FOR SOUTH AMERICAN SINGING RECITAL TOUR

New York, April 7.—(AP)—Ramon Novarro today deserted the screen temporarily to sing his way through South America and thence into Europe.

The Mexican film player, together with his sister Carmen, an accompanist, and his cousin-manager, Jorge Gavilan, boarded the Furness Prince liner Northern Prince for Buenos Aires to fill engagements in four South American capitals.

After two months' appearances in Buenos Aires, Santiago de Chile, Montevideo, and Rio de Janeiro the Novarro party will sail for Europe for engagements there, returning to Hollywood this fall, where Novarro will resume acting Oct. 15.

Last night he signed another contract for one year with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. It marks his 14th year in pictures.

Sanitary District Gives Employes 2 Weeks' Pay

The sanitary district yesterday paid $124,000 in salaries to its 1,100 employés for the last two weeks of March. The money was received from delinquent tax collections and the sale of tax anticipation warants to the district's pension fund, according to Trustee Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the finance committee.

FLOWER SHOW OPENS; FINEST GARDENS PICKED

The eighth annual spring garden and flower show sponsored by the Garden club of Illinois opened yesterday at Navy Pier with an attendance which, club officials declared, seemed certain to break last year's record of 100,000.

Prizes in eight major divisions of club competition announced last night indicated suburbs west and south of Chicago were garnering a large share of awards in the exposition, which closes a week from tonight.

The Joliet Floral and Garden club won the most coveted award of the show when a special group of judges from the Garden club of America awarded the national silver medal to that club's bog garden, a careless profusion of moss covered logs, fern, pussy willows, and wild violets, bordering a languid rivulet. The Joliet club also received first prize from a staf of 29 judges composed of garden authorities from 11 states on its bog garden. The Garden club of Evanston was second in this division and the De Kalb Garden club, third.

La Grange Park Wins.

Two crab apple trees and rows of white hyacinths give piquancy to the Georgian style tea house and garden, arranged by the La Grange Park Garden club, which won first place in its class. The Glencoe Garden club took second place and the Waukegan Garden club, Douglas chapter, third. Predominating in the informal pool garden of the Chicago Heights Garden club, which won a first award are daffodils, and hyacinths against a background of evergreen trees. The Garden Study club of Hinsdale and the Garden club of Edison Park, Founder's Group, won second and third places, respectively.

The neatly plotted vegetable beds of the Wheaton Garden club's model kitchen garden won for that organization first place. The Kenilworth Home and Garden club took second in this division and the Evening Garden club of Wilmette, third. First place in the green garden division went to the Winnetka Garden club, second to the Park Ridge Garden club, and the third to the Lake Forest Garden club. The model toolhouse first award went to the Garden club of Barrington, with second to the Western Springs Garden club and third to the Garden club of Morgan Park.

First place in its division went to the lavender and white flowered twilight garden of the La Grange Garden club; the Garden department of the Beverly Hills Woman's club won second, and third place went to the Wilmette Garden club. A silver medal special award was placed on the bulb garden displayed by the Oak Park and River Forest Garden club.

Touch of Humor.

Crowning the display of riotous colors and mingled perfumes with a touch of humor is the entry of the Rose chapter of the Elmhurst Garden club. Framed in a recessed wall is an incongruously clever mock plant, on which one sees growing a combination of squash, cauliflower, carrots, beans, and bright radishes.

War veterans, patients in Edward Hines Jr. hospital, exhibited their garden work in one of the sections and it was much admired. It was a reflection of the successful work in gardening they are doing at the big hospital.

The religious also found its way into the display in the entry of the Garden club of the Kenwood church, which was given a supreme award. Entitled a "pulpit garden at Christmas," the display is of massed evergreen trees bordering an altar, profuse with scarlet candles. An atmosphere of real forest was brought to the show by the Forest Preserves of Cook county, with a large heavily wooded fall scene. The largest of the trees in this exhibit, which towers some 50 feet, was placed by means of a derrick.

Mrs. Frederick A. Wallis, Paris, Ky., one of the judges, declared the exposition to be the outstanding indoor show of the United States. Mrs. O. W. Dynes is president of the Garden club of Illinois and chairman of the show.

Divorces Broker

MRS. PATRICIA B. BAUM.

Mrs. Patricia Berger Baum, 21 years old, of the Drake hotel, a former musical comedy chorus girl, was granted an uncontested divorce from Emil Baum yesterday. She testified before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court that she married Baum, a stock broker, on Aug. 14, 1929, and that two weeks later he deserted her, telling her his love for her had ended. Mrs. Baum was represented by Attorney L. E. Pennish.

4 QUARANTINED MEN AT SORORITY AVERAGE 6 DATES

Los Angeles, Cal., April 7.—[U. P.]—After thirty-six hours of quarantine at the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority house on the University of California at Los Angeles campus, twenty-six co-eds and four male students marooned with them slicked themselves up today for a fresh social start.

Unfettered by university regulations, the students prepared for their second "quarantine" dance since the "keep out" sign was posted on the front door by health authorities, fearful of an outbreak of scarlet fever. So far as is known only one co-ed is ill.

The male students, employed at the house as waiters, bus boys, and general handymen, averaged six dates apiece last night when they staged their dance in formal attire. The radio provided the music and the function set something of a record in the number of "wall flowers" occupying chairs during each dance.

Real music will be provided at tonight's dance. An orchestra playing at a fraternity dance next door will blare its loudest so the music will carry through the open doors and windows.

The quarantine will be imposed on the sorority house until Monday at least, when health authorities will examine the students for signs of the disease.

SEVEN WORKERS TRAPPED IN SEED DUST AVALANCHE

Three Are Unconscious When Rescued.

Seven workmen narrowly escaped suffocation yesterday when they were trapped in an avalanche of seed dust while cleaning a tank at the Dickinson Seed company, 2750 West 35th street. Three of the men were completely buried and two were unconscious when rescued. The other four fought their way through the choking dust into the open air.

James Hoyne, 36 years old, 2720 West 38th street, and Andrew Kravchunes, 46 years old, 4340 South Fairfield avenue, were unconscious when rescued by fellow workmen. Frank Kania, 68 years old, 1821 West North avenue, was barely conscious when carried out. All were taken to St. Anthony's hospital where Kania was revived and allowed to go home. The other two will recover, physicians said.

Wall of Chaff Slides Down.

According to police, the men were shoveling the chaff out of the tank when a wall of it, some twenty feet high, suddenly slid down upon them, causing a thick dust cloud to arise. Breathing was impossible within the tank, police said.

"We can't work on top of the seed dust," Kravchunes explained later at the hospital, "because a man would sink down out of sight. That's what happened about a year ago. One of the men fell into the dust and sank out of sight. The firemen had to blast out a side of the tank to get him out. He was dead when they reached him.

Breathes in the Dust.

"We were cleaning out the tank when the whole thing suddenly fell on us. We thought we were all gone. Three of us were covered. Hoyne's handkerchief was knocked off his face and he breathed in the dust. If the dust gets stirred up bad enough it's hard to breathe. We tie handkerchiefs over our faces. It's like working in quicksand."

A fire rescue squad was summoned but police had already removed the unconscious men. Hoyne, according to police, was buried for five minutes before rescued.

EDITH CUMMINGS IS WEDDED TO CURTIS B. MUNSON

Society Attends Reception After Service.

BY JUDITH CASS.

The first Saturday after Easter was the wedding day of one of Chicago society's best known and most popular young women, Miss Edith Cummings, who became Mrs. Curtis Burton Munson at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the drawing room of the residence of her mother, Mrs. David Mark Cummings, at 1550 State parkway, in the presence of about sixty relatives and intimate friends.

The bride and groom made their marriage vows before an improvised altar of tall candelabra holding lighted white tapers and sprays of dogwood imported from the south. After the service several hundred attended the reception.

White Satin Gown.

The bride, a stunning blonde, wore a severely simple white satin gown with a long train and no trimming of any sort. A band of satin held her long tulle veil in place and she carried a sheaf of calla lilies. The matron of honor, Mrs. Harold E. Talbott of New York, and the honor maid, Miss Eleanor Holden, wore exquisite gowns of apple green crêpe with sailor hats of brown and brown slippers and gloves. They carried bouquets of brown and green orchids. The bride's mother was a symphony in gray, chiffon gown, hat and shoes, and wore purple orchids, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Robert H. Munson of New York, wore a black lace gown, a black hat, and a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

The wedding presents testified to the popularity of the couple and to the bride's favorite color, a French blue, and her greatest interest, hunting. Mr. and Mrs. Munson will divide their time between their apartment in New York and their house in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Prominent Out of Town Guests.

Wayne Chatfield-Taylor came from Washington to serve as best man for Mr. Munson, and ushering were Philip D. Armour and Charles Dickey of Philadelphia. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings—he gave his sister in marriage—and the wee daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Eliot of Cambridge [Janet Pauling of Chicago] were flower girls. Some of the out of town guests at the wedding, in addition to those already mentioned, were the bridegroom's father, Robert H. Munson, Mr. Talbott, Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Eliot, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Russell of Cambridge, Tom Evans, Fred Prince, George Garrett, Joseph Warburg, all of New York, the John Vincents of Greenwich, and Mrs. Pauling Donnelley, Mrs. Eliot's sister.

Chicago Society Attends.

A few of the many well-known Chicagoans at the reception were Miss Libby Chase, whose engagement to Louis F. Swift Jr. was announced Friday, and who will be a bride herself on the 19th of this month, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker and the Columbus Healys, who entertained the out of town guests at dinner after the reception, Mrs. Malcolm Moncrieff of Wyoming and Mrs. Walker Szukalska, Mr. Walker's aunt and sister, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. M. Paul Noyes and her daughter, Catherine, whose engagement to "Dick" Shaw was announced recently, the Borland sisters, Beatrice and Martha—the former is to be married to Barton F. Plimpton of Boston on the 28th of this month—Miss Anita Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Pauling, Mrs. Louis E. Laflin, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Laflin, Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Pitcher, Mrs. Moses Wentworth, Mrs. Edward F. Carry, Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, the Charles Garfield Kings, Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, and Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell.

Other Prominent Guests.

Also Mrs. John A. Chapman and Miss Elinor Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stevenson, Victor Elting, Miss Betty Scriven, who is to become Mrs. F. Harney Bassett in June, Miss Mary Rand and her sisters, Mrs. Rend Clarke and Mrs. Thomas Wheelock, Mrs. Howard F. Gillette, the Albert A. Spragues, Mrs. C. Morse Ely, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Joseph Leiter, Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. William R. Odell Jr., Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, the Clay Judsons, and the James Herbert Mitchells.

Mrs. Alvin Bastien and her daughter, Miss Barbara Bastien, Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, and Mr. and Mrs. Warner Coburn were among the Chicagoans who witnessed the wedding yesterday afternoon in Pasadena, Cal., of Miss Leila Bond Withers, daughter of Mrs. Allen Lee Withers of Winnetka and William Oothout Davidson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson of Santa Barbara, Cal. The ceremony was read at 4 o'clock by Dr. John Atwill, rector of St. Gabriel's church, Pasadena, in the Withers' winter home.

A Russian headdress of rosepoint lace held in place the long tulle veil that floated over the bride's gown of shimmering white satin.

Ratcliffe-Cushman Wedding.

At 4:30 yesterday afternoon in the spacious apartment of her parents at 655 Junior terrace, Miss Charlotte Cushman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Andrew Cushman, became the bride of Myron C. Ratcliffe of Washington, D. C., son of Mrs. Jean Ratcliffe of Evanston. Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson of the Fourth Presbyterian church read the service.

The bride wore a gown of petal pink satin, a veil of real lace and tulle, and carried a shower bouquet of gardenias, freesia, and white sweet peas.

Miss Frances Cushman as maid of honor for her sister was gowned in ashes of roses crêpe. The bridesmaids, Miss Carolyn Cushman, another sister of the bride, Miss Jeanette Genius of Winter Park, Fla., and Miss Mary Ratcliffe, a sister of the bridegroom, wore dresses of the same design as that of the maid of honor but of aquamarine blue crêpe.

At the chancel of the Fourth Presbyterian church banked with spring flowers and lighted by slim white tapers, Miss Winifred DeForest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowden DeForest, became the bride last night of Dean Fiske Coffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Coffin of Detroit. The ceremony was performed by Dr. John Timothy Stone.

Miss Virginia Schanher of Mount Clemens, Mich., was maid of honor for the bride. The bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Miksak, Miss Marion Pruyn, and Miss Gail Coffin, a sister of the bridegroom. All were gowned alike in aquamarine lace.

5,000 TEACHERS OF MUSIC OPEN SESSIONS TODAY

1,500 Voice Chorus Is Among Features.

The music supervisors' national conference will open its fourth biennial convention and festival in Chicago today with more than 5,000 music teachers expected to attend. Daily sessions at the Stevens hotel will continue through Friday.

The convention starts tonight in a joint service with the Chicago Sunday Evening club. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Riverside church in New York, will speak and members of the conference will appear in brief addresses.

1,500 Voice Chorus.

A concert by a supervisors' chorus of 1,500 voices, under the direction of Dr. Hollis Dann, director of music at New York university; a Chicago school music festival, and two national music contests have important places on the conference program.

Speakers before five regular and twenty special sessions will include Lorado Taft, sculptor; Sir Hugh Roberton, director of the Orpheus choir, Glasgow, Scotland; Dr. Frederick M. Hunter, chancellor of Denver university; Dr. Ernest H. Wilkins, president of Oberlin college, and Rabbi James G. Heller of Cincinnati.

The Chicago school music festival will be held Wednesday night at the Auditorium theater. Walter Damrosch, noted conductor and composer, will conduct the Lane Technical High school orchestra; and an all high school chorus and numerous special groups of school musicians will be presented.

High Schools to Take Part.

A natonal high school solo singing contest and a national instrumental ensemble competition will be held as part of the convention. The national supervisors chorus will appear Friday evening at the Auditorium theater.

Music organizations outside Chicago will augment the programs of local musicians. The Central High school a capella choir of Tulsa, Okla.; the Jordan conservatory choir, Indianapolis; the University of Wisconsin woodwind ensemble, and the Augustana college choir of Rock Island are to appear at various conference sessions.

Much of the conference attention will be directed toward the cultural value of music in an era of added leisure time, according to C. V. Buttleman, secretary. William J. Bogan, Chicago superintendent of schols, is in charge of arrangements.

WOMAN SCHOOL PRINCIPAL SINCE 1901 IS HONORED

Educators, friends and former students yesterday honored Miss Flora J. Cooke, Chicago pioneer in progressive education, with a luncheon at the Woman's City club, 6 North Michigan avenue. Miss Cooke in June will resign as principal of Francis W. Parker school, 1330 Webster avenue, after serving the institution since it was founded 33 years ago.

Speakers at the luncheon, held by the school committee of the Woman's club, were Perry Dunlap Smith, headmaster of the North Shore Country Day school in Winnetka and one of Miss Cooke's first pupils, and Raymond W. Osborne, who will succeed her as principal.

School Is Laboratory.

Miss Cooke was named head of the Parker school when it opened in 1901 to carry out the educational ideas of Col. Francis W. Parker, former head of the Chicago Normal college. She had been a member of the Normal faculty and she immediately began teaching experiments that won her widespread recognition and an honorary M. A. degree from Lake Forest college in 1928.

The Parker school embraces twelve grades and is as much a laboratory as a school, according to Miss Cooke. For more than 20 years it has been sponsored by Mrs. Emmons Blaine, but under a recent reorganization higher tuition rates are expected to make the institution self-supporting.

"We think the new plan will be very successful," Miss Cooke said yesterday. "But Parker will always be a democratic school and never one for wealthy students only. We have tried to make the school one which sees an educational ideal rather than dull, day to day routine, and this program will continue."

Will Become Trustee.

Upon her retirement in June Miss Cooke will become a member of the board of trustees and she will aid the school in an advisory capacity. "I'm going to offer my services and experience to Supt. Bogan of the city schools, too," she said, "and I'm going to spend a great deal of time writing.

"Schools have changed greatly since I began to work with them. Then education seemed dull and passive, but now it is vigorous and active, with teacher and student participating together in living, constructive work."

Symphony Violincellist Engaged to Wed Dancer

The engagement of Daniel Saidenberg, principal violincellist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Miss Eleanor Block, creative dancer, was announced yesterday. The wedding will take place soon. Mr. Saidenberg has been with the Chicago orchestra for four years, coming here from Philadelphia, where he played under Stokowski. He is American born and a winner of several awards, among them the Naumberg Foundation prize. Miss Block is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Block, 357 Fullerton parkway.

COUNTY ORDERS OUTSIDE HELP ON 15% TAX CHANGES

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1933, were $514,711, making a total of $139,937,494 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 26, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the four years follow:

April 7..........	$ 3,287	$ 9,186
Uncollected	14,694,060	39,548,183
	1930.	1931
April 7..........	$ 32,140	$ 97,736
Uncollected	63,391,050	58,318,456

The day's collection of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $366,638 and of 1932 personal property taxes, $56,869.

The county board yesterday authorized Assessor J. L. Jacobs to hire outside help for the mechanical work of changing the 1931 assessments on 438,000 private homes and small flat buildings to conform with the 15 per cent reduction ordered by County Judge Jarecki. The board had provided $165,000 as a contingent fund in the 1934 budget for the work of revision in the event Judge Jarecki ordered the cut.

The assessor and Frank Chambers, superintendent of public service, announced tabulating companies would be asked to bid for the work. The bids are to be in by Thursday morning when the county board will meet in finance session to award the contract.

Cost About $125,000.

"While $165,000 has been provided for this work, I do not believe the cost should be over $125,000," Mr. Jacobs said, "and the remainder of the appropriation can be used for tabulating reductions on the 1932 assessments if Judge Jarecki's order should be interpreted to apply to this assessment also."

Mr. Jacobs had informed the board it would be cheaper and take less time to have the work done by outsiders than by his staf, which would require nine separate tabulations on the bills.

Although Judge Jarecki's order applied only to the 318,000 property owners who joined in the Chicago Real Estate Board's test suit for the reduction, the cuts will also be tabulated on the other 120,000 properties. Bills are now pending in the legislature to apply the reduction to those property owners who did not file objections and to those who paid their taxes in full. Mayor Kelly and the state tax commission suggested several days ago that the reductions be computed on these properties also.

Mailing Funds Ready.

The board has also appropriated $132,000 for County Treasurer McDonough's office for the work of preparing and mailing out the revised tax bills.

Before the appropriation for the assessor was sanctioned yesterday, Commissioner William Busse asked him whether the tax rate would remain the same on the lower valuations. He was informed that that was the law.

"Then, if any one tells the public that they are saving any money," Commissioner Busse said, "it is a lie. With revenue decreased, there will be a deficit, which will have to be made up in succeeding years by an increase in taxes. The only favorable thing about the order is that it will shift some of the burden of these increased taxes to the larger property owners."

County Treasurer McDonough announced his tax collection office in the county building will be open today from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and all day Tuesday, primary election day.

CHECKS PENDING TAX SUITS FOR NEW FIXING RINGS

Courtney Acts After First Expose.

An investigation of all pending tax suits in the Circuit and Municipal courts to uncover other "tax fixing" rings similar to the one revealed Friday in which seven men were involved was announced yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Vernon Thompson. Thompson, who is in charge of the drive on tax fixers inaugurated by State's Attorney Courtney, said he believes as many as seven other "rings" are operating.

"The records of all tax suits will be scrutinized to determine if outside auditors have made fraudulent reports for companies, as was done in the case we uncovered," Mr. Thompson declared. "We suspect that many tax cuts have been based on fradulent audits."

Five Questioned on Ring.

Five of the seven men held in the tax "ring" were questioned yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Eugene J. O'Connor, chief investigator for the blue sky division of the state's attorney's office. The men are Theodore Fieldman, 6251 North Washtenaw avenue; Edward Woodruff, 4875 Magnolia avenue; John Sutherland of Glen Ellyn, W. S. Adams of River Forest, and Jacob Spitzer of Oak Park. The five men were booked later in the day on charges of conspiracy to defraud. They will be arraigned in Felony court tomorrow. Philip Rosenblum, another one of the men, has already been booked on this charge and is in the county jail.

The seventh man, Seymour Rose, 7120 Yates avenue, is now in the county jail serving a six month sentence imposed on him Friday by Circuit Judge Joseph Burke for contempt of court in giving perjured testimony.

Divided $11,000 Fee.

Rose had testified that he audited the books of the Northwestern Yeast company, 1750 North Ashland avenue, and the company was entitled to a valuation of $500,000 less than the state had charged in its suit to collect back taxes. The seven men divided $11,000 from the company, given them as a fee for obtaining a reduction of $22,000 in the company's taxes.

Rose will also be charged with defrauding the county and the state.

The yeast company has been absolved of blame, as the officials were unaware that a fraud was being perpetrated.

"The company should have had sense enough not to be a party to such a thing," Prosecutor Thompson said. "Other companies that have been duped in a similar manner may escape criminal prosecution by coming to us and explaining their part."

Boy, 11, Battles Bear with Fists and Saves Girl, 6

Mancos, Colo., April 7.—(AP)—Twenty-six stiches in Howard Sheppard's scalp were evidence tonight of the 11-year-old boy's heroism in saving Ina Mae Rathjen, 6, from a supposedly tame bear. With oranges in her hands to feed the bear, the girl went into its cage at a cottage camp. The animal seized her.

Young Sheppard, playing nearby, ran to her assistance and kicked and beat the bear with his fists. The bear inflicted deep wounds in his head.

LOONEY FREED FROM PRISON; GOES TO TEXAS

John P. Looney, the central figure in an alleged politico-criminal alliance which sold gambling and vice privileges in Rock Island almost a decade ago, yesterday was reported on his way to Warsaw, Tex., the home of one of his daughters, Mrs. Frank H. Hamblin. At 5 o'clock in the morning Looney was freed from Stateville penitentiary after serving eight years and 90 days, the minimum on a 14 year term, for the murder of Bill Gabel, resort keeper.

Looney, now 68 years old, muttered that he had "nothing to say" as he was discharged from the prison with the usual $10 bill and suit of clothes. His daughter protected him from further questioning as she propped him up with pillows and covered him with blankets in an automobile.

Eight murders were listed by investigators as incidents of Looney's régime as "boss" in Rock Island. His son was killed in the gang warfare.

FORMER FOLLIES BEAUTY DIVORCES JAMES KIRKWOOD

Los Angeles, Cal., April 7.—(AP)—Beatrice Powers, one time Follies dancer who eloped with and married James Kirkwood, veteran screen actor, in 1931, obtained a divorce here today. Custody of their 15 months' old daughter, Joan, was granted to Mrs. Kirkwood, who was the actor's fourth wife.

Kirkwood previously was married to Lila Lee of the films and Gertrude Robinson of the stage. The name of his first wife was unavailable here. Kirkwood's 9 year olds son, James Jr., now is in custody of his mother, Miss Lee.

Mrs. Kirkwood, who was a film extra when she married Kirkwood, won her decree on grounds of cruelty and nonsupport. She testified that several times the light and gas were turned off in their home because of nonpayment of bills and that once she was evicted because the rent wasn't paid.

Gen. Italo Balbo's Nephew Marries Young Countess

VIAREGGIO, Italy, April 7.—(AP)—Gen. Italo Balbo, hero of the Italian Atlantic group flight to Chicago, came here today from Tripoli, where he is governor of Libya, to assist at the wedding of his nephew, Lino Balbo, and the young Countess Misciatelli. The nephew is the Fascist secretary at Ferrara, Gen. Balbo's home town. He went to America before the mass flight to make advance preparations.

U. S. INCOME TAX PUBLICITY MAY BE VOTED SOON

Senate Radicals Pushing Amendment.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special.]—Full publicity for all income taxes—perennial proposal of senate radicals—will be voted by the senate next week, it appeared today as "liberals" in the higher body continued their drive to amend the pending administration tax bill.

The income tax publicity amendment, it was learned, will be offered on the floor by Senator Robert M. La Follette, Wisconsin radical, and all indications point to its acceptance by the senate. Last session, it was recalled, the senate agreed to a similar La Follette amendment by an overwhelming vote and only the firm objection of the house in conference sufficed to kill the plan. It was generally agreed that the senate will reaffirm its approval of income tax publicity when the question is put next week and there was considerable doubt that the house will push the objections which defeated the proposal last session.

House Frowns on Boost.

On another radical amendment already accepted by the senate leaders, however, the house today adopted an attitude of unqualified opposition which will be tempered only by a clear-cut administration expression of approval. This was the so-called Couzens amendment increasing all income taxes by 10 per cent.

Unless the President asserts his desire that the Couzens proposition be accepted as a means of raising needed revenue, said Floor Leader Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], the house probably will vote down the tax increase suggested by the Michigan "liberal."

"I am certain that the proposal will not be accepted by the house unless it is shown that the additional revenue is absolutely necessary," Mr. Byrns declared, "and is further demonstrated that this would be the least burdensome means of raising money.

Wants Treasury Figures.

"And the necessity must be pointed out by officials of the treasury department rather than by statements on the floor of the senate," he added, referring apparently to the recent misunderstanding regarding President Roosevelt's attitude on the so-called house compromise amendment adding millions to the independent offices' supply bill in veterens' benefits.

The Couzens amendment, which was offered as a temporary plan calling for a flat 10 per cent increase for one year in the taxes imposed on all incomes, yesterday received the indorsement of the senate finance committee in charge of the bill, and its acceptance by the senate, in view of the committee's approval, is virtually certain.

Other Opposition Voiced.

Joining Mr. Byrns in expressing doubt that the house will agree to the 10 per cent increases was Representative Samuel B. Hill [Dem., Wash.], a powerful Democratic figure on the ways and means committee. It was understood that other house leaders took the same position.

There were two reasons for the house's opposition to the Couzens tax boost. In the first place, the membership of the lower body was quick to recognize the political ticklishness of raising all income taxes in an election year; and in the second place, the house has grown tired of finding itself forced to agree with senate alterations to legislation on which the lower body has previously expressed itself.

Moreover it was pointed out, the ways and means committee of the house spent six months in a laborious effort to devise new revenue sources and plug up loop holes in present tax statutes. House leaders take the position that if the administration favors a 10 per cent increase in tax rates, the committee should have been notified while the bill was being drawn.

Hopes for Big Vote.

Senator La Follette, it was understood, hopes to secure a senate vote in favor of his income tax publicity plan so overwhelming that the house will be forced to accept the amendment in conference. House leaders declined to comment upon the reception which the La Follette plan may receive in the lower body, but it was generally believed that the membership of the house, on a roll call vote, would agree to open up the federal tax records to public inspection.

POOR BOX THIEF JAILED.

Frank Langan, 30 years old, 7726 Rhodes avenue, who was charged with having robbed the poor box of St. Peter and Paul Roman Catholic church, 2940 East 91st street, was sentenced to a year in the county jail and fined $1 and costs by Judge Thomas A. Green in the South Chicago court yesterday.

Mrs. Jones made public this letter from Mrs. Roosevelt:

"I do know a great deal about the Iowa farmers and what they and their wives have had to go through. Therefore I do not feel justified in making a special trip to Iowa at present.

"If I happen to be in Iowa at any time I shall be more than glad to let you know and visit some of the homes with you."

GRANDPA OF ALL CRAWFISH LANDS ON NOURMAHAL

President Takes Time Out to Sign Bills.

Miami, Fla., April 7.—(AP)—Real fish stories began emanating from the Nourmahal today on the eve of the White House correspondents' investigation Monday of President Roosevelt's angling exploits.

Vincent Astor, owner of the yacht, and who is suspected of partiality to the President, reported today that among the catch off Anguila iland was the "grandfather of all crawfish."

Despite the approach of the fishing inquiry, Mr. Roosevelt took time off today from the rod and reel for some swimming and to sign two major bills.

First Business on Trip.

He approved the bill apportioning $200,000,000 to finance dairy and beef cattle production adjustment and the measure appropriating funds for four government departments.

Taking up the first official business since he started on his vacation cruise, the President signed the two measures on the yacht Nourmahal and returned them to White House headquarters at the Miami Biltmore hotel here by airplane late today.

The agriculture act, which received his approval also, authorized an appropriation of $50,000,000 for the purchase of dairy and beef products for relief purposes.

Marketing Agreement Provision.

The legislation makes cattle a basic commodity under the agricultural adjustment act, and also includes peanuts, rye, flax, barley, and grain sorghums as basic commodities.

The general agriculture relief bill further authorizes the secretary of agriculture to enter into marketing agreements.

The departmental appropriations measure carried the funds for the departments of state, justice, commerce, and labor for the new fiscal year.

Astor's general report today to Marvin McIntyre, White House secretary, follows:

"Anchored off Angulla iland, where we found innumerable fish of all varieties, including the grandfather of all crawfish now in tank. This is grand sport and our aquarium grows. The President had swimming party in the morning at extra fine beach. Please send plane with mail and papers. Our anchorage latitude is 23.21, longitude 79.34."

Elliott Sidesteps Inquiry.

Birmingham, Ala., April 7.—(AP)—Elliott Roosevelt, son of President Roosevelt, paused here today en route to Fort Worth Tex., and told his side of the "fish" story which will be investigated by newspaper men in the Bahamas Monday.

"After coming ashore from the yacht on which my father is spending his vacation," said young Roosevelt, "I told some friends that he had not caught any fish. When he heard it over the radio that night he announced that I was guilty of misrepresenting the facts. That is all there is to it."

Plan to Spend Millions on Projects.

ects to buildings to accommodate not more than four families.

Originally the Roosevelt housing program as developed in the public works administration called for slum clearances, the clearing away of unsightly, unsanitary, and unsafe tenement districts, and the erection of modern tenement building with cheap rentals.

This endeavor is still being actively pushed by the administration, but is expected to become a part of the permanent housing program. Great difficulty has been encountered in obtaining ownership to slum areas, due to the operations of real estate speculators, and the avariciousness of owners, who refuse to sell to the government, or to the semi-public housing corporations, except at exorbitant prices.

So the aim of the administration in its immediate plans will be to induce residents of the slum areas to move into new neighborhoods, into small and cheap units built by private enterprise.

Cost Is in Doubt.

Mr. Walker said he was unable to estimate how much government money would be necessary to start the program, nor could he estimate any goal in the degree of construction to be accomplished. One semi-official report was that the government could finance the project with an initial investment this year of 150 million dollars, and the nearest estimates on the amount of construction work to be done ranged from one to one and a half billion dollars.

The NEC chairman said he had conferred with many private investment agencies, such as banks, real estate mortgage companies, insurance and trust companies, and had found them quiet enthusiastic and receptive to the plan.

Mr. Walker indicated that the investors had assured him they would accept the government insured mortgages at low rates of interest and subject to long term maturities. As to what rates of interest might be applied, Mr. Walker declared he thought it would be necessary to vary them in different parts of the country.

"Out in the west where I come from the rates of interest are quite high, and I imagine that we would have to apply higher rates on mortgages than we would in the east. The problem will have to be handled regionally, I think."

LIQUOR STORE IN DES MOINES TO BE SCHOOL

Des Moines, Ia., April 7.—(AP)—The Des Moines liquor store, the first which will be opened in the state, is to be a training school for personnel of other stores, the state commission announced today.

Employés are to be called to Des Moines for an instruction period varying from one to two weeks, Harold M. Cooper, chairman, said.

Members of the commission today were considering sites for stores in other cities after having selected the Mulberry building here for the local distributing unit. The building was formerly headquarters for a motor company operated by Gov. Clyde Herring.

U. S. TO LAUNCH ILLINOIS PROJECT OF HOMESTEADS

Subsistence Community to Cost Half Million.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special.]—One of the New Deal's planned communities, a subsistence homestead project, will be launched near West Frankfort, Ill., at a cost of more than half a million dollars, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes announced today.

Approximately 275 homesteads to which the government will endeavor to attract unemployed coal miners and industrial workers will be laid out in Franklin county, Secretary Ickes explained.

"Workers will be able to purchase homesteads in this project for approximately $2,000, which will be payable monthly over a period of 20 years," Secretary Ickes said. "This price includes not only the cost of land but a well constructed and sanitary house, together with the necessary outbuildings."

No Commercial Farming.

The homesteaders whose tracts will vary from 1½ to 10 acres, are not to engage in commercial farming, according to the planned economy laid down for them by the government. They are to raise only their own supplies insofar as they can, obtaining their cash from part-time employment at nearby mines or factories.

"A surplus of industrial workers in Franklin county, as well as the prevalence of insanitary and inadequate housing facilities for low income workers, combine to create a need for subsistence homesteads," Secretary Ickes declared. "Residents of these homesteads will be, for the most part, coal miners irregularly employed in mines located in Franklin county. A small number of skilled and unskilled workers from surrounding communities will also be included in this subsistence homestead community.

Large Deposits of Coal.

Large deposits of accessible coal insure continued employment for the Franklin county homesteaders, according to Clarence E. Pickett, an official of the interior department's homestead division, but the introduction of labor saving devices in the mines and the depressed state of the coal industry brings about the need for the federal farm project.

"The best hope for the future of these communities," Mr. Pickett observed, "lies in a combination of part-time employment and part-time agriculture such as the subsistence homestead plan embodies. The site selected for the West Frankfort unit, with its good soil, proximity to town, and accessibility to the mines, is an admirable location on which to demonstrate the value to be derived from this way of life in the southern Illinois coal fields."

Truck Crop Shortage.

Crops will be produced primarily for home consumption rather than for sale, and the produce will consist largely of fruits and vegetables, according to Secretary Ickes' plans. Some poultry and live stock will be raised. A survey of Franklin county, Secretary Ickes said, showed an actual shortage of eggs, butter, potatoes, and many other truck crops needed for local consumption.

"Both mine operators and labor organizations have indorsed the establishment of this project as an aid to living conditions," Secretary Ickes explained. "Meetings of miners have already been held and a widespread interest has been evidenced among them. In addition, local civic groups have pledged their support."

WED BOSS' STENOG, SHE AT LEAST HAS A JOB, PROFESSOR ADVISES

Rochester, N. Y., April 7.—(AP)—Five years ago Prof. Robert E. Rogers advised his students to "marry the boss' daughter," but now he tells them "Marry the stenographer instead."

For, he said today, "she has a job and the boss' daughter is broke."

Prof. Rogers, who is on the faculty of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, recalled his advice of five years ago at the final session of the Eastern Arts association's annual convention.

"I was wrong," he admitted, "when I said, 'Don't bother with the stenographer if you expect to succeed.' That statement was one of the last episodes of the 'boom era.'"

SET UP BUREAU TO HELP PUBLIC ON PRICE RISES

Plan 200 Offices to Dig Up Statistics.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special.]—Creation of a new nation-wide organization to protect consumers from price increases incident to the recovery program was announced today by President Roosevelt's national emergency council.

The new organization will be entirely independent of the NRA and AAA and may eventually supplant the consumers' advisory boards set up by these two organizations. Charges have frequently been made that the NRA and AAA, especially Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, have muzzled their consumers' boards, making them ineffective as defenders of the consumers' interests.

Under plans announced today by Frank C. Walker, secretary of the national emergency council, the council will establish a consumers' division. This division in turn will set up about 200 regional offices to collect price data and to iron out consumers' problems in their territory.

Keezer to Head Board.

Walker admitted that there is no law or regulation under which the consumers' division can force price adjustments. It is assumed that the division and its regional offices, which are to be staffed by volunteer workers, will seek primarily to combat extortionate prices by investigations and publicity.

To head its new division, the national emergency council will borrow Dexter M. Keezer, who is now executive director of the NRA consumers' advisory board. The work will be under the general supervision of Mrs. Mary H. Rumsey, head of the NRA consumers' board.

Both Mrs. Rumsey and Mr. Keezer explained today that they will retain their connections with the NRA "for the present."

It is an open secret, however, that Keezer and Mrs. Rumsey have frequently clashed with Gen. Johnson over NRA policies and that the general has prevented or reluctantly consented to publication of much of the data collected by Keezer on the working of NRA codes.

Consumer Bodies to Remain.

Formation of the new consumers' organization was taken here as indicating that eventually the work of protecting the consumer will be taken entirely out of the hands of the NRA and AAA.

Mr. Walker in announcing the plans, however, insisted that for the present the emergency council's work will supplant and coördinate the activities of the NRA and AAA consumer boards without supplanting them.

The whole new consumers' organization is being set up as an experiment, Mr. Walker emphasized. About 200 regional offices will be opened first to determine how the plan is to work. Upon the success of these first offices will depend the future of the new system.

In Illinois consumers' offices are to be opened for Knox and Peoria counties, Mr. Walker announced. These offices, like all others, will be run by volunteer workers. No heavy additional expenditures are anticipated.

"As the work of the councils progresses," he said, "it must develop that their functions can be broadened."

FIRE ATTACKS PACKING PLANT.

A fire which started from an explosion in the chemical laboratories of the Morris & Co. plant, meat packers, at 1425 West 42d place, drove 25 employes from the building yesterday morning.

BIDDERS ON U. S. WORK MUST SHOW CODE COMPLIANCE

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(AP)—Validity of an executive order requiring certificates of NRA code compliance from bidders for government business was upheld today by J. R. McCarl, the controler general. The decision will compel all bidders for government contracts to make such certificates, which were held not necessary at the time of the recovery administration's clash with Henry Ford.

In the Ford case McCarl held the government should bear the burden of proof of code violations, but that, once violations were established, damages could be collected. The new ruling makes statements of compliance a prerequisite to bidding.

In its controversy with Ford the recovery administration contended the motor magnate should be required to sign the automobile code before Ford dealers could bid on government contracts. McCarl held then no statement of adherence to code provisions was necessary from bidders, but once a government contract was accepted the contractor would be bound by code compliance required therein.

Under the new ruling Ford dealers will not be eligible for government business unless the Ford Motor company certifies its compliance with the automobile code. The Ford company has not heretofore filed such a certificate and, although represented to be and understood by the government to be operating in full compliance with the code, has not displayed the Blue Eagle of NRA.

Governor Moore to Seek Jersey U. S. Senate Seat

Trenton, N. J., April 7.—(AP)—Gov. A. Harry Moore, with the support of the Democratic state organization, headed by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, today announced his candidacy for the United States senate. The Republicans have not indicated their choice of a candidate, but the incumbent, Senator Hamilton F. Kean, has announced he would seek the office again.

INDUSTRY FACES NEW STRIKES AS WAGES ADVANCE

Detroit Tool, Die Makers Issue Ultimatum.

The pendulum of the nation's industry yesterday swung from wage increases to strikes and from strikes to wage increases. As employers in six cities announced wage increases ranging from 10 to 20 per cent, thousands of workers in five other cities were on strike or preparing to strike over wage disputes.

Strikes of 2,000 workers at the plants of the Nash Motors company and the Seaman Body corporation in Kenosha, Wis., and 2,000 aeronautical workers at Buffalo continued uninterrupted. Threats of strike flared up at Detroit and Hartford, and a strike was settled at Cleveland.

Demand 25 Hour Week.

In Detroit 2,200 tool and die makers employed in job shops voted to go on strike unless jobbers make an offer by Thursday night on their demand for a 20 per cent wage increase and a five day week of 25 hours. In the same city 100 Western Union messenger boys were on strike for higher pay. At Hartford employés of three aviation companies voted to strike this week unless employers return to 1929 wage scales.

In Cleveland 800 workers of the Addressograph-Multigraph corporation promised to return to jobs tomorrow. Terms of settlement include immediate recognition of a union and wage increase negotiations.

A silver company at Meriden, Conn., announced a 10 per cent increase to 4,000 employés; a cork company at Lancaster, Pa., announced a similar increase to 4,000 workers; 2,000 brass workers at Bridgeport, Conn., were notified of a 10 per cent raise and 1,600 carborundum workers at Niagara Falls and 1,000 stove workers at Hamilton, O., received the same news.

FAIL TO END STRIKE

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—(AP)—Admittedly nonplussed by the failure of its plan for a settlement of the strike in the Nash Motor company's Wisconsin plants and a threatened walkout of tool and die makers in local job shops, the federal automobile labor board continued today its efforts to find a solution of the labor troubles harrying the automobile industry.

Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the labor tribunal, expressed his disappointment when informed that employés of the Kenosha plant of the Nash company had rejected the board's settlement plan, born of a three day meeting of the board in Wisconsin this week. "I suppose it can't be helped," he said.

He indicated, however, that the board still was in frequent telephonic communication with Nash officials.

Vote to Strike Thursday.

Shortly before word was received of the failure of the plan for a return to work of the 4,600 workers in the Nash plants and the Seaman body plant, tool and die makers here voted unanimously, their representatives said, to strike on Thursday unless a "considered offer" was made by their job shop employers. Officers of the Mechanics' Educational society, the tool and die makers' organization, said 2,200 men suspended work today to cast their strike votes. They will return to work Monday awaiting an answer, the officers announced.

Although the labor board's jurisdiction over the tool and die makers' controversy has been questioned by Matthew Smith, general secretary of the Mechanics' Educational society, Dr. Wolman has said the board would not stand on technicalities in its effort to bring peace in the automotive labor field. Smith has pointed out that labor's representative on the board, Richard Byrd, is an American Federation of Labor official, and that the toolmakers' organization is not affiliated with the federation.

Board in Closed Session.

The board conferred in closed session today with representatives of the Motor Products corporation and their employés endeavoring to adjust a wage dispute that caused 1,000 men in the plating department to walk out and force a shutdown of the plant that has had 5,600 men on its rolls.

An echo of the automotive labor situation was heard in Recorders court today when Judge Arthur Gordon commented sharply upon the disclosure that some outside workers were being brought into Detroit.

A telegram found in the pockets of a man sleeping in a downtown doorway early today was turned over to the judge. It purported to come from the Murray Corporation of America, and read, "Okeh. Bring as many finishers as you can."

A strike developed today among messenger boys employed by the Western Union Telegraph company. Company officials said 100 boys, demanding a minimum wage of 30 cents, had walked out without allowing time for consideration of the demand. The company said deliveries were proceeding unhampered.

Threaten Strike in Hartford.

Hartford, Conn., April 7.—(AP)—The employés of three aviation companies voted today to strike next week if their demands for a return of their wage scale to the 1929 level are not met. The demands will be submitted Monday morning to the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft company, Chance Vought corporation and Hamilton Propeller company.

Buffalo Strike Continues.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 7.—(AP)—Buffalo's largest strike, that of 2,000 aeronautical workers, continued uninterrupted today as the latest efforts toward reconciliation failed.

At a meeting of the workers last night a peace proposal offered by Commissioner Thomas J. Williams of the United States department of labor was unanimously rejected on the ground that it contained nothing definite for the workers.

The men, employed by the Consolidated Aircraft corporation and the Curtis Aeroplane and Motor Co., Inc., manufacturers of government airplanes, went on strike for higher wages ten days ago.

Cork Company Boosts Pay.

Lancaster, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—H. W. Prentis Jr., president of the Armstrong Cork company, today announced a 10 per cent increase in hourly wage rates of employés in seven plants. The increase will be effective April 15 and the announcement said, will affect more than 4,000 employés in Lancaster, Pittsburgh, Beaver Falls, Camden, and Gloucester, N. J., and Fulton, N. Y.

3,500 Granted Increases.

Meriden, Conn., April 7.—(AP)—The International Silver company gave notice today of a 10 per cent increase in the wage scale for day and piece workers, and salaried employés receiving $200 or less a month. The company estimated that the increase, effective April 16, will affect from 3,500 to 4,000 employés.

Boost by Brass Company.

Bridgeport, Conn., April 7.—(AP)—A general wage increase effective at once for the 2,000 employés of the Bridgeport Brass company was announced today by R. E. Day, president and general manager. Day said the increase is 10 per cent for mill workers and an adjustment of wages in the fabricating departments.

Increase Is Retroactive.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., April 7.—(AP)—A wage increase of approximately 10 per cent for its employés was announced by the Carborundum company today. The increase was effective April 1 and affects 1,600 workers.

Stove Company Boosts Pay.

Hamilton, O., April 7.—(AP)—A 10 per cent wage increase for employés of the Estate Stove company, including office workers, was announced today by David F. Kahn, president. He said the increase for moulders would be effective June 1, but that of all other employés takes effect immediately. Approximately 1,000 employés benefit.

Rug Makers Boost Pay.

New York, April 7.—(AP)—Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., manufactures of congoleum rugs, tonight announced a 10 per cent increase in the hourly wage rate paid to all plant employés working on an hourly basis, effective Monday. Approximately 2,000 employés are affected.

ROUTE MANAGERS WIN RAISE.

Wages of route managers of the Jewel Tea company for the last two weeks of March were 20 per cent above the level of a year ago due to increased sales and an advance in the basic guarantee by the company. The management announced that average wages through March were 65 per cent higher than code requirements.

CWA FLAPPER FLIPS CENTS AS PROF FLOPS DOWN WITH MEASLES

Athens, Ga., April 7.—(AP)—Measles threw the champion penny-flipping professor for a loss but he is not dismayed. A CWA worker is helping him catch up.

Years ago Prof. Pope Hill, teacher of mathematics at the University of Georgia, started testing the law of probability. He flipped a can of pennies some 60,000 times. His goal was 100,000 by June 1.

Then measles struck him low.

The government came to his aid. It hired Miss Dorothy Firor, university co-ed. She, too, began to flip and so fast that she was 75,000 flips to her credit.

The flipping, she says, isn't so bad; but the mathematics that follow each toss paints black spots before her eyes.

EMPLOYES VOTE REJECTS MOVE OF COMMUNISTS

By a vote of 360 to 60 employés of the Containers Corporation of America yesterday refused officials of the Trades Union Unity league the right to represent them in collective bargaining with company executives. The election was held at the Racine avenue police station under the supervision of Carl Steffensen, mediator for the Chicago Regional Labor board. The company employs 560 workmen. The Trades Union Unity league is admitted to be a communist organization. Steffensen, the mediator, interpreted the vote as indicative of the employés satisfaction with present working conditions.

NRA ULTIMATUM STILL IS IGNORED BY BUS COMPANY

Backed by their employés, officials of the Chicago Motor Coach company yesterday continued to ignore the ultimatum of the regional labor board for the NRA that the company appear to answer charges of violating rule 7A of the recovery act. Originally the company was given until 5 p. m. Friday to make answer, but the time was extended to yesterday morning.

When the company failed to appear the chairman of the board, Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, indicated the board's findings would be submitted to Washington with a recommendation for prosecution of the company. John A. Ritchie, president of the bus company, said no evidence would be presented to the local board, but the company will take steps to protect itself when the matter is under the jurisdiction of the national labor board.

The company is charged with interfering with employés' privilege to organize and discrimination against men because of union affiliation. Friday evening members of the motor coach union—the Chicago Motor Coach fraternity—called upon the company officials to return the Blue Eagle insignia of coöperation with the NRA. In supporting the company officials the employés said the charges before the board are the result of a conspiracy on the part of Chicago labor organizers to force company employés to join a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

U. S. TO BUILD $950,000 CAPITAL FOR NAVAJO TRIBE

Gallup, N. M., April 7.—(AP)—Uncle Sam soon will begin the construction of a $950,000 capital city for the Navajo Indians of northwestern New Mexico and northeastern Arizona.

The small city, to be known as Nee Alneeng, or "Center of the Navajo World," will be built at Window Rock, a picturesque spot on the Arizona mesa two miles west of the New Mexico line and 27 miles north of Gallup. Its designation was announced in Washington last night by John Collier, Indian commissioner.

It will be the center of activities for the entire Navajo jurisdiction as well as the soil erosion service.

RIGHTOR OR LONG, IT'S STILL HUEY TO U.S. SENATORS

Tyro Observers See Why Congress Is Slow.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special.]—Citizens puzzled over the seemingly endless length of congressional sessions are invited to consider a report of the proceedings today before the senate finance committee, which is contemplating the confirmation of the presidential appointment of Daniel D. Moore as internal revenue collector at New Orleans.

The senate, as usual, adjourned yesterday until Monday, both houses of congress having gone on the five day week years before the NRA was dreamed of. This left today free for the finance committee to work on important financial problems before it.

But for several weeks the committee's time has been occupied by the hearing of evidence in the Moore case. Senator Huey Long [Dem., La.] had protested the appointment of Moore, charging that he is the tool of race track interests.

Typical Comic Hearing.

There was a typical hearing today, interesting and amusing, but nonproductive of much real evidence. No decision was reached and the senators finally adjourned the meeting until Monday.

The high point of the hearing was an exposition by Attorney Edward L. Rightor of New Orleans on politics as it is enjoyed in Louisiana.

"Mr. Moore was appointed on the recommendation of a committee composed of former Gov. John Parker, Col. John P. Sullivan, and myself," he explained to the committee. "The Democratic administration was not in harmony with the senatorial representation in Louisiana. That was why we were asked to pick a man. That is what Senator Long is kicking about."

Lawyer Explains Lineup.

The lawyer was explaining the lineup of political factions in New Orleans when he remarked:

"You gentlemen must understand how politics goes in our state. There is no party fighting. It is all faction fighting and it consists mostly of calling your opponent a hoss thief and a —— during the campaign."

"And you were agin me in those campaigns, weren't you?" inquired Senator Long.

"I was agin you and if Col. Sullivan had been on your side, I'd have been agin him," was the reply.

"I'd be agin any one on your side."

"It was unfortunate that the voters didn't agree with you in the elections," crowed the Kingfish.

"It was most unfortunate," replied Rightor with emphasis.

Senator Harrison Protests.

The patient and long-suffering Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], whose verbal clash in the senate last Thursday with Senator Long provided an almost unprecedented episode in the august body, was finally moved to protest that the testimony didn't seem to have much to do with the matter of Moore's fitness for his job.

J. Walker Ross, New Orleans, editor, was another witness who testified to Moore's ability for the position of revenue collector.

"You're just an enemy of mine," Senator Long told him. "You've been a-givin' me 'down in the country' in your editorials for many years."

There was more along this line and then W. D. Robinson, manager of Long's publicity campaign for governor in 1928, testified that Huey had accepted a $5,000 campaign contribution from Col. Edward R. Bradley, race track owner. Long now accuses Bradley of dominating Moore.

Exchange Caustic Verbiage.

"You helped try to remove me from office after you stopped working for me, didn't you?" cross-examined Long.

"I tried to stop your lawlessness down there," retorted the witness.

"You didn't do it, did you?"

"No, you won out by corrupt methods."

"I gave my friends some jobs; is that corrupt?" inquired Huey with a comic inflection.

Three hours of this and then Senator Harrison was moved to say: "I guess the committee has stood about as much as it can today."

Even an amateur observer can predict that congress will be in session many, many days.

PRESIDENT OF OBERLIN DENIES COLLEGE HAS 'GONE REACTIONARY'

Oberlin, O., April 7.—(AP)—Charges of a group of students, comprising the self-termed "Radical club," that Oberlin college—long famous as a seat of liberalism—has "gone reactionary," were answered today by Dr. Ernest Hatch Wilkins, president, with a statement that the historic institution is just as liberal as it ever was.

Members of the club have been disturbed because the faculty refused to grant permission for continuance of the club's weekly publication.

The publication, entitled Progress, was devoted during the first semester to a type of article its editors asserted was designed to "awaken student lethargy." One article recently printed dealt with what it termed the "sweat shop tactics" of the Aluminum Corporation of America, and asserted Oberlin college owns $4,000,000 worth of the corporation's stock. The same article asserted that the Aluminum company paid some of its employés as little as $455 a year.

Dr. Wilkins said no specific article accounted for the faculty's action, but rather that the objections to the publication were based on its general tone and manner of expression.

Emphasizing his claim that Oberlin is just as liberal today as it was before the civil war, when it was one of the leaders in the abolitionist movement, Dr. Wilkins concluded his statement with the comment that "if anyone fears that Oberlin has gone reactionary, they should be relieved to know that Norman Thomas and Clarence Hathaway have both spoken here in the last fortnight under auspices of our public affairs society."

2 CWA WORKERS ACCUSE A TAXI DRIVER OF PLOT

Two CWA workers complained to South State street police yesterday that Prisco Volpe, 27 years old, 2829 Polk street, a driver for the Yellow Cab company, had turned them over to bandits while they were passengers in his cab. The complainants, Thomas Toomey, 347 North Clark street, and Clyde Sloan, 1010 West Madison street, said they had been drinking with the driver in a saloon at 602 South State street shortly before the robbery. They engaged Volpe to drive them home, but he drove them into a dark alley near Seventh and State streets on the pretext of taking a short cut. Two bandits were apparently waiting there. They robbed Toomey of $30 and Sloan of $1.75 and then drove away with the cab driver. Police went to the South State street saloon and arrested Volpe on a charge of accessory before the fact of robbery.

SPENDING BY U. S. SINCE LAST JULY PASSES 5 BILLION

Deficit 367 Million More than in April, 1933.

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special.]—Expenditures of the federal government passed the five billion dollar mark on April 5, having exceeded that figure by $5,462,000, according to figures available at the treasury department today. The expenditures cover a nine months' period since July 1, 1933.

This compared with $3,833,252,000 a year earlier and brought the deficit for the fiscal year to $2,655,107,000, against $2,287,947,000 on April 7, 1933.

Tabulation of Expenditures.

The expenditures were as follows:

Character—	Fiscal year 1934.	Fiscal year 1933.
General	$2,018,950,300	$2,918,889,100
Emergency	2,986,512,000	914,363,600

Receipts for the July 1-April 5 period amounted to $2,350,354,900 this year, compared with $1,545,307,400 in the same period of the fiscal year 1933. The public debt was listed by the treasury at $26,179,042,000, as compared with $21,457,625,000 a year ago.

When trust funds are taken into consideration there would be a surplus of $176,636,000, due chiefly to the profits arising from the revaluation of the dollar, which amounted to $2,810,532,000 in somewhat over eight months. Secretary Morgenthau, however, said that the government did not intend to use any part of the gold profits for budget balancing purposes.

None of Fund Is Used So Far.

A total of two billion dollars was set aside as the stabilization fund to take such steps in the domestic and foreign market as the treasury saw fit to maintain the standard of the dollar. So far no use has been made of the stabilization fund.

The heavy expenditure of the government for emergency purposes chiefly was due to the layout of the reconstruction finance corporation amounting to $1,311,090,600 for the July 1-April 5 period. Chairman Jesse N. Jones, of the RFC pointed out recently that the RFC expenditures probably would fall 500 million short of the budget estimate for the entire fiscal year.

Mr. Jones gave as a reason the fact that business is improving and there is less demand for loans from banks, railroads and others at the corporation. He pointed also to the fact that many borrowers were making substantial repayments of loans desiring to get out of debt.

Spending Under Budget Estimate.

Within a few days the emergency expenditures will pass the three billion mark, although there appears to be no probability that they will reach the seven billion 500 million estimated in the budget. A carryover to the 1935 fiscal year of emergency funds in the amount of at least two billion is anticipated by the government. That extra amount will be expended during the first half of the 1935 fiscal year beginning July 1, unless there is such a substantial improvement of business that the emergency costs of government may be curtailed.

An improvement in private business that would put large numbers of persons back to work probably would call for a reduction in the public building program and a cut in expenditures for direct relief. It has been the policy of the government to save the public works expenditures for periods of depression.

Despite the fact that the government has poured billions of dollars into ordinary and emergency projects since Jan. 31, there has been comparatively little increase in the circulation of the principal forms of paper money.

The gain from the end of January through April 5 was $89,448,000 in federal reserve notes, federal reserve bank notes and national bank notes.

This small increase was attributed in part to the fact that a large amount of money was returned from hoards to find its way through the commerical banks into the federal reserve institutions and the treasury. Furthermore, the country is rapidly resuming the normal tendency to transact the bulk of its gigantic business on a check rather than a cash basis. The credit business also is very substantial and is usually liquidated through the issuance of checks.

BROKER FACES TRIAL ON FORGERY CHARGE AFTER PWA INQUIRY

Davenport, Ia., April 7.—[Special.]—Final arrangements were being made today for the trial of Carleton D. Beh, Des Moines investment broker, on a charge of forgery growing out of Iowa's recent PWA investigation. The trial will start at 2 p. m. Monday in federal District court here, with Judge Charles A. Dewey. United States Attorney Robert Colflesh will prosecute the case.

Court officials, attorneys, and witnesses, including a number of PWA officials of Chicago, Kansas City, and Washington, are expected tomorrow. During the last ten days more than a score of subpoenas have been issued.

Mayor Ed "Buck" Manning and other city officials of Ottumwa are expected to be government witnesses because of their contact with the matters investigated by the federal grand jury at Ottumwa.

U. S. Attorney Asks Quiz of Boston Marshal's Office

Boston, Mass., April 7.—(AP)—Francis J. W. Ford, United States attorney, today announced that he had asked the department of justice to investigate the activities of the office of the United States marshal in Boston during the last 12 years. Col. William J. Keville held the office during the period indicated by Ford.

AMATEUR SLEUTH ORDERED FREED BY CWA OFFICIAL

An order for the release of T. H. Hall, 26 years old, whose private investigation of Civil Works administration matters tangled with a CWA investigation of him, was given yesterday by Arch Johnson, head of the legal department of the CWA. District Attorney Dwight H. Green also concluded that there was no reason for holding the amateur sleuth.

Hall, it was said, was paying 15 to 26 girl clerks in the CWA offices to make duplicates of records to enable him to investigate the New Deal unit which officially expired on March 30. He had tried to sell the results of his detective work to an afternoon newspaper.

Police received an appeal from Hall to rescue him from four men with guns at 720 Rush street. Going there, they found the men to be CWA investigators on the trail of Hall. They then seized Hall for questioning.

Frederick Hess, head of the fiscal department of the CWA, who was also found at the Rush street address, where Hall has a room, was discharged from his job yesterday. He later added to the merry-go-round aspects of the story by explaining that he had been carrying on an individual investigation of Investigator Hall, without the knowledge of his superiors. Hess said he had gone to Hall's room to seek papers he believed Hall had taken from the CWA.

Snap Fasteners Have Code; Seven Others Approved

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(AP)—Approval of eight more codes, bringing the total in effect to 391, was announced today by NRA. The new codes are: Umbrella frame manufacturing, steel plate fabricating, shoe machinery, sandstone industry, railroad special track equipment, insecticide and disinfectant manufacturing, clay and shale roofing tile and snap fastener manufacturing. All are relatively small industries. A forty hour week with varying provisions for elasticity was written into each code. Minimum wages were mostly in the 35 to 40 cents an hour range, with as low as 25 cents in the clay tile industry in southern states.

Gives His Theory on Basis of New Deal.

Further encroachment of government upon business and industry is forecast by Prof. William F. Ogburn, University of Chicago sociologist, in a contribution to "Social Change and the New Deal," the annual social change number of the American Journal of Sociology published yesterday. There were 11 other contributors to this symposium, including Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

According to Dr. Ogburn's analysis, a synchronization of politics and business cycles supplied the impetus for the New Deal, with the severest depression in recorded history occurring during the Republican administration and a change in the political cycle occurring while the depression was at its bottom. Such a synchronization has occurred only once before—the election of 1896—but the rural radicals and inflationists did not gain control or there would have been an 1896 model of the New Deal, Dr. Ogburn suggests.

Sees Further Hookup.

Dr. Ogburn holds that a closer relationship between government and business is inevitable because the economic structure, free of government control, came near a collapse when the depression set in.

"Credit disintegration and business depressions go hand in hand, as has been abundantly clear since 1929," he says. "The future of government and business relationships must be predicated on the fact that economic structure, with no particular close connection with government, came near to a complete collapse. A repetition is possible in the 1940's. It is reasonable to expect that there will be an attempt at greater coöperation to prevent a recurrence."

Prof. Ogburn says the forces of our social life have been converging for some time toward a new pattern whose two parts are public control on the one hand and governmental aid on the other, based respectively on the vigor of economic trends and the weakness of the system.

Danger in Price Boosts.

There is a danger, he says, of price rises not being checked before they far outrun purchasing power, thus precipitating severe depressions, and a second danger of restricted production, which tends to keep down the standard of living.

"All these trends," says Prof. Ogburn, "mean a multiplication of closer contacts between government and business, the nature of which will be the chief issue in coming presidential elections."

2 MORE CHICAGO DAIRIES CITED ON MILK CODE

The United Dairy company, 835 South Hermitage avenue, and the Anton Michalek dairy, 4227 West 26th street, were cited yesterday by the Agricultural Adjustment administration in Washington to show cause by April 17, why their licenses to sell and distribute milk should not be revoked. This brings the total number of local dairies cited to seven.

The United Dairy company, one of the larger cut rate concerns, is charged generally with failure and refusal to pay the government market administrator the sum of $1,816 due March 15, for the marketing adjustment account. It is also accused of buying milk from non-members of the Pure Milk association. The Michalek company is charged with general violations, including alleged failure to pay the base price for milk as stipulated in the agreement.

Coincident with these citations, the AAA in Washington announced officials would come to Chicago to set up some sort of a bonding system whereby farmers would be guaranteed payment for their products regardless of price cutting wars. According to Chester David, AAA administrator, some companies, bankrupt or nearly bankrupt, are prone to withhold checks from farmers.

FIVE YOUTHS GET YEAR IN JAIL FOR BICYCLE THEFTS

Five youths, said by the police to have left their homes for the adventure of living in an abandoned house in the outskirts of the Irving Park district, who were charged with stealing bicycles and purses for their living, were sentenced to a year in the county jail yesterday by Judge William J. Brooks in the Boys' court.

Those sentenced are Henry Kovnacki, 18 years old, and his brother, Edward, 20 years old, 3500 North Nagle avenue; Frank Lake, 19 years old, and his brother, William, 18, and Edward Pickarczyk, 18 years old, 3419 North Natchez avenue.

OHIO PROFESSOR URGES NEW TYPE OF GOVERNMENT

Wants to Abolish Present Setup of Congress.

Kent, O., April 7.—(AP)—The time is near at hand, Prof. S. A. Harbourt of Kent State college believes, when the people of this country must choose a new type of government.

Prof. Harbourt has a plan all of his own, the most radical feature of which is abolition of the present setup of congress and the formation of a new congress to represent proportionately various industries and professions.

"Present Road Leads to Ruin."

The road we are traveling leads straight to disaster, he said; and he holds that the American people ought to have a revolution every generation for their own good.

He called his plan an "industrial and professional democracy." It would do away with the two houses of congress now representing the country by sections and would place in their stead a congress of 100 men proportionately representing the various trades and professions.

In a way, every interest would be represented according to its own numbers.

Would Abolish State Lines.

He would abolish present county lines and group counties according to main occupations, possibly 20 in number. Likewise he would abolish state lines and group states in the same manner.

The President would be elected by a direct vote of the people and the Supreme court would consist of five judges to be in session ten months of the year.

Deputy Jailed After He Fires Shots in Quarrel

Deputy Sheriff Joseph Faust was locked up in a cell at the Fillmore police station yesterday after he fired two shots during a quarrel with Frank O'Mara, 40 years old, 5230 Washington boulevard, and Joseph Mangen, 29 years old, 5094 West Monroe street, at Madison street and Cicero avenue. No one was injured.

LABOR BETRAYED BY GEN. JOHNSON —MRS. PINCHOT

Calls NRA Chief Quitter; Backs Wagner Bill.

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special.]—Stinging criticism for Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and his NRA came today from Mrs. Gifford Pinchot as the red-haired wife of Pennsylvania's governor appeared before a senate committee to urge approval of the Wagner labor bill.

A veteran and inveterate foe of the industrial "sweatshop," Mrs. Pinchot minced no words as she accused the NRA chieftain of "throwing down his arms" in the interest of big business. Shaking her head for emphasis and banging the table with masculine force, she told the committee that the NRA under Johnson's administration is crippling organized labor.

Her testimony was the high spot of the day's proceedings, although at one point sensational disclosures regarding the notorious Lindbergh kidnaping case appeared likely.

Brings Up Lindbergh Case.

Urging that the Wagner bill be amended to protect union members from "oppression by ruthless and unscrupulous labor leaders," Nathaniel Doragoff, appearing before the committee at the head of a delegation from New York local 306 of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Hand employés, told of the unexplained payment of $7,500 of union funds to one "Mr. Spitaly," whom he described as an "intermediary" in the Lindbergh case.

Doragoff charged that Harry Sherman, former president of a New York local of the Motion Picture Operators' union, spent $800,000 of union funds during his one year in office without making any accounting of the expenditures. Sherman, he told the committee, was made president of the local at the insistence of officials of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Hands.

Spitaly Got $7,500, He Asserts.

At one time, according to Doragoff, Sherman "inadvertently" reported the payment of $7,500 from the union treasury to a "Mr. Spitaly."

"The only thing we know about Spitaly," Doragoff said, "is that he is a notorious racketeer and served as an intermediary in the Lindbergh kidnaping case."

About the same time, according to Doragoff, Sherman also paid $25,000 to the Diamond Detective agency, and when questioned about it, replied:

"If I were to tell you how and for what that money was spent I would have to go to jail, so I won't tell you."

"Steel Trust Defies U. S."

It was Mrs. Pinchot who stole the show, however, with her militant charges against the National Recovery administration under Gen. Johnson. The Wagner labor bill, outlawing company unions, she declared, is essential because union workers throughout the country have been "betrayed" by the operation of the NRA.

"Under present NRA policies," she told the committee, "the steel trust is stronger than the United States government. It can and does openly flaunt its defiance."

"Gen. Johnson, eager to build up the power and wealth of Wall street, has done so at the expense of the worker and consumer. I've heard of a Chinese general throwing down his arms but not an American general," she declared.

"Under Gen. Johnson," she went on, "the NRA has stimulated company unions and has crippled bona fide labor unions. Workers have been jockyed and cheated out of their rights by a hundred tricks and devices."

When she lashed savagely at company unions, Daniel Sullivan, spokesman for the company union workers in a plant of the International Harvester company, leaped to his feet with an instant defense of the company union plan. Workers in his organization, he declared, have fared far better than those affiliated with organized labor.

"Johnson Surrenders."

All of which merely proved, Mrs. Pinchot replied, that Sullivan's union was not a company union in the true sense of the term.

"Big business," she went on, "does not violate the NRA as far as wages and hours are concerned. But big business has gone deliberately and systematically to work without subterfuge, shamelessly to defy the government and to stamp out organization of the workers.

"In certain cases they have gone so far as to shoot down their employés with machine guns."

Mrs. Pinchot said the NRA reached its turning point when Gen. Johnson "completely failed to stand up for the law in the Frick Coal and Coke company case.

"If he had compelled the Frick company to obey the law as written, I would not be telling you this story today," said Mrs. Pinchot, "but Gen. Johnson, at the very first defiance of the government by the steel industry, threw up his hands and refused to fight."

BISHOP CANNON GOES ON TRIAL TOMORROW ON 1928 VOTE CHARGE

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr. and Ada L. Burroughs appeared today before the district attorney to sign admissions of government evidence by which counsel hopes to shorten their trial on an election law charge by at least one week. The trial is scheduled to start Monday.

John J. Wilson, assistant district attorney said the stipulations relieving the government of presentation of a portion of its planned testimony, were agreed to after a request from Cannon and Miss Burroughs, his secretary five years ago.

The charge against the churchman and his former aid is that they conspired to "willfully" and "unlawfully" violate the corrupt practices law. Eight more counts of the indictment charging them with the overt acts on which the conspiracy charges are based were stricken by the Supreme court.

RAINEY DEFENDS NEW DEAL; SEES BRIGHTER FUTURE

Addresses Jefferson Day Dinner in New York.

New York, April 7.—[Special.]—Pleas for adherence to the principles of Thomas Jefferson by Democrats in state, nation, and city were made tonight by speakers at the annual Jefferson day dinner of the National Democratic club.

Speaker Henry T. Rainey, who spoke to the diners from Washington, asserted that the Roosevelt administration had had to undo the work of the three preceding Republican administrations. He defended President Roosevelt's recovery program and denied the administration was expending money recklessly.

The government, Speaker Rainey said, had been underwriting the investments of banks, insurance companies, railroads, building and loan associations, farmers and others, taking their securities in return. Payment of these obligations plus the two billion 810 million profit made by the government in revaluing the gold dollar, he said, really made the public debt $771,000,000 less than it was at the end of the Hoover administration.

The Fordney-McCumber and Hawley-Smoot tariffs, put through during Republican administrations, were cited by the speaker as major factors in bringing on the depression. In an effort to regain foreign trade, he said, the house has passed the bill to authorize the President to make reciprocal tariff arrangements with other countries. This bill, he said, was meeting with vigorous opposition from Republican leaders and newspapers and magazines controled by them.

Sees Better, Brighter Future.

"They are preparing, I am advised, to carry this kind of an issue into the elections this fall," he continued. "No wonder the rank and file of their party is deserting a leadership which leads in the direction of economic ruin."

Mr. Rainey declared that the country was on the verge of an economic collapse when President Roosevelt took office and that the collapse would have occurred if the Hoover administration had been extended until now.

Predicting that the recovery program was moving to a better and brighter future, Mr. Rainey declared that the war now being waged against depression was more serious even than the world war.

"This is not the time to rock the boat," he continued. "This is not the time to try to sabotage recovery measures. Conditions were bad enough during the Hoover administration and no remedies were applied. The people of the country, I do not think, can be persuaded that they want to return to the old conditions that existed then."

Says General Costs Are Cut.

To meet the charge that the Roosevelt administration had been spending money recklessly, Mr. Rainey said that the general expenditures of the federal government for the 13 months from Feb. 28, 1933, to March 31, 1934, had been two billion 911 millions while for a comparable period during the Hoover administration from Jan. 31, 1932, to Feb. 28, 1933, the general expenditures were three billion 550 millions.

"We have been underwriting investments of banks, insurance companies, railroads, building and loan associations, farmers, intermediate credit banks, joint stock land banks and other companies and banks, and we have taken from them their securities. We have been underwriting municipalities and we have taken from them their securities. If the recovery program succeeds—and it must succeed—practically all of these amounts so invested will come back into the treasury of the United States."

UNITED AIRCRAFT TO REORGANIZE, THEN BID ON MAIL

Shakeup Forced by Farley Edict on Contracts.

New York, April 7.—(AP)—Immediate reorganization of United Aircraft and Transport corporation—separating air lines and manufacturing subsidiaries—was proposed today by Philip G. Johnson, president, "in order that the United Air Lines system may be in a position to participate in the bidding for air mail contracts in the future."

His announcement was the first official intimation from any air mail carrier that reorganization might be effected to qualify for bidding on mail routes.

Congress has not enacted legislation covering permanent awards of new contracts, but the administration has indicated that far-reaching changes in corporate structures would be necessary before any of the companies, whose contracts were canceled, would be eligible again to enter bids.

Air Lines Affected.

The proposal was explained in a letter to stockholders accompanying the corporation's 1933 financial report. It announced the share-owners annual meeting, scheduled for April 24, has been postponed by the directors until the reorganization plan can be completed.

Johnson's letter pointed out "it is highly probable" that divorcement of carriers and manufacturers "will be stipulated as a condition to the reletting of air mail contracts," adding "your directors believe no time should be lost" in establishing United Air Lines "as an independent group."

The air lines affected and cities between which they carried mail prior to Postmaster General James A. Farley's cancelation of all contracts are:

Boeing Air Transport, Inc.—Chicago and San Francisco.

Pacific Air Transport—Seattle and Washington.

Committee Works on Plan.

Manufacturing subsidiaries would be grouped into two organizations, Johnson's letter stated, with the eastern group centered in the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft company and associated firms in Hartford, Conn., and the Boeing Airplane company in Seattle, providing the nucleus for the western concerns.

A committee of three directors, Joseph P. Ripley, Joseph F. McCarthy, secretary and controler of the corporation, and Johnson, is formulating the reorganization plan, it was stated.

Consolidated net income for the corporation in 1933 was shown in the report as $1,176,111. This was equal to 56 cents a share on the common stock.

RALLY HELD BY CHICAGO FOLK FROM "EGYPT"

Maintaining their link with the "Egypt" region in southern Illinois, 500 Chicagoans who once made their homes in the 32 downstate counties of the area gathered last night for the annual reunion of the Egyptian Club of Chicago at the Morrison hotel. Music by club members was the principal feature of the program.

Chatting at tables placarded with the names of the various counties, the club members recalled their residence in "Egypt." Dr. Harold I. Meyer, club historian, explained that long before the civil war there was a drouth in the northern part of the state. Famished farmers went south to get corn for their [illegible] and nicknamed the fertile region "Egypt," recalling the biblical episode.

Announcement of an "Egyptian day" to be held at the World's Fair was made by Hulbert O. Crews, public administrator, who is a member of the club. Mr. Crews said the club would prepare an elaborate program for the day, which will be held in National Farmers' week, Aug. 11 to 17.

German Catholics Cancel Fete; Fear Attack by Nazis

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 7.—The central Catholic committee for Germany, which convened at Mainz today under the chairmanship of Prince Loewenstein, decided to cancel this year's "Catholic day," which was scheduled to take place at Gleiwitz. The cancelation was decided to avoid possible conflicts with Nazi storm troopers. The Nazis are angered by utterances of Catholic dignitaries who insist that Nazi Germany must respect the concordat with the Vatican signed last summer by Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen.

ICKES ASSURES AID TO COMPLETE 5 CHICAGO HIGHS

Government Money to Be Available.

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[Special.]—An assurance that government money will be available to finish five Chicago high schools was obtained today by Richard S. Folsom, Chicago school board attorney, from Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who is administrator of the public works administration.

Early last December, a grant of $1,300,000 from the PWA was approved and work begun on the partially completed schools. Contractors agreed to accept school board tax anticipation warrants for Chicago's share of the work.

But the contract making the grant official was not signed by Mr. Ickes and Chicago officials began to worry. Mr. Folsom was sent here last week to urge speed in the adoption of legislation sponsored by Mayor Kelly of Chicago which will enable the teachers to be paid back salaries in full. He was also delegated to inquire into the signing of the PWA contract.

Contract Is in Form.

Today, Mr. Folsom announced, he was informed by Deputy Administrator Henry M. Waite and Assistant General Counsel Edward H. Foley Jr., that Secretary Ickes had been advised that the contract was in form and should be signed. Col. Waite visited Chicago two weeks ago to look over the situation, it was learned.

All technicalities which might have hindered completion of the schools are thus ironed out, Mr. Folsom said. He will receive the signed contract from Secretary Ickes Monday and will return with it to Chicago.

The five high schools involved are Lane, Steinmetz, Wells, Senn, and Wendell Phillips.

Three Near Completion.

At present three of the schools are near completion. Senn is 98 per cent complete; Lane is 84 per cent complete, and Steinmetz is 94 per cent complete, it was learned. Wells and Wendell Phillips are 29 per cent and 37 per cent completed respectively.

Attorney Folsom also said he had been successful in his mission to hurry along legislation leading to the payment of the teachers' back salaries. The necessary bills are now in committee and will be reported out as soon as possible, he said, with a strong probability that they will be given the approval of both houses.

MERRY FAHRNEY'S HUSBAND FIGHTS ANNULMENT SUIT

Los Angeles, Cal., April 7.—(AP)—Answering the marriage annulment suit of Merry Fahrney Eiszner, 22, patent medicine heiress from Chicago, Fran Van Sands Eiszner denied today the heiress was unable to understand the purport of their wedding ceremony at Aurora, Ill., Nov. 10, 1933.

His answer, filed in Superior court, contends she was "in full possession of mental faculties, not under duress of any kind, and freely and voluntarily consented to marriage."

In her suit for annulment filed here several weeks ago Mrs. Eiszner said she was given "certain liquids" which made her unable to comprehend what she was doing when she married. She said also she had not lived with her husband.

He said they did live together as man and wife, asks the annulment be refused, and that he be allowed court costs.

ICKES REVEALS OLD RETRACTION BY 2 ATTORNEYS

Attorney C. W. Larsen, former assistant corporation counsel, who with Attorney Lucius J. M. Malmin, former federal judge of the Virgin Ilands, is accused of blackmail in charges filed by Secretary of the Interior Ickes with the Chicago Bar association, made formal denial of the allegations yesterday. Secretary Ickes has demanded disbarment of the two attorneys.

Attorney Larsen's answer, which is twenty pages long, denies that he attempted to "blackmail" the cabinet member into giving him a federal job and included the countercharge that Mr. Ickes is being motivated by "malice and revenge and is camouflaging the real issues of the case."

Statements of Retraction.

Meanwhile, Attorney Frederick Z. Marx, personal counsel for Secretary Ickes, disclosed yesterday that Attorneys Malmin and Larsen had made statements to department of justice agents last September, in which they retracted charges they had previously made that Mr. Ickes was guilty of professional misconduct in handling an estate in the Probate court.

Attorney Marx declared that the statements would be presented in evidence when Secretary Ickes appears before the grievance committee of the bar association to press his demand for disbarment. One of the statements quotes Malmin's alleged conversation with department of justice agents in regard to his effort to obtain from Ickes an explanation of his administration of the estate of Clarence Saunders while Ickes was a practicing attorney here in 1928.

Suggests Meeting with Larsen.

The statement says that after suggesting a meeting with Attorney Larsen, Malmin told the agents: "I desire to be present with the intent of urging Mr. Larsen to proceed no further in this matter, it being understood that from this moment on I have severed all connection with and have no interest in the matter, suggesting at the same time to Mr. Larsen that if he proceeds further he alienates my friendship and that he proceeds at his personal peril."

Questioned about his statement last week, Mr. Malmer declared it was made to protect "my good friend, President Roosevelt."

"Has Mr. Ickes explained why he sat on that case from last September, when the investigation was closed, until March 23?" Mr. Malmin inquired.

Attorney Larsen's Statement.

Attorney Larsen's alleged statement to the department of justice agents, which was also made public by Attorney Marx, reads in part as follows:

"I have concluded that I was misled as to certain material facts and that other material facts were withheld from me by my clients who are the heirs mentioned in the Saunders' estate in the Probate court of Cook county.

"That being so misled and uninformed as to the facts in the administration of the aforementioned estate I unintentionally misled others.

"I declare upon my honor and pledge my professional word to refrain from presenting certain contemplated charges to the Chicago Bar association involving the attorney [Mr. Ickes] for the administration of said Saunders' estate."

Larsen Makes Explanation.

Mr. Larsen declared last night that his statement to the agents was given under unusual circumstances.

"The department of justice agents invited me to a room in the Sherman hotel," he related. "While there they said that they had investigated the matter and learned that an offer of $6,000 had been made for property of the Saunders estate in Los Angeles. If this offer had been made Mr. Ickes was justified in the fee which he accepted from the state, so I called Dr. Roland Saunders (one of the heirs and a client of Larsen) on the telephone and asked him about the offer.

"Dr. Saunders hesitated and did not answer by question directly, so I took it for granted that the offer had been made. I then ordered a statement typed for the agents. Dr. Saunders came to my office later and said that he had not misled me at the time he retained me to investigate the estate. He said that when I talked with him on the telephone two department of justice agents were in his office at the time and that he could not answer directly.

Larsen's Formal Denial.

Attorney Larsen's formal denial to the charge of blackmail states that the "complaint is prompted by motives of malice and revenge with a desire to suppress information which appears to involve Ickes under a serious responsibility and grave charges of misconduct. The respondent, Larsen, is a stranger to any blackmail that Ickes calls attention to."

The answer asks that the disbarment proceedings be open to the public, which was also voiced by Malmin in his answer to the complaint, filed last Thursday. This is in accord with a Supreme court ruling that such proceedings shall be public if those accused so desire.

John L. Fogle, attorney for the grievance committee, said a request would be sent to Sec. Ickes to set a date when it will be convenient for him to appear against the two defendants.

The trial will be public. The bar committee will sit as commissioners of the Supreme court in hearing the complaint.

THERAPIST EXPLAINS THE BENEFICIAL USES OF ARTIFICIAL FEVER

New York, April 7.—(AP)—The beneficial use of artificial fever in the treatment of diseases was described today to the eastern section of the American Congress of Physical Therapy.

"Its value in a number of conditions is no longer questioned," said Dr. William H. Schmidt of the Jefferson Medical college in Philadelphia, "but the many technical factors connected with its use have by no means been definitly settled.

"Its widespread use over the country will serve as a great experiment to determine the true value."

Dr. Schmidt's papr, read in his absence by an associate in physical therapy, Dr. Benjamin Ulanski, said the solution was the perfection of a method to create fever that would elevate body temperature quickly, without danger and with the least discomfort to patients.

"Height of temperature is a very important consideration," Dr. Schmidt added. "There is no doubt different diseases will require different degrees of temperatures to eradicate them."

FOUND GUILTY, FACES JAIL FOR HANDBILL FRAUD

Claremont Is Convicted of $30,000 Swindle.

Horace J. Claremont, head of the Claremont Hand Bill Distributing company, was found guilty yesterday of conspiracy to defraud three department stores of $30,000 after a jury deliberated for one hour and a half in the Criminal court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch. It was alleged that 35 per cent of the handbills were sold for old paper instead of being distributed.

Penalty Up to Court.

The jury chose a misdemeanor form of verdict, leaving Claremont's punishment to the discretion of the court. Under the misdemeanor conviction the penalty may be incarceration of from one day to one year in the county jail, a fine of $1 to $2,000, or both. Assistant State's Attorney Benjamin Nelson had demanded the maximum penalty of from one to five years in prison.

At the request of Defense Attorney Samuel A. Hoffman, a hearing on a motion for a new trial will be held April 14, when sentence will be imposed if the motion is overruled. At this time the court will also hear the case against William J. Johnson, codefendant with Claremont and manager of the concern, who turned state's evidence on Wednesday.

65 Per Cent Distributed.

Johnson testified that it was the practice of the handbill company to distribute only about 65 per cent of the handbills. The remainder were sold by the ton as junk. The principal victims were Wieboldt Department stores, L. Klein Department store, and Sears, Roebuck & Co., but other customers of the handbill company were also cheated in the same way, Johnson said.

The defense argued that the business was in complete charge of Johnson. Claremont was permitted to remain at liberty on $10,000 bond pending the hearing of the motion for a new trial.

400 LEADERS PAY 3 CENTS AND EAT SHELTER MEAL

Pie Tops Off Typical Relief Menu.

Four hundred social workers and public leaders sat down at noon yesterday to partake of a typical shelter meal in the Illinois Emergency Relief commission shelter at 2641 South Wabash avenue. Before seating themselves at the long board tables each guest paid three cents for the meal.

At a given signal four hundred spoons dipped into heavy china bowls to dip out vegetable soup. This was followed by meat loaf, cole slaw, mashed potatoes, and bread and butter. The meal was topped off with a slice of apple pie.

As the guests jested over their "sumptuous repast" a shelter chorus sang and a shelter orchestra played.

Ordinarily the shelter feeds 1,200 men twice a day at the cost of 2.61 cents a meal. As a concession to the distinguished guests pie was added to the menu to bring the total cost to 3 cents a meal.

Short talks were made by the guests after dinner on various phases of relief with particular emphasis on shelters. Fortified by the shelter meal the majority of speakers declared themselves favoring a change to bring more adequate relief to shelter inmates.

"The almost invariable answer to the needs of the transient have been a doughnut and a cup of coffee or 'soup and gospel,' always with the word to be somewhere else by night fall," said Daniel Sands, director of transient relief for the commission.

Flop Houses Assailed.

"There is no particular potency in the word 'federal.' A flop house under federal supervision is still a flophouse and thoroughly undesirable as a home for human beings. It is essential to effectiveness of the transcient program that there be a larger degree of flexibility as to the program and its expenditures."

Joseph L. Moss, director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, said the shelter system was adopted because it was cheap. All social workers, he said, must have guilty consciences when they reflect on the neglect of men in shelters.

Among those who attended were Miss Edith Abbott of the school of social service administration at the University of Chicago, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey of the city bureau of public welfare, and Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the relief commission.

"Sonotone Brought Me Real Hearing Happiness."

That was the statement made a few days ago by a recent purchaser of the new SUPER-SONOTONE. Yet this is only one of hundreds of similar voluntary tributes offered by users of this great gift of science to the deafened.

Since the introduction of the new Bone Conduction SUPER-SONOTONE, with the Lieber Oscillator, thousands of persons have had the happiness of hearing restored to them. SUPER-SONOTONE is a departure from the old "button-in-the-ear" types of hearing aids. Instead a tiny instrument worn back of the ear conveys all sound vibrations through bone directly to the internal hearing organ.

SONOTONE Hearing Aids are available in many models to meet every condition, and at new prices all can afford.

FREE TEST IN YOUR OWN HOME

Regardless of the apparent hopelessness of your hearing; no matter what type of aid you now use, don't fail to investigate this newest super-power SONOTONE. Come in at once for a free test. If you cannot call, write for a free copy of the new booklet, "Science's Newest Hearing Technique"; or phone State 7007.

SEND 10c FOR SONOMETER. It will test your bone conduction. If it causes a gong to ring inside your head then be assured you can hear through your bones. So send 10c now (to cover postage, packing, etc.) for Sonometer and full instructions.

FIRMER GUMS, MORE BRILLIANT TEETH, WITH GUM MASSAGE

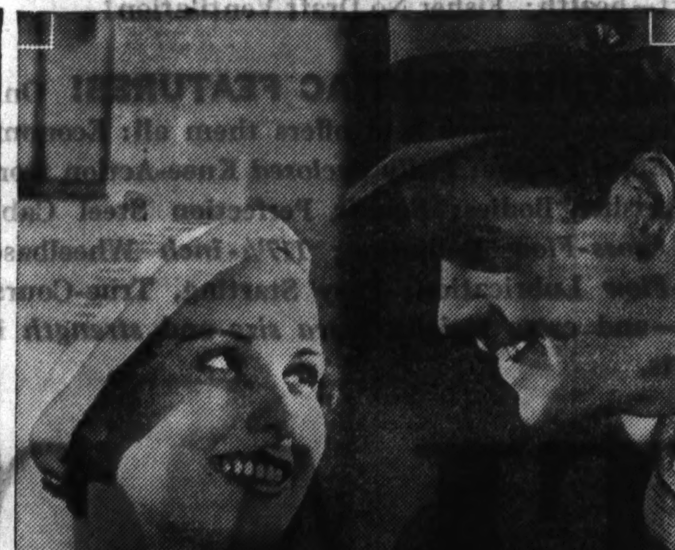
Massage of the gums keeps them firm against "pink tooth brush," say dental authorities. Your teeth are safer—and they are brighter.

The young woman who wears immaculate lingerie, who takes good care of her skin with creams and lotions, who has brilliant, good-looking teeth—is usually a young woman who massages her gums when she cleans her teeth!

And if you want to pick out a man who massages his gums—pick out one whose shirt is fresh from the laundry, whose hair is well-groomed, who looks clean and healthy and intelligent!

A decade ago, massage of the gums was almost unheard of. But dentists—schools—newspapers and magazines—have in the past few years talked so much about its importance, that most people would as soon think of failing to clean their teeth as of failing to massage their gums.

Ipana Tooth Paste, dentists say, is usually used for this massage because the ziratol in Ipana aids the massage in firming the gums and keeping them healthy.



These young people don't have to worry about "pink tooth brush." They have learned to massage their gums regularly, when they clean their teeth, with Ipana. And their gums are healthy, their teeth sound and white.

If you notice "pink" on your tooth brush when cleaning your teeth, your gums are tender. They are sluggish. They are a menace to the health of your mouth.

For "pink tooth brush" makes your gums possible victims of gum disorders like Vincent's disease, pyorrhea, and gingivitis. It spells danger to your teeth, and causes them to look dingy and uncared for.

"Keep your gums hard—with daily massage," dentists say. And the usual procedure is to massage Ipana into your gums after cleaning your teeth with Ipana.

Interesting SPRING REMODELING Suggestions

that can be made for little money

For real thrills, nothing else can quite compare with remodeling a home. You combine rooms for more space. Or an old porch disappears or becomes a sunny outdoor lounge. Or waste attic space is transformed into a snug extra bedroom. Or old fashioned inconvenience gives way to a modern step-saving kitchen. Maybe you merely add shutters. And behold! The old home takes on new beauty! New comfort! New convenience! New value! What fun it is to plan . . . and then watch the transformation take place.

To home owners planning improvements of any kind, Hines offers the most complete and helpful service available. Our experts will help you with your plans—even submitting sketches if you wish. They will help you select the right materials for every purpose. Our big stocks of lumber and all building materials insure quality products at lowest costs. Our fleet of 63 trucks assure 24 hour free delivery of any order. And finally, if you desire, we will be glad to recommend contractors whose work we can guarantee.

He—Enclosing that porch has improved the house $1,000.00.

She—Yes . . . and think, Bob! It cost only $227.00.

Probably no other change can make such an improvement in exterior appearance as remodeling the porch. Why not convert that old "public" porch into a delightful summer lounge room? Or, better still, transform it into an all-year sun room. You can do it with Hines Quality materials at a cost surprisingly low. Porch sash, for instance, can be had as low as $1.39. And Douglas Fir Plywood, ideal for interior, costs only 4½ cents a sq. ft. Phone for an estimate on enclosing your porch now.

The Value Is Here Compare for Yourself

Just remember that if you want anything for repairing or beautifying the home, you can get it at the nearest Hines neighborhood yard in quality materials that insure lasting satisfaction at lowest costs. "The struggle for freedom of speech has marched hand in hand in the advance of civilization with the struggle for other great human liberties. History teaches that human liberty cannot be secured unless there is freedom to express grievances." —Floyd E. Thompson.

CHANGING VIEW OF THE NEW DEAL

Some sober second thoughts are rising in the minds of the American people these days. They have not reached the national capital very influentially as yet, but they will in due time. The unquestioning mood which has permitted momentous and costly experiment to be launched with little public question is passing. Eventual consequences are beginning to be considered. The revolutionary doctrines and intentions held by many of the President's advisers and aids are coming into the focus of the national thought and are beginning to meet the challenge of American loyalty. An administration which has been exploiting the moral effects of the depression and the personal prestige of the President now finds, as has been disclosed in the votes on the seaway and on the veto, that its domination over congress is not unlimited. The New Deal is losing a good deal of its glamor. It retains, of course, the ardent support of those who share its theories of revolutionary change and the favor of individuals and classes which have received or hope to receive immediate material profits from its command of public funds. But an increasing number of citizens are beginning to think of the price to be paid for the New Deal, not merely through the swelling demands of taxation but in the disparagement of long tested principles and standards and of cherished institutions, in the deterioration of national morale.

This change of public sentiment and thought was inevitable and comes none too soon. Its first marked stimulus was the significant controversy over freedom of the press, revealing upon an issue which the American people had assumed was forever foreclosed a remarkable resistance on the part of the new planners. While this was fresh in the public mind came the autocratic confiscation of the air mail contracts and the efforts to smoke screen its ulterior purpose with intemperate language and unsupported accusation. The press attack also had included charges, to say nothing of implications, of offenses which did not exist. On the heels of these manifestations of the New Deal came the decision of the Supreme court in the bread with milk case, which, we think, shocked the sense of justice of freedom loving Americans. Then came Senator Borah's broadside against the NRA, emphasizing the threat of that experiment in government control against the mass of American business, and, finally, Dr. Wirt's illuminating disclosures.

In spite of the valuations and interpretations of the American social and political order which we are invited to accept by the evangelists of the proposed revolution, the American people will want to know what they are expected to accept at their hands as substitute, and they are beginning to ask for more definite specifications. The plausibility of a planned society is beginning to wear thin as the price is beginning to appear. There are a good many Americans still, and we are confident they are a large majority, who have not surrendered their faith in a free society, and they are beginning to realize that a planned society cannot be free. We doubt they are ready to adopt the Russian model which is so much admired by leading advisers of their President or ever imagined when they voted the administration into office that under the guise of a New Deal they were giving a mandate for the revolutionary reconstruction of American society. A sane people will not accept even a peaceful revolution without examining what they are offered.

The outlines of the New Deal are beginning to be revealed with a new clarity and significance to public judgment. A planned society is not a free society, however benignant its purposes may be, and it finds in the popular criticism expressed in a free press and other free agencies of publicity and protest an unacceptable interference with its authority. To get rid of free utterance, to overawe and repress it not wholly suppress it, is the first resort of all the planned societies set up in post-war Europe.

In other phases of our new planning increasing numbers of Americans have been puzzled by the collisions between various projects of the New Deal program which have canceled out expected benefits or will eventually do so. This has been accounted for as an innocent if not very sensible conflict between the urge for recovery and the urge for permanent reforms, but it is now beginning to be realized that its net result may be the breakdown of the existing economic and social order, and also that this is a consistent objective with that element in the administration which is bent upon setting up a new socialist or communist state. By these influences in the administration no recovery is wanted, for the obvious reason that recovery would save the American order. [illegible] private enterprise under an increasing burden of taxation and strangle it in a widespread web of government control, to purchase submission and support by unlimited gifts of public money [the bread and circuses which brought the Roman rabble to the support of imperial tyranny], to foment class hatred by inflammatory preachments and irresponsible accusations, to use the expanding authority of political power and office to waken inordinate demands and demoralizing expectations, these, it is true, strike at recovery, but they are the appropriate tactics of revolution, whether it pretends to be peaceful or not.

That the President and all his advisers are engaged in this strategy or in sympathy with its object no one would charge or even suspect. But it is time to know the extent of the influences in his administration which are trying to pervert efforts for recovery and for the correction of abuses within the frame of American principles.

VOTING AT THE PRIMARIES.

In the Republican primaries the citizen of Republican persuasion will have a choice between the candidates recommended by the party organization and those representing various factions. The choice is, THE TRIBUNE thinks, an easy one for the conscientious voter. The personnel of the organization ticket is of high class and there is the further consideration that the Republican party appears to be the only organization available to combat the subversive influences flagrant in politics and government at this time. The infiltration of revolutionary ideas and purpose into the national Democratic organization can no longer be ignored and the tendency it represents calls for strong and united resistance. Support of the entire Republican organization ticket should be insured in defense of American principles and institutions.

In the Democratic primaries the organization in Chicago is deserving of support. Mayor Kelly's vigorous attack on the acute difficulties of the municipality and able administration have been an outstanding achievement, and, although the party organization is connected by ties of party with the radicals of the brain trust, it is not under their control and may fairly claim the support of voters of independent mind and loyal American sentiment.

THE JUDICIAL TICKETS.

The condition of the Municipal court, as we have recently said, is highly unsatisfactory and the institution should be drastically reformed. But pending such reform, which unfortunately seems not to be in early prospect, the judicial personnel of the court must be selected by the voters from time to time with as much care as they are willing to give this responsibility. Political organizations bring their pressure to bear and there are offered the suggestions of the bar association, which in the main have been reliable.

In Tuesday's primaries twelve candidates for the municipal judgeships are to be chosen by the voters of each party. The bar association has recommended eight candidates on the Democratic ballot and seven on the Republican. Voters will probably do well to follow its indorsements, especially in such instances as Frank M. Padden on the Democratic ticket and Howard Hayes, John F. Haas, Theodore F. Ehler, and William E. Helander on the Republican. They are all sitting judges who have demonstrated their competence on the bench.

Three sitting judges who failed of indorsement are Judge Francis Borelli on the Democratic ballot and Judges Frederick Elliott and Alfred O. Erickson on the Republican. The sound policy which favors the retention of sitting judges unless there is clear and compelling reason for replacement supports the renomination of these judges.

For the County court the incumbent, Judge Jarecki, is recommended on the Democratic ballot and Saumel Heller on the Republican. For Probate judge the incumbent, John F. O'Connell, is recommended on the Democratic ticket and Harry C. Kinne on the Republican. For the place vacated by Judge O'Connell on the Municipal bench William J. Mannion is recommended on the Republican ticket. The other Republican aspirant, Joseph [not John] Haas, formerly Mall, will have no intelligent Republican's vote.

ARE YOU THERE?

The British postoffice is advertising to inhabitants of the United Kingdom that "you can now get a trunk [or, as we should say, long distance] telephone call put through to almost any part of the country in two minutes. To effect this speeding up of long distance telephony has cost the postoffice over 500,000 pounds sterling and years of research. . . . No need now to hang up and stand by for the call to come through."

This is a truly remarkable achievement for government ownership and management. Great Britain is a little larger in area than Kansas and a little smaller than Wyoming. For the British postoffice to have provided a service in that limited area comparable to the service which Americans have long enjoyed on a continental scale through the efforts of private ownership and management is indeed commendable. It shows how progressive burocrats can be. The time may be approaching when the British telephone user will no longer say "Are you there?"—a phrase which suggests that in his expectation you probably aren't.

There is one thing about the postoffice advertisment which is confusing. It is altogether probable that the improvement in British service cost the taxpayers half a million pounds, but it is not so easy to see why years of research were required to institute it. There must have been at least a hundred men in this country five years ago who could have told the British postoffice exactly how to do it. Perhaps they might have told them how to do it for much less than half a million pounds.

WORLD'S FAIR KEEPS PACE WITH SCIENCE.

That science is living and growing like a watered plant will be revealed anew when A Century of Progress Exposition reopens soon. Visitors to the 1933 World's Fair who return to the Hall of Science this year will behold an array of new and remodeled exhibits that tell, with a chapter covering progress made in the last year, the story of the growth of science. Complete and up-to-date as were the displays of 1933, there are many that must be altered to keep in step with the double-quick advances made in the scientific world. There are others that must be shelved completely to provide space for those based on developments and discoveries of the twelvemonth. But science, with its myriad branches, no matter how interesting to people increasingly conscious of the service of science to human welfare, is only one of a number of comprehensive divisions of the World's Fair, now scheduled to rebloom late in May. Bigger, better, and more numerous are the attractions in all divisions to be offered in 1934.

ON THE WONDERFULNESS OF NATURE

Skokie Marsh, Ill.

Dear sir:

I am able to make public today the essence of the proceedings entitled The New Deal versus Herman Hemstitch. I am sure you will be agog to learn the particulars.

The records in this case have been transmitted to congress by Quintus Oxley, our administrator. His idea is that congress will do something about it. Mr. Oxley has approximately no sense of humor. Prior to the great American experiment of using brains in the conduct of government Mr. Oxley was, as now, our town photographer, in which vice he displayed irresistible ingenuity and initiative, such as holding aloft a twittering tin canary bird to arrest the frightened glances of little children and posing the palsied hand of a bucolic bride upon the shoulder of a stiff, sedentary and pop eyed bridegroom. When not engaged in preserving for posterity these fragmentary historical data of our local fauna Mr. Oxley composes his classic features to resemble Marcus Aurelius and improves his mind by reading 5-pound books on metaphysical refinements with a view to arousing the masses. When he was appointed local administrator he assumed that honor with the dignity and poise of a congressman who can read and write. Mr. Oxley's customarily placid brow was disturbed by its first ruffle when he sent to the farmers hereabouts a pithy note directing them to exercise birth control over pigs.

A copy of this startling mandate went to Herman Hemstitch, who has been tilling the stubborn glebe in this region for many years. Mr. Hemstitch received the letter from the rural postman as he was at the point of helping his hired man pour 5 gallons of high-voltage gasoline into his automobile. He paused in pardonable eagerness to read the official proclamation and was so bowled over by the extraordinary command to exercise a discretionary attitude toward the cosmic urge that he relaxed his jaws just enough to permit the bowl of his pipe to turn over. I am always fettered in the use of language when I strive swiftly to put point and ascending climax to some dramatic moment.

What I am trying to bring home to you is that a glowing coal from Mr. Hemstitch's pipe dropped into the flowing gasoline and that with incredibly more celerity than I am able to convey in these awkward phrases the immediate firmament became a pyrotechnic transcalency and Mr. Hemstitch, who until that moment had been adorned by an exuberant beard which he had cultivated and encouraged with enterprise and enthusiasm, was as bald as a skillet.

I purl you this poignant stave in muted chords to show you the disinterest with which Herman Hemstitch viewed the agricultural administration thereafter. He had heard some vague inklings that a Democratic brain trust had moved into the capitol while the Republicans were out putting soap on the steps and he calculated that if the Democrats had finally got any brains it must have been on trust. He thought it incontestable that only a city dude could have the hardihood to reprove a lady pig in her deportment. To this end he took pen in hand and after contemplating it fixedly for some moments he addressed Administrator Oxley in the following terms:

"I got your letter about telling the souse not to have no more pigs. Would you pleas tell me how and the hell you get that acrost to a sou? Maybe you can regulate brains but you can't regulate habits that was going on before they ever was any brains. You probly could write letters to my souse until you got cramps but I bet you couldn't change there old fashion ideas.

"YRS H. HEMSTITCH.

"P. S.—I got my whiskers burnt of on account of your dam foolichness and I got a sou coming in with a litter tomorrow laf that of.

"H. HEMSTITCH."

I can only ask you to imagine the shock this brusque retort produced upon Quintus Oxley, a man I have tried lightly to sketch as of serious mien and of profound devotion to the philosophy of government. He tried to realize the rustic limitations of the simple Herman Hemstitch but he felt that he must not concede a jot or tittle in the stern necessities of the New Deal. He got Herman's letter late in the afternoon. Reflection would have dictated the policy of putting the matter over for another day, perhaps, somewhat on the prudent principle that to count 100 is to avoid hasty and ill considered action.

But not so Quintus Oxley. He resolved that he personally would visit that very selfsame night the farmstead of Herman Hemstitch and serve notice on Mr. Hemstitch's incontinent lady swine that her wanton and contumacious addiction to a proscribed sex life would not be tolerated by an orderly and measured economy.

That night was as dark as a smokehouse but Mr. Oxley's purpose was in no wise diminished. He fortified his geography by getting the directions from Bill Snutt, the liveryman, who told him to take the Palatine highway and turn right into the dirt road that wound off to the Hemstitch farm. Mr. Oxley had driven his 1920 roadster some half an hour when one of his headlights blinked out. He noticed that the remaining one had about as much animation as a cigar lighter, but he persevered and got his motor up to a performance of perhaps eighteen miles an hour on the level stretches. He found a dirt road but he couldn't remember whether Bill Snutt had said right or left. So he took the left. Well, he was a New Dealer, wasn't he?

Precisely as the Oxley car turned left a steady drenching rain began to fall. This and the absence of one headlight made the visibility about 30 feet and prevented Mr. Oxley from discovering that he had turned into the old Palatine race track, and now while he was unquestionably confused by the fact that the road continued to turn most everlastingly he recalled that Bill Snutt had said it was a winding road.

Mile after mile Mr. Oxley pressed on while seeking to penetrate the night with longing eyes that bulged a foot out of their sockets. His ancient automobile ground away the quarter miles and halves like a coffee mill. Furlong after furlong Quintus drove his coughing steed in total oblivion of the fact that only the savage elements were his spectators in the strangest race of all—that of Quintus Oxley against the natural instinct of Herman Hemstitch's lady swine to reproduce herself in a litter of squealing piggies.

Quintus' laboring vehicle staggered, slowly strangled, and then stopped dead. Quintus sighed, sat back to wait for the rain to stop, and then fell asleep. When he awakened it was daylight. And who do you suppose stood gazing at him from over the race track fence? None but Herman Hemstitch, who grinned merrily and bade Mr. Oxley look at thirteen tiny pigs born that very morning at the Hemstitch farm which stood blinking in the morning sun on the backstretch of the ancient race track round whose circle the administrator had been traveling.

THE GENTLE ART OF SLEEPING.

To be a successful housebreaker a professional must know when all the occupants are most liable to be asleep and also when sleep is deepest.

The second of these he can learn about from the physiologists who will tell him that during the first half hour in bed persons are restless. There follows about one hour of the deepest sleep of the night. Then there are several hours of greater restlessness and, finally, just before awakening, there is about an hour of rather quiet sleep.

But the housebreaker is not the only person interested in these questions about sleep. Would-be-beautiful women find in the report of the physiologists support of their contention that the final hour of sleep, known commonly as the beauty sleep, is one of the periods of greatest restfulness. Nor do these two groups exhaust the list of interested people. In fact, most of us are interested in what the physiologist can tell us about sleep and we look forward to the time when he will have more to tell.

Dr. G. Giddings has used the most effective of scientific apparatus and procedures to record what happened to a considerable number of people during an aggregate of nearly 30,000 hours of sleep. One conclusion at which he arrived was that, as a rule, it does not matter what kind of or size pillow we use. In even the best of sleep we are rolling and tossing a good part of the time. The sleeper is off the pillow and on, with the head first in one position and then in another.

The instructions as to sleeping posture are without value. Sleepers hold no posture longer than a few minutes. Sleepers naturally roll and toss. If they do not, something is wrong.

In all these 30,000 hours the longest any one person of the many was able to lie quietly without moving was 107 minutes.

The typical sleeper moves some group of skeletal muscles every few minutes. People vary greatly in their sleep patterns. One person moves every few minutes. Such a person is a restless sleeper. Another one—of the quiet sleeper type—changes position less frequently. But rolling sleep is just as restful to the restless sleeper as the quieter sleep is to the other person. Each one gets the most for him out of sleep of the type that fits him or that is his habit or method.

Some of Dr. Giddings' other conclusions are of interest though they may upset our previous opinions. The taking of baths at night, either cold or hot, had no constant effect on sleep. In some instances a bath made sleep more quiet and in others it had the opposite effect. A little caffein beverage had no constant effect on sleep either way. The same was true of other beverages. However, a glass of warm milk at night tended to bring about quieter sleep. On the other hand, eating a full meal at night tended to make sleep restless, as is generally thought to be the case. Sleep was more quiet in cold weather than in warm.

LETTUCE.

E. H. N. writes:

1. What is the principal food value of lettuce?

2. Has head lettuce the same food value as leaf lettuce?

REPLY.

1. Lettuce is not eaten for its calories, although if served with salad dressings the compound has high calory value. It is rich in vitamins and in minerals and is a bulk food.

2. The inner bleached parts are not as rich in vitamins as are the outer leaves.

SWOLLEN ANKLES.

Mrs. H. A. G. writes: Is there any particular reason for one's ankles swelling? I am 37.

REPLY.

There are several causes of swelling of the ankles. Among them are: Heart disease, kidney disease, cirrhosis of the liver, varicose veins, obstructions in the pelvis, wearing tight garments, local acidosis in hot weather.

SMOKER'S HEART.

W. C. J. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of smoker's heart?

2. What is the cause and what is the treatment?

REPLY.

1. Rapid pulse, occasionally irregular pulse, irritable pulse. Pain is very rare.

2. The cause is overuse of tobacco or tobacco sensitization. The only treatment needed is to discontinue the use of tobacco. In sensitization, the sufferer should not be exposed to tobacco or tobacco smoke in smoking rooms, smoking cars, or in factories.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

RABAT, Morocco.—Somewhere in the endless plains of Rio de Oro, Merebbi Rebbo, Morocco's very sore miracle man, is trying to get Allah to show him some way to wrest his country away from those "dogs of Frenchmen" whose armored cars and airplanes recently gave his forces a disastrous licking.

As the venerated grand master of the wild Berber tribesmen and the sole possessor of the "bakara"—or gift of divine favor—Merebbi Rebbo has been ever since 1914 the tireless organizer of native resistance against the French. He has never relinquished the ambition—passed on to him by his brother, El Hiba—to kill off all the French, drive them into the sea, or in some way get rid of them in order to rule over the land himself according to the severe laws of pure Islamism.

Such is still his dream today, and that is why he has beat a hasty retreat into the Spanish colony of Rio de Oro, where he expects to go into a huddle with the savage nomad chiefs of the Sahara and plot a new offensive against his country's conquerors.

But, even while their leader is in exile, the lieutenants of Merebbi are carrying on active propaganda work among the ignorant Berbers of Morocco. In the market places his propagandists mingle with the crowds, spreading fantastic stories of the riots in Paris and predicting that the French are doomed soon to be wiped off the face of the earth.

In the mountain fastnesses of the Anti-Atlas the prophet's missionaries go about from settlement to settlement teaching the tribesmen to hate the Sultan of Rabat, who has sold himself out to those dogs of Christians and especially to hate the French who occupy their country, who take the lands of the laborers, who steal the warriors' wives, and who carry away the children to become soldiers. Back of all this anti-French propaganda is the strange figure of Merebbi Rebbo.

Born in the oasis of Segier el Hamra, birthplace of the famous miracle man Ma El Ainin, Merebbi Rebbo came a quarter of a century ago to the fertile region around Bani with his brother, El Hiba. Their reputation as prophets had preceded them and the pair soon had a large following.

Preaching the early defeat of the French and promising invulnerability to all who waged war for the faith, El Hiba organized an army of the faithful. Everything went beautifully until the day his troops locked horns with those of Sidi Bou Othman. After the battle the field was strewn with the bodies of the faithful. El Hiba, who had assured his men that the enemy's guns were only loaded with water, hit out for the brush alone. He only came out of hiding in 1914, when, supported by German agents, he attempted to stage an uprising in the south.

At his death soon after, Merebbi Rebbo duly inherited the "bakara," the power to cure epilepsy and the scurvy, that of making the women fertile and the men potent, also the great mission of establishing the rule of purified Islam in all Morocco. He set himself up as an itinerant saint and tramped for years through the Moroccan mountains and deserts, working his miracles and preaching the day when he and Allah would reign supreme in the land.

For a while in 1925, during Abd el Krim's rebellion, it loked as though Merebbi's chance had come, but the defeat of the rebel chief ended all hope for the time being of seeing purified Islamism in Morocco.

Merebbi Rebbo retreated, but his faith in Allah still unshaken, he immediately started all over again. At first he had difficulties, for his loyal warriors of the faith had been replaced by a new generation that had worked in the factories in France and only laughed at his stories of Islam and the bakara. But he found more promising material on the slopes of the Anti-Atlas mountains, to which the French occupation of the great Atlas had driven the dissident Berbers. With these he succeeded in forming a new army of the faithful and his dreams of ruling Morocco were revived.

But this dream of twenty years was brutally dashed a few weeks ago, when the Foreign Legion advanced into the territory Merebbi had come to regard as his own. The miracle man and his army of faith put up a good fight, but they were no match for the French. The population capitulated. Caid el Hanaffi slew the bull of submission at the feet of Gen. Catroux, signifying by this act that 2,500 families of dissidents would thereafter be loyal to the Sultan of Rabat.

Encouraged by his entourage, Merebbi Rebbo finally consented to negotiate with the "dogs of Frenchmen." But one night he took council with himself—and at dawn, while the French were sleeping, he galloped off toward the mysterious plains of Rio de Oro. There he will get in touch with his old die hard Berber cronies and attempt once more to organize an army of the faithful to establish the rule of pure Islamism in all Morocco.

BILL STILL PENDING.

Chicago, March 30.—[Friend of the People.]—Can you inform me if the new bill has passed in Washington making it possible for an alien entering the United States before June, 1924, and not having paid a head tax to become a citizen of the United States? I understand this bill is pending. Is there any one in Washington I can write to to get further information about this? J. W.

The bill which provides the means by which a record of entry may be made in respect of aliens who entered the United States before July 1, 1924, without a record being made of their entry is, so far as this office is aware, still pending. If you do not learn through the press of the passage or nonpassage of this bill by July 1, next, it is suggested that you then communicate with this office.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

LEASE.

Chicago, March 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I signed a lease for an apartment at the age of 20 years. Since then I have become of age. My wife is ill and we would like to move where there would be some one with her. Can they hold me to the lease? H. A.

If you have remained in possession for a substantial period since coming of age, a court would probably hold that you had ratified the contract so as to be bound. We could answer to better advantage if you had stated how much time has elapsed.

INTERPRETATION OF WILL.

Chicago, March 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died leaving a will in which he left everything to my mother, and after her death to his children. Mother is disinheriting me because I married against her wishes. 1. Can she do that? 2. What steps shall I take? J. M.

1. Not if the wording of the will is as you describe it.

2. Depends on what you mean by saying she is disinheriting you. If you mean merely that she is making a will which leaves you out, then you can wait until her death and take the position that the will can control property only which belongs to her. It is possible that you may be mistaken as to the proper construction of your father's will and if substantial property interests are involved, it would be advisable to go over the wording in a personal interview with an attorney.

CASHIER'S CHECK.

Chicago, March 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is there a possible chance for one to procure money from a cashier's check which was made out ten days before the bank closed? If it is possible, how can it be done? A. A. B.

If, as seems probable, the holder had a fair opportunity to cash the check, then he cannot require a new one from the person who gave it to him. Of course, he is entitled to the same dividend as other creditors of the issuing bank.

UNFORTUNATE MARRIAGES.

Weldon, Ill., April 2.—I read with interest the article in today's TRIBUNE which commented on the increased birth rate in families whose incomes have been reduced. Inasmuch as I practice medicine in a community which has suffered much from depression I come in contact with a great many such families.

The situation mentioned has caused me to give some thought to the number of unfortunate marriages in young people. In my daily work of late I have been running across many couples of young boys and girls who have married without having the slightest knowledge of where or how they are to obtain the common necessities of life. Some of them with one or two children are entirely dependent on charity. It appears as if they marry with the thought that the county or national government will support them.

Perhaps it is asking too much to have stricter marriage laws, since legislation on such matters is somewhat obnoxious. But certainly these young people should be impressed with the seriousness of marriage. The man ought to realize the responsibilities he is assuming.

Before a marriage license is issued would it be too much to require of a couple that they be able to provide themselves with the bare necessities of life—food, clothing, shelter? Would the requirement of a thousand dollar insurance policy as a prerequisite to marriage be too much?

The public support of these "depression newlyweds" is becoming an increasingly difficult load for those of us who must give them hundreds of dollars' worth of medical care, food, clothing, or fuel.

DON'T FORGET TOMORROW.

Chicago, April 1.—I read in great alarm your editorials, cartoons, and special articles on the swift and certain ruin of this great country by the present administration. Whereupon I am fired with the desire to crack down on Roosevelt and his conspirators.

Then in the same Sunday edition I read numerous news items from which I quote:

"Income tax collections during first quarter show increase of $6,000,000 and increase of 2,361 in numbers of taxable corporations' returns over 1932."

"'Apartment tenancy above normal,' say realtors."

At this stage I am wondering whether to crack down on this goose that lays the golden egg or not. Thousands of your puzzled readers must be asking this question. Won't some one enlighten us?

S. B. J.

SINCE REPEAL.

Chicago, April 1.—A report of the coroner's office, published in THE TRIBUNE of April 1, shows that in each month of the first quarter of 1934 there was a large increase in the number of automobile fatalities in Cook county over the corresponding month of 1933, the fatalities for the first quarter of 1934 being 303, as against 218 for the first quarter of 1933. This means that in Cook county alone automobiles caused the deaths of 85 more people in three months of 1934 under repeal than in the corresponding three months of 1933 under prohibition. This increase is at the rate of over 250 per year. Doubtless nonfatal accidents increased in like proportion. Surely conditions were bad enough in the days of the protected bootlegging hoodlums, but certainly the deadly menace of the drunken driver was never so great as in these days of legal [but uncontroled] booze.

CHARLES E. FRAZIER.

SELLING TO DEAD BEATS.

Gary, Ind., April 3.—This idea that we should seek economic improvement by increasing our foreign trade is about the most ridiculous of all the disproven wish fulfilment hopes of a discredited type of political economy that is imaginable.

What business institution would continue to seek orders from a firm that confessedly could not pay its present obligations? Foreign countries—the very ones to whom this increase in foreign sales is expected to go—already owe us some twenty billions that aren't worth the powder to blow them up.

Can't anybody think of any way of becoming prosperous except by the old method of piling up debts that can never be paid? Haven't we enough of that? Are these bankers and economists just plain traitors? It would seem so.

LUCIUS K. BOND.

FREEDOM OF EMPLOYMENT.

Chicago, April 3.—From time to time THE TRIBUNE has asserted that the American worker, unlike some in other countries, was free to leave his employment if he so desired and seek work elsewhere. However, this is no longer strictly true. Certain firms in Chicago have made agreements not to employ men already employed by the other firms. This naturally limits a man's opportunities for success in life, as he is unable in some instances to obtain better paid employment in his line of work.

Inquiry of the NRA authorities revealed that the codes of ethics do not cover this limitation upon the employé to work for an employer of his own choice.

U. S. GIVES ORDER FOR RETURN OF SAMUEL INSULL

Names Young Vice Consul to Bring Him Back.

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(AP)—Burton Y. Berry, a young American vice consul at Istanbul, was instructed by the state department today to bring Samuel Insull back to the United States.

Completing a week of work, involving numerous diplomatic and legal formalities, the department cabled the full text of the presidential warant for the arrest of the fugitive Chicago utilities operator to the American embassy in Ankara.

At the White House it was said President Roosevelt signed the warant before his departure on his fishing trip last week. In the warant Berry was authorized to take physical custody of Insull from the Turkish police, who are now holding him in jail at the request of American authorities, and transport him back to Chicago.

When Berry and his 74 year old prisoner will leave Istanbul on the long return trip at government expense, and the route to be taken, are at the discretion of Robert P. Skinner, the American ambassador to Turkey.

INSULL STILL HOPEFUL

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, April 7.—Whatever plans are being concocted by the United States for the return of Samuel Insull, the fugitive regards the world today through the bars of his room in the house of detention with greater hope than he has nourished for days.

His lawyers are busy on one legal device after another which they assert confidently will bring about his release.

Insull had a long interview today with one of his Turkish lawyers, Essat Bey, who is preparing the case for presentation to the Court of Appeals.

He also saw Alexander Mango, another lawyer, who afterwards reported that his client is in high spirits, filled with optimism and still full of fight.

Case Called Hopeless.

That Insull's fight is hopeless, however, was clearly indicated today by Attorney General Kenan Bey, who announced that the fugitive cannot appeal. The government's decision is final, he said, and Insull cannot question the legality of Turkey's stand.

Another indication of Insull's status here was given in the newspaper Hakimiyeti Milliye at Ankara. This paper published an article by Falih Rifki Bey, a member of the Turkish grand national council and reputed to be in close contact with President Mustapha Kemal Pasha. The article, which was entitled "End of the Adventure," said "Insull is like Ivar Kreuger, Serge Stavisky, and other heroes of financial scandals which we have seen in all parts of the world."

Compares Insull With Capone.

By allusion the article compared Insull with Scarface Al Copone, and chided the correspondents who have chronicled the fugitive's doings.

"A fugitive who is so unworthy that none others than jailkeepers should concern themselves, is glorified into a great figure," it said.

Insull enjoyed both a hearty lunch and dinner today. If he could see the restaurant to which he sends out for food he might not eat with such relish. It is a little unnamed place near the prison and is frequented almost entirely by laborers from nearby jobs or from a distant part of Asiatic Stamboul. At any rate, it is cheap.

BURN HEART OF WOMAN SUICIDE TO SCARE GHOST

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 7.—[U. P.] — Fifty fearful villagers of Damian burned the heart of a woman suicide and scattered the ashes as the only means of preventing her ghost from haunting them, it was revealed today with the arrest of the persons concerned.

The suicide was Mrs. Stephan Safta. Her husband complained that her ghost haunted him. Other villagers began to see the ghost. They moved —the entire population—into one large room, but the ghost continued to appear, and the burning of the suicide's heart was decided upon. The body was exhumed and the heart taken out.

KING SENDS MONEY FOR POOR

Yeomen of the guard, in their picturesque uniforms, delivered to Westminster abbey on Maundy Thursday money given by King George of England to the poor, in accordance with a custom dating from the reign of James II. The archbishop of Canterbury presented the money to 69 elderly men and a like number of elderly women, one of each sex for each year of the king's age. [Acme Photo.]

'I WANT LIBERTY,' THALIA MASSIE'S PLEA IN HOSPITAL

GENOA, Italy, April 7.—[U. P.]—Mrs. Thalia Massie, central figure of a sensational rape and murder case in Hawaii, who is recovering in a local hospital from a suicide attempt aboard the liner Roma, protested tonight that she was being treated against her will.

"I want personal liberty," friends quoted her as saying. "They are keeping me here against my will. They have no right to detain me. I am ready to leave now. I want to go to my cousin in Sicily. I'm strong enough to go now. What if I did try to end it all? It is nobody's business. My life is my own to do with what I please."

"Law, law, law," she replied. "I'm always butting against it everywhere."

"Where is the croquet ball?" Her answer was:

40 Passenger Motorbus Stolen by Pair of Thieves

The "biggest automobile theft in the city" occurred last night when two ambitious thieves stole a forty passenger coach from the garage of the Chicago Motor Coach company at 5211 Cottage Grove avenue. As the thieves started the coach out the door, Maxwell Rankin, a chauffeur, saw them. He chased them in another forty passenger coach, but was soon outdistanced. An hour later the stolen coach, none the worse for its trip, was found abandoned at 50th street and Greenwood avenue by Sergt. John Sullivan and a squad.

Woman Gives 10,000 Dollar Bills to Relief Campaign

Boston, Mass., April 7.—(AP)—Ten thousand dollars in one dollar notes went into the coffers of the Boston emergency relief campaign today, listed as a donation from a woman in a heavy black veil. The woman walked into campaign headquarters with a large bundle, asked for the treasurer and handed him the contribution. He asked for her name but she turned and was gone.

FASCIST PRINCE URGES AUSTRIA TO SMASH JEWISH INFLUENCE

VIENNA, April 7.—(AP)—A bitter attack on Jewish influence in Austria, published today by Prince Ernst von Starhemberg's Heimatshueter, official organ of the Heimwehr wing of the present régime, aroused unusual interest in view of recurrent rumors of new negotiations between government groups and the Nazis.

Under the caption, "Warning," the Fascist Heimwehr [Home Guard] publication demanded quick and effective action against the Jews in words reminiscent of the most outspoken language in German Nazi newspapers. The prince heads the Heimwehr.

"The Jews have acquired here, especially since the war, a supremacy which must be broken if we others are not to suffocate," the organ said. "That does not mean confiscation, expulsion and other violent methods, but strict limitations of the superfluous. The Jews who have elbowed their way in upwards everywhere—even to the extent of establishing a monopoly in many spheres—must be shown their place."

STONE OFFICERS TAKEN TO MILAN TO BEGIN TERMS

Four former officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate concern, convicted of using the mails to defraud, were taken yesterday to the federal detention farm at Milan, Mich., to serve three year sentences. They are Henry F. Norcott, Harold D. Bennett, W. Scott Carroll, and Charles P. Packer Jr.

Milan is the newest government penal institution. It has so many superior points in comparison with other jails that it is called "the summer home" by federal attaches. Located about 50 miles this side of Detroit, it was completed in 1933. Modern buildings surround an exercise square, and an elaborate system of segregating classes of prisoners is maintained. Inmates may work on a farm but are not compelled to do so.

The order permitting the convicted men to be taken to Milan was received from United States Attorney General Homer S. Cummings. Leslie A. Needham, the fifth defendant, is appealing his sentence of one year and a day. The five officials were sentenced to 20 year prison terms and fined $15,000 each in a previous trial. The case was remanded for a new trial and the shorter terms were imposed by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan after two months of court sessions before a jury.

LONDON PRESS SUDDENLY DROPS INSULL STORY

Suppresses Names Listed as Stockholders.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 7.—The prince of Wales was out of town today. His secretary was also out of town. In fact, a lot of people were out of town —particularly those whose names appeared in American newspapers yesterday as having held Insull stock, and who are believed to have cleaned up a good profit just before the crash.

Another interesting development today was the treatment given the Insull case by the British press. All week the London newspapers have been following the Insull affair with keen interest. Yesterday Insull had a good play on the front page of several papers. Today, however, for some mysterious reason, the case was suddenly dropped.

Insull List Suppressed.

It is a known fact that almost every British news agency sent out the story published in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, mentioning that the prince of Wales, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, and other prominent Britons were reported to have held Insull stock and to have sold out before the crash. All the London papers had this story in their offices early last evening. Yet today not a single London paper carried one line of the story. All mention of the Insull case vanished.

It is not seriously suggested that there is a censorship, but it is suggested that a reminder might have been handed out suggesting that the public is perhaps getting a little weary of the name of Insull and that it might be a good idea to give it a rest.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent today questioned one of Insull's London friends regarding the report that the prince of Wales held Insull stock.

Refuses to Talk.

"Do you know whether the prince of Wales knew Insull?" he was asked.

"Do you know how much Insull stock he held, or if the stock was bought for him under another name?"

"Yes, I think it will."

"Will what?"

"Be a fine afternoon if it doesn't rain."

Similar answers were given by other friends of Insull.

Leans from Window, Yells "Fire!" Found Shot Dead

LONDON, April 7.—(AP)—Neighbors saw a man lean out of an apartment window in Bloomsbury today. He shouted, "fire!" They rushed into the smoke filled room and found him lying dead. He had been shot. The man was Edward Stanley Browne, the brother of Maurice Browne who produced the stage version of "Journey's End."

GANDHI ORDERS HIS FOLLOWERS TO GET INTO ELECTION DRIVE

PATNA, India, April 7.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi today told his followers to leave the campaign of civil disobedience and passive resistance to him and to go out themselves and electioneer for the forthcoming elections to the legislative assembly.

Regarding civil disobedience, the man who seeks the independence of India from British sovereignty said: "Leave it to me alone. It should be resumed by others in my lifetime only under my direction, unless another leader arises who claims to know the science better than I do."

Gandhi will actively support the revived Swaraj [Independence] party in the elections, which will be held in November.

HUMANS MAY EAT WHAT THEY WANT BUT DOGS CAN'T

Washington, D. C., April 7.—[U. P.]—Human beings may eat what they please as far as the National Recovery administration is concerned, but dogs are going to get only the purest foods.

The food codes for dogs and people are in the making. The canine code, it was learned today, will contain specific provisions about what shall not go into dog dinners. The other code will include no such purity clauses.

The meat-for-dogs situation already is codified, but the dog biscuit problem is pending. That is complicated, because some dog biscuit makers want to shroud the contents of their biscuits in mystery. However, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson hopes to sign the dog food code within the week.

Status of food for the masses is something else again. There are four proposed codes for as many aspects of the grocery business. These codes still are in the argumentative stage. The manufacturers of foods, it developed, have so many specific problems of their own that the grocery manufacturing code will be the broadest kind of document, laying down general principles, but containing no specific provisions about such things, for instance, as how much chicken there ought to be in a can of chicken soup.

Cuban Cabinet Faces Crisis as 3 Secretaries Resign

HAVANA, April 7.—(AP)—Serious difficulties within the Cuban cabinet were revealed tonight as three secretaries resigned. A special meeting of the cabinet was called for Monday, presumably to discuss the general political situation. Carlos Saladrigas, secretary without portfolio; Roberto Mendes Penate, secretary of justice, and Dr. Nunes Mesa, secretary of the interior, offered their resignations to President Carlos Mendieta.

Pennsylvania Rum Stores Sell $435,000 Worth in Day

Harrisburg, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—The citizens of Pennsylvania bought $435,000 worth of liquor from state stores the day before Easter. The total was considerably more than half the liquor sold during the week.

ITALY, AUSTRIA, HUNGARY SEEK TO STRENGTHEN TIES

Experts Prepare Series of Trade Accords.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 7.—Experts representing Italy, Austria, and Hungary this week began negotiations for a series of bilateral preferential trade accords. The outcome of the negotiations is expected to be a test of whether the protocols signed here March 17 by the three countries really mean anything for central Europe.

The negotiations will last until May 15, when the accords, if any, are reached, a permanent committee of three experts will be named to supervise and coördinate the economic policies of the three countries in accordance with the terms of the protocols.

In part the negotiations will extend the scope of the present bilateral trade agreements already in effect in pursuance of Premier Mussolini's plan for the strengthening of Austria and Hungary economically so they will not fall into the hands of Chancellor Hitler and bring Pan-Germanism down to Brenner pass so it can look over into the Italian Tyrol.

The chief problems which experts began to iron out this week concern:

FIRST—Determining the price of Hungarian wheat which Italy and Austria are to buy.

SECOND—How to establish clearing of goods between states so that money will not have to be shipped back and forth in payment.

THIRD—Development of tourist trafic.

FOURTH—What is to be the status of Trieste and Fiume as the new ports of Austrian and Hungarian shipments.

The Hungarian delegation, headed by Stephan Winkler, is chiefly interested to see how much wheat Italy is going to buy from Hungary in view of the fact that the "battle of grain" has been won here, and that the only wheat imported is for milling purposes.

The negotiations also are interesting from the fact that a new trade agreement has just been concluded with Germany. The impression exists that in these trade deals the little countries in central Europe are shrewdly playing off their big neighbors one against another to proper advantage.

BULLET FIRED INTO HOME OF CITY MANAGER

Kansas City, Mo., April 7.—(AP)—City Manager H. F. McElroy, target for much criticism in the recent city election campaign, reported that a bullet was fired through the front window of his residence tonight as he sat in a nearby room with his daughter, Mary. No one was hit.

Demands for his resignation were voiced by candidates of the Citizens'-Fusionist party, which was defeated by the incumbent, T. J. Pendergast, Democratic organization, two weeks ago in an election marred by four slayings.

Miss McElroy was abducted last year, and held more than twenty-four hours, until the city manager paid $30,000 ransom. Walter McGee is under sentence to be hanged as the convicted leader of the plot and two men are under prison sentences.

Recently McElroy received a threatening note, in which he was named as an intended kidnap victim, but he disregarded it, saying he had received several threats and regarded them as the work of "cranks."

OUSTED BUTLER PRESIDENT SUES TO GET $100,000

Reputation Damaged, W. S. Athearn Says.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7.—[Special.]—Dr. Walter Scott Athearn, former president of Butler university, today filed suit in Superior court for a $100,000 judgment against the university.

The suit alleged his dismissal in October, 1933, damaged his reputation and that he was let out because members of the board of directors desired to shield certain employés who were guilty of irregularities, as shown by an investigation he conducted.

In April, 1933, he said, his contract with the university was renewed at a salary of $8,588 annually, but that nothing had been paid since Oct. 31.

Policies Criticized, He Says.

When he became president in 1930, he asserted, he discussed certain difficulties with the board of directors regarding its system of "dual control," and was promised that if he became president all obstacles to unified administration would be removed, but he learned friends and relatives of certain directors held remunerative positions in the university.

The directors, he declared, objected to any disturbance of these employés, and "certain directors" stimulated criticism of his policies.

Obstacles to a "unified administration" were not removed, he alleged, and these obstacles continued to maintain control through an executive committee composed of certain directors.

Charges Inquiry Was Stopped.

Referring to salary cuts accepted by the president and faculty members, Dr. Athearn said he undertook an investigation and analysis of costs, and that evidence was obtained showing "dishonesty and immorality" on the part of certain employés.

He said he met with vigorous opposition from directors and the executive committee when this analysis was started. Two persons who assisted him in the investigation were dismissed, he asserted.

Police Charge "Disorderly Conduct."

Minneapolis, Minn., April 7.—(AP)—While an armed guard of more than 75 policemen patroled the city hall, 30 men arrested in yesterday's riotous unemployed demonstration were brought into Municipal court today to face disorderly conduct charges.

All but one pleaded not guilty. Municipal Judge White refused to release any of the defendants on personal recognizance and fixed $200 bail in each case.

Governor to Investigate.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson meanwhile launched an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the demonstration. The governor said he wished to determine whether communists were leaders of the clash.

The disorderly conduct charges were filed by Chief of Police Johannes, who said assault charges may be filed in District court against some of the defendants if it can be shown they threw the missils that resulted in injuries to eight policemen.

One Captive Is Woman.

In addition to the 30 arrested during the demonstration, police Friday night arrested eight other persons, one a woman. The defendant who pleaded guilty was Christ C. Rood, 44 years old, charged with failing to obey an officer. His sentence was deferred.

A city council committee appointed to present the demonstrators' grievances to the federal government, prepared to leave for Washington tonight. They were named to demand of the federal government a continuance of CWA work and to object to "forced labor" under the proposed new program.

HUSBAND SLAIN, WIFE HELD AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

Du Page county authorities were given a possible murder mystery to unravel last night when Jesse Michaels, 47 years old, a railroad employé of Bensenville, was taken to the Elmhurst hospital, supposedly the victim of an automobile accident. He was already dead. Examination showed he had been shot in the back.

Chief Deputy Sherif Arthur A. Bennett immediately arrested his estranged wife, Mrs. Ida Michaels, 52 years old, owner of a small hotel in Bensenville. Bennett said that a revolver had been found in her car and that Michaels was with her when he was supposedly hurt in an auto smashup. Mrs. Michaels denied any knowledge of the shooting. It was Mrs. Michaels who took him to the hospital.

According to Chief Deputy Bennett Mrs. Michaels is suing for divorce and Michaels yesterday was cited to appear in court in Wheaton next Friday on an alimony hearing. Last night he and Mrs. Michaels were driving in her automobile in York road, between Lake street and Bensenville. The car, according to her story, left the road and her husband was pitched bodily through the door. Then she took him to the hospital.

JAIL 13 REDS IN SEATTLE AFTER ARMY DAY TRICK

Seattle, Wash., April 7.—(AP)—Thirteen asserted Reds were held in jail today following their attempts to inject anti-war demonstrations into army day ceremonies.

A truck bearing signs reading: "Billions for War—$1.20 a Week for Unemployed," was "sneaked" into a patriotic parade, but it had not been long in the line of march before war veterans attacked it, destroyed the signs and held several passengers for police. Six demonstrators were injured in the mêlée.

Several more demonstrators were turned over to police after they had attempted to post anti-war banners in a lodge hall where a patriotic program was to be presented.

Eight of those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct and five others were held on open charges.

POLICE BULLETS END PAROLED CONVICT'S VARIED CRIME CAREER

Indianapolis, Ind., April 7.—[Special.]—The career of a pseudo Dillinger ended here today in death. Ivan Coy, who like Dillinger, Indiana's public enemy No. 1, had been paroled only to resume his career of crime, was shot through the heart as he leaped through a window of a house when trapped in the west side badlands here. Police made sure of their catch by riddling the body with machine gun bullets.

Coy came here from Jonesboro, Ark., in 1921. After an existence marked by petty crimes he was sentenced to the state reformatory in 1930 for a robbery at Brownsburg, only to be paroled in May, 1931.

Police here Tuesday sought Coy for robbery of a store at North Salem. When surrounded he shot down Detective Sergeant John Welch, who is still in a critical condition.

Then he kidnaped a motorist and forced him to drive him to Morgan county, southwest of here, which is the home county of Dillinger.

Today police received a tip and surrounded the home of a friend of Coy. He was armed with two revolvers.

DILLINGER JURY UP IN CONTEMPT CASE TOMORROW

State Attorney to Be Defense Counsel.

Members of the Lake county [Ind.] grand jury which investigated the jail break of the notorious John Dillinger are scheduled to appear tomorrow morning in the court of Judge William J. Murray at Crown Point to answer the judge's citation against them for contempt of court.

Edward J. Barce, assistant attorney general of Indiana, who aided the grand jury in its investigation, is to appear as the defense counsel for the jurors. Robert G. Estill, the Lake county prosecutor, and Attorney Martin Smith, who had planned to defend the grand jury, probably will be unable to act in their behalf, it was said yesterday. As officers of the court—Attorney Smith assisted Mr. Estill in the Dillinger probe—they cannot appear against it.

"Judge Within Rights."

The action of Judge Murray in summoning members of a body he himself had appointed to show why they should not be held in contempt for "scandalous" reference made to him in the grand jury report on the Dillinger escape, was said at the statehouse in Indianapolis to be without precedent in Indiana. It was held, however, that Judge Murray is within his rights and can force the grand jurors to disclose all that they know of the escape and its accompanying circumstances.

If found guilty of direct contempt, as charged, the grand jurors may be fined up to $500 each and sentenced to a term of not more than six months in jail, or both. They may, however, appeal any sentence of Judge Murray to the State Supreme court.

$1,000 Each for Escape Guns.

A new disclosure on how Dillinger helped his friends to shoot their way out of the Michigan City prison last September was made yesterday by Gov. Paul V. McNutt in Indianapolis, it was reported. According to the governor, guns used by the convicts were smuggled into the prison for $1,000 each, or a total of $8,000. How or when the weapons were smuggled and who paid and received the money the governor would not say. The evidence, he said, would be presented to the grand jury in proper time.

FREE SUBURBAN POLICE CHIEF IN MYSTERY CASE

After being held in custody since early Friday morning, Chief of Police Joseph Vyskocil, the "one man force" of Forest View, was released at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the state's attorney's office after a writ of habeas corpus had been filed in his behalf before Chief Justice Finnegan in the Criminal court.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan gave no explanation of Chief Vyskocil's arrest, but said investigators were convinced that Chief Vyskocil, who was seized in his home early Friday morning, had no connection with the mysterious case which they were investigating. It was rumored at the Criminal court building that the inquiry had to do with a man who was convicted as a robber two weeks ago. According to this report, the man who was convicted is innocent and the real bandit is still at large.

Forest view is a small village near Stickney, and once was regarded as headquarters of Ralph Capone.

STUDENTS RIOT IN MEXICO AGAINST SEX EDUCATION

MEXICO CITY, April 7.—(AP)—More than 20 persons, including a woman and the rector of the University of Mexico, Manuel Gomes Morin, were injured today in a clash between university students, and police and firemen. The rioting grew out of a demonstration of the students against the proposed establishment of compulsory sexual education in the public schools.

Mothers of school children, carrying banners inscribed "Down with Minister of Education Narcisso Bassols" and "We appeal to heaven against the debasement of our youth," started the protest meeting near the ministry of education and the university. Medical and law students joined in.

Eighteen of the wounded were police and firemen hit by stones thrown from the roof of the law school building, from which several shots also were fired, and the others hurt were mostly spectators.

MYSTERY LIGHT IN WOMAN'S BREAST BAFFLES MEDICS

TRIESTE, Italy, April 7.—(AP)—Doctors from all parts of Italy came here today to see, and wonder at, a strange light emanating from the breast of Anna Monaro, a patient in the Pirano hospital.

Doctor Sambro, head of the institution, ordered the isolation of the woman for a careful examination. He said hospital authorities had excluded the possibility of a hoax. They thoroughly searched her bed to forestall an attempt to hide a flashlight there.

Signora Monaro had remained in ignorance regarding the tremendous stir created throughout Italy by the phenomenon. When a daughter told her about it today she was greatly troubled and said her sleep had been disturbed recently.

Four doctors and two government officials, who were among those watching the patient last night, corroborated nurses' statements that the light, like an electric flash, glowed for about three seconds and then disappeared.

Diseases of Women

AS SHORT a time as twenty-five years ago a frank discussion of the diseases peculiar to women was strictly taboo. The lives of countless women were sacrificed because of prudery and false modesty. Today we smile at such old-fashioned ideas, and women and men are healthier and happier as a result. We have learned that the more we know about the diseases which afflict us the sooner we will seek proper medical protection against them.

There are three major problems in diseases of women which physicians today are attempting to solve. These conditions are cancer, maternal mortality, and sterility.

The most serious of these, and one which is quite frequent, is carcinoma (cancer) of the uterus. Cancer ranks second among the causes of death in America, and according to eminent medical authority has increased more than 50% during the past seven years.

Of cancers in women more than 25% are in the genital organs; and 80% of these are in the cervix uteri (neck of the womb), where it can be diagnosed easily by proper examination.

The nearest solution to this problem is early diagnosis and proper treatment. Cancer rarely develops on a woman's face, simply because she seeks medical attention at the first sign of a skin blemish which would mar her appearance.

By practicing the same caution at the first sign of a disturbance in the female organs, years of unnecessary suffering and even untimely death may be prevented. The early diagnosis of cancer is made possible by means of the Colposcope, an instrument which greatly magnifies the cervix, in conjunction with the Schiller test. This test consists of a dye which, when applied to the cervix, does not stain cancerous tissue. Symptoms such as leukorrhea (whites), bloody discharge, irregular bleeding or menstruation and pain in the lower abdomen may indicate a beginning cancerous condition and should have medical attention without delay.

A Persistent Discharge Is Not Normal and Should Receive Early Medical Attention

Not all symptoms and abnormal conditions indicate the presence of cancer, but because of its dangerous possibilities prompt medical attention for all functional disorders is advocated.

In order to make an early diagnosis, a complete and thorough examination should be made, especially in child-bearing women and women past forty years of age, at least once every year, or whenever any functional disorders or alarming symptoms develop.

Maternal Mortality in childbirth is another important problem in gynecology which, according to extensive investigation, may be due largely to inadequate pre-natal care. Experience has proven that prospective mothers who receive medical supervision and care during the full term of pregnancy experience, as a rule, less trouble at delivery, and usually give birth to normal healthy children.

Sterility is another tragic event in women's lives, and is frequently caused by infection which has been allowed to develop through lack of proper diagnosis and effective medical treatment. Venereal disease, particularly gonorrhea, is often a contributing cause. In such cases prompt medical attention is imperative.

Women also are subject to urological complications, disorders of the urinary tract, which often require special cystoscopic and urethroscopic examination and study in order to make a thorough and accurate diagnosis. Symptoms are frequent urinations and night urinations, often accompanied by burning and other discomforts. It is highly important that these ailments receive prompt medical attention, as serious results may follow if neglected.

DENIES UNIONS' PLEA TO THWART STATE RESTRAINT

Judge Holds Freedom of Assembly Is Limited.

Holding that the right of assembly is subject to the necessities of governmental regulation, Judge Denis E. Sullivan, acting chief justice of the Superior court, yesterday denied the petition for an injunction sought by 18 locals of the Chicago Teamsters and Chauffeurs union in an attempt to restrain the police and State's Attorney Courtney from interfering with their meetings.

The unions charged that the state's attorney, Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman entered into a conspiracy to deprive the union members of their rights as citizens by causing the unlawful arrest of union officials and preventing them from holding meetings.

Accusations were made during the hearing of testimony that the state's attorney sought to force the union locals to become members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Suit Filed in June, 1933.

The suit was filed by the "outlaw" unions in June, 1933, and after a preliminary hearing Judge Sullivan denied a petition for a temporary restraining order against the city and state officials. A full hearing of the matter was then held before Master in Chancery Sidney Pollack. This hearing continued for eight months and the testimony filled 3,000 pages of transcript.

Last February the master filed his report and recommended that the injunction be denied and the bill dismissed for want of equity because of lack of evidence of conspiracy on the part of the defendants.

In upholding the findings of the master, Judge Sullivan reviewed the case and pointed out that the defendants had made answering charges that at least four of the local unions had among their members hoodlums, racketeers, and kidnapers. The defendants further declared that some of the unions were engaged in "holding up" employers of labor by threats of strikes and interference.

It was their duty, the defendants asserted, to prevent and suppress crime. They contended that their actions in connection with the unions were taken to preserve order.

Statement by Judge.

"It is claimed on behalf of the complainants that as citizens they have the right to peaceably assemble and to conduct their business in lawful manner, free from interference by the defendants," Judge Sullivan observed.

"In the present highly developed state of society it can be said that no man has an unrestricted right to do as he pleases. His status, which we are sometimes pleased to call his right, is always subject to the necessities of governmental regulation, or what is termed the police power of the state.

"While ordinarily in this state unions have the right to peaceably meet for their own good, engage in collective bargaining, strike if they wish for any reason or no reason, yet the sober thought, even among the most earnest advocates of organized labor, is that this so-called right should not be used arbitrarily by those employés of the city protected by civil service law and who must perform service upon which depends the health, welfare, and safety of a great cosmopolitan city.

"Doubtless it was the state of the public safety which aroused the defendants to feel as though they were engaged in a contest which seriously involved the future health and welfare of millions of people."

LENIN'S PAINTED FACE GETS IN ROCKEFELLER CENTER AFTER ALL

New York, April 7.—(AP)—The painted face of Lenin has landed in Rockefeller center after all, and, far from being upset about it, everybody concerned seemed rather pleased today.

Because officials of the center destroyed Diego Rivera's mural with its head of Lenin, the Society of Independent Artists declined to hold its annual free for all at Rockefeller center. Whereupon Rockefeller center organized a rival no-jury show.

They will get the drop on their rivals, moreover, by opening first. The Rockefeller center affair, under the auspices of the Salons of America, will open Monday night.

And on Friday the independents, in their most independent mood, will open their annual shindig at Grand Central palace.

ROBBER IS SHOT BY POLICEMAN IN LIQUOR STORE

A bandit was shot last night and his two friends were seized after an attempted robbery in the Congress Wine and Liquor house at 2123 Milwaukee avenue. The wounded man was William Bogorzelec, 23 years old, 5423 Lynch avenue. Those arrested were Charles Frederick, 21, of 5327 Lynch avenue, and Steve Kolak, 18, of 5425 North Lotus avenue.

Policeman Joseph Sergott of the Shakespeare avenue station spoiled the robbery scheme. Off duty, he was in the liquor shop which is operated by his sister, Mrs. Tessie Jakubiec, and her husband, Albert. While he was in a rear room he saw three youths inspect the liquor supplies and leave. He suspected they would return.

A few minutes later Bogorzelec reentered the store, walked up to Policeman Sergott, who was in civilian clothes, and put a gun to his back. Sergott persuaded him to lower his gun. As Bogorzelec did so, Sergott drew his own revolver, and in the struggle which followed, he shot Bogorzelec in the abdomen. Later Frederick was seized outside the store. He was carrying a wooden pistol. A few minutes later Sergt. Walter Bailey arrested Kolak at California and Milwaukee avenues.

TWO CONVICTED FOR SPEED TRAP IN NILES CENTER

A verdict of guilty was returned yesterday afternoon by a jury against Tad Groark, former chief of police of Niles Center, and Capt. Robert Bowman, suspended police officer of the suburb, on charges of conspiracy to defraud by accepting bribes from motorists. They face jail sentences of from one day to one year and fines of from $1 to $2,000 if their motion for a new trial is overruled April 14.

The case was given to the jury by Judge Daniel P. Trude in the Criminal court at 1:20 o'clock, and the verdict was reached at 3 o'clock. The jury chose the less severe of the verdict forms, rejecting a felony count carrying a penitentiary sentence of from one to five years.

In his closing argument Assistant State's Attorney Frank Donoghue declared the practice of fixing tickets for money is a growing menace to the community. He asked the jurors to distinguish between the fixing of tickets as a personal or political favor, and the same act impelled by mercenary motives.

Both defendants, under examination by their counsel, James M. Burke and George Crane, testified they had let motorists off without taking them to court, but denied taking any money. However, 11 witnesses told of paying Groark and Bowman sums ranging from $1.65 to $5 to avoid prosecution for motor law violations. Some of the complaining witnesses said the payments were on an instalment basis.

CHEMIST'S SUITS AGAINST DOUG JR. ARE DISMISSED

Los Angeles, Cal., April 7.—(AP)—Through his lawyer and without explanation, Jorgen Dietz, young chemist, has caused to be dismissed the two suits he filed against Douglas Fairbanks Jr., movie actor and former husband of Actress Joan Crawford, causing a sensation here more than a year ago.

The dismissals were disclosed by court records today.

Asking $50,000 damages, one complaint charged young Fairbanks with alienating the affections of Dietz' former wife, Solveig, erstwhile Hollywood scenario writer. In the other case, Dietz accused Fairbanks of causing him to be detained and questioned by the district attorney on a false charge of extortion, and sought $20,000 damages.

Fairbanks, in answers filed in both cases, charged there was a conspiracy to extort money from him. He said he planned to fight the suits in court.

RAIL PRESIDENT KILLS HIS WIFE IN CLEANING GUN

Peoria, Ill., April 7.—(AP)—E. I. Rogers, 57 years old, Peoria business man and sportsman, shot and killed his wife, Ethel, apparently in an accident today in the basement of their home while he was cleaning a shotgun.

Mr. Rogers is president of the Peoria and Pekin Union railroad, a transfer line, and of the Peoria Association of Commerce.

Mr. Rogers first reported the accident to a neighbor, R. F. Palmblade, general manager of the Illinois Power and Light company. Mr. Palmblade called an ambulance and took Rogers to police headquarters.

State's Attorney E. V. Champion and Chief of Police Walter Williams questioned Rogers and then released him. They said they were convinced the shooting was accidental.

The story Mr. Rogers told police was that he had been cleaning an automatic shotgun in the basement of their home when his wife called and suggested that he also clean her small pearl handled revolver. She brought this gun to him and then turned to leave the room.

As Mrs. Rogers was walking out of the laundry room, where the accident happened, the automatic shotgun was discharged and the charge struck Mrs. Rogers in the back, Mr. Rogers told officials.

He had placed a shell in the breach of the automatic to see if it would fit because of trouble experienced with the gun, Mr. Rogers explained.

After the accident, Mr. Rogers ran to the Palmblade home. Mrs. Rogers was taken to a hospital but apparently had been killed instantly.

The couple had no children.

THE QUESTION HAS BEEN ANSWERED

APRIL 7, 1933—QUESTION

Which Beer Will America Prefer?

APRIL 7, 1934—ANSWER

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer—America's Biggest Seller!

The average American citizen is more than mildly interested in the new history of beer. It is a history that he is making.

He is interested in a larger sense because the floodgates of beer were lifted as a measure of social and economic well-being by his own suffrage. He is interested more intimately because of his own loyalties to a brand or to brands of beer.

On April 7, 1933, when beer was legalized, many brands, old and new, appeared on the market. A natural curiosity led the American public to try one brand after the other in search of the one beer that measured up to individual expectations. Often then, the question was heard, "Which is THE beer?"

The first year of beer under the new deal ended yesterday. In that time definite preferences were clearly revealed. The question has been answered. Pabst Blue Ribbon has outsold any other brand of beer, and has established itself as America's first choice.

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is America's Biggest Seller.

It is only natural that you should want to know why. The complete answer may be condensed in the single word Quality. The complete answer may be found in a single glass of Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer.

From the very purchase and preparation of the grains, from the very selection and blending of hops, down to the final lagering, every step in the process of brewing Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is attended with consummate care and scientific precision. The elements of time and temperature are regulated with unerring accuracy. Repeated chemical analyses insure a pure and wholesome product.

Truly, quality is the reward of such constant vigilance, and leadership is the reward of quality.

We pledge ourselves anew to maintain those standards of quality which have made Pabst Blue Ribbon the favorite beer of America. We are deeply sensible of the public's response to quality, and of the great obligation placed upon us to carry on in the same tradition.

SEEK RECEIVER FOR $10,000,000 EDW. HINES TRUST

Trustees Accused; Their Ouster Sought.

A suit asking an accounting and the appointment of a receiver of a trust of more than $10,000,000, established in 1914 by the late Edward Hines, lumber king and founder of the Edward Hines Memorial hospital, was filed in the Circuit court yesterday.

The suit charges that the huge fund was mismanaged and that more than $6,000,000 was wrongfully diverted by the trustees to Mr. Hines' widow, Mrs. Loretta A. Hines, and their three children. The removal of the trustees, of whom ther are five, is asked. In addition it is asked that they be held individually liable for the alleged wrongful disbursements.

Plaintiffs in Suit.

The suit was filed in behalf of Mr. Hines' sister, Mrs. Agnes Hines Burns, 17 East Division street, and three children of a second sister, Mrs. Rose Hines Purcell, who is dead. The three children are Catherine, Loretta, and Ted Edward Purcell.

The suit apparently came as a surprise to the trustees, and they indicated that they would combat it strongly and quickly. In a statement last night, Charles Hines, one of the trustees, said:

"My whole knowledge of the bill comes from articles in the papers. The charge that funds or securities in the Loretta Hines trust have been misappropriated is entirely without foundation. Our reply will be made by counsel in due course."

The provision of the trust on which the suit is based concerns the establishment of a second trust with the earnings of the original fund when they reached $500,000. This trust was to be divided into five parts. Among the beneficiaries of this trust were to be Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Purcell, whose share was inherited by her children, and two other sisters of Mr. Hines, Mrs. Mary H. Sattler and Mrs. Millicent H. Clubine. The fifth part was to be divided equally between a niece and nephew of the lumberman, Hazel and Trude Wiehe.

Charges in the Suit.

In 1921 the suit charges the trustees informed Mrs. Burns that the $500,000 trust had been established with 5,000 shares of stock in the Edward Hines Lumber company. Mrs. Burns subsequently accepted 1,000 shares of the stock as her portion of the estate, as did the children of Mrs. Purcell.

The complainants contend that since 1921 they have not been properly informed concerning the status of the original trust or the second one. It is charged that between 1921 and 1933 the trustees wrongfully diverted to the widow, her two sons, and a daughter, Mrs. Loretta Hines Howard, cash and property valued at $6,603,047.

The complainants further charge that the trust established in 1921, supposedly with earnings of $500,000, was not worth that sum because the 5,000 shares of stock of which it was composed did not have a total market value of $500,000. They assert that the trustees should have purchased the more valuable stock of two subsidiaries of the Hines company, the Edward Hines Yellow Pine Trustees and the Trustees of the Lumber Investment association.

BERLIN, April 7.—Gen. Karl von Einem, Germany's greatest advocate of military prepardness and one of the nation's distinguished commanders in the world war, died in Muelheim, on the Ruhr river, today. He was 81 years old.

As commander of the 3rd German army his forces repeatedly engaged American forces in pitched battles, especially in the fall of 1918 when he interrupted the American advance. The fiercest battles between Gen. von Einem's army and the American 2d and 36th divisions were waged in Champagne, Oct. 2 to 10.

As Prussian minister of war from 1903 until 1909, Gen. von Einem enforced a strict modernization program. He equipped the German army with new rifles, new field gray uniforms, new service manual and the 18 inch howitzers which, in 1914, smashed the Belgian fortresses. Von Einem resigned from the war ministry when the reichstag refused appropriations for further modernization of the army.

The general was an ardent monarchist. He frequently visited former Kaiser Wilhelm at Doorn. Despite his monarchist tendencies, the Nazi press today paid homage to the soldier as one of Germany's ablest generals. The government has ordered a military funeral in his home town of Muenster.

NATHAN MACKAY RITES TUESDAY IN GRACELAND

MacKay varied the spelling of his father's name, the late James R. McKay, pioneer Chicagoan, who was one of the founders of the Chicago club. MacKay is survived by a brother, Robert M. MacKay of Paris, France, and a sister, Mrs. Marion M. Le Roy of the Ambassador hotel. The body has been kept in a vault at the cemetery awaiting the services, which were delayed to permit members of the family who were in separate parts of the world to gather. His father, 87 years old when he died in 1927, left an estate of $600,000.

Finds "Political Meetings" Were with Other Women

When John Sindlar spent his evenings away from home he explained to his wife that he had to attend political meetings. On several occasions the wife, Mrs. Emma Sindlar, who lives on Stanley avenue in Riverside, followed him and discovered that the meetings were with other women. Mrs. Sindlar made these charges yesterday in a bill for separate maintenance filed in the Superior court through Attorney Norman Becker. Judge Walter J. La Buy issued an injunction restraining Sindlar from molesting his wife. They were married in 1907 and separated last Friday.

DR. WILLIAM WELCH, 'DEAN OF MEDICINE,' 84 YEARS OLD TODAY

Baltimore, Md., April 7.—(AP)—No formal celebration marked the fiftieth anniversary today of Dr. William H. Welch's association with the Johns Hopkins Medical school. And none tomorrow will commemorate his 84th birthday.

The "dean of American medicine" was a patient at the Johns Hopkins hospital and practically no visitors were allowed to call on him. He has been a patient at the hospital for several months.

Resolutions expressing appreciation of his distinguished career in the Hopkins' faculty were prepared by the medical board of the hospital and by the trustees of the hospital and the university.

Shortly before his retirement from the faculty three years ago he was quoted as saying:

"I live from hand to mouth and from day to day; always have. I think little about the past or about the future. I live in today."

Ships Sought to Defend German Borders.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 7.—Germany wants a military airfleet of 2,800 planes, according to the Voelkische Beobachter, official organ of the Nazi party.

Discussing Air Minister Goering's recent demand for an air fleet aggregating 40 per cent of the combined fleets of her neighbors, this paper writes: "France has approximately 4,550 military airplanes. Poland has an air fleet of 1,000 planes. Czechoslovakia has 700, and Belgium 500. Without taking 3,000 reserve machines into consideration, these countries dispose of a combined airfleet of close to 7,000."

These figures are admitted by the countries themselves, the Voelkische Beobachter asserts, adding that the actual figures are probably higher.

Forty per cent of the combined air fleets—or approximately 2,800 military airplanes—is the absolute minimum required by Germany to protect her open frontiers, the Voelkische Beobachter says. In this connection it is stressed that every third German lives in cities with more than 100,000 inhabitants, which are especially exposed to the dangers of air attacks.

Defensive Planes.

The future German air fleet is to consist mainly of fighting planes whose defensive character is stressed in comparison with the great number of heavy bombers maintained by France.

Complaining bitterly that Germany is even forbidden anti-aircraft guns, the Voelkische Beobachter writes: "Every child can grasp the purely defensive character of these weapons. Air Minister Goering is only demanding for Germany the right of self defense which is granted to every state in the world."

While the German air ministry is eagerly awaiting an international convention permitting Germany to maintain military aircraft, the German Air Defense league, under its president, Maj. Gen. Grimme, is making all efforts to incorporate almost the entire population into a huge defense organization against attacks from the air.

National Organization.

A badge has made its appearance on numerous entrance doors of German flats and houses bearing the inscription: "I am a member of the Air Protection league. Why aren't you, too?"

The badge depicts a naked kneeling youth, with bow and arrow, aiming at flying birds. Every one of the four million inscribed members of the Nazi party must be a member of the Air Protection league. Instruction in air defense is compulsory for every member of the Hitler youth embracing 5 million boys. Orders were issued by the Prussian minister of culture that instructions in air defense be included in the school curriculum. The Red Cross, under its new Nazi president, the duke of Saxe-Coburg, is conducting air defense courses for doctors and ambulance men. Even the church has been called upon to help make the country safe against air raids. The Supreme Church Council of Baden has issued orders to the clergymen in its district to attend air defense lectures and courses.

One of the most effective means of propaganda of the Air Protection league are huge models of air bombs, erected on numerous street corners of Germany's large cities. Thirty pfenning [about 12 cents] in the slot will produce out of the bomb the Sirene, the official organ of the league. It runs a regular column "We Listen In," giving the latest news about the air armaments of other countries, while Germany's defenselessness in the air is stressed in every article and news item.

German Air Week.

Parallel with the Air Protection league, the German Air Sports federation is busily active increasing the air mindedness of the German people and—to quote Air Minister Goering—to convert them into "a nation of flyers." Under its president, the former war ace Capt. Bruno Loerzer, Germany's youths are examined as to their physical fitness as pilots. Theoretical instruction in flying begins at the age of 12, motorless flying at 16. The members of the federation are dressed in smart bluish grey uniforms, similar to those worn by the Italian air force.

In a further effort to popularize flying a German Air week has been scheduled for June 1 to 8. One of the main features will be a round Germany cruise by the airship Graf Zeppelin. As a special stunt a glider will take off and land on the flying airship.

The German Lufthansa, which has the monopoly for commercial aviation in Germany, is at present busy replacing its obsolete machines with up to date models. All Hansa planes, except the Junkers 52 and Heinkel 70, are to be scrapped.

PROFESSOR KILLED WITH PREXY IN AUTO; WIDOW SUES ESTATE

Rockford, Ill., April 7.—[Special.]—Charging that Dr. William A. Maddox, former president of Rockford college, "wilfully, wantonly and recklessly" drove the car in which he and her husband met death last summer when they were struck by a train, Mrs. Kaethe Willgeroth today filed a suit for $10,000 damages in Circuit court here today against the Maddox estate.

Mrs. Willgeroth is the widow of the late Prof. Alfred O. Willgeroth, former director of music at the college. She says in the bill of complaint that she and her six year old son were left without means of support.

She already has filed in federal court in Freeport a $10,000 damage suit against the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railway on the grounds that they did not take steps to protect motorists properly at the grade crossing where her husband and Dr. Maddox were killed.

IRA BIFFLE, ONCE LINDY'S TUTOR, IS HEART VICTIM

Prominent Flyers to Attend Rites.

Ira Biffle, one of the oldest aviation instructors in the country in point of service, and whose former pupils included Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and other prominent flyers, died yesterday afternoon at the Wesley Memorial hospital. Biffle, who was 44 years old, had been suffering from a heart ailment for some time.

Conscious to the last moment, the veteran pilot's final words were: "I'm afraid I can't make it." During the weeks he was visited by friends at the hospital he reminisced of his 20 years in aviation. He flew as a pilot in the army air corps in 1914, and later served as an instructor on the army field at San Diego. He was forced out of aviation by failing eyesight in 1930.

Biffle said he first knew Lindbergh in 1922. He was a pilot for the government at Lincoln, Neb., and Lindbergh impressed him with his desire to learn to fly. Biffle said after six hours of instruction the future idol of the air made his first solo flight. Lindbergh contributed $50 to the fund raised to transfer Biffle to the private hospital.

Surviving is the widow, Alice. There were no children.

David Behncke, president of the Air Line Pilots' association, announced last night that services probably will be held Tuesday afternoon at a chapel at 316 West 63d street.

Several noted flyers, including Jack Knight, Clyde Holbrook, and E. Hamilton Lee are going to attend, Behncke said.

GERMAN URGES EUROPE TO ADOPT WHEAT STANDARD

Reject Rice to Restore Economy, He Pleads.

BERLIN, April 7.—(AP)—To the peasantry of Germany and her neighbor states has been entrusted the mission of bringing European economy back to normal, in the opinion of Hans Ernst Winter, German argricultural expert.

Two groups, rice vendors and wheat vendors, are fighting for supremacy in the world, Winter asserted today in a newspaper article.

"There is but one solution," he concluded, "namely, an improvement in the standard of living, which means raising the wheat and the unequivocal rejection of the rice standard; in other words, a return of the European economy to the peasantry as a basis for the retention of the European peasant's position and also in its outposts in the rest of the world."

Opposes Liberalistic Theory.

Winter, the right hand man in Agriculture Minister Walter Darre's negotiation of agricultural agreements, claimed the liberalistic principle that one should buy where one could buy most cheaply is all wrong.

"This doctrine," he asserted, "has brought about a situation wherein it arbitrarily determines production."

The result of this position, according to Winter, is that countries with low living standards, after purloining all they can from their European and Anglo-Saxon masters, are now threatening Europe and in the wider sense white civilization with economic ruin.

In other words, he contended, if the nations insist on buying from some countries which are "on the rice standard" merely because the price is cheap, they are digging their own graves economically.

"Peasantry Best Starting Point."

The expert believes the French and German peasantry provides the best starting point for a general raising of the standard of living in Europe, for both France and Germany have a highly developed peasantry, a highly developed working class, and a daring class of captains of industry.

"Only the peasantry can raise their living standard both economically and culturally," he wrote, "hence there is but one conclusion:

"It is equally certain that the task of the United States and Great Britain consists of defending abroad the position of the white man, the wheat standard, the European standard of living, and European culture."

MINISTER FINDS CANNIBALISM IN NORTH CANADA

HALIFAX, N. S., April 7.—(AP)—Because caribou are disappearing, Indians and Eskimos in the northland are dying and there are a great many cases of actual cannibalism, according to the Rev. W. G. Walton, who arrived today from Toronto.

Known across Canada as "Reindeer Walton," the minister was for 32 years the sole missionary and medical worker in the Ungava district, east of Hudson Bay.

He won his sobriquet because after appealing 12 years he succeeded in influencing the Canadian government in a plan to populate the north country with reindeer.

Bandit Poses as Renter; Robs Woman of $340

Mrs. Celia Pyes, manager of an apartment building at 2122 North Kedzie avenue, was approached by a polite young man yesterday afternoon. He was, the young man said, a prospective tenant, who desired to inspect vacant apartments. After she had obtained her keys from a closet, Mrs. Pyes found herself staring into the muzzle of a revolver. She gave the robber $90 of her own money and $250 belonging to the building owners. He thanked her and walked away.

WESTERN CANADA BOOMS; BIG GOLD RUSH UNDER WAY

Rediscover Lost Mine in Northern Wilds.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 7.—(AP)—A gold rush in the best traditions of the old days, but with methods and conveyances undreamed of by the sturdy '49ers, is on in western Canada.

From the tip of the Yukon to the Ontario-Manitoba boundary line mining camps teem with activity as picturesque "pick and shovel" men follow close upon disappearing snows to search for treasure that lay hidden when they blindly staked their claims.

From Iland lake, whose arm crosses from Manitoba into northwestern Ontario, to the McLeod river district of northern Alberta, gold discoveries, it is believed, may be linked up to give Canada a glacier gold mining zone, extending over 100,000 acres.

Rediscovers Lost Mine.

Regarded as one of the most important finds in the wide arc of exploration, the rediscovery of the lost McLeod mine, in the mysterious Nahanni country of the northwest territories, holds out a golden lure.

Claims have been staked for miles along the shore line of the creek, called the "back door to the Yukon," mother of the west's storied finds.

The rise of quotations for precious metals has provided the incentive to prod placer and hard rock mining. Discarded sluice boxes have been resurrected in a new drive for a new Klondike.

Old Towns Boom Again.

Old mining settlements in the Caribou country in British Columbia, which in the 90's buzzed with activity and then faded into obscurity when gold gave out, are swarming with prospectors.

New finds, and new methods, unknown to those who followed the trail of '98, are producing results and there is a steady stream of gold into the assayer's office.

Australians, Californians and grizzled prospectors from Nevada are in the vanguard of a rush that has reawakened the ghost town of Barkerville and extended into the country north of Quesnel and Williams lake.

Rivers Are Productive.

Far to the east, in Saskatchewan, claims stretch out into the Beaver lake and Douglas lake areas, near the Manitoba boundary. Quartz has been uncovered on a group of new discoveries ranging from $20 to $35 per ton. The district is said to be one of the major geological finds in years.

Old river courses are proving to be most promising ground for the prospector in Alberta and Saskatchewan. Old channels have been discovered in creek and river bottom diggings that have been found to be productive.

At Prince Albert, in the north, airplanes will be used to fly mining parties into the Lac La Ronge area, 150 air miles north and scene of a miniature gold rush two decades ago.

Also Hunt Radium.

The era of the tractor and the airplane has stirred the imagination of mining men of Manitoba. New discoveries at Island lake, Elk iland and God's lake, prospectors believe, will prove important additions to the already known gold bearing sections of the province.

Disappearance of heavy snow and cold weather in the Great Bear lake country of northern Alberta has given the flying prospector an opportunity to take stock of new radium ore finds.

Recent finds at Hottah, 125 miles south of Pitchblende fields discovered three years ago by Gilbert Labine, may indicate this field has possibilities.

Several outfits are trekking into this area, some by air from the south and others by the more laborious method of overland travel from the Pacific coast.

FLYERS SAVE 5 OF 89 CASTAWAYS ON FLOATING ICE

Two Russian Planes Pick Up Weakest of Party.

MOSCOW, April 7.—(AP)—Russian aviators today rescued five members of a group of 89 who have been adrift since Feb. 15 on the Arctic ice pack off Siberia.

The flyers Kamanin and Molokoff hopped to the floating ice camp of the castaways from Cape Van Karem, Siberia, and returned to the latter place with those believed the weakest of the party.

Although the government rescue commission's official announcement gave only these details, it was assumed the aviators made the flight in separate planes, possibly alighting simultaneously on two landing fields which earlier reports said the marooned men had cleared near their camp.

Identity Not Revealed.

The identity of those taken off was not given, but the castaways some time ago drew up an order of departure when rescue was effected.

Eighty-three men now remain on the ice, the aviator Babushkin, who had been a member of the party, having made his way to the mainland after ten women and two children were saved by the flyer Liapidevsky.

The Russians have been marooned on the floe since their boat, the Cheliuskin, was crushed by ice and sank on a return trip from Wrangel iland.

Damages Plane in Landing.

A later report said Pilot M. T. Sletneff also flew today to the ice pack from Cape Elgin, Siberia, but damaged the fuselage of his plane in landing and was therefore unable to make a return trip with the other two aviators.

Sletneff, however, expected to repair his machine and take off for Cape Van Karem tomorrow with others of the stranded men.

If weather permits, Kamanin and Molokoff intend to make a second rescue flight tomorrow, the rescue commission reported.

The position of the castaways' retreat was given tonight as 68.20 north latitude and 173.04 west longitude.

FRANCE YIELDS TO NAZI DEMAND FOR MORE GUNS

Paris and London Agree to Call New Parley.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 7.—The first formal step towards winding up the old disarmament conference and organizing the new conference, which will attempt to stabilize armaments at existing levels, was taken today during a conference between Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, and Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, president of the disarmament conference.

A communique issued by the French foreign office following the long conversation between the two men indicates they are in agreement to convoke the general commission of the conference on May 23. It is understood a formal move in this direction will be made at the steering committee meeting in Geneva next Thursday. This preliminary session will otherwise be of no importance.

French Seek to Limit Arms.

Setting the definite date for the general commission meeting is interpreted here as meaning the French have completely reconciled themselves to Germany's rearmament and intend to close their eyes to violation of the treaty of Versailles providing other powers undertake to see that it goes no further.

The French accordingly will call on the general commission to declare that German rearmament had rendered it impossible for the former allied powers to carry out the Versailles pledge to reduce armaments. They also will recommend that since this is the case the powers represented in the conference endeavor to draft a convention limiting armaments to the existing levels.

Such a decision by the steering committee, which would release the French from all moral obligation to disarm, has not yet been accepted by the British, who still hope to combine a little German rearmament with a little French disarmament. Nevertheless unless the French are persuaded to completely reverse their stand it is hard to see how the general commission can take any other action. For this reason observers here consider that in getting Henderson to agree to convoke the general commission May 23 the French aim to force the British hand.

Paris Is Optimistic.

Due to Henderson's talk with Barthou this morning and Barthou's conversation with Lord Tyrrell, British ambassador, yesterday afternoon and other factors official optimism is flourishing in Most European chancelleries this week-end and especially in Paris.

Despite numerous disappointments to international hopes that the disarmament conference has occasioned there seems to be a sincere belief in French circles now that the diplomatic fog overhanging the continent finally is beginning to lift.

Many think it is plausible that an European accord is actually looming close at hand now that the Geneva conference is ready to reorganize on a new basis.

May Talk with Hitler.

Symptomatic of the new spirit prevailing is the report in the French press this afternoon that Barthou may go to Berlin soon to talk with Chancellor Hitler.

In reviewing developments of the last few weeks, a highly placed French spokesman declared that a sensational evolution of both British and French foreign policies had taken place without the world appreciating its importance. Great Britain, this official says, had renounced its historic policy of isolation and France is ready to renounce its no less historic policy of insisting on personal security.

All France asks now, this informant said, is guarantees of execution in an eventual limitation convention. She no longer makes the convention conditional on the pact guaranteeing the territorial status quo in Europe.

From the United States, the French spokesman declared, all France expects is that America should not interfere in case sanctions are taken against any violator of the pact—in other words, to abandon neutral shipping rights and consult for maintenance of peace.

FRENCH PREMIER WINS FIGHT OVER STATE PAY CUTS

Workers Decide Not to Call a Strike.

PARIS, April 7.—(AP)—Premier Gaston Doumergue won a smashing victory tonight when government workers decided not to call a strike in protest against pay cuts.

Both the central committee of the workers and the council of the federation of labor ended their special conferences on the government's economy program without positive action on a walkout which had been threatened for several days.

The federation's counsel adopted a wide industrial program calling for a reduction of hours and the nationalization of the credit control banks, but carefully kept out of the pay cut fight.

Merely Protest Reductions.

The workers' committee approved a resolution which merely protested the reductions in salaries and also demanded punishment for tax dodgers.

However, the committee left the matter of a strike pending for the time being until the desires of all the government functionaries can be ascertained. The committee requested full authority "to take whatever action" may be necessary.

The communists, meanwhile, are proceeding with plans to call a strike on May Day. Agitation has already started in the public services with partial spontaneous strikes of several hours in telegraph bureaus today.

Telegraph service from the main Paris bureau was tied up for several hours. Workers were about to be relieved at noon when they barricaded doors and kept the relief crew in the street, yelling all the while and singing the Internationale.

Premier Criticizes Workers.

Meanwhile, Doumergue firmly told a grumbling delegation of functionaries: "The interests of France must come before the interests of different classes of citizens."

Under the government's recent economy decrees ten per cent of the 800,000 government workers were discharged and the pay of others was cut five to ten per cent.

Leon Jouhaux, head of the French Federation of Labor, told workers at today's meeting:

"President Roosevelt's policies brought order out of chaos; while the United States is showing a tendency to the upgrade France is sinking deeper and deeper into a morass of misery which threatens to cause further and more serious trouble."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 7.—Some mystery surrounds a story published here today that the de Valera government had prohibited the Abbey Theater company of Dublin from taking on their next American tour J. M. Synge's "Playboy of the Western World," or Sean O'Casey's "The Plough and the Stars."

Official circles refuse to comment and Lennox Robinson, one of the directors of the company, says no official communication has been received. F. Starkie, another director, assumes that the newspaper story is correct. He denounced the government's action as "high handed censorship."

The story said certain Irish people in the United States had protested to President de Valera against presentation of the plays mentioned and when a deputation of directors, including Dr. Starkie, went to de Valera for approval of the American tour, de Valera asked for a list of the plays proposed. He mentioned that certain Irish people in America objected to certain plays and that he proposed to take independent advice.

[The Abbey Theater company last came to Chicago on Feb. 26, 1933, for a short run. It was so popularly received that it extended its stay to seven weeks.]

SPANISH WOMAN FIGHTS TO KILL EQUAL SUFFRAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 7.—The paradox of a liberal republican party opposing the vote for women will be presented when the new left coalition recently organized in Spain gets under way. Even more paradoxical, the leading opponent of woman suffrage is a woman, Victoria Kent. Of Irish descent, she is the most famous woman in Spain, and is on the committee working out the coalition platform.

When the woman suffrage article of the constitution came up for passage Victoria Kent fought it bitterly. The women of Spain were not ready for the vote, she warned. She argued they would bring reactionaries to power. Miss Kent was right, for the last election swept the rightists into power and smashed the moderates and the left wingers. It turned the government over to men who have never admitted they were republicans.

Turned Out of Office.

Miss Kent, who was a deputy for Madrid province and the first woman director of prisons in Spain, was one of those turned out of office in the right landslide. She returned to her law practice and is actively planning a comeback after helping to fuse her own Radical Socialist party with other republican groups.

"The women's vote was responsible for a great part of the reaction," Miss Kent said. "They were not ready for the ballot and voted as instructed, though discreetly, by the church.

"I wanted to go slow. I recommended giving the vote first to working women and to extend it gradually to the others as they became fitted for it. The Spanish woman never left her home until a couple of years ago and she is still totally inexperienced in political affairs and often illiterate.

Voted Against Anti-Clericals.

"She was really not interested in politics, anyway, but she went to the polls and voted against the Socialists and other men she was told were anti-clericals."

Asked whether education was not rapidly preparing the women of Spain to take part in politics, Miss Kent agreed that many girls were attending universities now, but unlike men students throughout Europe they showed no interest in politics.

"In eight or ten years, perhaps, they will be ready and will have ideas that will fit them for the vote," she said. "I do not say that they ought to have my ideas, but they ought to have some ideas, at least, before being granted the franchise."

Fights to Remove Suffrage.

"Do you think you have any chance of removing woman suffrage from the constitution at present?" she was asked.

"No," Miss Kent said. "There is no hope of this kind of reform now, but I'm sure it will come."

Miss Kent admitted some kind of reaction against universal suffrage would be sought, and that she had inspired this plank in the new party platform.

CATHOLICS SET UP LEGION IN AUSTRIA TO FIGHT HITLER

VIENNA, April 7.—(AP)—A legion of German Catholics is being organized at Innsbruck, Austria, it was learned today in a move to create a base of operations for united Austro-German Catholic opposition to the Nazi régime.

The leader of the legion is Baron Vitus von Pach.

According to details available from Innsbruck today it will be a semi-military organization similar to the so-called Austrian legion built up in Germany among fugitive Nazis from Austria. The Austrian foreign office minimized the importance of the movement, saying "only a small group" is involved.

CHINESE TROOPS KILL 2,000 REDS IN 3 DAY BATTLE

FOOCHOW, China, April 7.—[U.P.]—China's intermittent civil warfare burst into bloody action today, with Nationalist government troops claiming victories over a half-starved communist army and a desperate bandit horde in separate combats.

The communists were driven from a three-day attack on the city of Kienning in Fukien province. About 2,000 were killed. The bandits, fleeing from a successful raid on the ancient walled town of Kingyu, were overtaken and routed.

The government victory at Kienning came after hard fighting as the ill-fed and ragged communists strove desperately to reach the food supplies stored in the city. Soldiers of the 4th and 88th divisions finally broke the siege and drove their weakened opponents eastward.

U.S. Couple Fail to Identify Papers in Spy Ring Probe

PARIS, April 7.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, young Americans held in connection with an alleged spy ring, declared before an investigating magistrate today that they did not recognize certain documents shown them revealing a secret poison gas process. The Switzes also told the judge they knew nothing of other papers dealing with the industrial mobilization of France. At a later hearing they will be confronted with other documents seized in police raids.

HAWKS BATTLE WINGS TONIGHT; SEEK THIRD VICTORY

CHICAGO NEEDS ONE MORE GAME IN CUP SERIES

18,000 Hocky Fans to Jam Stadium.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Blackhawks, a hocky team which for the last three weeks has been having such high sounding labels as "miracle sextet" and "team of destiny" hurled at it, tonight will resume the business of attempting to take over the Stanley cup and the world's championship when they meet the Detroit Red Wings in the third game of the annual series at the Stadium. A crowd of nearly 18,000, whose enthusiasm transcends that of any previous clientele in the history of Chicago hocky, is anticipated.

To say that the Hawks will attempt to win the time honored trophy for which big league hocky teams have been wrestling for forty-two years is to be mild. The Chicagoans began their attempting on Tuesday night at Detroit. They were successful to the extent of a 2 to 1 victory in 81 minutes of painfully discreet hocky. They had done with caution, however, Thursday night, when they crushed the Wings, 4 to 1, with a demonstration which finally convinced the rest of the league that here was the team of the year, a team which had always been known for courage and speed, which continued to play great hocky until the second game of the series, when they rose to the superb.

Detroit Fans Cheer Hawks.

Such was the hue of their performance during the entire sixty minutes of the game Thursday that even the home people, who deserve a trophy of some sort for their rabid loyalty, stood up and cheered the Hawks as they outclassed the Wings in every department of the game. It was the kind of exhibition which would make a Blackhawk fan rise and shout, "Bring on your Georges Vezinas, your Lester Patricks, your Frank Nighbors, and your Babe Dyes."

It has taken the final series between the Hawks and the Red Wings to convince Canadian and Atlantic coast rooters that they do not exercise a perpetual magic over the Stanley cup. The present competition is the first waged between two teams coming out of the central United States, two teams which fought their way through one of the wildest schedules in the history of the league. The average hocky fan becomes slightly demented when his team reaches even the first round of the Stanley cup playoffs, but the Hawk and Wing followers, particularly the latter, have gone stark mad.

Quick, a Strait-Jacket!

Detroit, which has taken its hocky [illegible] normal doses for several years, be[illegible] violent last season when the [illegible] jammed the Olympia to the [illegible] point several times. This [illegible] town went insane over the [illegible] outfit, when it became evi[illegible] the Wings would not only [illegible] to a position in the pla[illegible] also would finish in first plac[illegible] section.

Thi[illegible] became almost incurable whe[illegible] discovered that the Hawks [illegible] the Detroit team's opponent i[illegible] final, and of all things, the first two games were to be transacted at the Olympia. It looked to be a very soft touch indeed. The Wings themselves had done away with the puissant Toronto Maple Leafs, which throughout the season were generally unbeatable. To substantiate their case for the Stanley cup, there was their record against the Hawks. Had they not jinxed the Chicagoans on Detroit ice, it having been four years since the Hawks had won a game at the Olympia? Had they not whipped the Hawks four times in their games of the scheduled season, tying one and losing only one, and that at Chicago? It was all too simple.

Then—the Crash!

That is, it was all too simple until the Hawks came to Detroit. The Hawks' own record for their preceding five games apparently meant nothing to the home fans. They had merely beaten Toronto twice in four nights, beaten and tied the Canadiens, and then had entered the final round with a double victory over the Maroons. They stepped onto the ice Tuesday night, before a crowd verging on 15,000, which had bought its tickets by standing in line through the small hours after the manner of world series fans in baseball.

Something happened thereupon which caused the confident Detroit partisans to begin to doubt themselves. Within 81 minutes, they were

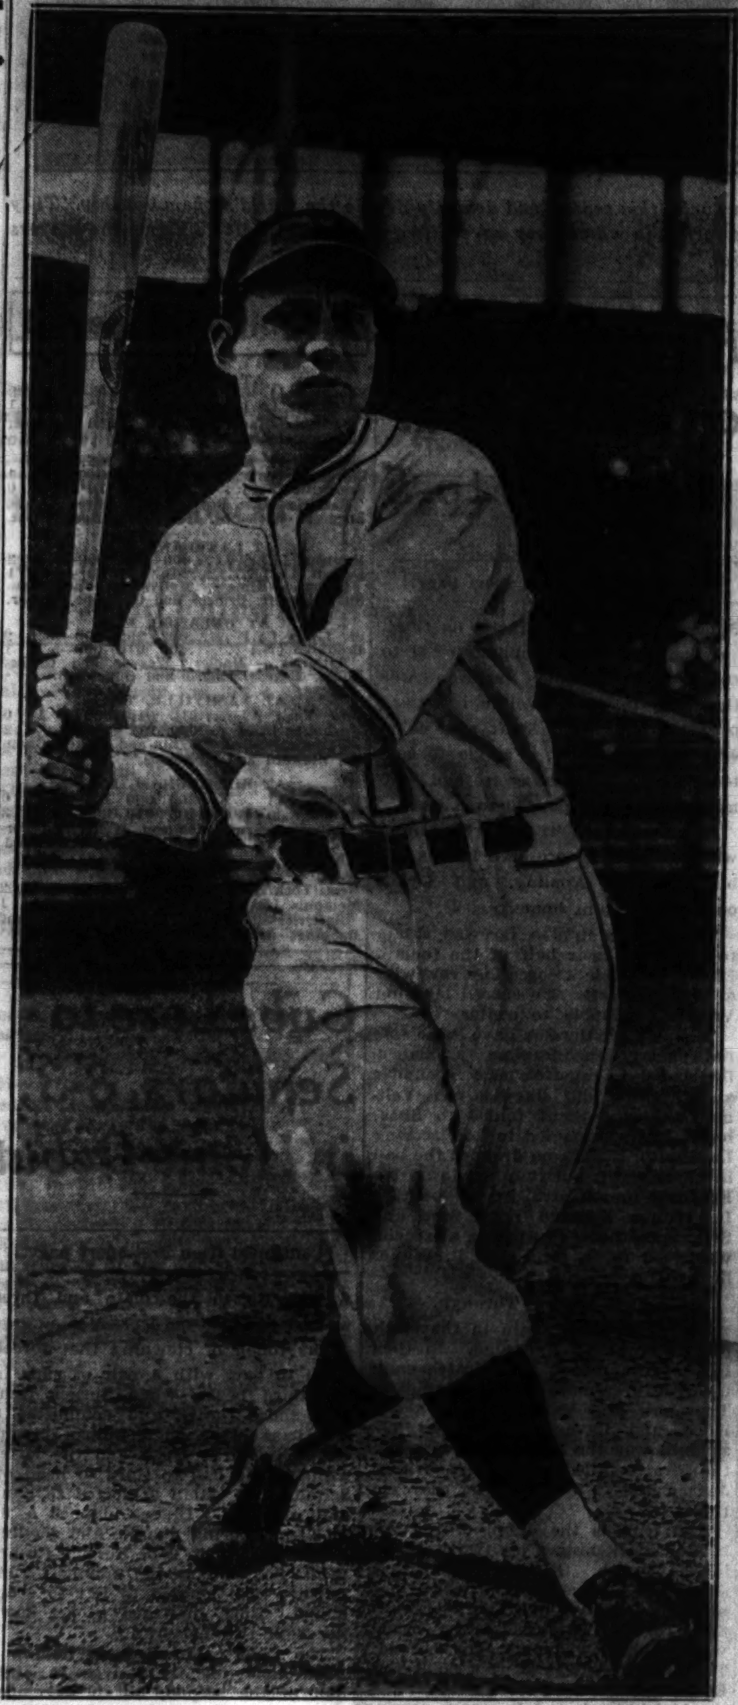
HITS ONCE AGAIN SAIL AROUND WRIGLEY FIELD



Cub fans get their first glimpse of Chuck Klein in a Chicago uniform. Klein made a single in the ninth inning yesterday as the Cubs lost to the Senators, 8 to 3.

Fred Schulte, Washington outfielder, slides safely into third base in the second inning as the ball slips out of Augie Galan's glove. Schulte had reached second base on an error, the first of two made by the Cubs in this inning. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

COCHRAN BEATS HAGENLACHER TO WIN 18.2 TITLE

Welker Cochran, former world champion, again won the 18.2 balkline billiard title in yesterday's playoff with Eric Hagenlacher when he triumphed by a score of 400 to 139. It was a record match for innings, Cochran accumulating the necessary total in 4 turns. The match was played at the 131 South Wabash Recreation.

The contest was a real exhibition of the 18.2 game, Cochran repeating history by defeating Hagenlacher. He previously had defeated the German in 1928. Hagenlacher was forced to sit in his chair while Cochran, displaying the nerve and determination typical of his previous victories, counted 217, 23, 100 and an unfinished run of 60 to clinch the international title. Cochran, by his victory, gained the 18.2 title for the second time. He also won the three cushion tournament in 1932.

German Loses 3 to Cochran.

In the round robin tournament Cochran defeated Hagenlacher in three matches, two of them scheduled games and the third the playoff yesterday. Hagenlacher won the bank and gathered in a string of 44, missing on a draw close to the side rail. Cochran got the balls grouped on the first shot and controled them until he had completed a run of 217. Occasionally Cochran resorted to the "gather" with uncanny accuracy. He missed on a three cushion shot that bumped into a kiss.

Hagenlacher Misses Masse.

In the second inning Hagenlacher was stopped by a treacherous one cushion shot after running 43. Cochran clicked off 23, missing on a draw near the foot rail. Hagenlacher could only get one in the third when he was kissed out on a long draw shot. Cochran made an even hundred in his half and missed a two cushion try.

Hagenlacher came through with 51 in the fourth and then ran into a difficult massé which he missed. Cochran ran the necessary 60 in his half to win the block and title.

Hagenlacher	44	43	1	51—139
Cochran	217	23	100	60—400

CARNERA CALLS BAER DUMBEST BOXER IN WORLD

Boston, Mass., April 7.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, en route for a hunting camp at Greenville, Me., left New York early today driving a powerful motor car. Long after sundown, nine hours after his departure, he landed in Boston, the scene of his first American defeat.

"I had three flat tires," Primo sadly moaned. "And I must now buy two new ones."

The hour was so late that most of the tire establishments were closed and Primo was in a quandary until his old pal, Jack Sharkey, from whom he won his title, came to the rescue.

Sharkey Is Suspicious.

"Come down to my tavern," Jack suggested, "and while you are drinking some fine Italian wine I have been saving for you, I will attend to the new tires."

Sharkey, who makes the New York-Boston trip, a distance of some 230 miles, in less than five hours, could not understand why Carner took nine. He looked at the champion a bit queerly, but quickly settled Primo's tire problems.

Then the champion and his predecessor, accompanied by several willing spirits, adjourned to Sharkey's back room and much gaiety ensued before Carnera's automobile was ready.

Just Good Pals.

"I am going to do a lot of hard work at Greenville," he explained when interviewers asked him his reasons for going to Maine at this season. "I'll chop down a lot of trees, run through woods and rough it generally to improve my legs and wind for my bout with Max Baer.

"I am going to remain up there for five weeks and then return to Pompton Lakes, N. J., where I will start boxing. I feel silly doing all this preliminary work for an opponent like Baer, who, in my estimation, is nothing but a great big strong guy and the dumbest boxer the world has ever seen. But it is well to be on the safe side."

Pittsburgh Hammers Lyons; Defeats White Sox, 12 to 5

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

El Paso, Tex., April 7.—The rampaging White Sox tapered off a bit today and in the process netted themselves a rather severe licking at the hands of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The score of the relapse to loose baseball was Pirates, 12; Sox, 5.

The White Sox escaped a whitewashing after two were out in the eighth when Milt Bocek for the second time this spring chased the goose egg menace with an enormous hit. On the previous occasion he knocked a home run with two out in the ninth to stave off a shoutout and today he tripled to drive in the first two Chicago runs and start a riot which did not halt until the Sox had effected all their manufacture for the day.

Aside from the heroics of Bocek, Zeke Bonura furnished the other rays of sunshine for the Chicagoans. Zeke socked two doubles and now has hit safely in 18 games, all of the exhibitions played by the Sox.

Lyons Is No Bargain.

Lyons started the pitching and was not the performer who worked in Yuma last Tuesday. The Baylor boy stuck around four innings, during the course of which he was whanged for ten hits and seven runs. Lee Stine succeeded Lyons and did well enough considering the ragged character of the support given him.

The teams will play here again tomorrow, then proceed to Albuquerque for a contest Monday.

The Pirates got off to a lead on an unearned run in the first inning. L. Waner was safe on Appling's fumble and went to third on Lindstrom's Texas leaguer to short center. L. Waner then gave Simmons the chance to stage the best catch Sox camp followers have seen this spring. He hammered a drive to left destined to be a home run until Al, racing at full speed, reached up with a backhand motion and brought down the ball. L. Waner scored and Lindstrom took second after the catch. Two flies to Swanson ended the inning.

Pirates Mean Business.

Four hits in a row gave Pittsburgh two more runs in the second inning. Veltman doubled with one out and scored on Swift's single to center. L. Waner also singled to center, Swift stopping at second. Lindstrom singled again, scoring Swift and putting L. Waner on third. Then P. Waner hit into a double play.

The Sox did not get a man to first until two were out in the third. Then Lyons and Swanson singled. The inning ended when Bordagaray forced Swanson.

In their third inning the Pirates waited until two were out before opening up. Then Suhr singled and stole second. Lavagetto walked and when Shea threw the ball away trying to catch Lavagetto napping off first Suhr took third. Veltman delivered his second hit, a single to center, scoring

CUNNINGHAM IN RECORD BREAKING 1,000 YARD RUN

Norman, Okla., April 7.—[UP.]—Glenn Cunningham of the University of Kansas set a new world's record for the 1,000 yard run today in his first outdoor appearance of the season, running the distance in 2 minutes 11.1 seconds in an invitation meet at the University of Oklahoma.

Cunningham holds the American mile record. The 1,000 yard record which he broke today was 2 minutes 11.2 seconds, set by E. Ellis of Great Britain, in September, 1929.

Dawson Takes Second.

Thirty-five yards behind Cunningham, Glenn Dawson of the Tulsa Athletic club, and Harold Manning of Wichita, Kas., battled for second place. Dawson won by a stride.

Cunningham's performance might have been a full second faster but for interference by Dawson and Manning on the curves of the quarter mile track. Cunningham had forecast a record performance.

Manning Takes Lead.

Manning sprang to the front but before they had gone 50 yards, Dawson took the lead, with Cunningham bringing up the rear. Cunningham started to move up as they swung into the second curve, but was slowed momentarily when Dawson clung to the inside rail.

All three sprinted down the back stretch and Manning won the rail at the far turn, again forcing Cunningham to drop into stride in second place.

The Kansan, however, took the lead as the first quarter ended in the fast time of 57 seconds.

BUSH SHAKY AND INFIELD ERRORS SPEED HIS FALL

Warneke to Oppose Crowder Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs will have to be excused for their conduct while associating with Washington's champion Senators in a season's preview yesterday at Wrigley field. The game was billed as an exhibition, but it turned out to be something along the lines of a replay of one of the sad 1932 world series combats in which the Cubs were mauled four successive times by the Yankees. The Senators, on this occasion, proved excellent substitutes for the once haughty New Yorkers by handing the Cubs an 8 to 3 defeat.

A quick explanation for the unhappiness heaped on the Cubs, not to mention how 8,500 spectators felt about it, is that everything went wrong with their plans. Their pitching was of no account, and was made worse by unheard of fielding. On top of this the Cubs couldn't hit, at least not until it was too late. And just to make it a bad day all around, the new loud speaker system blew up and was out of commission for about half the game. Maybe Lon Warneke can correct all these things this afternoon while engaged against old Gen. Alvin Crowder.

Galan Gets a Lesson.

A glance at the box score is sufficient evidence that it was no day for the new faces in the Cub lineup. The Washington boys, who bear down when running the bases, twice knocked thrown balls from the hands of Augie Galan, the new third sacker. He escaped, however, with only one error. Tuck Stainback, planted in right field despite his ailing foot, wasn't so hot either at bat or in the field, and the noted Tiger Klein, in his first home appearance as a Cub, spent a miserable afternoon. He fanned in his first two trips to the plate and didn't get a hit until the ninth.

The real damage to the Cubs' reputation, however, wasn't done by the newcomers. Two of the old boys featured in this particular. Billy Herman and Bill Jurges each blundered behind Guy Bush, and this was the main reason five runs were scored off the Mississippian in four innings. Galan's lone error also helped to immerse Bush in a vat of grief. And while Roy Joiner, the new southpaw, was trying to get along in a three inning stretch Billy Herman booted another. This contributed to two runs in the sixth. Only half of the Senators' runs were earned.

Two Hits Off Whitehill.

The main factor in the suppression of the Cubs as hitters was Earl Whitehill, a southpaw who needs no introduction. Luckily the ex-Tiger retired after five innings. He allowed only two singles, which he balanced by the twin fanning of Klein. Then Jack Russell was summoned and he carried on stylishly for two more innings. This gave the Cubs a modest total of four hits at the end of the seventh. Then when things were just about definitly settled the Cubs broke in with some runs in the last two innings. Two of these were shoved home on Fatty Phelp's pinch single and one on a double by Babe Herman, who finished in Stainback's right field berth.

The Senators didn't wait long before giving a dash of American league flavor to the battle. Myer opened the game with a single to right. Bush then bounced a wild pitch past Hartnett, enabling Myer to scoot from first to third. Stone went out on strikes, but Manush smacked a single to right to score Myer. The half closed hurriedly when Cronin rolled to Bush for the start of a double play. The Cub portion of the first inning was as brief as possible. Three men

8,000 See Tourney Game at 124th Armory.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Baker, Fergus, and Evinger, those fast young fellows who make up the Cleveland Riding club's polo team, galloped into the finals of the western indoor tournament by defeating Capt. Maxwell Corpening's Chicago Riding club trio, 6½ to 4½, last night at the 124th Field Artillery armory.

This triumph gave Cleveland the right to meet the Sixth Corps Area Wednesday night for the championship in the division for teams rated from 7 to 12 goals.

8,000 See Game.

The margin of victory was just large enough to prove that Cleveland is the better team, for the visitors started the game with a one goal handicap. The margin was small enough to keep the 8,000 spectators in a continuous uproar throughout the last period.

Going into the last chukker, Cleveland had a lead of 4 to 2½. Then Fergus inadvertently knocked the ball into the wrong goal during a melee, and a minute later the score was tied, 3½ to 3½, when Cleveland lost a half point on Baker's foul.

Fergus' Goal Clinches Game.

That was the signal for some of the most reckless riding and spectacular hitting of the tournament. Baker slammed in a fast one, but Silberman promptly tied the score again. With only a few minutes to play, Baker sent an adroit backshot into the goal, and then Fergus put the game on ice by knocking the ball past two Chicago players and into the goal from about 30 feet out.

Fergus was badly shaken up early in the first period. Racing after the ball at a smart gallop, he leaned far out of his saddle for a shot that might have been good for a point. Leaning just far enough to lose his balance, he went tumbling to the dirt. After a brief rest, however, he resumed play.

Porter also fell during the first period, but he was up immediately, unhurt.

Capt. Corpening did the outstanding individual work of the evening. His accurate hitting kept the Cleveland team on the defense throughout the first half. He was in the thick of every scramble, riding off opponents and setting the ball in scoring position for Porter.

Cards Win Easily, 14-6.

In the first game the 124th Field Artillery Cardinals defeated the South Shore Remount association, 14 to 6. In as much as the Remounts started the game with six points, by way of handicap, their entire evening of effort was fruitless. Bairnsfather made a goal with the assistance of his pony, which gave the ball a sly kick at the right moment, but this tally was erased by a one point penalty for two fouls by Remount players.

The Cardinals overcame their six point handicap just before the end of the second period, when Reed made the score 6 to 6. From that time on the game was a rout. Taking advantage of the fact that the Remounts were weak on offense, Reed deserted his defense position repeatedly and came all the way down the field to score. Totaling seven goals, he was the high point man of the evening.

Advance to Semi-Finals.

By their victory the Cardinals advanced to the semi-finals of the division for teams rated under seven goals.

DECIDE EASTERN TITLE.

New York, April 7.—(AP)—In a loosely played game which was punctuated by 17 fouls the First division team of Lieut. W. G. Stephenson, Lieut. Alex George, and Lieut. W. B. McCreight won the eastern divisional low goal polo championship at Squadron A armory tonight, defeating Essex Troop of New Jersey, 3½ to 1.

The Boulder Brook Polo club team of Westchester won the eastern junior championship by defeating the 105th field artillery, 6½ to 4.

COLLEGE POLO TITLE IS TAKEN BY PRINCETON

New York, April 7.—(AP)—Princeton's indoor polo team won the intercollegiate championship tonight by defeating the Yale trio, 8½ to 6. The Tigers' three goal handicap allowance was too much for the blue shirted poloists to overcome.

Six penalties contributed heavily to Yale's defeat in one of the best played games of the collegiate tournament.

Rand and Wilson, who did most of the scoring for Yale, gradually cut down Princeton's lead and early in the fourth chukker Princeton was leading by only one goal, 7½ to 6½. A foul against Wilson cut Yale's score half a goal and a tally by Sullivan from scrimmage at the bell clinched the title for the Tigers.

Hawks Meet Wings Tonight in 3d Game

still wondering what it was all about. They had seen the Hawks outguess their boys. They returned Thursday night, and doubtless are still wondering what happened.

They're All Heroes.

Attempting to single out an individual hero in the Hawks' two grand marches is impossible, for every Chicago man on the ice played inspired hocky to bear out the quiet statement of Maj. Frederic McLaughlin some weeks ago that they would not only be in the finals, but would win the Stanley cup.

Two triumphs, of course, do not make a Stanley cup, for the Wings have people with whom it is sensible to reckon. There is, among others, Jack Adams, the Wings' manager, who perpetrated the strategy which brought the Wings out of a slump three months ago and elevated them to their present position. The wily Jack was outguessed on nearly every count during the first two games. no amount of tactical gymnastics being able to bewilder the Hawks. Then, too, the Detroit charm against Chicago having been smashed into so many small pieces, it will be only natural that the Wings will skate out tonight in what cannot be called a pleasant or submissive mood.

Wieland, Buswell to Play.

Both teams worked out briefly at the Stadium yesterday afternoon. The Hawks are in good condition, and while the Wings will bring two new casualties, Cooney Wieland and Walter Buswell, both will be ready for duty. Wieland's nose was broken for the third time in his career Tuesday when he crashed into Mush March, while Buswell, who fielded a flying puck off Tommy Cook's stick in the second contest, will come on with a pair of stitches beneath his right eye.

Precious though tickets to tonight's game may be, there nevertheless will be 3,500 general admission tickets, calling for seats on the top shelf of the Stadium at 75 cents, placed on sale at 5:30 p. m. Judging from the frantic demands of fans for tickets of any description yesterday, the lines waiting for a chance at those 3,500 are expected to form a couple of hours before that time.

This, of course, will cause an epidemic of pinochle and checker games in the upper reaches of the house three hours before the game actually starts. Such was the eagerness of the regular Hawk family to obtain tickets that Bill Tobin caused more than 1,000 regret cards to be made up, refunding checks for orders for which there was no possibility of filling. In the event of late cancelations, Bill will wire the disappointed parties, at the Blackhawks' expense, the tidings that they may yet obtain tickets.

If Detroit wins tonight, the fourth game of the series will be played at the Chicago Stadium Tuesday.

M'KECHNIE GOES TO HOSPITAL FOR EYE TREATMENT

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(AP)—The Boston Braves, already handicapped by the loss of Walter [Rabbit] Maranville, tonight appeared threatened with the loss of Manager Bill McKechnie.

McKechnie, who has been suffering from an eye ailment for several days, entered the Episcopal hospital after consulting with a specialist. It appeared likely that he would be unable to rejoin his team until after the opening of the National league season, in which case Coach Jewell Ens, President Emil Fuchs said, will take charge.

Ottawa Faces Fight to Move Hocky Team

St. Louis, Mo., April 7.—[U. P.]—Reports from Canada that the Ottawa club plans to shift its National Hocky league franchise to St. Louis were met today by threats of court action from the American Hocky association of which the St. Louis Flyers are a member.

Sharp protest against transfer of the Ottawa franchise to St. Louis came from Kansas City, home office of the American associations.

Court action to prevent the National league from invading this territory is threatened by President Grant of the American association "unless the proper procedure is followed." He said he had the assurance of President Calder of the National league that the American association has prior territorial rights here.

Claim Exclusive Rights.

"I'll take our fight to the courts unless the issue is settled satisfactorily with Dr. Frank Wainright, owner of the Flyers, and other officials of our league," President Grant said.

Grant pointed out that the American association holds "absolute rights to the St. Louis teirritory," adding that "any efforts on the part of the National league or any one else to break into our territory will meet with bitter opposition unless the movement is sanctioned by the American association."

Hocky has become a sport of major fan interest here, drawing 10,000 spectators or more nightly at the St. Louis Arena, a sports palace now in receivership.

Looks Over Arena.

C. D. P. Hamilton Jr., receiver for the Arena, said R. Quain, representative of the Ottawa club, had been here for a week, looking over the Arena as a likely playing site for his club.

MICHIGAN CITY TRACK SQUAD BEATS LA PORTE

Suhr and putting Lavagetto on third.

When Kress and Appling failed to cover second while Swanson was throwing to third Veltman walked over to that post. Swift also delivered his second hit, a single to center, which scored Lavagetto and Veltman. L. Waner popped to Kress.

Bonura opened the fourth inning with a double to preserve his record, but Simmons, Appling, and Dykes couldn't get him home.

The support the Sox gave Stine was not exactly encouraging. Chamberlin booted Lavagetto's easy grounder and Appling did likewise on Veltman's effort. Swift fouled to Shea, but L. Waner singled to left, scoring Lavagetto. Lindstrom dropped the ball in short right, but it failed to go for Freddy's fourth straight hit because L. Waner lingered near first and Swanson's throw to Appling at second was good for a forceout. P. Waner flied to Bordagaray.

Bocek Comes Through.

Bonura doubled again in the sixth, but never got past second. In their half of the inning the Pirates came up with three more runs on singles by Thevenow and Vaughan, Suhr's sacrifice, and Lavagetto's single. The seventh was the first inning in which the Pirates failed to score, L. Waner, Jensen and P. Waner being easy victims.

And here is the detail of the Sox belated awakening after two were out in the eighth. Stine opened with a single and lingered around while Uhalt and Bordagaray flied out. Bonura then reached first and Stine second when Zeke's grounder got through Thevenow. It was at this point that Bocek chased the shutout menace by crashing a triple to left center, scoring Stine and Bonura.

Johnson walked Appling, then Chamberlin doubled to right, Bocek scoring and Appling stopping at third. Kress walked, filling the bases. Shea followed with a single to center, scoring Appling and putting Chamberlin on third. Stine, up the second time, fouled to Roettger.

Singles by Thevenow, Young, and Roettger gave the Pirates two runs before a putout was accomplished in the eighth inning, but there was no further production in the inning. The Sox had the bases full with one out in the ninth inning, but Appling fanned and Chamberlin flied to Roettger.

British Women Make U. S. Lacrosse Debut; Blues Win

Bryn Mawr, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—British-American women's Lacrosse teams opposed each other today as England's touring stars made their United States debut, and the "Blues" defeated the "Greens," 11 to 9, in an overtime period. Because the invaders from Great Britain are considered superior to the American advocates of the sport, it was deemed advisable to choose sides for the contest, and thus each team presented a composite American-English lineup.

American Army Poloists Favored to Beat Mexicans

MEXICO CITY, April 7.—(AP)—The American Army polo four today ruled a slight favorite over Mexico's military team in the three game international series starting here tomorrow. Observers who have watched both teams practice believe the Americans have better teamwork and faster ponies. The American lineup includes Capt. L. E. Davis at No. 1, Maj. C. C. Smith, No. 2; Capt. L. K. Truscott, No. 3, and Maj. J. M. Swing, back.

Cubs Lose to Senators, 8-3, in Home Debut

walked up to the plate and three walked back.

The touch of clowning that forced Bush to part with a pair of runs in the third began when Jurges went into short center and committee a two base error on Schulte's popup. Kuhel rolled to Bush and the latter whipped the ball to third to head off Schulte, but Galan neglected to hang onto the ball. Bluege slapped a fly to Klein, scoring Schulte and sending Kuhel to second. Moe Berg, a former White Sox employé not famous for his hitting, then singled to left to score Kuhel. Bush managed to set down the next two batters.

The Cubs came close to having a good time for themselves in their half of the second, but it developed that Whitehill was merely kidding. The slightly aged southpaw started the inning by fanning Klein and getting Stainback on a roller to Cronin. Grimm singled to center, in response to a round of cheers. Jurges and Hartnett walked, filling the bases. This furnished Bush with a chance to fulfill a life long ambition—to hit with the bases filled. He didn't hit.

Manufacture of two runs for the American league titleholders in the third started when Billy Herman fumbled Stone's roller. Manush immediately plastered a triple against the screen in right center, Stone going home. Cronin popped out, but Schulte doubled between Klein and Cuyler to send Manush across the plate. Bush walked Kuhel, but Bluege flied to Cuyler and Grimm dug Galan's throw of Berg's grounder out of the dirt to end the inning. In the Cubs' half Klein fanned for the second time after Cuyler had walked with two out.

Except for one hit Joiner's southpawing was O. K. in the fifth, but he couldn't hurdle another error by W. Herman in the sixth and two runs were recorded. Berg opened with a walk. Russell batted for Whitehill and forced Berg at second on a bunt. Herman kicked Myer's roller that might have resulted in a double play. Then both men scored on Stone's double over Stainback, who might have caught the ball if his judgment had been a bit better. Stone tried to get an extra base when he saw W. Herman fumble the throw-in, but the latter recovered quickly and escaped an error by nailing the runner at third.

Cuyler Makes Star Catch.

Joiner called it a day after completing the seventh, in which the Senators scored once to make it 8 to 0. With one out Schulte tripled to right center. Kuhel followed with a drive toward the center field bleachers and the only reason it wasn't a base hit was that Cuyler ran back and leaped up to grab it. Schulte scored after the catch. Malone and Nelson prevented outbursts in the eighth and ninth.

Klein had the doubtful pleasure of flying out to left in the eighth before the Cubs got busy on a two run rally. Babe Herman batted for Stainback and coaxed a pass from Russell. Grimm shoved a single through short and a walk to Jurges filled the bases. An infield popup disposed of Hartnett. Phelps, batting for Malone, then stepped into the picture with a single through second, scoring F. Herman and Grimm and moving Jurges to third. Cronin checked further annoyance by picking up Galan's roller for a force-out of Phelps at second.

Klein singled with two out in the ninth and scored the last run on Babe Herman's two base drive to left. The Babe probably will start in right field today.

BROWNS SADDEN DODGERS' ADIEU TO CAMP, 6 TO 5

Brooklyn's Winning Streak Ends at Four.

Orlando, Fla., April 7.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' winning streak was broken at four games today when they dropped a 6 to 5 decision to the St. Louis Browns in the final game at their spring training camp. The teams left here tonight for Jacksonville, where they will resume the series tomorrow.

The Dodgers found Bump Hadley for four runs in the first inning, but the Browns' veteran then settled down and wasn't scored on again until the fifth, when Brooklyn got its final run. Jim Weaver, former Yankee, pitched the last four innings for the Browns, and held the Dodgers hitless. Score:

RED SOX, 9; BIRMINGHAM, 7.

Birmingham, Ala., April 7.—(AP)—Lefty Grove made his long delayed pitching start for the Boston Red Sox today, and the result, although the American leaguers beat out Birmingham, 9 to 7, was far from the success usually enjoyed by this southpaw, for whom Tom Yawkey paid the Athletics about $100,000.

Grove, who has complained of a sore arm for the last few days, threw up 46 balls during his four innings on the mound. He had plenty of control, but his curves broke badly and his speed was easily fathomed by the Barons, who collected eight hits against his service for four runs, which gave them a 4 to 2 lead.

Henry Johnson, a right-hander, relieved Grove and gave the Barons six more hits in the next three innings. He was withdrawn in favor of Johnny Welch, who held the Southern league batsmen hitless during the last two innings, when the Sox came to life and battered six runs to win the game. Score:

NASHVILLE BEATS YANKS.

Nashville, Tenn., April 7.—(AP)—The Nashville Vols, farm team of the New York Giants, today put an end to the New York Yankees' exhibition game winning streak, defeating the American leaguers, 5 to 4.

It was the Yanks' first defeat in eight games, and the Southern association team's victory also terminated the 16 game batting streak of Red Rolfe, who struck out twice, received one pass, and got on base once on an error. Score:

GIANTS, 4; MEMPHIS, 3.

Memphis, Tenn., April 7.—(AP)—The world champion New York Giants defeated the Memphis club of the Southern association today, 4 to 3. The winning run was scored in the seventh inning by Catcher Paul Richards on a long fly by Frank [Lefty] O'Doul, who batted for Pitcher Watson Clarke. Score:

REDS, 13; ROCHESTER, 5.

Tampa, Fla., April 7.—(AP)—A sixth inning slugging spree that netted them nine runs helped the Cincinnati Reds defeat Rochester of the International league, 13 to 5, in an exhibition game today. A home run by Moore accounted for four runs. The Reds got the same number of hits as Rochester—12. Score:

KATHERINE STAR OF 5 SWIMMERS IN RAWLS FAMILY

She'll Defend Titles at Lake Shore Meet.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., April 7.—Katherine Rawls, holder of two outdoor and two indoor titles, of seven national records, and member of the American Olympic team of 1932 when 15 years old, will compete in the national indoor swimming meet at Lake Shore Athletic club in Chicago next week.

Katherine, a junior in Fort Lauderdale High school, 5 feet 2 inches tall, weight 104 pounds, is the oldest of the five swimming Rawls. Strangely enough neither her father, William Jennings Rawls, named in honor of the Nebraska statesman, nor Mrs. Rawls is an expert natator. Nor does Father Rawls, a rugged well set up chap, looking to be on the sunny side of 40, profess to have been proficient in other sports when a boy, although a great baseball fan.

Others Coming Up.

Peggy—Six years old, exhibitions.

In the family list, although the only one who will not go near the water, should be included Whimpy, a small pet monkey presented to Katherine a year ago by a New York admirer. Except to Katherine and Peggy, the only ones who can handle him with certitude, Whimpy is something of a mischievous pest. He has a record of a "still alarm" with the fire department, summoned to rescue him from a tree which he climbed and refused to descend. He took a small chip from the ear of Al Gordon, the Tom Robinson of the local pool, and nipped several others who came too close to Katherine when she was carrying him.

O. K. with Whimpy.

Therefore when Whimpy regarded us, visitor in the Rawls' living room, with excited chattering in a dialect we could not understand, being familiar only with horse talk, we had misgivings. Suddenly Whimpy took a flying leap to the back of our chair, placed forepaws around our shoulders and gave attention to our neck with his lips, not teeth. "O, he likes you or he wouldn't do that," remarked Katherine enthusiastically.

Her enthusiasm was not shared because we felt no assurance Whimpy would remain constant in his affection. These leaps to the back of the chair, startling to us, were repeated at frequent intervals during our talk. We mention the incident merely for readers to understand handicaps in obtaining the story of the swimming Rawls and to explain any lack of logical continuity herein.

A Modest Schoolgirl.

Accustomed to meeting champions, amateur and professional, not lacking in self-esteem, one is impressed by the modesty and naturalness of this schoolgirl who became a state champion when 10 years old, has been in national competition since 12 years old, and a titleholder since 14 years old.

She is a good student, according to her classmates, enters heartily into school activities, is just beginning to go to "parties" although much sought and thoroughly unspoiled. Indeed, her father is reputed to have [illegible] her that if success at any [illegible]ent to her head it would end [illegible] her competitive career but [illegible]ing. From her demeanor it [illegible] the warning was unneeded. [illegible] reluctantly, Katherine b[illegible] her cups, medals and dip[illegible] filled a large table and [illegible] another when state and j[illegible] to her younger sisters we[illegible]. Tops of two cups were br[illegible]mpy had toppled them over[illegible]mperings.

Com[illegible] Tennessee.

The Rawls [illegible]mily is of Tennessee origin, near Nashville, having come to Florida slightly more than 10 years ago. They lived in St. Augustine, Tampa and Melbourne—the latter city also producing Janet Gaynor of screen fame—before locating definitly in the southern sector.

According to Father Rawls, it was a chap named Anderson who first gave Katherine tips on diving. He was a nonprofessional, sign painter by trade. These instructions were at Melbourne, where a small pool was built at the tourist camp during the boom period.

When the family moved to Coral Gables, Katherine's talent attracted the attention of Steve Forsythe, then at the Venetian pools and now at the Flamingo. For the last five years she has been under the tutelage of Willis Cooling of the Roman pools, Miami Beach, with informal suggestions from Al Gordon of the home pool, who also has had most to do with development of Peggy (Baby) Rawls.

Nothing She Can't Do!

This 6 year old, other extreme of the Rawls age ladder, learned the crawl when 2 years old, swims under water, dives for coins, performs the porpoise or "mugwump," jumps off the 25 foot high diving board and performs various other stunts. She doesn't seem to realize it is anything unusual. After one exhibition where she had been the heroine of the large crowd we found her alone, hiding behind a post, enjoying an ice cream confection she had purchased with one of the coins retrieved from the pool.

Katherine Rawls, originally nicknamed "Minnow," won her first state championship when 10 years old. In the next two years she won state titles in every style. Her first national opportunity came in 1929, when the women's national meet was held at Miami Beach. To gain experience she entered and proved a surprise by finishing second to Georgia Coleman in diving from the 10 foot board. They began a rivalry which continued through national meets and the Olympic games. In the Olympic tryouts at Jones Beach, N. Y., she was placed first, with Georgia Coleman second, a verdict reversed at Los Angeles.

Greatest Feat at Tempe.

Her friends consider Katherine's greatest competitive achievement to have been at Tempe, Ariz., near Phoenix, some time after the 1932 Olympics, when she registered four victories, in the 300 meter medley, 880 yard free style, 220 yard breast stroke, and diving from a 10 foot board.

Katherine is present national champion indoors in the 300 yard medley, breast stroke, back stroke, and free style equal distances, and low board diving outdoors, 330 meter medley and high board diving.

At Chicago next week she will compete in low and high board diving, breast stroke and medley if she recovers from a temporary cold, otherwise in three, possibly only two, events. She will be entered from the Miami Beach Swimming association. In past meets she often had competed unattached, although representing Fort Lauderdale in scholastic events. She has agreed to carry Miami Beach colors because a coterie there has promised to organize a team for the outdoor nationals at Detroit in July.

Sisters Due for Trip.

Three local girls, including her two sisters, are slated for places on this team, expenses of which will be paid to Detroit. Fort Lauderdale, not a wealthy community, does not feel able to meet such a budget. Katherine's own expenses, as a defending champion, are met by the national body.

Jane Burr of Coral Gables also will be entered in medley and free style events at the Lake Shore A. C. next week.

In the Sun-Sea-Air celebration here Wednesday afternoon on Las Olas beach, Evelyn Rawls won the 2 mile open ocean swim from field of eight other starters amid choppy waves. Dorothy Rawls was second with a boy swimmer in third place. Katherine Rawls did not compete. The time of one hour, five minutes was called remarkably fast for the prevailing conditions.

So far as we can learn, and we have asked plenty, there is nothing commercial in the swimming of the Rawls family. Although they are featured entrants, especially Baby Peggy, in exhibitions where admission is charged spectators, we could learn of no direct or indirect compensation. Family friends say swimming is a drain on the Rawls family exchequer.

A Costly Business.

We put the question squarely to Father Rawls, who said, "There may be ways of getting money for exhibitions without losing amateurism, but I don't know how to go about such things even if I wanted to. Of course Katherine's expenses are paid because she is a champion. But you know how those things go—a few extra clothes and incidentals which would not happen otherwise. For instance, this summer I've promised the family to take them to Detroit for the outdoor national, returning by Chicago to visit the World's Fair. Of course we put more into swimming financially than we get out of it, but I enjoy it with the children, and so long as we can afford it it's all right."

Mr. Rawls is one of three brothers who have a vegetable farm at Lake Okeechobee planted to beans, tomatoes, English peas, and sweet corn. He spends much of his time at the Miami wholesale distributing plant where their own produce and that of other farmers is sold to hotels and shipped to other points. Although compelled to be away from home several days a week, he prefers this city as residence because of its public school system.

Katherine, who has another year of high school work after this semester, is undecided, but expects to enter college, with present leanings toward Duke at Durham, N. C., or Rollins at Winter Park, Fla.

CULVER POLO TEAM LOSES.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 7.—[U.P.]—The Pittsburgh gunners took the deciding game of a three game series with the Culver Military academy polo team here tonight. The score was 5½ to 3½.

BETTER WATCH OUT FOR PEGGY, GIRLS!

Katherine Rawls (left), star of the five swimmers in the Rawls family, photographed at Miami Beach, Fla., with her sister, Peggy (Baby) Rawls, who is only 6 years old but is as much at home in water as anybody in the family. Katherine, national champion in two events, will appear in national indoor meet at Lake Shore Athletic club beginning Wednesday.

Football Coaches at Notre Dame to Meet on Fairways

Notre Dame, Ind., April 7.—[Special.]—Notre Dame will get a chance to see how its new deal in football coaches stacks up on the fairways in the first annual faculty club tournament here April 26 to May 26.

Of the four varsity football coaches, Elmer Layden, head coach and director of athletics, is the only reputedly good golfer. Joe Boland, Tom Conley, and Chet Grant, assistant coaches, all claim they cannot possibly shoot under 120.

TROJANS DEFEAT BEARS IN ANNUAL DUAL MEET, 69-62

Berkeley, Cal., April 7.—(AP)—Southern California defeated California, 69 to 62, in their annual dual track and field meet today in the closest competition between the two rivals since 1924.

Bob Kiesel, California's sprinting ace, was the only double winner. He won the hundred yard dash in 9.5 seconds, with Floyd Draper of the Trojans a yard and a half behind. It set a new meet record, Charles Paddock of Southern California having established the old time of 9.6 in 1926. Kiesel won the 220 in 21 seconds.

NEW YORK A. C. WINS NATIONAL A. A. U. SWIM MEET

Scores 37 Points; Michigan Is Second.

Columbus, O., April 7.—[Special.]—The New York Athletic club, led by the three Spence brothers, Walter, Wallace and Leonard, tonight successfully defended its team title in the National Indoor Amateur Athletic Union swimming meet in the Ohio State university natatorium.

The New York A. C. scored 37 points, the University of Michigan was second with 24, and Detroit A. C. was third with 12.

Other teams scored as follows: University of Washington, 8; unattached, 6; Newark A. C., 5; Lake Shore A. C., Chicago, 4; Miami university, Fla., 3; Northwestern university, 2; Cleveland Y. M. C. A., 2; Olneyville Boys club, 2; Miami Beach Nautilus club, Miami Beach, Fla., 1, and Columbus Athletic club, 1.

Close Diving Duel.

The duel for the high diving championship was the most thrilling event of the final day's competition. Dick Degener of Michigan was extended to the limit by Marshal Wayne of the University of Miami, only 26 hundredths of a point separating the champion and the runner-up. Degener's score was 160.64, while Wayne totaled 160.38.

Al Green of the Lake Shore Athletic club of Chicago was third with a score of 140.28.

Jack Medica, University of Washington star, captured the 500 yard free style swim in 5:29. He finished more than 30 yards ahead of the second place man. The race for second was close with Dexter Woodford, Ohio State freshman beating out Tom Haynie of the Detroit A. C. by a foot. The latter was the same distance ahead of Jim Cristy of Michigan, star who holds the Big Ten mark at this distance.

Detroit Wins Relay.

The Detroit A. C. paced by the former Big Ten champion, Johnny Schmeiler, won the 300 yard medley relay by inches from the New York A. C.

Schmeiler gave his team a good lead over Wallace Spence when the latter made a poor turn. The lead was maintained by Sinkiewicz, although Leonard Spence closed fast. Then Walter Spence all but made up the 10 yard lead of the Detroiters. Michigan was third and the Columbus A. C. fourth.

Jack Haskin, Pontiac Township High school coach, plans to confine the meet to relays, except the field events. He will have a 440 yard relay, 880, mile, two mile, sprint medley [440, 220, 880, and mile] and both high and low hurdle shuttle events. There will be a freshman relay race, each athlete to run 220 yards. A 17 year age limit for this event will be enforced.

Ross Begins Training Tuesday for Herrera Bout April 20

Lightweight Champion Barney Ross is due to resume workouts in Chicago Tuesday for a 10 round junior welterweight title bout against Tony Herrera of El Paso, Tex., at Fort Worth on April 20. It will be the Chicago boxer's only battle this month. Ross plans to go to Fort Worth Friday.

Herrera has been seeking a contest with the champion for some time and he is bound to make the most of his opportunity. Chicago fans have seen Tony box and they are of the opinion that Ross will have to be at his best if he expects to win.

Ross will be putting at stake his minor junior welterweight championship for the sixth time since he stopped Johnny Farr at Kansas City, Mo., July 27, 1933. He followed the Farr conquest with victories over Canzoneri, Sammy Fuller, Pete Nebo and Bobby Pacho and fought a draw with Frank Klick.

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, is in the midst of hard drills at Los Angeles, Cal., for a 10 round encounter there with Lee Ramage of San Francisco, April 17. Ramage partisans predict that the Kingfish may receive a boxing lesson. Lee is a fancy boxer who is content to step around an opponent and score points with left jabs. He won, lost twice and fought a draw in four battles against Steve Hamas, former Penn State athlete, who came into prominence in February through a victory over Max Schmeling.

Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, meets Jackie Sharkey in a nontitle match for the fourth time at Minneapolis, Minn., Friday. He vanquished Sharkey at the Stadium, at Milwaukee, and at Cincinnati, and each succeeding fight was harder to win than the previous one.

* * *

An outstanding bout on this week's national boxing program will bring together Mickey Walker, former welterweight and middleweight champion, and Bob Godwin of Atlanta, Ga., at San Francisco, Cal., Wednesday. It is expected to be one of Walker's hardest tests.

Godwin held the veteran Elizabeth, N. J., warrior to a 10 round draw at West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 29. Since then Walker whipped Tom Patrick at Hollywood March 29 and Godwin defeated the heavyweight trial horse from Cleveland, O., Johnny Risko, at Daytona Beach, Fla., March 22. Prior to these battles Walker lost a 15 round light heavyweight title contest to Maxie Rosenbloom at New York Nov. 3 and Godwin won from Rosenbloom in a 12 round nontitle scrap at West Palm Beach Jan. 11.

There will be two shows in Chicago tomorrow. At Marigold Gardens Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, will tackle Jack Kracken, formerly of Champaign, Ill., for eight rounds. Woods and Waters By Bob Becker

In about a week the wall-eyed pike in the Muskegon river of Michigan are expected to stage their annual spring run, according to the most recent information that we have received from the fishermen on that stream. This 1934 pike run will furnish one of the earliest opportunities for going after good sized game fish. In Wisconsin it will not be legal to catch wall-eyes until late in May. The trout season in both Wisconsin and Michigan does not open until May 1.

A veteran Muskegon river fisherman who lives in Newaygo hazards the guess [and it is only a guess when one tries to figure the exact date of any fish run] that the wall-eyes will start marching up the Muskegon about April 15. The boys are looking forward to quite a fishing party in this stream because it will be legal this year to catch wall-eyes in April. Last year the Michigan regulations forbade such fishing until later in the season, but this spring the lid is off as far as wall-eyes are concerned. There also will be big rainbows coming up the Muskegon during April. However, it is against the law to fish for them until May 1.

If any Illinois fishermen wish to try their hand at this early season wall-eyed pike run in the Muskegon river they will find the town of Newaygo, Mich., one of the best bases for such sport. Newaygo is about 35 miles above Grand Rapids. A fellow should be able to pick up a few fish with his bait casting rod just a short distance from the town.

There will be boats and other equipment available, and, if we remember our Muskegon river correctly, one can also fish it from the banks above Newaygo, although the use of a boat is highly desirable in getting around.

Just as Newaygo is expecting its great spring run of wall-eyes and rainbow trout, so northern Illinois lake fishermen anticipate the spring run of crappies and bluegills. In both instances it is, of course, a spring spawning run, with the fish moving out of deep water to reach shallower areas.

* * *

In northern Illinois fly fishermen will be busy this month fooling the panfish. You will see the boys casting from the bank on Lake Zurich, Long lake, and other spots in the northern Illinois lake country.

This game of taking panfish with a fly rod has developed into a big sport in the northern Illinois lake country. With one or two ardent fly casters leading the way and teaching beginners, literally hundreds of new fly fishermen have been trained within the last two or three years.

If you want to see some of them in action visit the lakes around Fox Lake this month during the spring run of the crappies and bluegills. With light rods and both wet and dry flies these fishermen not only have a lot of fun but they also catch plenty of fish.

HAL-DALE WINS STEEPLECHASE; VAM FINISHES 2D

Baltimore, Md., April 7.—(AP)—Hal-Dale, a 3 to 2 favorite, took the lead at the barrier and held it over a two mile course to finish first today in the annual junior cross country steeplechase on the estate of J. W. Y. Martin, in Worthington valley. Hal-Dale is owned by Mrs. S. T. Patterson of New York. Fifteen horses started.

Several thousand persons lined the hillsides as M. Nelson Bond of Baltimore, rode the horse to victory in 4 minutes 25 2-5 seconds. However, he finished only a length and a half ahead of Vam, owned and ridden by Hugh J. O'Donovan. Pushing Vam and coming in third was King's Tree, owned by Miss Charlotte Noland of Middleburg, Va., with Dion K. Kerr up.

Virginia Will Send Full Team to Penn Relays

Philadelphia, Pa., April 7.—[U. P.]—For the first time in the history of Pennsylvania relays the University of Virginia this year will be represented by a complete squad. In the past the Cavaliers entered only a man or two in the special events. At the 1934 games, which are scheduled for Franklin field April 27 and 28, Virginia will have two relay teams and individuals in five events.

QUINN AND BALL REACH FINALS OF WESTERN TENNIS

Chicagoan Upsets M'Diarmid, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4.

Eugene Quinn, veteran Chicago player, scored the outstanding upset of the western indoor tennis tournament now being held at the 108th Engineers armory, West 34th street and Wentworth avenue, when he defeated the favorite, John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., in a semi-final match last night, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4.

The other semi-final match between Bill Parkhill, Chicago, defending champion, and George Ball, El Paso, Tex., star, was won by Ball after four hard sets, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3. Ball had beaten Parkhill earlier in the season.

Breaks Through McDiarmid's Defense.

The Quinn-McDiarmid match left the spectators blinking as the Chicago player broke through McDiarmid's usually strong defense. Quinn's drives proved too difficult for the Texan to handle. Only in the final set was McDiarmid able to furnish real opposition for the Chicagoan.

With the score 5-2 against him McDiarmid showed flashes of the ability which ranks him No. 16 nationally when he crept up to within one game of tying up the set. At this point however Quinn used a terrific forehand drive to good advantage taking the next two games, set and match.

Ball's victory over Parkhill was notable for the fact that George had completed a strenuous two hour doubles match only thirty minutes before meeting Parkhill.

Miss Hoffmeister Wins.

In the women's singles Louise Hoffmeister of Chicago climaxed her string of victories by eliminating the defending champion, Jackie Ayer, also of Chicago, 6-0, 6-1. Her opponent in the finals will be Catherine Wolf of Chicago. She reached the final rounds by eliminating Lois Jaques, another local player, 6-2, 6-1, in the semi-finals. The Hoffmeister-Wolf match will begin at 2 o'clock.

The doubles team of Frank O'Connell and Dave Krieger of Chicago defeated Gerin Cameron and Johnny Sgostrom, 6-3, 6-2. The pair will meet the winner of the George O'Connell and Quinn and George and Russell Ball match in the finals this afternoon.

SOON OVER BEATS PATCHPOCKET BY HEAD AT BOWIE

Bowie, Md., April 7.—(AP)—Soon Over, Kentucky Derby and the Preakness candidate, carrying the silks of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, scored a popular and impressive victory today as he whipped eight other three year olds, two of which also are eligible for the Derby, in the Rowe Memorial handicap at Bowie.

Ridden by Silvio Coucci, Soon Over, which ran fourth in the Florida Derby, outgamed G. W. Ogle's lightly regarded Patchpocket in a stirring stretch duel. Only a head separated the pair at the finish, while four lengths to the rear came Mrs. C. S. Bromley's Chance Flight to take third portion of the $3,500 added purse.

Earns $2,900 for Owner.

With 119 pounds in the saddle the chestnut colt, making his first start since the Florida Derby, stepped the six furlongs in the good time of 1:13 to earn $2,900 for his owner and pay his backers $5.20 for each $2 invested in the mutuels.

The disappointment of the race was The Immortal II., Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Derby and Preakness candidate, which came to America last fall heralded as the champion two year old of Ireland. It was the invader's debut in this country and, although he showed a fair flash of speed in the first three furlongs, he wound up last after being eased up in the closing stages by Bobby Jones.

William Ziegler Jr.'s Bonanza, a topnotch juvenile last year and also eligible for the spring classic at Churchill Downs and Pimlico, finished fifth, some eight lengths back of Soon Over.

From a good start Tony Tipton broke Patchpocket in front, but the Ogle three year old quickly relinquished his position to such speedsters as Happy Go, Blue for Boys, running coupled in the betting with The Immortal II., and Bonanza.

Rounding out of the far turn, however, Patchpocket again moved up and, followed by Soon Over, swept past the pacemakers before entering the home stretch. Under Coucci's strong handling Mrs. Whitney's colt finally headed his rival, but Patchpocket held on surprisingly well until the final strides.

CANTERON PAYS $57.70.

Arlington Downs, Tex., April 7.—(AP)—Canteron, a 30 to 1 shot, won the feature race of the Arlington Downs spring meeting today for four year olds and up. E. Litzenberger brought the winner home in 1:45 1-5 over the mile route.

Canteron paid his backers $57.70 on a straight $2 ticket, $18.40 to place and $8.20 to show.

HUEU WINS BY NOSE.

San Bruno, Cal., April 7.—(AP)—Starting strongly, but weakening to win only by a nose, Hueu, a C. A. Hartwell entry with Frankie Wilbourn up, captured the $700 Carl Laemmle handicap at Tanforan track today. Prince Heather was second and the favorite, Marceita, third. Time for the A. B. Spreckels course was 1:10.

Hueu paid $5, $3.80, and $2.60 in the mutuels. Prince Heather returned $4 and $2.60, and Marceita, $2.40. It was Jocky Wilbourn's first handicap victory since his comeback from a spill here last fall, in which he was injured.

DERBY ENTRANTS TAKE IT EASY ON MUDDY TRACK

Louisville, Ky., April 7.—[U. P.]—Heavy night rains prevented any extended moves by Kentucky Derby candidates quartered at the two local training camps today. Only half a dozen prospective starters in the 60th running of the Derby ventured onto the muddy tracks at Churchill Downs and Douglas Park.

At the former course Naval Cadet reeled off an easy mile in 1:47. Light Up negotiated seven furlongs in 1:37 3-5 and Blind Brook turned three-quarters of a mile in 1:19.

Exponent, Beau Tod, and Rettef were breezed three furlongs at Douglas Park, the first named being clocked in :35 4-5, by far the best move of the trio.

DRINMORE LAD WINS DEEP RUN STEEPLECHASE

Curles Neck Farm, Va., April 7.—(AP)—Drinmore Lad, owned by Paul Mellon, Pittsburgh, galloped to victory this afternoon in the deep run hunt cup steeplechase, featured event of the opening of the spring racing program. J. E. Ryan was in the irons.

Giolo, owned by Mrs. Vadim Makaroff, with R. B. Young up, finished a length behind the winner. Mrs. Frank M. Gould's Ostend was third. Drinmore Lad covered the three miles in 6 minutes and 42 seconds.

Mrs. La Barba Gets Divorce in California

Los Angeles, Cal., April 7.—[Special.]—A divorce against Fidel La Barba, former flyweight champion, was handed down today in favor of Mrs. Marion De Beck La Barba, who married the boxer in April, 1928. Mrs. La Barba declared La Barba left her March 1, 1932.

Mrs. Clark's On Post Wins English Plate Event

WORCESTER, England, April 7.—(AP)—Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's On Post today won the Evesham Welter plate over a mile and three furlongs by a half length from C. M. S. Sangster's Gallic Law and seven others. On Post was 9 to 2 in the betting. He won a purse of £150.

Widener Stars Will Race at ArlingtonPark

Joseph E. Widener is expected to send the main division of his large stable to Arlington Park for the first time for the 30 days of racing commencing June 25. He is a leading nominator to the $60,000 Arlington Futurity, with ten entries.

In former seasons at the northside course, the Belmont Park and Hialeah Park leader has been represented only by a few stakes candidates and steeplechasers. Last summer his Golden Way finished second to Inlander in the classic, while in 1930 his Curate was narrowly beaten by Pigeon Hole in the Arlington Handicap. The Philadelphia sportsman won two runnings of the North Shore steeplechase with Arc Light and Luckite and the Lake Shore steeplechase with Indigo. He no longer is interested in this branch of racing and his popular red and white striped silks with black cap are carried solely by flat racers.

Five By Sickle.

Among the ten Widener hopefuls for the Futurity are five sons and daughters of Sickle, imported English horse which sired Jabot, Kawagoe, Agrarian, and other good youngsters in his first crop. One of the candidates by Sickle is Mowdown, a half brother to Chance Play, Chance Shot and Pari Mutuel, all of which made a high mark in racing. Another Sickle prospect is Drinkwater, a half brother to Catalan.

Chance Shot, now promising young sire, is represented by three Futurity candidates among the Widener eligibles and one of these is Shot Proof, a brother to Peace Chance. The latter is the Philadelphia sportsman's leading candidate for three year old honors.

Widener also is expected to have powerful representation in such Arlington specials as the Classic, Arlington Handicap and Stars and Stripes Handicap. Golden Way and Hurryoff, the latter winner of the Belmont Stakes last season, are potential stars in the older division while Peace Chance may clash with other leading three year olds in the Classic.

Coyne Head Trainer.

Peter Coyne is now first trainer of the Widener establishment with Dan E. Stewart having a division. The horses in charge of Coyne are now in Kentucky, but they will go to Belmont Park after the Derby and will be expected here at the conclusion of the Belmont meeting. Widener recently acquired the contract on Jockey Wayne Wright, who is well and favorably known by Arlington fans.

Ohio Is First Baseball Foe at Notre Dame

Notre Dame, Ind., April 7.—[Special.]—The Notre Dame baseball and golf teams will open their schedules with home contests next week, with tennis and track scheduled to get under way the following week.

Practice games with South Bend amateur teams were scheduled for today and tomorrow for the baseball team. The golfers have been working indoors under the direction of Pete Hodkinson, professional at the South Bend Country club.

Hodkinson is introducing a course in golf at Notre Dame to be open to all students. He will give daily half hour lectures either in the university auditorium or in the gymnasium. At present he is working only with the members of the team, as far as the personnel can be designated on the basis of last year's scores.

The baseball team will meet Ohio State here next Friday in its first official game. The game will mark the introduction of Coach Clarence (Jake) Kline as varsity baseball coach. He recently succeeded George Keogan. Kline is faced with an eighteen game schedule which includes fourteen games with Big Ten teams.

The golf team will open its season here Saturday against Detroit.

CAMBRIDGE WINS FROM HARVARD AT RUGBY, 41-18

New York, April 7.—[Special.]—Four thousand five hundred saw the Cambridge university rugby team open its four game tour of the east by defeating Harvard, 41 to 18, today at Ohio field. This was the first international intercollegiate game ever played in the east.

Although the field was soggy from the heavy rains of the morning the visitors gave an excellent account of themselves. They possessed too much speed and too powerful kicking for Harvard. At one stage of the game, Harvard trailed by only a single point and in the middle of the second half brought the score to 26 to 18.

W. Wooler and R. C. S. Dick combined well at three-quarters and made six of the visitors' tries. Wooler also showed some long distance punting. G. W. Parker made six kicks after tries. C. W. Jones, stand-off half, who was expected to star, was hurt early in the game and forced to retire.

Don Meiklejohn and Allan Sherman, three-quarter backs, played well for Harvard, Meiklejohn scoring nine points on three kicks after try and a penalty kick of 40 yards.

GRAND NATIONAL VICTOR TO GET FLAT RACE TESTS

LONDON, April 7.—(AP)—Golden Miller, recognized as the world's greatest steeplechase horse since his record breaking victory in the Grand National, is to be given tests on the flat this summer.

The horse's owner, Dorothy Paget, and his trainer, Basil Briscoe, are convinced Golden Miller has the speed and stamina to hold his own over the longer distances. No horse ever has succeeded in following up a Grand National victory with success in high class flat racing.

Riley Preps Beat Knox in Dual Meet, 63 to 46

South Bend, Ind., April 7.—[Special.]—Riley of South Bend opened its track season today with a 63 to 46 victory over Knox High school. Riley scored slams in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Knox won only three firsts out of the 13 events, taking the mile run, 880 yard dash and the 120 yard high hurdles.

5,000,000 Migratory Bird Stamps Go on Sale June 16

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(AP)—Five million new migratory bird stamps will be placed on sale June 16 by the postoffice department. The stamps, to cost $1 each, must be attached to licenses of migratory bird hunters to make their kills legal. The design for the stamp has not yet been approved.

SH-H-! HERE ARE KENTUCKY DERBY 100-1 SHOT TIPS

Cleves, Revere Well Liked by Eastern Turfmen.

BY FRENCH LANE.

If you see a couple of fellows carrying on a whispered conversation these days likely as not you will be right if you guess they are discussing a long shot tip they've just heard on the outcome of the Kentucky Derby May 5th at Churchill Downs.

Never in the last score of years have so many dark horse tips been flying around as there are this spring. Almost anybody you meet has one to pass along to you, and the odds against most of them range all the way from 100 to 1 on up.

Only in Kentucky, where five or six leading 2 year olds of last season stand out, are the long shots getting the go-by. The dyed-in-the-wool horsemen in the Blue Grass country do not take much stock in the talk that a miracle is likely to happen in the Kentucky Derby.

Like Revere and Cleves.

In the east two of the red hot longshot tips are Revere and Cleves. Both these colts are trained by the veteran Jim Fitzsimmons, and the reports are out that everybody around the barns has a wager of some sort or another on them. They get better than 100 to 1 against each of them.

Revere is owned by William Woodward's Belair stud and is a son of Sir Gallahad III. His dam is My Reverie. Sir Gallahad III. is the sire of Gallant Fox, which won the 1930 Kentucky Derby in the silks of Mr. Woodward.

Both these colts have wintered well in New York and are reported to be well advanced in their training. They are nearer to racing condition than most of the other 3 year olds that have put in the winter in New York.

How About the Irish Colt?

Then there's a hot tip going around the east on The Immortal II. He is an Irish bred youngster and was ranked among the best 2 year olds in the British isles last season.

He was brought over to America last fall and is owned by the Greentree stable of Mrs. Payne Whitney. His trials at the Red Bank, N. J., farm, where the Greentree stable horses have wintered, are reported to have been the best of any Derby eligibles in the stable.

This colt has been showing a lot of speed in his training drills. He didn't seem to find it a bit of a handicap to run the American way around the track which is just the opposite to the direction he ran in his European engagements last season.

Yet in his first American start against a band of Derby eligibles at Bowie yesterday The Immortal II. ran a disgraceful last.

The chart maker gave him a break by saying "The Immortal II. was pulled up when beaten." Those horses that are pulled up when beaten don't win the Derby.

Riskulus Gains Support.

Derby backing for Riskulus continues to pour in from the Pacific coast. The California colt has also impressed many turfmen in Texas, where he now is training for the Texas Derby to be run late this month at the Arlington Downs track.

The real story book horse of the Derby, should he get down in front, will be Time Clock, the Florida Derby winner, who is also being whispered around as "the best thing in the Kentucky Derby."

Right now Charles R. Thompson, a Kentucky breeder of thoroughbreds, is attempting to buy back the mother of this upstanding colt. The mare's name is Milfoil. Thompson bought her in 1932 for $50. A year later he sold her for $20. Now he is combing the Blue Grass regions to bring her back to his farm at almost any price.

Picked Up for $700.

Milfoil foaled Time Clock shortly before Thompson bought her. Time Clock went under the hammer at the Saratoga auctions in 1932 and on the advice of Trainer Bob Smith was purchased by Mrs. Dodge Sloan's Brookmead stable for $700. Smith was so high on the youngster that Mrs. Sloan would have bid much more had there been any necessity of it.

Nobody else wanted him, however, so the $700 colt went on to win the $10,000 Florida Derby, and if he continues to improve like reports have it that he is improving, he may wind up as the winner of $100,000 or more before the season ends. He is being made eligible for all the richer 3 year old specials, both in the east and the west.

ST. LOUIS GETS FIFTH IN ELKS' BOWLING MEET

Cleveland, O., April 7.—(AP)—The Judge Dickman five man team of St. Louis tonight went into fifth place in the Elks' national bowling tournament with a score of 2,827.

The Braves five man team from Oak Park gave the best performance of Chicago district bowlers, hitting the pins for 2,712. This score was not good enough, however, to land the team among the five leaders.

G. Vogel led with 190, 194, 233 for 617. His teammates scored: N. De Grazia, 557; D. Pecaro, 489; F. Krumlosky, 515, and L. Denney, 534.

Mineralites Make Title Bid Tomorrow in Bowling League

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

The Mineralites, who have won 70 games and lost 14 in the Randolph league, have not had such smooth sailing in the Windy City Major league. This quintet of Bud Wright, Steers, et al., tomorrow faces the necessity of winning three games from the Corina Cigars, pace setters in the Windy City major league, if it also is to dominate the west side organization.

Taking three from the Corinas, who have a standing of 61 games won and 23 lost, and a two game lead over the Mineralites, is a man-sized job, as the other fourteen teams in the fast Windy City league will attest.

The Windy City league will end its 29th season next Monday. Tomorrow's schedule:

K. M. Kralovecs vs. Rosedale Dairy; Blasek Tailors vs. Atlas Wet Wash; Corina Cigars vs. Mineralites; Svehla Primes vs. Illinois Pie company; Vogel Brothers vs. Rock Garden Tavern; Pilsen Olympia vs. Cicero Boosters; Soper Brothers vs. A. J. Cermaks; Curtiss Buy-Jiminy vs. B. Pizzeria.

On South Side Alleys.

Most of the Chicago teams are wishing they could get scores like these in the A. B. C.: In the Woodlawn Major league the Brucks piled up 3,196, against which the Woodlawns had 3,084; the Club El Rado shot 3,058, and the Miller High Lifes gathered in 3,024 for three victories over the James Whalens, who clicked with 3,002. All the boys can knock the pins dizzy at home, but on the Peoria drives it's something else again. High individual totals at the last session of the Woodlawn league were: Kluge, 706; Cooksey, 701; Kobza, 654; Skovle, 628; Doyle, 600; Grogan, 630; Marcich, 647; Knopka, 639; Schaak, 633; Dunn, 658; Blazina, 683; McClintock, 615; Wogan, 644; Minners, 613; Chyzy, 650; Miller, 655; Garvey, 647; Sajdak, 622; Plunge, 683; Frye, 651; Bunn, 622; Calloway, 609; Gawron, 668, and Anderson, 616. . . . As the Bruck league nears its windup the John Conroys are in first place with 60 won and 18 lost. And Wiesner refuses to slip below a 206 average, so Klatt still is second with 204 and Marcich third with 202.

Tournaments.

Edward A. Hayes, national commander, officially will open the Advertising Men's Telegraphic tournament of the Amercan Legion Tuesday evening at the Congress alleys. More than 25 cities have accepted invitations of the Advertising Men's Post No. 38 to participate in this event, the first of its kind. All five man events will be rolled next Saturday and the doubles and singles April 21. Scores from each city will be wired to the Ad Post headquarters in the Sherman hotel, where Jack Schaffle, chairman; Harry Nelson, A. F. Hammesfahr, Ed Felt, and W. G. Albert will be in charge of determining the winners. . . . The two day individual sweepstakes at the Bruck and Wiesner recreation will wind up this evening. It's three games across the six alleys.

Here and There.

Frank Brill is disgusted. He had 11 strikes in a row and sailed in a good hit, only to have the five pin stick. That left him with a 299 game to go along with a 163 and 223. He is a member of the Park View Laundry team. . . . The team representing Stieve's Stove and Coal company did some red hot shooting on the St. Andrew's alleys, as witness: C. Mauge, 222; H. Engel, 238; W. Mauge, 203; F. Kaminski, 268, and O. Mauge, 279. Just a 1,210 game! . . . Hackbush of the Sterbens Plumbers of the Gold Coast league helped himself to a 300 game and a 709 series while his teammate, Sinke, checked in with a 751 total that included 13 strikes in a row and 29 strikes out of a possible 36. This pair's work made it possible for the Sterbenses to total 3,247, the third high in Dutch Meier's organization. . . . Les Fuller rolled a 279 game and a 715 series in the Garden Major league. Herb Freitag came next with 690. The Kingsbury Pales continue in the team lead with Anheuser-Busch four games back.

The Butler Brothers league team will meet De Kalb bowlers in a return match today at the Randolph alleys. De Kalb was beaten at home some time ago. Next Friday the Butlers have a telegraphic struggle with brothers from the company's Minneapolis office. The Butler Brothers' regular league schedule has ended.

Classic League.

B. Boyle's 754 series was best for the week in the men's Classic league. Other scores in the 700 class were made by F. Krumski, 716; W. Lenzen, 715; K. Pagel, 713 and 710, and J. Gratz, 705. The Baby Ruths, nearing the second half championship, have a four game advantage over the second place Old Manhattans. Tonight's schedule:

Randolph League.

Led Wernicke's 289 Anheuser-Busch shot 1,146, high game of the week in the Randolph league. In addition to having the high individual game, Wernicke turned in the best series with a 689 total. Traubinik's 684 was next best. The leading Mineralites added three victories to their string, as did the second place Birk Brothers.

North End League.

The Luxor Cigars topped the shooting in the North End Traveling league with a 3,182 total, which netted them a clean sweep over the league leading Edelweiss. The Fox's, meanwhile, with 3,112, cleaned up on the Superbs and the Birk Brothers did likewise to the last place Nationals, the Birks turning in 3,156. Some of the leading individual totals were: Geiser, 689; Leick, 635; Krisch, 684; Hjort, 664; Strouse, 642; Waterson, 641; Marian, 651; Green, 646. Tomorrow night's schedule:

Fox's vs. Edelweiss at Milford, 7 p. m.; Michelobs at Kaads, 7 p. m.; Tavern Pales vs. Birk Bros. at Samuelsons, 7 p. m.; Nationals vs. Superbs at the Willow, 7 p. m.; Luxors vs. Westers at Bryn Mawr, 7 p. m.

About the Women.

The Century of Progress women's handicap tournament at Samuelson's will end this evening with teams from Oshkosh, Wis.; Hammond, Ind.; Aurora, and Cicero occupying the alleys. White City has taken the five woman lead with a gross of 2,950; K. Nolan and L. Anderson top the doubles with 1,211; Ruth Gruenes, with 622—87—709, heads the singles list, and V. Gross' 1,804 is best in the all events. . . . Led by Edith Wohlers, the Irving Smart Shop turned in a 963 game and a 2,598 series in the Samuelson Major league. Minnie Jankinson shot 592 and Ruth Gruenes totaled 574 as the New Paris Restaurant got 2,593. The Green Rivers and Herman's Florists also passed the 2,500 mark. Grace Culver registered a 562 count and Violet Whitney 550. . . . A women's individual handicap tournament will be held next Saturday and Sunday at Crocombe's Woodlawn. . . . Six games now is the margin by which Windy City tops the Women's Classic league. Mrs. Wilman's team has won 53 and lost 25 and, of course, her 175 average is not hurting the Windy City record.

Purdue Clinic Closes with Football Game

Lafayette, Ind., April 7.—[Special.]—A 15 yard run around end by Cletus Wright late in the second half gave the Blacks a 13 to 7 victory over the Golds today when two picked Purdue elevens played a regulation game as the closing feature of the third annual football clinic. More than 300 high school and college coaches from seven states attended the clinic.

Played under the new rules to give the coaches a view of what can be expected this fall, the game was filled with forward passes, although all scoring came on running plays. The Blacks scored first on an off tackle play by Leon Dailey. Dan Toriello dropped kicked the extra point. A 50 yard run by George Basker with an intercepted pass, tied up the score until Wright got away.

The day opened with an address on the fundamentals of offensive fotball by John Magnabosco of Clinton High school. Jim Loveless of Peru High school took up the fundamentals of the double wing back offense before the group moved to the practice field for a demonstration on kicking and backfield fundamentals by Frank Carideo, former member of the Purdue staf, who is now head coach at the University of Missouri.

Preceding the afternoon game, Coach Noble Kizer and other members of the Purdue staf devoted an hour and a half to demonstrations of teaching fundamentals for each position.

DETROIT QUINTET GETS 3,089 SCORE TO LEAD A. B. C.

Five Man Competition to End Tonight.

Peoria, Ill., April 7.—[Special.]—Employers Mutuals of Milwaukee who have been leading the American Bowling Congress tournament for three weeks, were dethroned tonight when the Stroh Bohemian Beers, formerly the Palace Recreation of Detroit, scored 3,089. The Detroit lineup, former world match champions, scored games of 926, 1,101, and 1,086. The team event will be concluded tomorrow night.

Herb Lange, president of the Chicago Classic league, just missed a berth among the all-event leaders today in posting a 1,901 total, an average of 211.2. Lange scored 200 or better in the 1926 tourney at Toledo for all his games and duplicated that performance today.

He chalked up counts of 207, 202, and 202 as a member of the Edelweiss Beers and came back with a 665 total, collected on games of 224, 226, and 224 in the doubles event, paired with Billy Goldammer. The pair registered high doubles count of the day, 1,369. Lange scored 200, 215, and 205 in the singles class to round out a brilliant exhibition.

Dick Winsberg and Lee Calloway opened with a 366 doubles game and then connected with 420 and 464 to total 1,250.

Calloway hit 173, 209, and 212 while Winsberg followed with 193, 211, and 252. Herb Freitag and Bill Heerman chalked up 1,205 when Heerman went on a strike spree to register 205, 223, and 227.

Simonds Press of Rochester went into sixth position in the team event with 2,957. The New Yorkers opened with 967, sandwiched in a 1,012 game and then followed with 978. Buonomo five scored 2,853 in finishing second on the squad against such competition as the Brunswick Red Necks, Congressman Auf der Heide and Joe Falcaro's American Legion, rated as New York's best lineups.

Falcaro Fails to Hit Stride.

Joe Falcaro and Andy Varipapa, nationally known bowlers, were unable to hit their stride. Varipapa had 194—181—197 and Falcaro 182—192—189.

WEHRLE RETAINS LEAD IN MIDWEST GOLF WITH 146

French Lick, Ind., April 7.—[Special.]—A brilliant round of 70 today enabled George Dawson of the Glen Oak Country club to get within one stroke of Wilford Wehrle of Racine who, at the end of the second round of the Midwest medal play amateur tournament, was leading the field with 146.

Dawson, who won the title last year, had scored 77 in the opening round. This afternoon he came home two shots under par. The final round will be played tomorrow.

Plays Last Nine in 33.

Dawson's start was not auspicious, as he three putted the first green, and at the fourth was trapped and took three putts. From this point on he played nearly perfect golf, save for three putts on the eighth green. He made the last 14 holes in five under par, his incoming round of 33 being the best of the tournament. He had six birdies and was over par only three times.

Edwin Schilberg Jr. of the North Shore Golf club, scored a 72 and is tied with Dawson for second place.

Far from being out of the running, Jack Westland of Bob o'Link, the western amateur champion, was in fourth place with 149. Westland started with a seven on the first hole, but played consistent golf except on the eighth hole, where he took four putts for a six. Jack finished the round with a birdie three on the 18th hole.

Wehrle's only poor hole was the fifth where he took a seven. He finished with a card of 75, as compared to his 71 of yesterday.

Lehman Gets 79.

Young Phillip Talbott of Bloomington, Ind., weakened on the incoming nine on which he took 42 strokes, his total of 80 practically putting him out of contention. Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields was unable to do better than 79, while Chick Evans duplicated his score of 78 on the first day, for a total of 156.

Today's scores and the 36 hole totals:

GOODMAN AT PEAK

Omaha, Neb., April 7.—(AP)—Confident that his game is better than last year, Johnny Goodman will leave Omaha Thursday, bound for England and high adventure.

While other golfers were grabbing the head lines with their play in winter tournaments, the national open champion remained at home, perfecting his strokes and saving his money. His steady winter play has prepared him amply for an ambitious summer program.

"For one thing," he advised questioners, "I am hitting longer drives. But, best of all and I hope it stays a while, my putting touch is the best I've ever had. I'm getting a lot of them on the first try."

After his arrival in New York Goodman plans to shoot a few practice rounds before embarking with the Walker cup squad April 21. He said tonight he plans to compete, while in England, in the British amateur, but not in the British open. He has no fear of becoming over golfed, although he will defend his national open title at Merion, June 7-8, and would like to bring the national amateur crown to Omaha.

Selection of the Merion course as the scene of the national open pleased Goodman. "I have played over it and like it. It's just built for my game—not too long and requiring placed shots rather than distance," he said.

100 TO REPORT FOR MILLS' FIRST PRACTICE TODAY

Nearly 100 sandlot, college, and high school baseball players will compete with the veterans in the opening practice of the Chicago Mills semi-pro team at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, this afternoon. Manager Bill Harley expects to get the drill under way at 2 o'clock.

Regular members of last year's team who will report include John Conlan, center fielder; Babe Goldwaite, catcher; Louis Weintraub, third baseman, and Press Cruthers, second baseman.

Harley said work on park grounds and the grand stand will be completed by April 22, when the Mills will play their first game.

Sonja Henie Has New Goal: A Tennis Title

Sonja Henie, world's figure skating champion for eight straight years, whose final skating exhibition in this country is scheduled for the Chicago Stadium next Sunday, may return to America this summer, seeking to win new sports laurels in tennis. Sonja ranked third among Scandinavian women tennis players last season and will begin training for the United States national tournament at Forest Hills, N. Y., late this summer.

Miss Henie's ambition to star in tennis began while Molla Bjurstedt, who is now Mrs. Mallory, was the sensation of the courts by virtue of winning a string of United States national titles beginning in 1915 and continuing until 1922.

May Practice in Chicago.

Now Sonja Henie's aim is to get back to Oslo, Norway, to practice for her tennis career. When she arrives in Chicago from Minneapolis, where she is giving an exhibition tonight, she may don tennis togs after her daily ice skating workouts at the Stadium and swing the racquet on one of Chicago's indoor courts.

She hopes to enter the annual English tennis tournament at Wimbledon next year, she told Harvey Johnsen, publicity agent for her Stadium appearance, during a recent interview.

She cited the fact that no Scandinavian since or prior to Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt-Mallory has occupied the tennis top spot and feels that her chances to excel in more than one sport are good. Sonja is also good at swimming and horseback riding.

Robin Lee on Program.

Andrew Ellingson, president of the Norwegian-American Athletic association, announced yesterday that Robin Lee, junior national figure skating champion, will be among the leading amateur stars who will be on the skating card built around the pretty Norwegian girl's exhibition at the Stadium.

ARMOUR TECH TO MEET MAROON NINE IN OPENER

With most of last year's regulars returning, the Armour Tech baseball team will open its schedule Tuesday afternoon when the University of Chicago comes to Armour field. Coach Krafft's Armour team defeated the Maroons twice in early season contests a year ago.

Lukas, a 1933 regular, will share the catching job with Bartusek, who has made a good showing in the spring practice sessions.

Capt. Vic and Tad Omiecinski, regular infielders for the last two seasons, will appear again at short and first base. Tad finished well up the list in league batting last year with an average of .371. Other regulars returning are Beigler and Lillis in the infield, and Reed, Adams, and Henke, outfielders.

The first game of the conference schedule will be played at Armour on April 20 with Elmhurst college.

LOUISIANA STATE TRACK MEN BEAT INDIANA, 69 TO 48

Baton Rouge, La., April 7.—(AP)—Louisiana State university, national track and field champion, defeated Indiana university, 69 to 48, in a dual meet today.

Four national stars, Ivan Fuqua and Charles Hornbostel, and Louisiana State's Glen [Slats] Hardin and Jack Torrance, turned in victories, but Hardin experienced what was for him the almost novel experience of being beaten in the quarter-mile.

Fuqua, beaten by Hardin with record breaking 47.1 in the 440 when Louisiana State won the national collegiate meet last summer, nosed out the Louisianan in 48.3 today.

Hornbostel whipped Red Lehman of State in the 880. Hornbostel was anchor man in the relay won by Indiana, and carried the baton to the tape a few feet ahead of Hardin, who cut down a big lead.

Torrance, Louisiana's weight star, defeated Busbee of Indiana in the shot and discus, but failed to approach his recent world record of 53 feet 6 inches in the shot, winning with 51 feet ½ inch.

Points that clinched the Louisiana State victory came from first and second places in the 100 yard dash, the 220 hurdles, and the broad jump.

Eddie Reay, a freshman from Johnston City, has taken over the shortstop berth. Kenneth Woods, a catcher last year, is now performing in the outfield along with two other veterans, Roy Colin and Jack Taylor. Capt. Jim Winn at first, Tony Pacotti, catcher, and Zaber and Branham, pitchers, are other lettermen.

Four Track Meets.

Four track meets are scheduled for Saturday: Charleston Teachers at Carbondale Teachers', Elmhurst at State Normal, Armour Tech at De Kalb Teachers, and Culver Stockton [Missouri] at Macomb Teachers'.

Charleston Teachers' track men are led by Charles Austin, dash star, who was high point scorer of the team last year. In the middle distance and distance events the Teachers are especially strong. Milton Baker, quarter miler; Cummins and Dawson, 880 men, and Witte, two miler, are outstanding. Don Neal is expected to win honors in the hurdle events.

Elmhurst has a strong aggregation to face State Normal, the 1933 Little Nineteen outdoor champion. Two Michigan Teams Making Eastern Tour

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 7.—[Special.]—Michigan students are enjoying their spring recess, but two of their teams will put in an active week. The swimming team, Big Ten and national collegiate champion, is making a tour along the Atlantic seaboard, while the baseball team is invading the east for its spring training trip.

The swimmers are polishing off a highly successful season, but will have to meet stiffer competition than they have had during the season to continue it. First on their list will be the Newark C. C. Columbia university, strengthened by several star New York swimmers, will be second, and the powerful New York A. C. third. The next meet will find the Wolverines opposed to a team made up of New England stars, representing Brookline, Mass. The Toronto Y. M. C. A. will be the final opponent.

Eleven Make Trip.

Coach Matt Mann has eleven men on the trip—Capt. Jim Cristy and Tex Robertson for the middle distances; Ogden Dalrymple, Bob Renner and Henry Kamienski for the sprints and sprint relay; Bob Lawrence, breast stroke; Taylor Drysdale and Bill Boice, back stroke, and Dick Degener, Derland Johnston, and Frank Fehsenfeld, diving.

The baseball team will work outside for the first time this year when it competes against a group of eastern college teams during the week. It may not have any advantage over its first opponent, Colgate, which also has been kept indoors by bad weather, but it will engage teams that have an edge in training when it encounters Rutgers, Lehigh, Temple, and West Chester Teachers. A game with Oberlin will complete the trip.

Wistert to Pitch Opener.

Coach Ray Fisher hasn't been able to determine just who will be in the starting lineup. It appears, however, that big Whitey Wistert will pitch the first game and Ted Chapman will catch. The infield probably will be made up of Joe Lerner at first base; Clayton Paulson, second; Stan Waterbor, shortstop, and Russ Oliver, third. In the outfield will be Capt. Avon Artz, Ted Petoskey, and John Regeczi.

It begins to appear that Michigan may maintain the fast pace set early in the year in the accumulation of championships. During the fall and winter seasons it engaged in six sports, football, basketball, hocky, indoor track, wrestling, and swimming. It won Big Ten titles in three of these—football, track, and swimming—and a national collegiate title in swimming.

Golf Team Strong.

At long range it appears that the track team may be able to repeat as title winner out of doors and that the golf team may retain the Big Ten crown it captured a year ago. Prospects are less hopeful for the baseball team, and the tennis team still is an unknown quantity. John Johnstone, tennis coach, has seven men who are so nearly on a par that he may have to draw lots in picking a team for each meet.

Walter Marty Leaps to New Unofficial High Jump Mark

Fresno, Cal., April 7.—(AP)—Walter Marty, holder of the world's high jump record, leaped to a new unofficial mark of 6 feet 9½ inches in a meet between Fresno State college and the Sacramento Junior college today. As no officials of the athletic union were present, the mark will not be eligible for a new record.

N. Y. GARDEN FINDS AMATEUR SPORTS GAINING IN 1934

Crowds at Pro Events Show Big Drop.

New York, April 7.—An amazing trend toward amateur pastimes as the leaders in the sports recovery program was revealed today in a set of figures on comparative attendances for 1933 and 1934 issued by the Madison Square Garden.

Professional boxing, wrestling, and six day bike racing this year all fell below the 1933 standard, with the fight business the poorest of the lot. Professional hocky alone fought off the general trend with a gain, while marked progress was registered this year in amateur hocky, and amateur boxing, the annual rodeo, college hocky, track, skating carnivals, and even the horse show marked gains over last season. Figures on cash receipts will not be available until the Garden's book are balanced for the fiscal year in June.

Big Drop in Pro Boxing.

For 11 indoor professional boxing shows, with one more [Tommy Loughran's match with Walter Neusel] to come, the attendance in 1934 so far has been only 84,944 paid customers, as compared with the 206,228 who saw 18 shows during the 1933 indoor campaign. Eleven wrestling cards in the Garden this winter drew 70,939 persons, as compared with the paid attendance of 76,671 for only nine shows in 1933.

Despite increased attendance, professional hocky did not fare so well financially as last year because of reduced ticket prices. The New York Rangers and Americans attracted 440,990 to 48 home contests during the 1934 National league season as compared with 421,718 in 1933.

The Amateur Hocky league, playing in the Garden, gained decidedly in attendance, bringing in 143,959 patrons for 24 games to top last year's figures of 96,313 for 19 contests. College hocky, in five games, drew 13,927 against a 1933 turnout of 8,466 for four matches.

Due chiefly to the appearance of Sonja Henie and Karl Schaefer, world champions, two ice skating carnivals attracted 28,633 this winter where the eastern meet last year drew only 3,404 persons.

Approximately 16,000 more persons attended this year's horse show, 42,000 more the rodeo, and amateur boxing, in 15 tournaments, showed an attendance of 72,619 for 1934 in comparison with 34,819 for eight programs in 1933. The annual amateur Golden Gloves, with two tournaments, almost doubled last year's tournout for one show, 36,400 against 19,476, these shows approaching capacity both years.

MICHIGAN STATE TEAM "WEAK AT BAT"; HITS .337

East Lansing, Mich., April 7.—[Special.]—Surprised to have found strength where he thought weakness existed, and vice versa, Coach John Kobs is giving his Michigan State college baseball players a chance to rest up after their southern training trip. Meanwhile the College field diamond is drying out. At the present time practice outdoors is impossible.

Kobs anticipated a batting weakness when his team invaded the south. He thought the pitching would hold up well and had little doubts but what the fielding would be on a par with other years. Results of the games indicate that everything went contrary to the signs. The batting was little short of phenomenal whereas the fielding was ragged and the pitching ordinary.

The Spartans came back to East Lansing with a team batting average of .337, the highest mark ever attained by a state nine on a southern invasion. Leading the sluggers was Bill McCann, Hastings senior, who produced the mark of .667 in six games. Capt. Floyd Morse, catcher, banged out eight hits in 17 trips to the plate for a record of .471, and Charley Brown, Jackson sophomore, had .450. Art Rouse, Boyne City, third baseman, hit .353. Theron Fager, Saginaw, second baseman, banged out a .320, and Eddie Fielder, Lansing shortstop, boasted a .318.

The team will open the home season with Hillsdale here one week from Saturday.

POTATOES, FREE OF U. S. CONTROL, TREBLE PRICES

Form One of Three Most Profitable Crops.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Potato growers of the nation have been counting up this week the benefits accrued to their 1933 crop, the last of which is being marketed before the heavy runs of new potatoes start coming from the gulf states. They have found, in a market entirely free from governmental interference, that a low supply plus continued demand has on the average trebled their prices, comparing current quotations with those a year ago.

Potatoes are important cash crops for thousands of farmers from coast to coast. Even in the great dairy state of Wisconsin, potatoes constitute the largest cash crop, and there are few farmers who do not grow at least a few acres of them whether in the cotton belt or the corn belt.

Supplies Marketed Slowly.

A striking feature of the situation which this winter has made potatoes one of the three most profitable farm crops—soy beans and lambs are the others—is that the farmers themselves have benefited from the unusually high prices during the winter. They held, as community or individual enterprises, a goodly reserve of the rather short crop last year and have been dealing them out a few carloads at a time all season. Few brokers or potato firms bought heavily last fall and the growers are the gainers.

The potato crop of the nation last year, according to H. B. Tabb of the National Potato institute in Chicago, was 317,143,000 bushels, or 41 million bushels lighter than in 1932. The big shortage was in the middle west, due to heat and drouth. Illinois, for instance, averaged 33 bushels yield an acre, compared with the average 100 bushels.

Comparative Prices.

The cash price to growers at Waupaca, Wis., this week was $1.00 per cwt., compared with 30 cents a year ago. At Presque Isle, Me., the price this week was $2.25 a barrel, compared with 70 to 75 cents a year ago. Wisconsin rurals were more than twice the carlot price this week that they commanded a year ago.

Meanwhile, the high prices, plus the governmental efforts to decrease acreage in cotton, wheat and corn, is having its effect upon the current planting operations of potato growers. On March 15 the indications were that the acreage would be increased 7.2 per cent this year over a year ago. With a normal yield of 110 bushels an acre the 1934 crop would be 18 per cent greater than last year's.

Big Gain in South.

And the surprising thing is that the big increase is coming in the southern states, in Maine and in those states which produce early potatoes. With weather a big factor, it looks as if the 1934 crop would probably be 58 million bushels greater than last year's, the government report indicates.

Since this report was issued southern growers have been delayed by adverse weather in their plantings, in some cases by two weeks, which may reduce the total output for 1934.

Business in the seventh federal reserve district, as measured by the checks cashed, improved substantially last week over the volume for the preceding week as well as for the corresponding period of last year.

One hundred forty-six banks in 38 leading clearing house cities reported to the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago that their debits to individual deposit account for the week ended April 4 amounted to $998,997,000, showing a margin of 23.5 per cent over the total of $809,120,000 for the preceding week.

Check volume of $997,266,000 for 37 cities was 28.7 per cent in excess of the total of $774,937,000 in the corresponding week of 1933.

Debits to individual deposit account for Chicago aggregated $669,246,000 against $584,366,000 for the corresponding week of last year; Detroit, $137,553,000, against $88,479,000; Milwaukee, $48,014,000, against $42,787,000; Indianapolis, $27,784,000, against $23,442,000; Des Moines, $16,381,000, against $11,542,000, and Peoria, $8,789,000, against $6,934,000.

COTTON DECLINES IN DULL MARKET; TRADE CAUTIOUS

There was little interest in the cotton market yesterday and prices held within narrow limits. No government cotton is coming on the market, and, while the trade is picking up supplies on all weak spots, the disposition is to go slow. There have been rains over the western gulf states and temperatures in the eastern belt rose.

At the close, futures in Chicago were 1 to 4 points lower and other markets unchanged to 4 lower. Spots were off 5 in New York and Houston, the former 12.25 cents and the latter 12.20. New Orleans and Galveston were unchanged at 12.[illegible] cents and 12.20 respectively. Prices:

STORES REPORT SALES INCREASE IN EVERY LINE

Clothing and Household Goods Are Leaders.

What are people buying most? What lines have benefited to the greatest extent from improvement in business?

According to a survey of the planning department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE every class of store merchandise registered sales gains in Chicago during February over 1933, with household goods and clothing receiving particular attention.

The month marked a perfect record for Chicago department stores, the survey found. Every department in stores reporting to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago had larger sales than a year ago. Spectacular increases were shown in some divisions in which dollar volume is heaviest. Womens and misses' coats, men's clothing, furniture and some sections in the piece goods departments had the best percentage gains.

Woolen Sales Best Since 1929.

Sales exceeded both last year and 1932 in woolen dress goods, men's clothing, furs, neckware, scarfs, sporting goods and china and glassware. Increases were shown over both these years and also 1931 in woolen dress goods, neckware and scarfs and furs, while volume of woolen dress goods was the highest since 1929.

In percentage gain woolen dress goods topped the entire list with an improvement of 93.2 per cent over 1933. Other spectacular rises included silks and velvets, up 54.2 per cent; neckware and scarfs, up 46.2; small lether goods, up 45.3; women's and misses' coats and suits, up 54.9; men's clothing, up 47.9, and men's furnishings, up 40.7.

Furniture sales including beds, mattresses and springs rose 65.8 per cent, oriental rugs and domestic floor coverings gained 45.9, house furnishings advanced 59.4, china and glassware improved 40.7, furs expanded 79.8 and sporting goods rose 42.2.

Neckware Leads One Class.

Sharpest increase in ready-to-wear accessories was attained in neckware and scarfs; the smallest improvement was in the corset and brassiere division. Women's and misses' coats and suits topped ladies' ready-to-wear, and men's clothing led the men's and boys' ware. Furniture led the home furnishings group with draperies and lamps turning in the smallest gain. In the miscellaneous division furs took the lead while arts and needlework were at the bottom of the list.

Men increased their purchases of shoes more than women, the survey discloses, this category gaining 29.6 per cent for men and only 22.7 per cent for women. Proximity of warmer weather was shown in the upturn in women's and misses' sports apparel which rose 14.8 per cent while negligees and lounging apparel advanced only 34.1 per cent.

OMAHA UTILITY RECEIVERSHIP ENDED BY COURT

Omaha, Neb., April 7.—(AP)—The Circuit Court of Appeals, in a mandate filed here today, reversed a recent decision of Federal District Judge J. A. Donohoe who had upheld an ex parte receivership for the Central West Public Service company. The higher court ordered the receivership vacated.

The utility, with headquarters here, operates electric, telephone, ice and other companies in nine states. Its assets are estimated by officials at approximately $25,000,000. Charles F. McLaughlin, Omaha attorney, was recently appointed receiver by Judge Donohoe.

The mandate orders expenses of the receivership and $616 in court costs to be assessed against the original petitioners for receivership, a group of Texas and Omaha stock and bond holders.

The court denied the petitioners' claim of insolvency for the company on the grounds that with $10,270,000 of first mortgage bonds outstanding the company had $21,575,000 worth of property to cover them.

CHICAGO BANK SHARE PRICES RISE SLIGHTLY

Prices of Chicago bank stocks tended slightly higher last week. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company rose 2 points, closing at 47½ bids, 48½ asked. First National Bank of Chicago finished 2 points higher at 116 bids, 118 asked. Northern Trust company improved 5 points at 370 to 390. A gain of 2 points was recorded by Harris Trust and Savings bank at 230 to 235.

On the other hand Terminal National bank was unchanged at 10 bids, 11 asked, and bids of 90 for American National Bank and Trust company failed to attract sellers. Chicago Title and Trust company enjoyed only a light turnover, closing unchanged at 84 to 85.

MODEL FILLING STATION

This is a model gasoline filling station designed for the Garden Club of Illinois. The pumps are in the rear, out of view from the front. A modernist structure architecturally is ornamented with flower gardens, lawns and window curtains. The model will be seen this week as an exhibit in the annual flower show which opened on Navy pier yesterday and will close next Sunday.

Drivers Ask Better Roads, Lower Taxes

A large number of the candidates for the legislature at the Tuesday primary have pledged themselves as proponents of automobile tax reductions. Others have pledged themselves to road construction promotion.

Anxious to displease no one, some of the candidates have stated they will support both the tax cut proposals and the road building programs. These include a few of the members of the present general assembly who voted to divert $12,000,000 of the gasoline tax revenue to pay school teachers' salaries.

Governor Pledges Highway Aid.

Gov. Horner, who sponsored the bill to divert motor fuel money to the teachers, has taken no stand on the tax cut proposals. Last week, however, he pledged himself to superhighway construction in Chicago in the near future.

The Chicago Motor club is concerned over the prospects of a sharp curtailment in road funds as well as it is concerned over the tax burden born by automobile owners. Letters to THE TRIBUNE'S Voice of Traffic have indicated that the motoring public, while anxious to cut its tax bill, is even more anxious for an honest and competent expenditure of its taxes to enhance the pleasure, efficiency and safety of automobile operation.

City Streets Bumpy.

Chicago has miles of bumpy pavements, impassible at a reasonable speed, and the city with the exception of the outer drives is without a modern automobile traffic facility. Downstate, with its lavish expenditures for concrete on little traveled routes, there are more miles of mud than are found in Indiana, Michigan, or Wisconsin.

Outside of the $12,000,000 teachers' salary bill, which has passed the senate and will go to the house next week, there has already been $89,750,000 taken or obligated from the Illinois road funds, past, present and future. This includes the $20,000,000 and the $30,0000,000 relief bond issues, which will cost about $75,000,000 to retire with interest. It also includes a $2,300,000 deficiency relief bond issue, $2,250,000 cash from the counties for relief, and about $10,000,0000 borrowed from the road fund by other branches of the state government.

Money Due Federal Government.

The $89,750,000 does not include $78,000,000 principal and interest that must be returned to the federal government from the state's annual federal highway aid allotments, representing loans to Illinois for relief during the last couple of years.

These annual allotments may be considered as a gasoline tax, since they can be balanced against the federal 1 cent motor fuel levy.

With the teachers' salary bill, a grand total of $179,750,000 may be reached as representing what the motorists will be obligated to pay in special taxes for which they will receive no special benefit. This might be compared in size with the $160,000,000 road bonds that were voted for the statewide highway system.

Motorists to Pay $179,750,000.

The motorists will be paying on this $179,750,000 debt for the next quarter of a century. In 1935 the Illinois highway department, with the present license fee and gas tax maintained, will have $12,000,000 for construction, according to the Chicago Motor club, as compared with $30,000,000 spent in 1931 and $27,000,000 in 1933. The Cook county highway department's revenue from 1 cent of the gas tax will dwindle until it is in the red in 1938, without any construction money from this source.

In the meantime Chicago is demanding elevated highways to reduce its traffic fatalities and its millions of dollars annual economic loss from congestion. Other municipalities, all neglected while the rural system was being built, are also seeking through traffic facilities and relief from realty taxes for pavements. And the older of the rural slabs are disintegrating, although the bonds for their construction will not be retired until 1957. And farm representatives at Springfield are still petitioning for more roads.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

"DON'TS" FOR MEN.

Chicago, April 4.—After five years of uninterrupted daily driving my observations prompt me to suggest the following "don'ts" for men drivers:

Don't let it bother you because a woman driver happens to pass you to the extent that you have to make a dash for it and pass her. She's not trying to show she can drive better than you. Most likely you were loafing along and she's in a hurry.

Don't, when stopping at an intersection, deliberately bump into the rear of a car driven by a woman, to attract her attention. She's not at all interested in you. All she expects of you is careful driving and her share of the road.

Don't, when you happen to be driving directly back of a street car, make a sharp cut into the line of traffic to the right. It's not their fault you're in that position; most likely you chose it thinking you could cut ahead and around the traffic now on your right.

Don't pass cars going through a subway, particularly when the pavement is bad.

Don't use the center of the road when passing over a narrow bridge. The driver coming toward you is entitled to half the road and doesn't like that narrow bridge any more than you do.

Don't sound your horn impatiently because the car in front of you doesn't start up when the yellow light shows—green is for go, remember.

A WOMAN DRIVER.

SOLID TIRES.

Chicago, March 30.—Delighted to see you starting the campaign against solid tires. I have been waiting for some paper to have courage enough to do this. I am glad to see you started with the United States mail trucks.

Coming out to the factory this morning I traversed Canal street from Washington to Archer. In that distance I counted 32 trucks with solid tires on them. The worst offenders are the American Express company, Railway Express agency, Chicago Tunnel Transfer company, and the Arthur Dixon Transfer company.

EXTRAVAGANT AND INEFFICIENT.

Chicago, April 5.—Motor vehicle taxation has had some attention in these columns lately indicating that car owners are at last giving thought to the most vicious and important political racket of all times. The American motorist, the "goat" of the extravagant and inefficient politician, has contributed one billion one hundred and eighty-five million dollars in the year 1934 as taxes on his car and its use. That is more than the cost of the federal government from the time of George Washington to the administration of Abraham Lincoln. R. D.

EGYPTIAN HIGHWAY.

Last year a new route from Chicago to Cairo was completed and named "The Egyptian Highway." This route is a short cut from Chicago to Cairo over the following numbers: State Highway, No. 49, from Chicago to Kankakee, No. 37 to Marion, No. 147 to Mound City, and No. 2 to Cairo. You will notice by the map this route is practically an air line and follows some of the fastest pavement in the state of Illinois.

H. A. LAWTON,
Field Representative, Egyptian Highway Association.

Few Drivers Know Wh Has Right of Way.

This is the second of a series of articles on laws and rules regulating traffic, published on the eve of the heavy touring season with its seasonal increase in automobile accidents.

BY HAL FOUST.

A jury in the Superior court recently awarded damages to the rider of a motorcycle who was hit by an automobile making a left turn. The attorneys for the plaintiff cited a provision of the Illinois traffic code that a motorist about to make a left turn must concede the right of way to traffic approaching in the opposite direction.

The citation called attention to a rule of law little known by the motoring public at large. Common sense had told good drivers that a left turn must be made with more than ordinary caution and with a minimum of inconvenience to traffic proceeding without a turn. But few realized there is a law covering this point making offenders liable to criminal and civil prosecution.

Must Give Right of Way.

"In making a left turn at intersections of highways, motor vehicles shall give the right of way to vehicles approaching from the opposite direction."

The article continues by prescribing other right of way rules.

Through Highways.

"But the department of public works may in its discretion and when traffic conditions warant such action give preference to traffic upon any of the state highways upon which has been constructed a durable hard surfaced road over traffic crossing or entering such highway by erecting appropriate stop signs or stop lights and in such case motor vehicles entering upon or crossing such highway shall come to a full stop as near the right of way line of such highway as possible and regardless of direction shall give the right of way to motor vehicles upon such highway."

The Chicago traffic code prescribes how turns should be made where there is no sign nor policeman directing the movement. Section 30 of article 4 reads:

[a] Approach for a right turn shall be made in the lane for traffic nearest to the right-hand side of the roadway and the right turn shall be made as closely as practicable to the right-hand curb of the roadway.

Keep to Right of Center.

NEWS AND VIEWS

The automobile industry has taken the initiative in leading the United States out of the depression and its continued progress is vitally essential to full economic recovery of the country, according to W. H. Beal, president of Auburn.

Mr. Beal pointed out that the automotive industry was the largest manufacturing industry in the world and that its effect on other industries and businesses was of major importance. He cited how the automobile manufacturers had poured millions of dollars into plants, products and pay rolls even during the darkest years of the depression in the hope of stimulating business and how, when many other industries had curtailed, the automobile men had gone forward in an effort to create business.

Indications that the public has more ready money, is spending more freely and demanding "something just a little better" are seen in a Ford analysis of its sales during March. This analysis showed that 60 per cent of all Ford cars ordered during the month were of the de luxe type, only 40 per cent of the orders calling for the standard types. The ratio is in contrast to 1933, when the percentage of de luxe cars was only 44 per cent.

Since the first of the year the ratio of de luxe to standard cars has been rising steadily, according to the study of Ford factory orders. In January the sale of de luxe types was 54 per cent of the total. In February the percentage of de luxe cars had grown to 56 per cent. Orders in March called for 60 per cent, and advance requirements for April are 70 per cent de luxe types.

R. B. S[illegible]berg of Sternberg Sales and Service, Inc., 6027-6033 Cottage Grove avenue, south side dealer for Pontiac automobiles, has contrived an unusual demonstration of the knee action on Pontiac cars.

A de luxe town sedan, hailed as the smartest model ever offered on a Plymouth chassis, was recently announced by Plymouth. A four door, four window sedan, the new model is a "close coupled" car, but a large car, utilizing 114 inch wheelbase. A new built in trunk is mounted on the rear as standard equipment. Upholstery and certain interior appointments are new. The new model is presented in four colors—black, fisherman blue, Palm Beach gray and gunmetal.

In order to instruct Chevrolet's 25,000 retail salesmen on the extensive engineering advances in the 1934 models, 600 schools of instruction are being held throughout the United States.

The schools follow the general plan of instruction courses given under the direction of E. W. Timper, sales promotion manager, and J. M. Crawford, chief engineer of Chevrolet, at important points during the automobile shows. Some 4,000 retail salesmen got first hand information on the new mechanical developments at this time, and found the instruction so valuable as an aid in selling that the courses have been extended to include the entire sales body.

ILLINOIS HOLC ANNOUNCES BIG GAIN IN LOANS

1,000 a Week Is Goal Set by Zander.

BY AL CHASE.

One hundred loans daily by April 19, and one thousand loans a week shortly thereafter is the goal announced yesterday by Henry G. Zander Jr., Illinois state manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation. As the average of loans made in Illinois has been $4,318, this would mean $431,800 daily, and later when the 1,000 per week is reached, a total of $4,318,000 in federal loans to distressed home owners every seven days.

W. H. McNEAL.

As evidence that this goal is possible, Mr. Zander made public yesterday the record established for the first five days of this month. He announced that a total of 208 loans were closed in five days of the last week. This is at a rate of close to 1,000 a month.

Getting Into High Speed.

"In other words, the Illinois HOLC is getting into high speed at last," said an official. "It accomplished more in the last five days than it did in the entire preceding month."

Simultaneously with Mr. Zander's arrival from Washington yesterday morning, where he had gone to find out why the capitol had cracked down on the bulk system of handling loans, just getting successfully under way in Illinois, word came from William H. McNeal, general manager of the HOLC throughout the country, that a similar order had been sent to all state managers.

Even Ohio, where the bulk system was responsible for its closing 18,000 loans out of a total of 180,000 applications received, was ordered to abandon the system. Mr. Zander had stated that he adopted the bulk system because of its remarkable success in Ohio.

Opposes Bulk Operations.

Mr. McNeal told all state managers to stop bulk handling because he believed there was serious danger it would result in the mortgages of large financial institutions being refinanced and the mortgages of small mortgage holders left out in the cold.

Since the government guaranty idea for the HOLC bonds has developed, Mr. McNeal said, all the big building and loan associations, insurance companies, trust companies and similar institutions have been clamoring for refinancing of their mortgages.

Bulk handling, in the face of this new large demand from large mortgage holders, would put the small mortgage holder at a disadvantage, he said.

"Mr. Zander agrees with me," Mr. McNeal said in Washington, "and is going back convinced. We don't blame him for using the bulk system; a state manager is naturally anxious to clear up his job rapidly."

Big Gain in Two Months.

"Loans for February and March in the Illinois HOLC showed a 51 per cent gain over the average for the preceding six months," said the Zander announcement. "During this six month period 751 loans were closed, or a monthly average of 125. On Feb. 3 Henry G. Zander Jr. assumed charge of the Illinois office and during February and March 378 loans were closed.

"In the first five days of April 208 loans were completed in the Chicago district alone. This is the greatest number of loans closed in any week since the Illinois agency was organized."

Regarding loans closed downstate the report states: "Five of the seven district offices in Illinois made more loans in March than were made in the entire six month period prior to Mr. Zander's induction into office as state manager."

U. S. Squeezes Banks in Big Money Fight

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Behind the intricacies of the money market there is going on an exciting battle between the United States treasury and the commercial banks, and the treasury, having dealt itself a few wild deuces, has been winning.

The latest evidence is seen in the bill market where banks and private dealers compete for the privilege of making short term loans secured by best paper. Until Friday these banks and private dealers had always been able to maintain order in this business by quoting uniform rates. These rates were frequently altered in sympathy with the influences of demand and supply, but there was no cut-throat competitive rate making between the bidders.

On Friday this long established arrangement blew up and chaos descended upon the bill market. Rates were slashed and borrowers were able to get funds from banks and private paper firms at interest rates varying between a quarter and an eighth of one per cent on an annual basis, the lowest ever known.

Competition Elsewhere.

At the same time it was learned that similar competition had developed in other types of bank loans. Yesterday a group of medium sized banks throughout the country were reported to have collaborated to underbid the big New York City banks in interest rates on ordinary commercial loans. Metropolitan New York banks have been charging about one and a half per cent, an exceptionally low rate, on top grade loans. The smaller institutions, it was understood, are prepared to offer funds at interest rates varying from one to one and a quarter per cent per annum.

This scramble for business on the part of the banks and the competitive slashing of interest rates have been developing day by day for months, but during the last week or two it has become acute.

This struggle has been apparent for some time in the gradual lowering of interest rates on United States government securities. The latest issue of 90 day treasury bills was gobbled up by banks at prices that would yield the banks only eight-tenths of one per cent per annum, a new record low.

Banks More Desperate.

Gradually the banks have become more and more desperate. As their deposits have increased their loans have shrunk. This has backed up in the banks a flood of idle funds. They must pay interest on a large part of these funds and they must cover their operating overhead, but when they look for suitable places to invest the money they find that they must be satisfied with extraordinarily low interest rates or take longer chances than they are willing to take.

This squeeze has been deliberately applied by the treasury and the treasury controled federal reserve board. It is part of the scheme to force banks to take greater risks in lending in order that concerns now denied lines of bank credit may obtain them.

As part of its plan to glut the banks with excess funds the treasury has been selling bonds faster than it has needed the money and has piled up a two billion dollar surplus, which it has placed in the banks as government deposits, thus swelling total bank deposits greatly, especially in New York.

Must Buy More Federals.

The bankers have sought to employ these extra funds profitably, but about all they can find to do with them is to buy more government bonds.

Thus the operation reduces to this, the treasury sells bonds that it may raise cash to deposit in the banks so that the banks may buy more treasury bonds.

If this isn't inflation then it is something so close to it that the bankers haven't been able to discover the difference.

Although the individual banker may recognize in this program dangers to the banking system as a whole he is helpless to combat them because his prime consideration is not what might happen to the nation's credit two or three years hence, but what is going to happen to his particular bank during the next six months. He's got to keep out of the red, and, therefore, he must put his excess funds to work as best he can. He may not want to buy long term government bonds because of possible inventory losses later on, but rather than get no return on his money or lend it to doubtful commercial borrowers he will buy long term federals.

Some Loans Impossible.

Long term commercial and industrial loans are out of the question because of what the bank examiners do to such assets and large scale investments in corporation bonds are almost out of the question because corporations won't offer new bond issues under the federal securities act.

Altogether, the treasury's squeeze seems to be working effectively and the probability is that if the treasury chooses to offer a big long bond issue in the near future the banks will gobble it up whether they want to or not.

This pressure on banks, together with the treasury's ability to manipulate the market for its own bonds by buying them with profits from the dollar devaluation for the time being will probably keep the quotations on government bonds from reflecting the threat of further inflation legislation by congress, notably the various silver bills now under consideration.

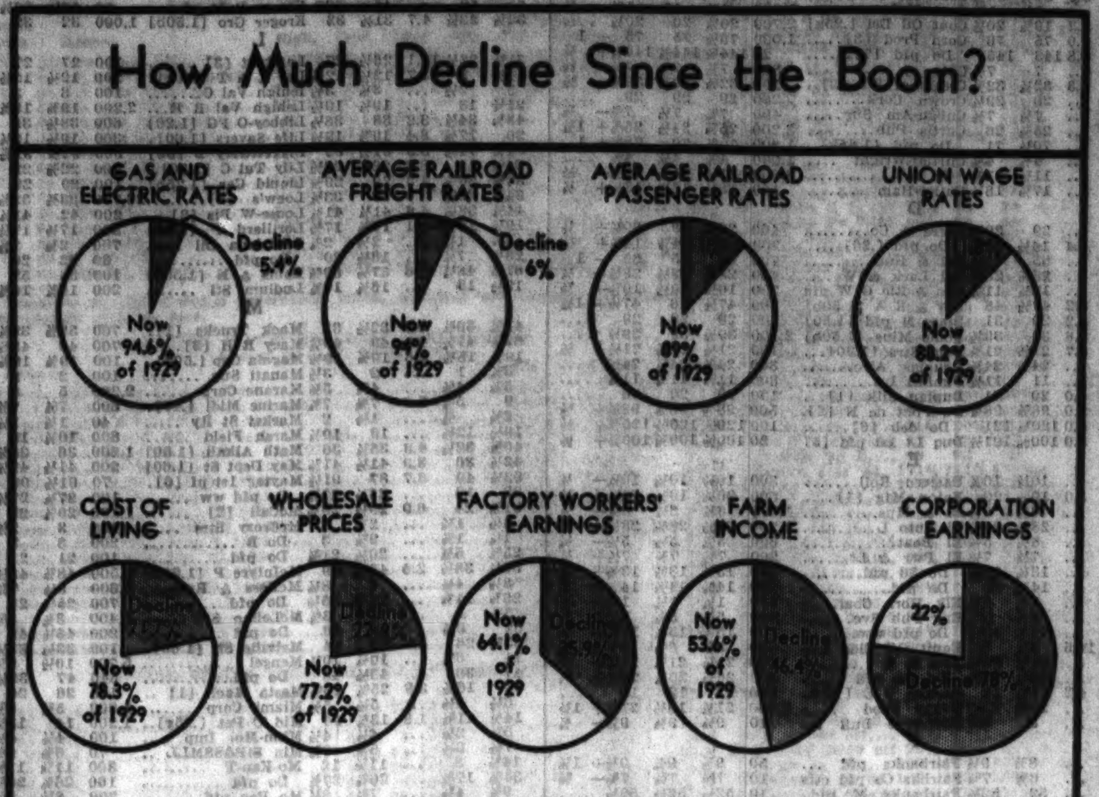
How Much Decline Since the Boom?



Efforts to Pay Bank Deposits Strengthened

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(AP)—Efforts in congress to obtain passage of legislation to pay off depositors in closed banks gained headway today with announcement of additional support from both senate and house.

Representative McLeod [Rep., Mich.] author of the proposal to give the Reconstruction Finance corporation authority to buy the assets of closed federal reserve member banks, pay the depositors in full and liquidate the assets over a long period, expressed confidence of eventual passage.

The house banking and currency subcommittee headed by Chairman Prall [Dem., N. Y.] which is considering numerous bills to give the reconstruction corporation additional loaning powers, will meet in executive session Tuesday, and there were prospects that some definite action might be taken on the McLeod bill.

Prall's Views Not Known.

Prall has declined to express his own views on any plan of relieving depositors, and has said he did not know "what may be in the minds of the members of the subcommittee." The chairman has, however, displayed an increased interest with each additional hearing on the measure.

The most recent advocates of the principle of the McLeod bill are the two Indiana senators, of opposite political faith. Both said they saw no method of hastening recovery that would be more effective than relief to depositors in such institutions. Several of the Indiana members of the house delegation also have expressed approval of the principle.

Although Rrepresentative Brown [Dem., Mich.] announced several days ago his intention of introducing a bill similar to McLeod's with the specific purpose of not only including state banks that are not federal reserve members, but also providing for depositors who waived their claims to help reorganization and reopening plans.

Would Limit Cost.

McLeod has indicated his only objection to including the non-member state banks is that the amount of funds necessary to pay off depositors would be increased so substantially that passage of the measure might be imperiled.

Estimates of the amount needed for member banks have ranged from $1,000,000,000 to $2,000,000,000. J. F. O'Connor, controler of the currency, who expressed disfavor toward the measure, placed his estimate at $1,750,000,000 when he appeared before the committee.

Fifty-five national banks with $34,739,000 of frozen and $3,480,000 of unrestricted deposits were licensed and opened for business in March, O'Connor announced.

ILLINOIS BANK HEAD ASSAILS DOMINATION BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

Carbondale, Ill., April 7.—[Special.]—Defending the banking system of America from what he described as domination by the government and politics, J. E. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Bankers' association, declared here today the powers at Washington "are taking the past situation as an excuse to destroy unit banking by substituting nationalized banking."

The banker said troubles of the people which followed the crash were due to a general breakdown, of which the banks were the victims and not the perpetrators.

"Behind the scene of the American banking system," Mitchell said, "is a struggle of life and death between independence on one hand and government domination on the other. The bankers are not trying to save the banks for themselves but for the people, who, if they listen to the bankers of today, can step to a higher plane for the use and the benefit of the whole people."

Mitchell asserted nationalization of banking would not only add patronage to prerogatives of politics but also the power of granting or refusing credit.

"Do we want credit granted in this country on the basis of character and business ability, or the basis of political merit?" he asked. "Would you want a postmaster type of person, operating by a set of rules as he must, to be the arbiter of credit? If you do you do not know the human element that operates behind the scenes of the best and most conservative banks in the country, unit or otherwise."

DOLLAR'S GOLD VALUE STEADY; POUND RISES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 7.—The value of the dollar held steady against leading gold currencies today but sagged before the British pound. Demand for the latter, attributed to week-end evening up of accounts, was responsible for the better showing of the pound which closed 1½ cents higher at $5.18.

In terms of the French gold franc, old par, the dollar closed at 59.36 cents, or unchanged. The franc was quoted at 6.60 cents. The Canadian dollar was a shade higher but there was no material change in other leading currencies.

Gold declined 8 pence in the London open market to 134 shilling 7 pence [$34.76] a fine ounce, at which price approximately $577,820 was purchased.

A net gain of $350,000 in monetary gold through the release of that amount from earmarking for foreign account was reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. There were no other gold transactions here.

Appeal to France and U. S. to Save Trade from Ruin

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 7.—As a "supreme appeal" to the Paris and Washington governments to save Franco-American trade, the American Chamber of Commerce here today issued its long awaited report on the export situation.

Publication of the report was held up for 10 days following numerous conferences at the embassy here and was toned down a bit. The reason for this caution was that it was feared if anything were done to roil the French the chamber of deputies might refuse to ratify the treaty on double taxation, which comes before it next month.

"The prospects for the future are black, indeed," concludes the report, "and the committee fears that the present policy of the French government may tend toward further limitations of imports of American goods and that the time may not be distant when importation of many American products into France will be impossible."

Urges Trade Agreement.

After calling for an early conclusion of a general Franco-American trade agreement to stop the decline of exchanges between the two countries and again denouncing the principle of the quota system, the report takes up the various factors that have brought about the new decline of American imports.

Referring to the failure of the French to reduce the turnover tax on American goods, as empowered by law, the report says: "The committee on importation maintains that application of these taxes—the 4 and 6 per cent turnover taxes on finished products—in view of the fact that imports from Belgium, Italy and Great Britain have been exempted, is a direct discrimination against the United States."

On double taxation, in view of Finance Minister Louis Germain Martin's recent promises, the report merely expresses hope that the government will take the necessary steps to bring about an early ratification.

Criticizes Quota System.

Most of the report is taken up with discussion of the quota problem.

"The French quota system has been greatly extended during the last three months," it says. "The importation of many leading American products which had so far been spared, now is limited by quotas. The new quota policy is more unsatisfactory than ever to importers of American products."

The report calls attention to the unfairness to American importers applying for import licenses to the interprovisional committee, which is dominated by representatives of French manufacturers who "utilise control of the committee to further their own interests."

An even more serious charge is that agricultural import licenses in many cases "are not for importers, but await offers from brokers or agents who have taken all the risks in bringing their fruit to France and frequently have been compelled to sell the same at a loss. This license policy is rapidly destroying the normal trade channels."

Nichols' Bank Liquid? It's Even More So

BY MAGPIE.

J. M. [Hundred Per Cent] Nichols, president of the First National bank of Englewood, has become 100½ Per Cent Nichols. Yesterday he mailed to depositors a statement showing that at the close of business on April 2 the bank's cash assets amounted to $6,347,441, compared with deposit liabilities of $6,311,641. Accompanying the statement is the following excerpt from George Washington's farewell address: "Beware of public services, under whatsoever plausible character, which have a design to direct and control. They are the customary weapons with which free governments are destroyed."

"You have to know your geography when you drink anything stronger than water on trains today," commented Harry G. Zander Jr., Illinois state manager of the Home Owners Loan corporation, "or else you'll go thirsty."

On the Capitol limited coming from Washington, D. C., a group at a dining room table was discussing what to drink. At last they decided on cocktails. They gave the order to the waiter, who peered out the window and grinned.

"Sorry, boss, but you cain't have no cocktails now. We're just crossing a corner of West Virgisia; but we'll be over the line in 'bout an hour."

"The party drank water with dinner," said Mr. Zander. "Crossing Ohio some one wanted some cigarets, and found he couldn't buy a fag while the train was going through the Buckeye state."

And to cap the geographical climax, some one found that not a drink can be sold on a diner while crossing the state Dillinger made famous with his toy pistol. Indiana is bone dry so far as dining car liquid refreshment is concerned.

An officer of the First National bank yesterday told the story of how Vice President Frank M. Gordon told a lie about traction to help a friend in distress. During the illness of the bank's late president, Melvin A. Traylor, Gordon received a telephone call from the doctors at the beside.

"Mel's feeling pretty low and he wants to talk to you," Gordon was informed. "You needn't come up, but can you think of any message that you can send him that will cheer him up?"

After a moment's thought Gordon replied: "Yes, tell him the traction mess is all cleared up and that the success of the plan is certain."

The patient appeared to be cheered by the news. The traction plan never went through, but Mr. Traylor never knew of its failure.

'PENNSY' AWARDS LARGE ORDER TO ALLIS-CHALMERS

Philadelphia, Pa., April 7.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad today announced it has placed orders amounting to more than a half million dollars with the Allis-Chalmers company for electrical propulsion and control apparatus for fourteen switching engines.

The engines will be built at the Altoona works of the railroad. A total of 101 electric freight, passenger and switching locomotives will be built by the Pennsylvania as part of its employment and improvement program financed by the public works administration.

The engines will be used on the New York-Washington line when electrification for both freight and passenger service is completed next year. The total expenditure for new locomotives will approximate $15,000,000 the company announced.

Graham Standard Sixes Will Be Advanced $50

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—[U. P.]—List prices of Graham standard sixes will be increased $50 effective April 9, it was announced here today by J. B. Graham, president of Graham-Paige Motors company. No increase in prices will be made on the eight cylinder models or the de luxe sixes, Graham said.

CHARGE HEAD OF PAPER CONCERN TOOK 7 MILLION

Receiver Hints Stock Deals to Senators.

Washington, D. C., April 7.—(AP)—Edward W. Backus, former president of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper company, who asserted bankers conspired to "steal" the $75,000,000 concern, was charged, in turn, today with abstracting $7,000,000 of the company's funds, some for stock market purposes, before he lost control.

These charges and counter charges were made at a one day hearing before the senate's bankruptcy investigating committee and at the conclusion Chairman Ashurst indicated it would take no action. He accused Backus of using the committee as "a conduit to send his personal views to the country" instead of presenting evidence. However, Ashurst obtained from one of the company's receivers, R. H. M. Robinson, an agreement to permit Backus free access to the company's books.

Asks Where $7,000,000 Went.

In return, Robinson's attorney, John D. Faegre, asked permission to inspect the personal records of Backus and his company, the Backus-Brooks company, to see what happened to the $7,000,000 he said was taken from the paper company. Backus refused the request, saying they were private records to which the company had no claim. He did not deny his company had received the money, but contended it was owned by the Minnesota and Ontario company.

Backus and Senator Schall [Rep., Minn.], who requested the inquiry for him, asked the committee to obtain for the former president a list of the company's bondholders, which they said had been refused by the bondholders' protective committee. Ashurst agreed such a list should be furnished, but said the committee had no power to compel it.

Schall characterized the bondholders' committee's refusal to give the list to Backus as "a hideous public wrong" which the committee should investigate.

Robinson Defends Receivership.

Robinson defended his receivership administration against charges of waste and extravagance by Backus. He said he had continued to operate the company in receivership because there had been no opportunity for a sound reorganization and liquidation of the company would have been "folly."

Fees paid to the receivers attracted much attention and criticism from the committee. Charles S. Pope, Robinson's assistant, testified that while Backus and two associates were receivers for nine months in 1931, their fees were $105,000, while their attorneys received $65,000. He said that Robinson and Co-Receiver C. T. Jaffray received $70,000 and $30,000, respectively, in 1932 and $63,000 and $10,000 in 1933. Their attorneys got $51,000 in 1932 and $32,000 in 1933, he added.

Ashurst figured out the total fees for 25 months of the receivership were $433,000 and said the company's creditors had been paid nothing.

YOUNGSTOWN'S STEEL OUTPUT AT YEAR'S HIGH

Youngstown, O., April 7.—(AP)—Due to a continued influx of new orders and better specifications against existing contracts, steel production in the Youngstown district next week will rise to about 56 per cent of capacity, a gain of about three points over this week's rate. Next week's schedule will equal the high point of the year, which was attained in the first week of March.

Other Price Advances.

New York, April 7.—(AP)—Advances in quotations on semi-finished and finished steel products as applied to base points other than those announced in the increases reported a week ago were today filed with the American Iron and Steel institute. The revisions covering numerous materials run from $1 to $8 a ton, which is the range of the advances previously announced.

Additional products on which advanced schedules were filed include merchant bars rail steel, ingots, uncropped forging quality; steel sheet piling and structural shapes. On each of these products the rise was $3.

Start Battle for Control of Reo Motor

New York, April 7.—A battle for proxies for the annual meeting of stockholders of the Reo Motor Car company was started today, with the announcement by R. H. Scott, president, that he had sent a communication to stockholders supporting the effort of an independent stockholders' committee to obtain proxies for the meeting.

Mr. Scott resigned as general manager of Reo three months ago, but retained the presidency. R. E. Olds, one of the organizers of the company and its chairman, became chairman of the executive committee and the active directing head at that time.

Seek to Restore Earnings.

Mr. Scott's letter said that the independent committee was seeking to obtain proper representation in the management for the shareholders to bring about changes necessary for the restoration of earning power.

The letter alleged there had been a decline of $51,000,000 in sales of the company in the last six years, a decrease in working capital of 65 per cent, and operating losses of more than $10,000,000 in the last four years.

The Olds committee declared: "We agree with the independent stockholders committee that the result of the operations of the company during the last few years have been unsatisfactory. For that reason the board, at its December, 1933, meeting, voted to remove Mr. Scott from the position of general manager and vest the authority formerly held by him in the new management committee."

Scott Largest Holder.

Mr. Scott said he was the largest independent stockholder, and that his family and friends owned about 140,000 shares of the 2,000,000 outstanding shares.

The independent committee, which is headed by W. S. Diamond, contends that the board of directors of the company is controled by a group which owns less than 25,000 shares. The committee also charges that $2,650,000 or more than half of the cash of the company was on deposit with a bank of which Mr. Olds was the head, and that this bank is now in receivership.

60 MINES TO OPEN WITH INJUNCTION ON NRA RULINGS

Birmingham, Ala., April 7.—(AP)—Alabama commercial coal operators announced today that the 60 mines closed because of the amendment to the bituminous coal code raising wages $1.30 a day would be reopened Monday under a temporary injunction restraining enforcement of the higher pay scale.

Reopening will be on the same wage scale and eight hour day agreed to in a contract with the United Mine Workers of America on March 16, providing $3.60 per day for inside workers. Whether the 15,000 miners would return to work was a matter of conjecture on which union leaders were silent.

The injunction granted yesterday by Federal Judge C. B. Kennamer, restrains United States District Attorney James Smith, officers of the NRA and other federal agents from enforcing new wage provisions and the 7 hour day, ordered by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, effective as of March 31.

The restraining order was for a period of 10 days and Judge Kennamer set April 16 for a hearing to determine whether the injunction should be made permanent.

SEEK SHOWDOWN ON GERMANY'S DEBT ATTITUDE

BASEL, Switzerland, April 7.—(AP)—A demand for a showdown on the German attitude regarding private debts will be presented Monday to Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German Reichsbank, by representatives of Germany's chief creditors, the United States, Britain, Holland and Switzerland.

Representatives of the creditors are considering the possibility of "a united front" after a meeting with officials of the Bank for International Settlements regarding service on German loans. It was said that Germany made proposals in connection with future payments, but that these "lacked clarity."

Creditors' agents will meet with Reichsbank officials soon to attempt to adjust further the payments to long and medium term creditors.

NEW DEAL BILLS RETARD TRADE, LEADERS INSIST

Want Recovery to Be Unhampered.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 7.—New Deal legislation pending on Capitol hill is retarding rather than boosting a business recovery that has already started on several fronts, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States declared today.

In its fortnightly review of the national situation, this leading business organization asserted that the uncertainty occasioned by restrictive legislative proposals is preventing industry from continuing its forward movement. Mentioned specifically were the Wagner labor bill, the Wagner-Lewis unemployment insurance bill, the administration tax bill, and the stock exchange control act, all of which are pending before congress at present.

Encouraging Signs Appear.

"On every hand," said the chamber's report, "there appear encouraging signs of further business recovery. More men are being put to work at better wages. Firms and corporations, long in the red, are either over the line or getting closer to the black. Some of the recovery legislation enacted in the last year has had a wholesome effect in laying the basis for business recovery and in strengthening the nation's banking structure.

"But attention is now centering on the need of business for opportunity to continue its forward movement unhampered by new and unnecessary restrictions. With indications of recovery becoming more pronounced the general feeling of business is that less emphasis now should be placed on economic reforms and more attention should be given to the possibilities of recovery through a free operation of normal economic laws.

Uncertainty Over Bills.

"Proposed labor legislation produces much uncertainty," the chamber declared. "The Wagner labor disputes bill which would do away with company shop organization and impose outside unions on employers offers a threat of labor difficulties. The Wagner-Lewis bill for unemployment reserves, proposing a tax on the country's pay rolls of a billion dollars a year, would put an impossible burden upon industry. The Connery bill, making a 30 hour week mandatory for all industry, would be detrimental.

"Business needs capital, yet the securities act, hastily passed last year to protect investors, has dried up capital markets. The stock exchange bill would, if enacted in its present form, open the door to further governmental interference with business.

"Taxation legislation, now pending, contains provisions such as the reimposition of the capital stock and excess profits taxes, which would adversely affect business expansion."

LAKE CARRIERS REMODEL SHIPS TO MEET CODE

In preparation for compliance with code provisions reducing the working hours of seamen, carriers of the great lakes are undertaking to remodel their vessels to accommodate additional employés, it was learned in shipping circles.

The limitation of working time to eight hours out of twenty-four, regardless of the exact watch system adopted, will oblige about 400 ships to add from five to 10 men each to their crews, it is estimated.

PROFIT SELLING HALTS RECENT STOCK ADVANCE

Most of Favorites Ease Fractionally.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, April 7.—Week end realizing sales put a crimp in the "creeping advance" on the stock market today. Most of the trading favorites of the eight day recovery movement including the low priced specialties, lately in such favor, closed the two hour session fractionally lower. Losses among the group leaders such as American Can, American Telephone, United States Steel, New York Central and the like were more pronounced, running as high as a point in some instances.

News of market importance was scarce and trading proceeded at the same leisurely pace that has ruled since the turn of the year. Volume was only a little in excess of a half million shares.

Interest of the speculative community continued to center on the exchange control bill. Latest advices indicate that the measure is in for an overhauling but with the President asking a law "with teeth," traders generally can see no point in making unnecessary commitments until the subject is settled.

Steel Report Ignored.

Reports that the Youngsteel Steel schedules are due for a rise of 2 points next week had little effect on the steel shares or the market in general. There was a flurry of strength in some of the metal shares in the earlier dealings, due apparently to reports from Washington that the senate would enact silver legislation at this session, but the final rating of the group on the day was no better than firm.

Automobile issues also held firm, but there was little activity in the department due to the labor situation at the production plants which is beginning to give fresh concern.

The railroad group attracted more support than usual recently, fractional gains being made by Chesapeake and Ohio, Lackawanna, Atchison, Chesapeake corporation, Southern railway and others. Delaware and Hudson company was off a point.

Individual Strong Spots.

Individual strong spots included Curtis Publishing, American Machine and Foundry, Brown Shoe, Reynolds Metals and J. H. J. Newberry. Various preferred were pegged up 1 to 3 points or more. Stocks of this category have enjoyed fair patronage all week.

Consolidated Gas was again singled out for selling in the utilities group in the early trading but firmed later. Power and light stocks have been "looking better" to the trade since the New York legislature thumbed down Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's recommendation for legislation enabling communities so desirous of erecting and operating their own power plants.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Mass., April 7.—Trade was slow in the Boston Wool market during the early part of the past week, but demand picked up slightly later on some lines of western grown wools. Prices on these wools were about on the low sides of selling ranges prevailing during the last several weeks. Fleece wools were easy, with medium grades of these lines slightly lower. Sales were mostly small. The bulk of the sizeable lines were quite firmly held at unchanged quotations.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP)—Raw sugar eased two points further today to the basis of 2.83 cents for nearby duty free. Sales at that basis included 31,500 bags of Philippines for April arrival. In addition, an outport refiner paid 2.85 cents for 18,000 bags of Philippines in a forward shipment position. Futures were under pressure early in the session, but after the market had sustained net losses of 3 to 5 points prices recovered partially on appearance of a little new outside buying and week-end covering. Trade reports say that imported chemical pulps show a strong price tone, especially kraft and unbleachable sulphite. Orders for many types of papers improved considerably during the last half of March.

BUTTER OFF; NEW BUYING SUPPORTS OCTOBER EGGS

Butter and egg futures eased on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter closing ⅛ cent to ⅜ cent lower and eggs unchanged to ¼ cent lower. Potatoes were 1 cent lower to 5 cents higher.

October eggs reacted toward the close after an early dip. Hedging was heavy but new buying continued pronounced. The into storage movement was 18,000 cases greater than last year.

Withdrawals of butter from the principal cities totaled 16,000 pounds less than last year. November sold off under moderate pressure.

While potato arrivals and track supplies continued heavy, the cash market was about steady and buying improved in the futures. Sales: Butter, 7 cars; eggs, 60 cars; potatoes, 8 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 4 cars. Prices:

GRAIN TRADERS

Our special mid-week bulletin of April 4 and our regular bulletin of April 9 will be sent immediately on receipt of $1.00 in stamps (3-cent), currency or personal check.

The bulletin of April 4 states why we advised and made on our own account a profitable short sale of wheat at 92¼ and why we closed out this trade and took our profits. We then give in detail why we expect much higher prices between now and harvest. Political factors, crop prospects and proposed legislation concerning commodity trading are thoroughly discussed. Another interesting article presents the May, June and July price range for wheat during the past 13 years.

Our bulletin of April 9 contains an itemized list of all our trades for the past year.

GRAIN PRICES MOVE HIGHER; SPREADING HEAVY

Rye Advances Sharply in Heavy Trade.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Spreading operations furnished a large part of the trade in grain futures yesterday, but there was no material pressure on the markets and prices averaged higher. Wheat finished with net gains of ⅛ to ⅜ cents with May closing at 86⅜ cents or a ⅛ cent premium over July. Corn gained ⅛ to ½ cent with May at 48⅞ cents, while oats was ⅛ to ¼ cent higher, with May at 32⅝ cents.

Rye showed more activity than other grains and also independent strength, closing with an advance of 1⅛ to 1⅝ cents. Reports the treasury department was seeking to determine whether Polish rye had been "dumped" through the assistance of the government subsidy had considerable bullish influence, as did continued poor crop reports. May finished 61½ cents while barley closed ⅛ to ⅜ cent higher.

Close Wheat Spreads.

Selling of May wheat against purchases of July and September, presumably representing the transfer of speculative lines into the new crop futures uncovered several liberal sized orders. Cash houses bought May and sold July to change over hedges, while spreads were closed between here and Minneapolis, with May selling in the latter market at 3 cents under Chicago.

A fairly liberal movement of cash wheat from Kansas City to the local market is thought to be impending. Purchases of 25,000 bushels were reported to come here during the day. Milling demand was less active. A fair reduction in the visible supply report Monday is expected.

No Rain in Southwest.

There was no further moisture received in the wheat belt over night and the forecast suggested little over the week end, although several shower periods are expected during the current week. Crop comments were fairly favorable, with the Miller-Bennett report suggesting 499,000,000 bushels of winter wheat, or about in line with the figures given by other local experts recently. Last year's harvest was 351,000,000 bushels.

Removal of hedges against export sales of 500,000 bushels Canadian wheat failed to have much effect on the Winnipeg market which closed ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. The July-October spread in the latter has narrowed to around 1½ cents, compared with 2⅛ cents with trading started in the distant future a few days ago. Liverpool closed ¼ cent higher.

A condition of 65.1 for winter rye, with a heavy abandonment of acreage was indicated by the Miller-Bennett crop report. The condition is the lowest on record, comparing with 72.5 last year and a 10 year average of 83.3.

COMMODITY MARKETS ERRATIC AGAIN; MOST ITEMS CLOSE LOWER

Commodity markets continued to fluctuate in an erratic manner last week. Grains—with the exception of rye—lard, cotton, butter, eggs, sugar, cocoa, and coffee were all lower for the week, but silver, rubber, and hides advanced. During the week May corn sold down to 47¼c, the lowest level since Nov. 1. Closing prices the last two weeks and the low figures of the season follow:

New York, April 7.—Bond prices moved irregularly higher on the stock exchange today with the turnover during the two hour trading period amounting to $8,174,000, compared with $6,103,000 last Saturday. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE average of forty domestic corporation bonds touched a further new high for the year, chiefly because of the gains made by railroad and industrial issues.

A sizeable list of the corporation issues mounted one to more than four points. Gainers for the day included high grade issues, legal for investment by savings banks and trust funds in this state, as well as bonds of speculative ratings.

Northern Pacific Bonds Active.

Heavy dealings in Northern Pacific refunding 6s, due 2047, which touched a new peak for the year at 102½, up half a point, featured the rail group. Other bonds of the road were dull. Alleghany 5s of 1950 rose 2½ points on heavy trading.

United States government bonds were irregularly lower, closing down 3-32ds to up 4-32ds point in very quiet trading. The called Fourth Liberty 4¼s eased 2-32ds point, while the uncalled bonds of the issue moved up 2-32ds, although additional series of this issue may be yet called for redemption on Oct. 15 if the treasury decides prior to April 15.

German Issues Rise Further.

In the foreign list, many German issues scored further recoveries of a point or more. French government loans eased fractionally but several French municipal loans which have been comparatively inactive recently climbed 2⅝ points. Heavy trading in Lautaro Nitrate 6s brought the issue to a new high for the year at 18¼, up 2⅝ points. Latin American loans were slightly improved on the average.

Generally higher prices were recorded in both the domestic and foreign bond groups on the curb exchange. The scope of the gains, however, were much smaller than the advances recorded on the stock exchange.

Insurance at "Cost."

There are some assessment life insurance companies that operate efficiently and are worthy of consideration. The bulk of them, however, are small and many of them inefficiently managed.

We ran across one such company the other day that had a total insurance in force of only $926. Others ranged from $11,000 to $98,000. Of course the figure of $926 is not wholly typical, but it does indicate to what ridiculous extremes this "oldest type of insurance in the world" can be carried.

Such figures indicate a violation of one of the cardinal principles of insurance underwriting—diversifying the risk. The risk is spread over such a small group that it does not give the law of averages an opportunity to work. It is a mathematical principle that the greater the number of cases available, the more closely will the net result conform to the average.

* *

In companies with such a small amount of insurance the net cost per dollar of insurance must necessarily be high, often excessive. Examine these figures, taken consecutively from a standard insurance manual:

	Payments to members.	Expenses paid.
Company A	$ 14,436	$ 4,261
Company B	312,076	292,495
Company C	17,449	36,600
Company D	77,192	83,425

Insurance to members of assessment companies is furnished at cost. There is no fraud involved in that statement. The catch, however, is that costs are at times excessive.

* *

State supervision over life companies operating on the assessment plan means little, because the most active operate through the mails in states in which they are not licensed. This alone should be a warning to prospective policyholders.

Policies are not of the standard type. There is usually some clause in them to the effect that claims are payable only if assessments can be collected. Letters to this department from widows who placed their dependence on life policies issued by small assessment companies indicate that assessments cannot always be collected.

As one man prominent in insurance reporting circles said in a letter, "Trying to keep up with the hundreds of small assessment associations which operate mostly with very little supervision is enough to give any one the 'willies'."

SILVER FUTURES

Press reports from Washington indicating that the senate would probably pass some silver legislation at the present session failed to have much effect on futures, with the close unchanged to 13c higher. Trade was the smallest in some time, sales aggregating 35 lots or 875,000 ounces. April closed at 46.50c; May, 46.54c; July, 46.90@46.93c; and December, 47.90c. Foreign bar silver was ⅛c higher at 46⅛c.

POWER PLANT IN LATVIA AFFORDS TRADING CHANCE

U. S. Firm Is Favored; Financing Needed.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

RIGA, Latvia, April 7.—America's chances to secure a $5,000,000 contract for a hydro-electric power plant on the Dvina river above Riga have greatly improved since President Roosevelt announced the stabilization of the dollar. The plans for the station had already been drawn by the Foundation Company of New York and the deal was practically closed when the unexpected abandonment of the gold standard by Washington placed the American company in a position where it could not conclude negotiations.

Since last April the Letts have been approached by French, British, German, and Swedish concerns eager to obtain this business, but the terms they proposed did not suit Latvia, which hopes to obtain a 25 year loan to finance construction. Six large foreign concerns still have hopes of obtaining the contract, but the Foundation company could acquire the contract immediately if suitable arrangements could be made with an American bank.

Latvia's Credit Impaired.

However, Latvia's credit abroad has been impaired by the refusal of the city of Riga to settle a loan floated in London in 1913 by the British banking firm of Lazard Brothers, amounting to 1,322,751 pounds. Coupons due on May 14, 1918, were not met and since then no interest has been paid or amortization arranged. Lazard Brothers now claim 1,281,840 pounds from Riga. They refused an offer made by the Letts to settle at the rate of one gold franc [about 20 cents] for one ruble [about 49 cents. It was a ruble loan]. The fact that the Riga city administration has been in the hands of Socialists has also prevented settlement.

Latvia has strong arguments on her side. When the loan was made Riga was a Russian city and Russia's third largest port. She did not receive any benefit from the loan, which was used by the Russian government to buy munitions. The settlement offered by the Letts was more than reasonable, especially since Riga has lost 150,000 of her population and is much poorer since she was despoiled by the Germans and bolsheviks.

Latvia Not Debtor to U. S.

During the years when every country in Europe was placing bond issues on the American market Latvia did not join the throng of borrowers. A number of New York bond houses offered to float loans ranging from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in New York, but pressure from Lazard Brothers forced them to retract their offers.

The power plant project is a gold mine, according to engineers familiar with the plans. Latvia at present is a large importer of coal. The electricity used by Riga is sold at a profit of more than 100 per cent. The projected plant could pay for itself within a short period, since much current would be used by Riga factories, most of which are wood-working plants.

While the dollar was fluctuating last year the Foundation company attempted to finance the power plant in England and the large electric concern of Metropolitan Vickers was interested. Lazard Brothers blocked the negotiations. At present there are only slight prospects of settling the Lazard Brothers loan, even though the British government has made this one of the points in the negotiations for a new trade treaty with Latvia now being discussed in London.

Idea for American Financing.

Having watched the negotiations concerning the power plant, I developed an idea which might be of use to some bank interested in financing this business, which would mean an order for more than $2,000,000 worth of American machinery and equipment. It follows:

That in return for a long term credit, or a short term loan, to finance the purchase of necessary machinery in America and meet the American pay roll of the Foundation company, the city of Riga and the Latvian government should make an appropriation to cover part, or all, of the labor costs of erecting the plant, transmission lines, etc. It should be easy to persuade them to do this, as both are granting large subsidies to the unemployed and this would come under the head of unemployment relief.

That in return for this investment the mixed company, which I understand is going to exploit the plant, would turn over to the city of Riga and the Latvian government bonds in the power project equal to the amount of their investment, to be redeemable in either pounds or dollars, this sum equaling their investment.

Bonds Could Be Marketed.

These bonds the government could market, obtaining much needed valuta to meet obligations abroad, or they could make another offer to settle the Lazard Brothers debt, authough this is unlikely. If the Letts decided to sell the bonds in America a stipulation should be made that the funds realized should be expended for American products. If the bank handling this transaction should wish additional security it could hold these bonds in escrow.

Using this idea as a basis there are a number of variations which could be worked out in order to achieve an agreement and obtain this $2,000,000 order for America. Latvia would profit largely from the erection of the Dvina power station and now that the dollar is stable this business can be done.

The soviet government, which claims to be producing turbines, electrical equipment, etc., has offered to sell the Letts the necessary materials and machines, but only for cash, and the Letts, having first hand knowledge of the quality of soviet products, have not considered it worth while to open negotiations.

WHEAT PARLEY MAPS ITS FIGHT ON LOW PRICES

Two Plans Are Offered; One Fixes Values.

ROME, April 7.—(AP)—A frontal attack on low wheat prices through minimum export quotations and limitations on amounts entering world trade was mapped today by the international wheat advisory commission.

Delegates from six leading producing nations participated in the price discussions, which were described by Andrew Cairns, secretary of the committee, as "generally sympathetic," although differing on the means to gain the desired end.

Two major plans were proposed: A definite price agreement for each grade of wheat and flour, and the indirect method of adjusting export quotas so the supply will always be just a little below the demand from importing countries.

U. S. Wants Acreage Cut.

American representatives held to the belief that an international agreement to reduce acreage should precede any price accord, since the latter might make acreage cuts impossible.

Along with proposals to cut green wheat for fodder, treat wheat chemically so it can be used for animal feed but not for bread, and withdraw low quality wheat from markets—all designed to limit the supply—attention was paid today to a suggestion for an international agreement for the reduction of the percentage of flour extracted from the cereal.

This scheme is designed to reduce the mountainous stocks of the grain responsible for low prices. Members of the commission believe that if they solve these twin problems of prices and oversupply they will have achieved an object of great importance to the prosperity of the world.

Would Dig Into Stocks.

Delegates favoring the flour extraction plan said it would dig deeply into the large stocks of surplus wheat and would improve the quality of flour used in bread making, which, in turn, would lead to an increased consumption of the commodity.

On the other hand, it was said that some countries whose price for wheat is high would not want to put the reduction into practice. The new system would require the use of more wheat and therefore the expenditure of more money.

It was generally agreed that to be effective the agreement must provide that extraction of flour from wheat be carried below 70 per cent. Most countries already use 70 per cent of the wheat for human consumption and the rest for animal feeding. In recent years, however, some countries, such as France and Italy, have used much higher percentages.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 7.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was quiet and about steady today in sympathy with steadiness of other markets. Exchanging from May to September at a difference of 45 points, from May to November at 60 points, was a feature in an otherwise small market. While a few sales were made in May and September at or a few points above the previous close, closing bids were lower, ranging from unchanged to 11 points' decline. Bleachable spot nominal; May closed 5.31c; July, 5.56c; September, 5.76c; October, 5.82c.

RECOVERY IN LIVE STOCK IS SLOW; POSITION SOUND

Hogs Close Higher on Week; Cattle Mixed.

The post-Lenten recovery of the live stock market as consumer demand reached more normal proportions, was made rather haltingly last week. Notwithstanding this, and the adverse influence of processing taxes, government manipulation in the markets and the substantially reduced export demand the last few months, the technical position of the trade as a whole, is the strongest in many months.

Expanding consumer demand for meats is seen as a reflection of increased employment and wages in many of the leading industries.

Packers are paying from 27 per cent to 73 per cent more for live stock on the hoof than at this time last year. Cattle last week averaged 27 per cent higher than during the corresponding six day period in 1933 while hog prices, including the processing tax, were up 65 per cent and lambs show on increase of 73 per cent over last year's prices.

There was a slight recession of prices early in the week, but at the close practically all species were tilted upward.

Government Resumes Buying.

Federal buying of hogs was resumed last Thursday after a four day lay off. Packing houses obtained 6,400 hogs for the government at three points, Chicago, Buffalo and Wheeling, W. Va.

Yesterday's session in the hog trade was the usual Saturday affair. Only 500 of the 8,500 hogs received were on the open market, the rest being billed direct to packers from concentration yards in the country. The scant supply offered for sale met narrower demand at steady prices considering quaity, although the top at $4.25 was down 10 cents and the general average off 5 cents at $4.10.

Federal buying did not appear so that anything eligible to sell to the government was held over for Monday's market when the relief corporation again will take hogs.

Lambs Due for Reaction.

The sensationally high prices for native spring lambs which have been selling for the Greek Easter trade, are due for a seasonal setback next week, to a level where packers can move them into the regular trade channels.

Prices for these specialties usually fluctuate violently around Easter. Early in the week native springers sold at $13. At the high point later one lot averaging 44 pounds reached $16.00. Old crop lambs weighing 90 to 100 pounds sold largely within a range of $8.90 to $9.25.

Demand in the cattle alleys again converged in the better grades of medium and heavy steers, while light cattle and yearlings were weak to 25 cents lower. Steers that are topping the market now, some of them weighing up to 1,300 pounds, were for many months selling at sharp discounts, with the 950 pound averages and lighter weights at the top.

UNITED AIRCRAFT PROFIT SMALLER FOR LAST YEAR

4th Quarter Air Mail Losses Cut Income.

United Aircraft and Transport corporation and subsidiaries had in 1933 consolidated net income of $1,622,361, according to the pamphlet report released yesterday. After preferred dividends there was a balance of $1,176,111, equivalent to 56 cents per share of the common stock.

In 1932 the corporation reported consolidated net income of $1,687,663 and a balance, after preferred stock dividends, of $1,107,658, equivalent to 53 cents per share of common stock.

In the first three quarters of 1933 earnings equaled 15, 35, and 26 cents per share, but the fourth quarter showed a loss of 20 cents per share, "which is accounted for largely by the decline in transport operations due to drastic reductions in mail pay and the seasonal falling off of passenger business," according to Philip G. Johnson, president.

Subsidiaries Show Profits.

The Boeing Airplane company and the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft company, wholly owned subsidiaries, sold aircraft equipment to the transport subsidiaries at prices equivalent to those at which similar equipment has been sold to outside customers. Profits accruing to the two manufacturing subsidiaries were included in the consolidated operating profits, Mr. Johnson pointed out.

"Although profits from this source constituted a substantial portion of operating income, such profits have not been eliminated from the statement because transport equipment, is rapidly written down through depreciation charges by United Air Lines, which is charged to transport operations," Mr. Johnson explained.

Volume of United Air Lines, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary, expanded in both express and passengers carried but mail trafic declined, according to the report. Passengers carried numbered 127,693 against 88,933 in 1932; pounds of express transported totaled 479,512 against 172,326 in 1932, and pounds of mail carried declined to 3,182,165 from 3,336,368 in the preceding year.

Export Business Expands.

Export business of manufacturing subsidiaries expanded, the report shows. Volume, representing shipments abroad of aircraft, aircraft engines, propellers, spare parts, and supplies, amounted to about $2,500,000, compared with about $2,000,000 in 1932. On Dec. 31, 1933, over $2,200,000 in unfilled orders for export were on hand, in comparison with about $670,000 the year before. Total unfilled orders Dec. 31, were $10,758,016 and by the latter part of last month additional orders had been received totaling $2,868,669.

The consolidated balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1933, shows current assets of $16,037,727, of which cash amounted to $2,213,776, and United States treasury bonds and bills $6,286,159. Current liabilities totaled $1,433,900; provision for federal income tax, $344,483, and advances on contracts, $643,134.

All preferred stock outstanding Jan. 1, 1934, was redeemed with funds brought together by the corporation prior to that date.

LARD FUTURES UP; CASH INTERESTS SHIFT HEDGES

A firmer undertone developed in the lard market yesterday. Cash interests were conspicuous on the buying side, changing hedges from May to distant deliveries. Commission house trading was only fair.

At the close lard futures were 2½ cents higher to 2½ cents lower. Regular lard was up 2½ cents at $6.10, while loose was unchanged at $6.07½ and leaf steady at $6.12½.

No interest was taken in bellies for future delivery. Cash lots were picked up fairly at $8. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d higher. Prices:

Realty Board Committee O. K.'s Twenty-three Reorganizations

PRAISES FRANK TREATMENT OF BONDHOLDERS

Mortgage Firm Asks for Realtors' Report.

BY AL CHASE.

[Real Estate Editor.]

Successful reorganization of twenty-three bond issues by the First of Englewood Bond and Mortgage corporation is a striking example of what can be accomplished when committees show a complete understanding of the problems and an unselfish attitude and maintain and give frank and complete information of all their activities. This statement was made yesterday in a report submitted to Lester W. Porter, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, by a special committee which he named to examine the records of the south side mortgage corporation.

MILO B. FRENCH.

Milo B. French, secretary of the First of Englewood Bond and Mortgage corporation, recently requested President Porter to name a committee which would conduct an impartial examination of the method of reorganization of bond issues of his institution. It has been suggested that such an inquiry into the practices of all mortgage bond reorganizations in the Chicago area, followed by frank reports of what was found, might result in considerable benefit to the bondholders.

Names Committee of Three.

Mr. Porter appointed George H. Dovenmuehle of the mortgage and finance division of the board and vice president of Dovenmuehle, Inc., as chairman of a committee of three. The other members were Thomas J. Fleming, chairman of the board of governors of the renting and management division, and Arthur Kruggel, board of governors, of the same division.

"It is our opinion that the successful completion of these reorganizations was due to the fair treatment accorded all parties of interest," the committee's report reads. "All necessary costs of reorganization, both legal and administrative, were most reasonable. The management of these properties is in the charge of competent real estate management firms under the careful supervision of the reorganization managers."

In submitting this report to the bondholders and to Mr. French, President Porter makes this comment: "Permit me to congratulate you on the clean-cut manner in which your properties have been organized, managed and handled, with a minimum of expense to the holders of the certificates. It is an outstanding piece of work of this kind."

"It's Your Money."

The bondholders of the twenty-three issues mentioned shortly will receive copies of this Chicago Real Estate board report, a copy of Mr. Porter's letter, an audit by a certified public accountant, a letter from George F. Anderson of Anderson & Anderson, attorneys, who handled the legal work of the reorganizations, and a statement showing location, description and trust indebtedness as of Dec. 31, 1933, on each property.

"After all, it's your money and your building, and you are entitled to any and all information," says Mr. French in his letter to the bondholders. "Available at this office for you is complete detailed information as to each building. If there is anything you do not understand, or if there are any questions you want to ask, get in touch with us.

Get Their Buildings Back.

"In the most practical manner [the liquidation trust] you have been put in possession of your buildings on which you loaned money, and that's what you did when you bought a bond.

"You have received a cash dividend on your certificates. The physical condition of the properties is good. Real estate taxes are paid to date. We shall try to operate these properties as economically as possible and will furnish you in 1935 with a statement for the year 1934."

Mr. French yesterday pointed out some of the results achieved as a result of 100 per cent coöperation by the bondholders. All bonds were deposited within four months after call, although bondholders were scattered in thirty-six states and ten foreign countries.

Record Low in Fees.

Five months later the twenty-three reorganizations were completed. Deeds were secured from all equity owners. There were no complete foreclosures, no master in chancery fee, no depository fee, no receiver appointed, and no equity owner was frozen out.

The legal fees in connection with the reorganization of $1,500,000 of bonds and $330,000 of new first mortgages, or a total of $1,830,000, was approximately $4,500. This is believed to be a record low in these days of high legal costs.

"It is estimated that if these properties had gone through the regular foreclosure route," said Mr. French, "approximately $500,000 would have been spent in foreclosure fees, master in chancery fees, committee fees, receiver fees, and a multitude of other charges on foreclosures. In addition there'd have been no taxes paid and the county treasurer probably would be operating the properties under the Skarda act."

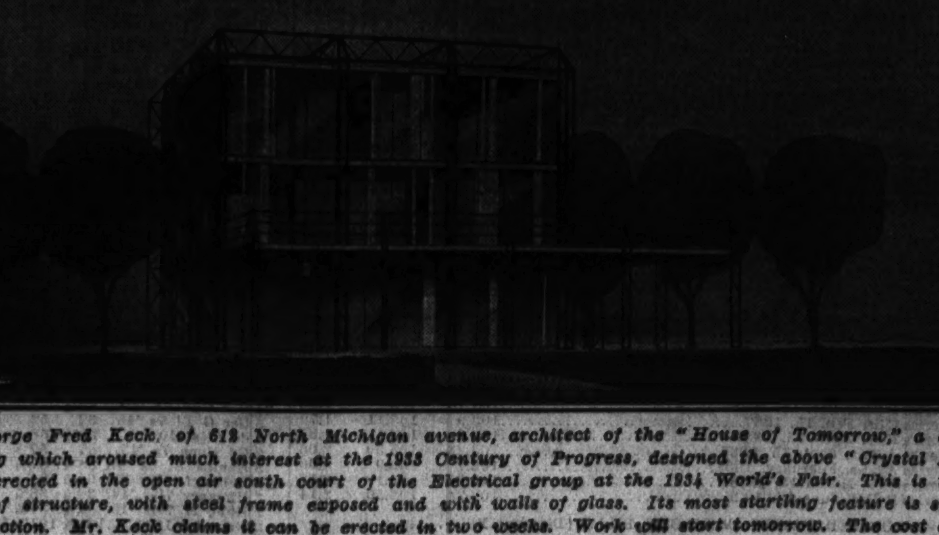
The Nu-Enamel corporation, operating more than 500 stores in this country and Europe, has leased space at 240 South State for a term of years beginning May 1. This will be its first State street branch according to Charles L. Schrader & Co., brokers.

CAN BE ERECTED IN TWO WEEKS



George Fred Keck of 612 North Michigan avenue, architect of the "House of Tomorrow," a circular dwelling which aroused much interest at the 1933 Century of Progress, designed the above "Crystal House" to be erected in the open air south court of the Electrical group at the 1934 World's Fair. This is to be a fireproof structure, with steel frame exposed and with walls of glass. Its most startling feature is speed in construction. Mr. Keck claims it can be erected in two weeks. Work will start tomorrow. The cost of this unit is $15,000 but quantity production will reduce this materially, it is claimed.

TELLS HOW HE FILLED 8 STORY BUILDING 100%

With the leasing of the entire sixth floor at 527-29 South Wells street, the eight story building, owned by the trustees of Beloit college, is now 100 per cent rented. Arthur Rubloff of Arthur Rubloff & Co., yesterday told an interesting story of accomplishment since he took it over in October, 1933.

"The property at that time had three tenants occupying three floors," he said. "Only one of these was paying rent. The college had been losing approximately $13,000 per annum, exclusive of depreciation and interest, on its investment.

"The building had been badly neglected and the deterioration, had it been allowed to continue for another year, would have been disastrous to the owner.

"I spent several thousand dollars to sandblast the building front, remodel the exterior of the first floor, lobby, elevator shafts and put the building utilities in first class shape.

"After I completed this work, because of the prestige of the client, I undertook to lease the property myself without the aid of outside coöperation. I now have the property 100 per cent rented, to six tenants, who are paying rentals that will pay carrying charges, taxes, and allow for some depreciation, on lease terms that, if the market should take a turn, will give us an opportunity to secure a better revenue."

The tenants are: First, second and third floors, B. Weis & Co.; fourth floor, M. A. Graft & Co.; fifth floor, Seymour-Avery Manufacturing company.; sixth floor, Aetna Stationery company; seventh floor, Rapid Engraving company, and eighth floor, M. E. Gardos.

John R. Thompson Leases Merchandise Mart Cafes

The John R. Thompson company has leased the restaurants in the Merchandise Mart, containing 27,000 square feet, for a five year term, it was announced yesterday by T. J. Reed, general manager of the building. The coffee shop is to be remodeled and reopened in two weeks. Shortly afterwards a cafeteria will be opened on the balcony. The grill room will be conducted as an annex to the governors' room, in which a bar will be installed. The group will seat 1,200 at one time, and has an approximately daily capacity of 10,000.

Shoe Rebuilder Leases Railway Exchange Shop

Samuel More has leased the store at 72 East Jackson boulevard, in the Railway Exchange building, for five years, and will operate a modern shoe rebuilding shop. It will be paneled in walnut. Howard L. Storch, of Ross & Browne, was broker.

2ND FLOOR PLAN

SPEND $100,000 IN MODERNIZING MARQUETTE BLDG.

With the completion during the next two weeks of the modernization program for the Marquette building more than $100,000 will have been spent, according to Earle Schultz, manager of the property. Fifty men have been on the job since early in February.

The work started in the lobby, where a new art marble floor was laid. Then an adequate lighting system for the famous mosaics of Pere Marquette's travels and the bronzes of his associates was installed. The elevator, water, electric and other services have been improved; glass partitions have been replaced by solid walls; mahogand colored rubber tile has been laid in all corridors.

Mr. Schultz says the building is fast becoming a headquarters for travel and shipping agencies. There are now thirty-one such concerns, including five new leases. Four additional leases with travel concerns are pending.

BROKERS' NOTES

Howard E. Haynie, vice president of Wirtz, Haynie & Ehrat, has been appointed acting chairman of the recently formed Institute of Real Estate Management of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. He succeeds Kenneth Cotton Brown, of Quinlan & Tyson.

John T. Seaman, for some time with the Chicago Title and Trust company, in charge of maintenance work in all of their buildings, is now manager of the maintenance department of McMenemy, Inc.

CHRYSLER DEALER LEASES BUILDING ON EAST LAKE ST.

Fred Hawkins, Inc., dealer in Chrysler and Plymouth cars, yesterday leased for ten years the entire five story building at 26-30 East Lake street, and after extensive remodeling will move from his present location, 2240 South Michigan avenue. He will use the first and part of the second floors for display and the balance of the building for servicing cars.

The property, for many years was occupied by Glenn E. Holmes, Ford representative, who was the first and for many years the only automobile dealer in the downtown district. Albert H. Wetten & Co. represented the lessor, the Blair estate. Leonard R. McDonald was broker for the lessee. The land is 52x140.

This is the second automobile dealer to invade the loop within the last month. Three weeks ago the Community Motors, Inc., leased the entire first floor of the Hartman building, at Wabash and Adams, as a salesroom for Pontiac cars. Loop realty men predict that eventually most motor car dealers will have downtown salesrooms.

Gaul & Ingalls Again to Double Their Floor Space

Gaul & Ingalls, Inc., sellers of wrapping paper, twine and national distributors of fruit and vegetable containers, have leased for a term of years the first floor of the Otis Elevator building, 1501 South Laflin, containing 30,000 square feet. According to Hodge, Nicolson & Porter, brokers, the lessees have moved five times in the last ten years, in each case doubling their floor space.

BUILDING SPEED TO BE FEATURE OF GLASS HOUSE

To Be Erected at Fair in 2 Weeks' Time.

Construction speed is the main selling point in the $15,000 "Crystal House," to be erected at A Century of Progress from plans by George Fred Keck. Workers will start tomorrow to erect this rectangular glass and steel home which, according to Mr. Keck, can be ready for a tenant in two weeks' time. It will be built in the south court of the electrical group on Northerly Iland.

GEORGE FRED KECK.

Mr. Keck, who designed the "House of Tomorrow," the circular glass and steel house in the housing group at last year's World's Fair, which aroused much interest, believes his Crystal house is a step further in both modernism and convenience.

Steel Beams Exposed.

Probably the most startling construction feature to the casual visitor will be the exposure of portions of the steel framework. According to Mr. Keck, this may appear strange at first glance, but, he explains, "tomorrow we'll be accustomed to it and will know it to be as right and proper and beautiful as we now consider Elizabethan exposed half timbers and ceiling beams of wood."

The house will have floors of heavy sheet steel, bolted into place. The walls will be glass panels of various kinds. On the ground floor, used as a garage and hangar, light diffusing glass will be used which cannot be seen through. Transparent plate glass will be used on the second and third floors.

According to Mr. Keck, the house is designed around an air-conditioning system.

"In the near future it's reasonable to suppose that all buildings in which people live and work will have such systems," he said. "Air conditioning units will be considered as necessary as central heating and bathrooms are today."

Started from the Inside.

The Crystal house was designed to demonstrate mechanical equipment and new building materials that are now on the market, Mr. Keck points out.

"It's an efficiently designed house," he said. "My chief concern was not to give a specific form to the building, but rather to find a solution to the many and varied new requirements of a residence in a simple and direct manner. The causes were considered first, the effects later. I started from the inside and worked out."

Mr. Keck admits the cost of $15,000 is excessive, but estimates that when it gets into mass production and the saving in labor through construction speed is figured in the price will be extremely low.

There will be no closets anywhere in the house—movable wardrobes will supplant them. Neither will there be any wall lighting fixtures—all illumination will be from portable and adjustable lamps. Colored light filters also will be used to give a diffused glow.

Not Designed to Be Tricky.

The utilities, the heat and cold ducts, vents, stack, water supply pipes, and stairs are located in the central portion of the house. All the living rooms are outside. All the trim throughout the house will be of metal; the doors will be metal covered.

The cooking will be done in a complete electrical kitchen. The floors will be of rubber tile and concrete set over the sheets of steel. The roofs are terraces to be lived on.

"This laboratory house is designed not to be different or tricky, but to attempt seriously to determine if better ideas and designs for living can be found," said Mr. Keck. "Probably the most important function of this particular house is to determine how a great number of the people attending A Century of Progress will react to ideas that will entirely upset the conventional ideas of a home."

LUMBER FIRM TO MOVE OFFICES TO FIELD BUILDING

Concluding a tenancy of two decades at 19 South La Salle street, the C. H. Worcester Lumber company will move on May 1 to the twenty-fourth floor of the new Field building. According to Robert Carpenter, manager of the building, the company, which is one of the oldest lumber firms in the city, has leased 2,000 square feet.

Other recent leases in the Field building include Arch W. Shaw, investments, who will move from 8 South Michigan avenue, and Ford, Bacon and Davis, Inc., consulting engineers. The latter will move their Chicago branch office from 208 South La Salle, where they have been for thirteen years.

Plan $250,000 Church Edifice in Winnetka

After a delay of ten years a new building program has been adopted by the Winnetka Congregational church which calls for the immediate erection of a $250,000 colonial type church on the site at the southeast corner of Pine street and Prospect avenue. Aymar Embury II. of New York and John Leonard Hamilton of Chicago have been commissioned as associated architects. The Rev. Samuel D. Harkness is pastor.

[Kaufmann & Fabry Photo.]

This decision to go ahead marks the end of negotiations for a new church edifice started a decade ago. About five years ago the site was purchased, almost opposite the present old church edifice, at Pine street and Lincoln avenue.

Planned Elaborate Edifice.

Elaborate plans were drawn by an eastern architect for a half million dollar Gothic edifice, but construction was delayed. Now it has been decided to erect a more modest structure along colonial lines. It will be of mellow toned red brick, with white trim, and possibly may have a tall, old fashioned New England steeple, somewhat of a rarity in this locality. It will be of fireproof construction.

The church will seat 800 and will contain the church offices. Later it is planned to erect a second unit to house the Sunday school. Actual work on the church probably will start as soon as working drawings are completed and bids are in, which will be within three or four months. Erection will take about a year.

Noted for Colonial Design.

Mr. Embury, who has won distinction for his work in the colonial style, notably at Princeton university, will design the church. The construction will be under Mr. Hamilton's supervision. The latter is a member of the firm of Hamilton, Fellows & Nedved. He has served on the building committee, of which William D. McKenzie is chairman, since this project was started.

"PICADILLY PUB" TO BRIGHTEN UP LONG DIM CORNER

A once bright spot on the edge of a prohibition area—the northwest corner of Cottage Grove avenue and 63d street—is to come to life as "The Picadilly Pub." After fifteen years of darkness lights are to glow in a restaurant, wine and beverage shop to be managed by Harry Feuer, a member of the Reuf corporation, which has leased the space through Earl E. Shipley of Swan, Lorish & Caspers.

The keynote to the decorations will be old English sports and the walls will be hung with hunting and sporting scenes of old England. These will be reminiscent of the days when the old Washington Park race track grounds extended to this corner.

Mr. Feuer, who has been a Woodlawn restaurateur for thirty years, will continue the operation of the present Feuer's restaurant at 6312 Cottage Grove avenue.

NEW SHOE CHAIN STORE TO OPEN IN STEWART BLDG.

State street is to have a new shoe chain store. The Mathes Shoe Stores company of St. Louis, operating as Reed's Shoe Stores, has leased the space at 104 North State street, formerly occupied by Edward Kirchberg, jeweler, who has moved next door to No. 106. The store is to be remodeled and a modern front installed, designed by I. Herman Kanner, a St. Louis architect who specializes in shoe stores.

The lessees, who have retail stores throughout the country, specializing in popular priced women's shoes, will open their first loop branch on May 1, according to Hall & Ellis, renting agents of the Stewart building. The lessors are Edward A. Shedd & Co. Lester Simon & Co. represented the lessees.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago the week of March 30 to April 5, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled 47, with a combined cost of $730,400. For the corresponding week last year there were 51 contracts, totaling $776,184. From Jan. 1, to April 5, 1934, the total was $6,803,550, or $1,225,086 ahead of the corresponding period last year, which totaled $5,578,464.

WARD BATTLES OF '32 ARE REPEATED

CONGRESS SEAT IN SEVENTH EYED BY REPUBLICANS

Chance Is Seen to Retire Schuetz.

BY PERCY WOOD.

West and northwest side Republicans were expressing some hopes last week that in the 7th congressional district they can regain control of one of the seats they lost when the depression came. They had less conviction of dethroning sitting Democrats in the 6th and 8th but interpreted political sentiment in the 7th as indicating that there is some chance of returning this normally Republican section to the G. O. P. standard.

Congressman Leonard W. Schuetz, a Democrat, is completing his second term from the 7th district. Two first termers are seeking reëlection in the other west side districts—Thomas J. O'Brien from the 6th and Leo Kocialkowski from the 8th. All three seem likely to be renominated, but on the Republican ticket the winners are by no means certain.

Two Oppose Schuetz.

Congressman Schuetz is opposed for renomination by Joseph B. Sherry, 4857 West Walton street, and Joel Prentice, 3729 Elston avenue, neither of whom was a candidate in the 1932 primaries.

Raymond J. Peacock, 3757 North Keeler avenue, publisher of a group of community newspapers on the northwest side, has the support of ward committeemen in the district on the Republican ticket. In the 1932 primary he ran second to former congressman M. A. Michaelson, who was defeated in the Roosevelt landslide by Schuetz. Peacock was a Republican delegate to the state convention last July which ratified the amendment repealing national prohibition.

Attorney Meyer Fink, 2724 Windsor avenue, who ran third to Michaelson in the 1932 primary, bears the Newton Jenkins "Progressive" label in the race. He is being supported by Prof. Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago, among others. Leif Stabell, 5942 North Washtenaw avenue, is campaigning on his record of opposition to prohibition. The fourth candidate is Frank Avery Conboy, 5670 West Grand avenue, River Grove.

Two Against O'Brien, Also.

Congressman O'Brien, a former legislator, has two opponents for renomination in the 6th district. One of them, J. L. Tupy, 8007 Edgewater road, North Riverside, published a Bohemian newspaper during the war and in recent years has advocated establishment of a national system of mortgage banks. For 20 years he has been a building contractor.

Attorney Jerome S. Breakstone, who ran a good race in the 1932 primaries, has the top of the ballot on the Republican ticket in the 6th district. He is campaigning against excessive governmental expenditures and is declaring that the national administration has discarded the constitution.

Second place is held by Mandel Yale, 2340 South 57th avenue, Cicero. The third candidate is Samuel J. Deitch, 226 Pine avenue, Chicago, who was chief clerk for the division of waterways under former Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. Prior to that he was in the automobile finance business. When he became a candidate for congress Deitch resigned as vice commander of the Board of Trade post, American Legion.

Lund Last on Ballot.

Arnold L. Lund, 3230 Home avenue, Berwyn, has last place on the Republican ballot in the district. He is a graduate of Northwestern university law school and president of the Berwyn chamber of commerce.

Congressman Kocialkowski's renomination is being contested in the 8th district by three Democrats, two of whom were runners-up in the 1932 primaries.

V. Roy Rybarczyk, 1115 North Damen avenue, who ran third in the 1932 primaries, has second place on the ballot this spring. Former Congressman Stanley H. Kunz, who held the seat for many years but was defeated for renomination by Kocialkowski two years ago is in third place. Peter Lavorata, 1817 North Winchester avenue, has fourth place.

Only two candidates are contesting the Republican nomination in this district. In 1932, Peter C. Granata, present state representative, was declared elected in November but was counted out in favor of Kocialkowski. In this year's primary, Attorney Anthony V. Champagne, 829 Sholto street, and Edward Richard Piszatowski, 1355 West Chicago avenue, are batting it out.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

One of the hottest primary battles in the state is the Republican contest being waged over nominations for state representative from the seventh senatorial district, the so-called "outer-belt" hemming in Chicago to the north, west and south. More than 125,000 votes were cast in this large, sprawling district peppered with country towns, in the last election. Each party will nominate two candidates. Twelve Republicans and thirteen Democrats are in the scramble for the three seats in the lower house. Frank E. Foster, Republican incumbent of Harvey, is running for renomination while the other two incumbents did not enter the race.

HOSMER H. ALLYN. [Rayhoff-Richter.]

Mrs. Ickes Out of Race.

Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes of Winnetka, one of the representatives, is not running because her husband, Harold, secretary of the interior, objected to her activity in Republic politics while he holds a portfolio in the Democratic cabinet at Washington. Emmett McGrath, a Democratic incumbent from this district, is running for the county board on the regular Democratic slate.

The seventh district is normally a Republican stronghold. Although the Legislative Voters league picked Mrs. Bernice T. Van der Vries of Winnetka, out of the twelve Republicans running and suggested that the voters "plump," or mark for her only to give her three votes on each ballot, it was said that several others who have good qualifications and who are conducting strong campaigns were considered.

Among those who have attracted attention is William McGee James, Wilmette Republican and lawyer. He is supported by County Commissioner

SAME RIVALS STRUGGLE FOR G. O. P. PLACES

Democratic Sector Rather Quiet.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

In four wards out on the west side of the city where the police often are kept busy on election days the bitter battles staged in 1932 over Republican ward committeeships are under way again, with the same candidates contesting for the positions on the county central committee. These wards are the 22d, 25th, 29th, and 36th.

The Democrats are comparatively quiet in this sector, which includes the wards from 20 to 31, inclusive, plus the 36th and 37th. Eight of the Democratic candidates, all but one of whom are present committeemen, have no opposition, while only five of the present Republican committeemen are scheduled for reëlection on April 10 without a struggle.

Hostilities flared up early in the 25th ward. Here William Parrillo, a former assistant United States district attorney, is fighting again with Committeeman James J. Savage, brother of School Trustee Joseph P. Savage, lieutenant of former State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, remembering that two years ago he was beaten by only 337 votes.

Charges Harassing by Police.

Parrillo has taken over a four page "extra" edition of the West Side Herald, in which he accuses Savage of entering into a bipartisan agreement with Ald. James B. Bowler, the Democratic committeeman, who has only one opponent, John D. Gibbons. As a result of the alleged deal, according to Parrillo, the police are threatening and arresting his workers, seven of whom were arraigned on Tuesday before Municipal Judge Schiller on charges of "associating with men of known criminal records."

There is a third candidate, Dominick M. Fellette, but the main bout is between Savage and Parrillo. Observers charge that Fellette's candidacy is sponsored by Savage to cut into the Italian vote that otherwise might go to Parrillo.

The battle in the 29th ward is equally as bitter as in the 25th. Committeeman Samuel O. Shaffer, who is allied with Crowe, won over Joseph R. Orrico two years ago by only 20 votes. Orrico then was an assistant state's attorney and had Deneen support. He is back in the race again this year as the harmony Republican candidate and is making Crowe, whose home ward this is and who led the rebels away from the harmony crowd, the main target.

Bank Fees Made Issue.

Orrico is talking about the fees collected by Crowe's law firm as attorney for the receiver of the Garfield State bank. He alleges that the firm has received $101,901 in that case since 1931, while the depositors, many of whom live in the ward, have collected only a little more than one-fourth of their money.

Committeeman Harry A. Steinmeyer has among his opponents in the 22d ward Anthony L. Golusinski, who was a close contender two years ago. Other candidates for the Republican committeeship are Andrew Kreilinger, Anthony F. Benkowski, Russell C. Cary, and Charles J. Petranek.

The fourth of these "repeater" fights over Republican committeemen is in the 36th ward. Here Arthur H. Romme, who heads a skating club, is a candidate again against Committeeman Eden T. Brekke, who also takes an interest in ice skating. The vote two years ago was Brekke, 6,101; Romme, 1,894, but the current scandal in the northwest park district, of which Brekke is secretary, over the payment of interest on unsold bonds, may have some effect on the Brekke candidacy. Thomas J. Jordan, who ran for alderman last year, is the third candidate.

Graydon Opposes Porcaro.

Charles E. Graydon, former sheriff, who says he is running without any factional hookups, is contesting with Republican Committeeman Joseph A. Porcaro in the 28th ward. Graydon has stated that he had been wooed by the Crowe people, but has taken the stand that he will mark his sample ballots independently. Martin Fernbach is a third candidate.

William M. Garrison, a Homer Galpin protégé and a former city purchasing agent, has six opponents in the Republican committeeman race in the 27th ward. His opposition consists of Leonard Metzinger, George F. Cronk, Charles H. Struwing, George Forth, B. F. Croutch, and Giuseppe Timpanaro.

Five candidates are splitting the opposition in the 37th ward to Republican Committeeman Francis A. Merrigan. They are Louis F. Peifer, Walter G. Hepner, August Anderson, Donald N. Dick and Theron L. Watt.

In the 31st ward the present Republican committeeman, Daniel A. Roberts, landed in second place on the ballot, Charles A. Mugler preceding him. Two other candidates are Frank Garite and Edward Deming. James Vignola, 26th ward committeeman, is opposed by Joseph E. Hokosa and Stanley A. Jurkowski. Vignola had no trouble in winning two years ago.

Having No Opposition.

The Republican committeemen who have no opposition are Ald. William V. Pacelli [20th], George F. Barrett [21st], William Lass [23d], Paul W. Rothenberg [24th], and Edward F. Moore [30th], secretary of the county central committee.

SEN. BARR FACES HOT FIGHT FOR G O P NOMINATION

Hjalmar Rehn Leads Four Opponents.

Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet, who has represented Republicans of Will and Du Page counties in the upper house at Springfield for 30 years, is in a hot fight for renomination, which has captured the interest of Chicagoans as well as the voters of the 41st district.

The veteran senator, whose work was characterized by the last report of the Legislative Voters' league as stamped with "remarkable astuteness and capacity," has four opponents in the primary and at least one of them is giving him a real battle.

Barr's most substantial opposition comes from Hjalmar Rehn, state's attorney of Will county for two terms. Rehn was defeated for renomination for a third term two years ago and his political fortunes appeared to be at a low ebb until he entered the race against Barr.

Smarting Under Defeat.

Some of the adherents of State Representative Lottie Holman O'Neill [Rep., Downers Grove] are said to be aiding Rehn. They are still smarting under the defeat Mrs. O'Neill suffered four years ago when she tried to beat Barr.

Noted for his extreme political agility, Senator Barr has continued to be a power in the upper house even under the present Democratic administration. He is minority leader and although an attempt was made at Springfield two weeks ago to dethrone him, he came through that battle still wearing his title and his smile—apparently without much damage.

Don C. Hall of Mokena is Barr's most picturesque opponent. He once served a term in the Wisconsin legislature and also has a background as a medicine show man. He still wears the habiliments of his profession—frock coat, high heeled boots, a goatee, long hair and an eight gallon hat. Other candidates are Glen Mount of Warrenville and Anton J. Stupay of Lisle, both Du Page county candidates.

Democrat Without Opposition.

In the race for the three house seats, political observers predict that the present trio will be renominated. They are Mrs. O'Neill, John L. Walker [Rep., Joliet], and Michael F. Hennebry [Dem., Wilmington]. Both men are lawyers. Mrs. O'Neill is Illinois' pioneer woman legislator. In 1930, after being defeated by Barr, she ran as an independent against Ruth Hanna McCormick in the campaign which sent James Hamilton Lewis back to the United States senate.

Other Republican candidates are Mark W. Bemis, Glen Ellyn; Attorney Martin K. Miller, Joliet; John M. Jenco, a former member of the house, Joliet, and Attorney Warren L. Wood of Joliet.

teemen are A. J. Prignano [20th], Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d], Ald. John Toman [23d], Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], John J. Touhy [27th], P. A. Nash [28th], national committeeman and chairman of the county central committee; Martin J. O'Brien [29th], and Edward J. Upton [30th]. Upton is not a committeeman now, but was chosen by the organization to succeed Ald. John S. Clark, candidate for the Democratic nomination for assessor, who is retiring from the committeeship.

Few of the campaigns over Democratic committeemen in these wards are creating any excitement outside the ward boundary lines. Congressman A. J. Sabath is expected to be reelected committeeman in the 21st ward over Emil J. Broz; Ald. James B. Bowler is having no trouble in the 25th; Ald. Frank E. Konkowski, who has been acting committeeman in the 26th, expects to defeat Stanley Wrobel and Leo Maszek, and City Collector Kaindl anticipates victory in the 31st.

Contests in 36th and 37th.

Two exceptions are the 36th and 37th wards. In the former Harry Kohl, the present committeeman and head of the city boiler inspection department, has two opponents, Frank J. Martin and Thomas M. Conley. Conley, according to Kohl's friends, is business agent of an outlaw teamsters' union and is spending money freely in his campaign.

In the 37th ward, where Ald. Roger J. Kiley was appointed committeeman following the death of Timothy J. Crowe, three candidates are contesting with Kiley for election. They are William Lynch, Frank P. Melvin, and John I. Sheehan. The issue of whether "outside" influences should dominate has been raised by Kiley because of the support given to Sheehan by James T. Igoe, former congressman and city clerk, who lives in Oak Park, according to Kiley workers.

ACTOR

Harvey Hobik, senior, will play the leading role in "Louder Please" to be staged by the Harlequins of St. Ignatius High school tomorrow, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, in the Chicago Woman's Club theater under the direction of B. G. Walker.

"BLACK" TULIPS FEATURE SHOW IN GARFIELD PARK

Many Startling Colors on Exhibit.

It's tulip time at the Garfield park conservatory. Rows and rows of delicate shades ranging from deep cinnamon brown to palest lavender characterize the novel display which is part of the annual spring flower show. Nearly 175 different kinds of flowers are arranged in luxurious and colorful profusion, together with 1,000 or more shrubs, according to August Koch, chief horticulturist.

Where once the red, yellow, and white tulips predominated in popular favor, Mr. Koch expressed the hope that the newer colors he is introducing at the show will prove equally tempting to garden growers. "There is a purple which might well be taken for black," he said. "Tulips of this color make a startling and pleasing contrast to their green leaf shroud. Chocolate and cinnamon shades of brown are rich and different. Odd shades ranging from these darker ones to light tans, pale yellows, and lavenders are attracting attention, and we hope they will not always be regarded as mere novelties," he added.

Rose Garden on Exhibit.

As lovely in color as in perfume is the rose garden on exhibit at the conservatory until April 15. Fashioned in realistic backyard layout, the garden grows roses in shades ranging from palest tearose to the esteemed cerise of the American beauties. Exquisite primroses, orange, yellow, and white are to be seen throughout the garden. All the plants in the conservatory, including the exhibit, are labeled with the common and botanical names, habitat, and where known.

Deep in the recesses of the fern house, said to be "the most beautiful room in America," are tree ferns, cycads, Elk Horn ferns, walking ferns, the rare oak leaved fern, and other unusual plants.

Every one of the most popular exhibits, according to conservatory attendants, is that of the orchids. The collection numbers approximately 3,000 individuals of 463 kinds and is valued at $50,000.

Exhibit Worth Over Million.

All in all, the plant collection at the conservatory comprises 4,500 species and varieties valued at $1,250,000. The conservatory itself is the largest municipally owned in the world. Four major shows are held during the year —the midsummer show, the chrysanthemum show, featuring 675 varieties; the Christmas show of flaming red poinsettias, and the Easter spring show displaying the early spring bulbs.

MELROSE PARK C. OF C. PROVIDES FREE PARKING

Busy Broadway in Melrose Park has been relieved of its parking problem through the instalation of a parking space at Lake street and Broadway. The chamber is sponsoring a style show Wednesday night at the Melrose theater. Members of the style show committee are Joseph Arowesty, Joseph Imburgio, E. P. Weissenborn, and H. J. Alexander. The show will be directed by Miss Maybelle Long.

Fuller.

Leading business houses in Melrose Park will exhibit the newest fashions in spring and summer wear for milady and children. There will be souvenirs for women and favors for men. ASSEMBLY FIGHT IN 7TH DISTRICT ONE OF HOTTEST

William Busse, a Republican leader in the country towns. James was born in Story City, Ia., and attended the public schools in that city. He enlisted in the 80th field artillery, 7th division, during the world war, and served fourteen months, ten of them overseas.

On Kent College Faculty.

James was educated at the University of Iowa, University of Chicago and the Chicago-Kent College of Law. He was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1925 and has practiced law in Chicago since then. Appointed to the faculty of Kent college in 1925, James is now completing his eighth year as an instructor in criminal law, code pleading and probate practice.

James is the author of "Illinois Probate Procedure and Practice," a 550 page law book, and articles for legal periodicals including several on taxation.

The list of organizations with which James is affiliated includes: Wilmette post No. 46 of the American Legion, Chicago, Illinois and American Bar associations, First Methodist Episcopal church of Wilmette and several fraternal and civic groups in Wilmette. He is married and lives with his wife and two sons at 208 18th street, Wilmette.

In his platform James has pledged himself to support reform legislation for immediate relief of the Illinois criminal code and a general simplification of all law procedure within the state. He has announced that he is for an economical state government and opposes any movement that will "add to the oppressive tax burden now being placed upon the taxpayers of the state."

H. H. Allyn in Fight.

Another Republican who is waging a fight for the nomination is Hosmer H. Allyn of Western Springs. Allyn, sales manager of a Chicago automotive chemical specialties company, was born in Rockford and has lived in Western Springs since 1905. He is married and has four children.

Allyn served with the artillery on the Mexican border in 1916. He has been Republican committeeman in his town for 8 years and was one of the founders of the Progressive party there 15 years ago. A graduate of Lewis institute, Allyn was elected president of the alumni association of that school last year. His local campaign committee is urging the voters to "plump" or mark a cross in the square opposite Allyn's name alone for nomination, thus giving him three votes on each ballot.

William F. Propper of Dolton, who served in the lower house from 1928 to 1932, is also carrying on a strong fight for the Republican nomination. He is said to have a labor backing. J. Soule Warterfield of Maywood, past president of the Chicago Real Estate board, is another Republican seeking the nomination. Warterfield has served as president of the National Association for Better Housing.

Thirteen Democrats in Battle.

The thirteen Democrats seeking the nomination are carrying on an independent scrap with the organization keeping out of it. The Legislative Voters league indorsed Ode L. Rankin, attorney, living in Maywood; Robert J. Burdett, Homewood attorney, and Oscar S. Johnson, real estate man living in Mt. Prospect.

The race for state senator from the seventh district has been complicated by the recent death of Senator Arthur A. Huebsch, Republican of Bookfield, who was considered a sure bet for renomination and reëlection.

Although the Legislative Voters league recommended Fred M. Clarke, Wilmette realtor, for the Republican nomination a great deal of support during the windup of the campaign has been thrown to Arthur J. Bidwill of River Forest, product of an old Republican family.

One of the Democratic candidates for the senatorial nomination is Charles F. Baumrucker, president of the village of River Forest and president of the National Association of Credit Jewelers. Baumrucker is chairman of the Chicago retail jewelry code authority. He has the indorsement of the Legislative Voters' league.

MAYWOOD WILL WELCOME LIONS OF OTHER DENS

Invite Fair Visitors to Join Meetings.

When A Century of Progress visitors pass through Maywood on their arrival in Chicagoland this summer the Lions among them will be made aware that the Maywood Lions club welcomes them to their weekly meetings Tuesday noons at the First Congregational church. Louis Nelson, president of the club, reported that a sprinkling of Lions club members from other cities "made up" meetings in Maywood last summer. Through the placing of signs it is hoped to increase the number greatly during the approaching summer months.

The six signs which have been purchased will be placed at First avenue and Lake street, First avenue and Washington boulevard, First avenue and Madison street, Ninth avenue and Lake street, on River road at the north entrance to the village, and at 22d street and Washington boulevard.

Plan Spring Party.

Members of the committee negotiating for the signs which will contain the emblem of Lions International and the legend "Maywood Welcome," are John Nolan, Ernest Spyrison, and E. R. Nerger.

The Maywood club is busy planning a spring party to be held early in May. A speaker will be chosen to talk on astrology, a subject which it is felt will be of interest to both the members and their wives. The dinner, to be followed by a dance, will be held at the Carleton hotel in Oak Park.

Members of the spring dance committee are Dr. Leo Shelley, chairman; E. F. Cameron, Irving Bauman, and Chester Youngstead. The committee for the club's stag party to be held this month includes Max Braun, H. W. Carnwright, John Nieman, and Joseph Holland.

Convention in Peoria.

President Nelson has been appointed a member of the district convention committee. The meeting will be held at Peoria in June. The club's convention committee is made up of past presidents of the organization—Al Flotow, chairman; Oscar Peterson, A. A. Meyer, C. A. Wiley, Earl Broberg, and Fred Bolkman.

In line with the group meetings which have been a feature of the club's program during the year, 52 Maywood Lions and guests recently visited the manufacturing plant of the Richardson company in Melrose Park. The program was in charge of O. O. Rieser, Al Flotow, A. A. Meyer, and James Schweizer. A roast beef dinner was cooked and served by women employés of the plant.

BELLWOOD CITY HALL IMPROVED BY CWA WORKERS

Expect Relief Crew to Finish Project.

An improved city hall building, providing enlarged quarters for the village library and the fire department, constitutes a nearly completed CWA project in Bellwood. William J. Mink, president of the village, supervised the job and plans call for the finishing touches to be carried out by relief workers.

The work, which would have cost more than $6,000, has been accomplished for an estimated $1,100, due to CWA assistance. The brick addition, in keeping with the material used when the hall was built nine years ago, has provided extra space which is said to have been much needed. The library, a decidedly popular institution among young and old, finds itself in less cramped quarters, the fire department is given more room for equipment and for its twice a month meetings, the interior has been redecorated, and new heating arrangements are being installed.

Addison Creek Deepened.

Another project which means much to Bellwood and which it is hoped will be continued by relief workers is the deepening and widening of Addison creek. Last summer activities on the project extended from St. Charles road to the Chicago and Great Western right of way. It is the hope to carry on the project this summer from St. Charles road to the Chicago and North Western right of way. The creek drains thousands of acres to the northwest and has offered a problem following heavy rains.

Tribute to Pioneer Leaders.

Photographs of two of the first officials of Bellwood when the village was incorporated thirty-four years ago will soon adorn the walls of the rejuvenated municipal building. Tribute to the pioneers, Neal F. Doughty, first president, and Philip H. Korrel, first village clerk, was paid at a recent anniversary program attended by the village board and townspeople. Both men are still residents of the village.

In talking over old times Bellwood's strict bicycle ordinance was recalled. The present generation got a big kick in learning that the two wheeled vehicles were once obliged to travel "not more than eight miles an hour, must be equipped with a horn, and carry lights front and rear as soon as the shades of night had fallen."

PIONEER CHIEFS OF FOREST PARK DIRECT JUBILEE

3 Leading Officers All 50 Year Residents.

In giving the address of welcome at Forest Park's fiftieth anniversary observance in Grant-White auditorium on April 16, Mayor George R. Gold will find himself in the same school, though improved, that he attended as a boy. Mayor Gold, serving his second term and seventh year as the mayor of the village, which has a commission form of government, is one of three village officials who have resided in the community for a half century or more.

Mayor Gold was born in Forest Park two years before the village was incorporated, and he has since consistently remained a resident of his native town. His father, Jacob H. Gold, was one of the early trustees, and his grandfather, Frederick Schwass, was a real early comer to the vicinity.

Recalls Early Days.

At the time Mayor Gold attended what is now Grant-White school it was known as Harlem No. 1. Later, it was called Ulysses S. Grant school and, when a new addition was built, the name was again changed to pay tribute to one of its teachers, Miss Elizabeth White.

"So open was the territory between Forest Park and Chicago," said Mayor Gold, "that as boys we were deceived by the distance of fires at night. I recall a big fire during the first World's Fair and later a blaze in the lumber yard district. They looked so close that we started to hike across the prairie, not realizing how far they were away."

Mr. Pries came to the village with his parents from Germany when he was nine. He entered the fire department in 1896 and became its chief a year later. He recalls the difficulties of early days when it was necessary to arrange with neighbors for the use of their teams in transporting the fire equipment to the scene of a blaze. The department was motorized in 1915.

Served as Village Clerk.

Before taking the office of police magistrate 11 years ago, Mr. Witt served as village clerk for six years. He was born in August, 1884, a few months after the village's incorporation. He is one of the directors of the chamber of commerce and chairman of the committee engaged in compiling a list of officials, living or dead, who have ever held office in the village.

The Rev. Daniel Irion of Elmhurst, who was pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church of Forest Park 54 years ago, has been invited to offer the invocation at the anniversary observance.

Stick to the Old Home Town

Mayor George R. Gold (left) was born in Forest Park, which will observe its fiftieth anniversary with a program April 16. John Pries, fire chief (center), has lived in the village for half a century, and Police Magistrate Paul R. Witt was born in the suburb the year of its incorporation.

The party is being held for the benefit of the charities of the Council of Catholic Women to help furnish the home recently opened at 2501 West Monroe street for homeless women. SILVER JUBILEE THIS MONTH FOR 12TH ST. STORE

West Side Store Marks 25th Anniversary.

Silver window decorations and silver signs on the wagons which deliver purchases to all parts of Chicago will feature the 25th anniversary celebration of The 12th Street Store to be held throughout this month.

In 1909 Henry Isaacs, president of the big store at the corner of Halsted street and Roosevelt road, was one of the purchasers of the establishment from the Philippson estate which had built the building and previously conducted business at the location. In 1930 the business had developed to such an extent that it was necessary to construct an eight story addition to the north of the original six story building.

Keep Name of 12th Street.

Changing the name of 12th street to Roosevelt road brought no change in the name of the firm. The business retained its name just as it has retained its customers and friends, and the fact that ninety-five per cent of these customers must pass other stores to reach the trading center is seen as indicative of the tendency to conform to old shopping habits that have been pleasant and profitable.

A map in the general's manager's office is well sprinkled with dots revealing daily delivery trips as far north as Rogers Park and Evanston and as far south as Blue Island, as well as to the nearby and far flung neighborhoods of the west side.

30,000 Customers on Rolls.

Attractively displayed and attractively priced merchandise of every description is to be found on the floors that cover an area of half a block. On the books are the names of 30,000 customers.

Plans have been made to celebrate the store's 25th anniversary in a manner befitting a quarter of a century of progress in one of the city's most active trading points.

CWA SUCCESSOR BEGINS WORK IN DU PAGE IN WEEK

C. J. Dunham Heads Federal Relief Committee.

Charles J. Dunham, of Downers Grove, has been appointed chairman of the Federal Work Relief committee for Du Page county, in charge of projects taken over from the CWA which ceased its activities March 31.

Following a meeting of the new committee at headquarters in Glen Ellyn, it was announced that no work would start in the county under the new plan until April 16. Mr. Dunham said it had been the hope to start the work on April 1, when the CWA projects expired, but under the regulations considerable investigation, budgeting, assignment of work and issuing of certificates is required.

Until the work relief starts families are to receive direct relief as they did before the CWA projects last year. Regulations for putting men on work relief specify that workers must have been on direct relief for 30 to 60 days. This will eliminate many men who have been working on the CWA but who had not, up to that time, been forced to accept direct relief.

New Projects Sought.

Forty-one projects which have been started under the CWA have been accepted by the committee subject to the approval of state headquarters. Additional projects, which may take the place of those now approved when they have been completed, are being sought.

The scale of wages calls for 50 cents an hour for common labor, 80 cents an hour for helpers of expert tradesmen, one dollar an hour for expert tree trimmers, and $1.20 an hour for carpenters, brick layers, cement finishers, etc. The wages will apply in all parts of the county regardless of whether the men are employed by the forest preserves, county, villages, sanitary district, or park district.

No transportation will be furnished, nor will material and trucks be supplied. Every family which comes under the jurisdiction of the work relief plan will be budgeted by the social service department of the relief committee.

Succeeds Ray Van Getson.

Mr. Dunham, as chairman of the committee, succeeds Ray Van Getson of Wheaton. Mr. Van Getson, Charles Wellner, of Naperville, and Glen Mount, of Warrensville, all candidates for public office, have resigned from the committee. Edgar D. Otto, of Downers Grove, resigned from the committee stating that he would be away from the county this summer.

Mr. Dunham is secretary and manager of the Downers Grove Investment company. He has long been active in Legion affairs, and was county commander of the Du Page county executive committee, American Legion, during 1931 and '32. Mr. Dunham declared that there were indications that men, formerly on CWA work and relief, are returning to their old jobs.

40,000 TO GET COUNTY HIGHWAY BUILDING JOBS

Spring Weather Speeds Construction.

Favorable weather conditions make possible the speeding up of highway projects in which neighborhood groups in territories affected have taken deep interest and which will mean much to west and southwest Cook county area. Preparatory work has been carried on throughout the winter on a scale hitherto unknown for the cold months, serving the double purpose of aiding unemployed and providing needed improvements.

Eight million dollars is being alloted to the state highway department for expenditure, being a part of the $17,750,000 share of federal government money to Illinois for road building in 1934. The appropriation is an outright grant from the government. Highway engineers estimate that the 1934 highway construction program in Cook county alone will assure employment to 40,000 men between now and Jan. 1, 1935, and will call for an expenditure of more than $18,000,000.

The most pretentious of the projects designed and supervised by the Illinois state highway department under Kendrick Harger, district engineer, is the concrete structure spanning the Des Plaines valley in the vicinity of 79th street.

Over 3 Railroads, 3 Waterways.

The new four lane concrete route has been extended south on Mannheim road from Joliet road to the edge of the valley, and the new structure across the Sante Fe railroad, and approaches to it, are almost completed. The sub-structure has been completed across the Des Plaines river, the I. and M. canal, and the C. and A. railroad, and work on the super-structure has begun.

The bridge may be said to be symbolic of the great change that has taken place in methods of travel, for it crosses high above three railroads and three waterways, all of them running east and west. The bridge will afford an opportunity for motor trafic to flow southward and further link Chicago's west and south sides.

In recent months Ogden avenue, main thoroughfare through the village of Lyons, has been transformed in that territory through the removal of street car tracks and new paving from Lawndale to Harlem avenues. The old bridge across the Des Plaines river on Ogden avenue has been replaced with a structure supported by six span reinforced concrete girders, and the separate bridge which carried the street car tracks, now abandoned, has been removed. The bridge and the paving job are now almost completed. This is one of the stretches which has hitherto slowed up Ogden avenue trafic.

Widen Roosevelt Road.

Roosevelt road, on its north half is being widened from Cicero to Central avenues, from Austin to Central avenues, from Cicero avenue to Kolmar avenue, and from Kolmar avenue, on both sides, to Kildare avenue. It is also being widened from Kildare avenue to Crawford avenue on both sides.

The project for widening Washington boulevard from Cicero to Crawford avenue was started last fall. Widening of Cicero avenue from Jackson boulevard to Roosevelt road will be done this summer. Another project is the widening of Cicero avenue from Jackson boulevard to Chicago avenue. Under reconstruction is the paving of Roosevelt road between Canal street and Ashland avenue.

Ogden avenue is being paved and reconstructed from Roosevelt road to Randolph street, and from Crawford avenue to the city limits. Widening of 55th street from Archer avenue to Cicero avenue is under way.

On Harlem avenue the job of widening the west half of the highway, the River Forest side, from Central avenue to Chicago avenue, and on the east half from North boulevard to Chicago avenue, is practically completed.

Contracts have been awarded for the removal of car tracks and paving on Harlem avenue between Roosevelt road and 22d street, and widening of Harlem avenue between Madison street and the North Western railroad tracks.

CICERO CITIZENS TO ASK HORNER FOR RESERVOIR

At the instigation of John B. Bernard, well known attorney and civic worker in Cicero, a campaign to procure a state water reservoir to increase water pressure in all west end towns, including Cicero, was recently started by the Lions club.

Citizens in west side suburbs have reported difficulty in obtaining sufficient water. All civic organizations are consequently supporting the move to solicit a state appropriation for the reservoir. Mr. Bernard, who is also vice president and a charter member of the Lions group, is heading a delegation this week to the state capitol at Springfield. Their purpose is to interview Gov. Horner and explain the urgent need for additional water on the west side.

Mr. Bernard was also behind the agitation for lower taxes in Cicero recently. The movement concerned the lowering of town and school expenditures. He is a member of the Bohemian bar, affiliated with the Chicago Bar association.

TRIBUNE STORY OF TEACHER HAS UNIQUE SEQUEL

Her First School Given a Fine Flag.

A reunion of a teacher and her former pupil after thirty years, which came about through a story of the teacher's retirement in a recent issue of the Metropolitan section of THE TRIBUNE, provided an opportunity for the teacher to perform last week another service for the school which she founded and of which she was the first principal and teacher.

The teacher is Miss Florence E. Scully, 3932 North Keeler avenue, who recently completed 50 years of service in the Chicago public school system. Miss Scully's first teaching assignment was at the Glenwood Manual Training School for Boys, which was started under her direction in Norwood Park, and of which she became the first principal.

Suggests Flag for School.

One of the boys who came under her tutelage at the school 30 years ago was Peter Smith. Mr. Smith read the story of Miss Scully's retirement in the Metropolitan section on Feb. 11 and called her up. She invited him to attend an alumni meeting with her at the school, 187th and Halsted streets.

Noticing the absence of a flag in the school assembly hall, Mr. Smith suggested that funds be solicited among the alumni for the purchase of one. Miss Scully vetoed the idea, explaining that in times such as these it would undoubtedly work a hardship on some of the alumni to contribute to any kind of a fund.

And besides, she confessed, she had a selfish desire to purchase the flag herself. So it came about that last Tuesday evening a handsome silk flag was presented to the school by Miss Scully through the Glenwood Alumni, Inc. The presentation took place at a specially arranged meeting of the alumni held at 203 North Wabash avenue.

John A. McCaulay, president of the alumni, accepted the flag on behalf of the school, expressing the thanks of the members for the thoughtfulness and generosity of Glenwood's first principal. Norman C. Mather, president of the board of trustees of the school, which is a philanthropically operated institution, also was a speaker. Mr. Mather expressed the hope that Miss Scully would remain the only honorary member of the alumni.

High Lights of Career.

Highlights in Miss Scully's half century of teaching include the establishment by her of a school at the Juvenile Detention home in 1906, then located in a remodeled barn at Adams and Paulina streets; principalship of the truant center at Keeler avenue and 22d street, and the organization of a school in the old Cook county jail.

Miss Scully had charge of the Cook county jail school for five years. She was in sole charge of the school, which she conducted in the jail bull-pen under what were often trying conditions. She taught reading, writing, arithmetic and drawing. Many of Miss Scully's former "pupils" at the jail, some of whom are still behind bars, still communicate with her.

DRAMA GROUP OF VILLA PARK WILL GIVE "THE ROCK"

The Villa Park players of the Villa Park Community Congregational church will present "The Rock" tonight and next Sunday night at the Wicker Park Lutheran church, Hoyne and Le Moyne avenues. Although this is a comparatively new group of players, it has an interesting history. Organized in the spring of 1932, it has presented "The Rock" five times in various churches of the western suburbs.

A special stage setting and colorful costumes represent as accurately as possible the period of history with which the play deals. Preceding the play and between the acts appropriate organ music helps to interpret the moods of the scenes.

The cast includes Alfred A. Thompson, Catherine Finn, Inez Swanson, Claude C. Warren, Mildred Negley, Walter S. Hart, Hubert C. Lantz, and Dorothy Vangsness. But two changes have been made in the cast during the three seasons. The part of Simon was first played by Ray H. Hopfner, and Deborah by Miss Rose Besick. The play is directed by Mrs. Martin E. Bybuth.

Expect Aid of CWA on Civic Project.

A recreational park by Memorial day is the goal of Villa Park. This objective, submitted by James Burns and approved by the village board, has the enthusiastic interest of the Villa Park Men's club, the local American Legion post, the Woman's club, the Ardmore Country club, the Garden club and other civic groups.

Following the suggestion by Mr. Burns, landscape gardeners, that a free park be established at this time of unemployment, Robert Crowe, supervising timekeeper for CWA projects in Villa Park and himself an architect, drew up plans for the proposed center.

The location under discussion includes a vacant plot of ground which lies south of the village hall and extends to the Great Western right of way. Bounded on its other two sides by Ardmore and Harvard avenues, the tract has an approximate width of 185 feet and covers an area of three blocks.

Plan to Move Bandstand.

The proposed plan calls for a field which will serve as a baseball diamond, gridiron, and parade ground. In the center of the plot there will be a terrace for a bandstand. Villa Park has had a community band for several years, and its summer concerts have been an enjoyable feature of the community life. The village already has a bandstand located across the street from the village hall and it is planned to move the structure to the new location.

A bowling green, providing a sport new to the area but popular throughout the country, is arranged for in a plot 120 by 120 feet in dimensions. Plans also call for a fieldhouse, four tennis courts, a volley ball court, horseshoe pitching, and a wading pool. Space is also set apart for a swimming pool.

Name Investigative Committee.

Edward G. Bowdish, village trustee, and Lloyd M. Bowden, village attorney, have been appointed a committee to investigate the feasibility of acquiring the desired property, and Harry S. Mahood, president of the village, has made a requisition, which has been approved by the county emergency relief organization, that work on the park be done through the Illinois Emergency relief.

The labor budget is fixed at $10,000, and the material budget at $8,000. It is explained that much of the material will be donated, and an agreement has been made with the Great Western railroad to decorate the fence which runs along the right of way at the park's southern border.

President Mahood has asked the Rockefeller Foundation for funds with which to equip the proposed playground to the extent of $4,000. Among the civic groups intensely interested in the project is Villa Park Legion post, No. 652, an organization with a reputation for accomplishment. It is the hope that the park be completed to a point so that its flagpole may be dedicated with fitting ceremonies Memorial day.

Elm trees for the park have already been promised by Miss Rosemarian Pick, who has agreed to donate trees from her property near the location under consideration.

PLAYTINKERS OF AUSTIN TO GIVE 2 SHORT PLAYS

"Gloria Mundi" and "Safety Pins First," two one act plays, will be presented by the Playtinkers of Austin next Sunday night at the Washington Boulevard temple, Washington boulevard at Karlov avenue. Dancing and entertainment will follow the playlets.

May Rosenbloom and Nathaniel Halperin have the leading rôles in "Gloria Mundi" and will be supported by Gladys Gorchoff, Bertha Abarbanell, Pearl Eisman, and Edward Bloom. Sara Gorchoff, Morris Herbst, Milton Rosenfeld, Sophia Shatz, Edythe Rosenbloom, and Esther Halperin share honors in "Safety Pins First."

Thirty members comprise the play group which is coached by Max Seigel. For their second venture The Playtinkers will produce a full length musical comedy the latter part of May.

Neighborhood Theaters

A phoney toothpaste racket takes Charles Farrell and Bette Davis on a ride—almost—in this gangster film showing at the Crawford and the Broadway-Strand. This week the "Big Shakedown" is excellently directed and acted. Ricardo Cortez as the gang leader who enmeshes the somewhat stupid Jimmie in his racket, Glenda Farrell as the discarded sweetheart who pays with her life for whispering things to the state's attorney, and Miss Davis as the sharp-witted wife of Jimmie, merit applause. The film is two fisted and slippery, but pulsing with action, in true gangster style.

* *

"The Gallant Lady."

A lady yearning for love, daring, misunderstood, and capricious, is Ann Harding as Sally in "The Gallant Yady," showing this week at the Lamar theater. Fate starts tying her life in tough knots with the death of her aviator lover as he begins an Atlantic flight. From here the action, vague and improbable as it is, brings Sally into contact with a temperamental, erratic creature played by Clive Brook. Miss Harding, as an interior decorator, is her usual glowing self, giving what vivacity there is to the picture.

More on Transcontinental Bus.

"No More Women," They Said.

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen are their usual friendly enemy, boisterous selves in this picture "No More Women" showing at the Manor this week. Farce fans will enjoy the precarious situations built around deep sea diving and tugboats, especially when one certain tug, the Pelican, is owned by a very pretty boss in the person of Sally Blane. When love and duty clash . . . and Mina Gombel is there to give added atmosphere, Mr. Lowe and Mr. McLaglen might indeed decide in favor of "No More Women"—but they don't.

"Flying Down to Rio."

"Carioca," the increasingly popular dance tune, permeates "Flying Down to Rio," a film starring the glamorous Dolores del Rio at the West End this week. Fred Astaire, famous dancer, and Gene Raymond get the action started in a Miami hotel, from whence the flying begins amid a whirl of thrills and novelties.

HIGH SCHOOL P.-T. COUNCILS MEET NEXT WEDNESDAY

Plans to Be Made for the Coming Year.

With a wide variety of subjects to be considered, the all Chicago High School conference of district one and 23, will open in the Nelson room of the Drake hotel Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The open forum during the morning session will focus upon such topics of group interest as program, citizenship, legislation, juvenile protection, membership, ways and means, and student aid funds.

Mrs. Frank V. Marshall, president of the high school council of district 23 will open the meeting with an outline of its purpose, to which Mrs. William Bethke, president of the high school council of district one, will respond. As the meeting progresses, methods of procedure will be compared and plans made for the coming year. Presidents of the schools represented in the council will make short reports of the work accomplished the last year. Luncheon will be served at noon in the Lantern room, after which the chorus of Fenger High school will sing.

Unanimously elected at a recent meeting of the Delano Parent-Teacher association were the following officers: Mrs. M. Morton Strassman, president; Mrs. Aaron Marcus, vice president; Mrs. Harry L. Snyder, recording secretary; Mrs. William J. Sloan, treasurer, and Mrs. Arthur Linn, corresponding secretary. They will be formally installed at the June meeting Mrs. Robert Levey, outgoing president, and Mrs. Strassman will represent the Delano association at the state convention in Springfield, April 18.

The next regular meeting will be held tomorrow at 1:30 o'clock in the school assembly hall. Dr. Charles Salk will give an illustrated lecture on teeth. There will also be an exhibition of handmade rugs by pupils of Delano.

The St. Philip High school band will give its second annual concert tonight, sponsored by the Mothers' club. The program, which also marks the debut of the freshman band on the concert stage, will be given in the Parish hall of Our Lady of Sorrows church, 322 South Albany avenue at 8:30 o'clock. This is the first major project of the club under the new régime of recently elected officers. John A. Carney, formerly a member of John Philip Sousa's band, will act as band director of the concert which is scheduled to attract prominent music critics and directors of musical organizations. Rev. James R. Keane, O. S. M., principal of the Mater Dolorosa seminary in Hillside, Ill., will be guest speaker.

Plans for a dinner party in compliment to the school board were discussed at the recent meeting of District 89 Council in the Washington school. Officers of the council and principals of the various district schools report this is an expression of their appreciation for the regular cash payment of teachers of the district and maintenance of the school curriculi in spite of low funds.

A nominating committee composed of Miss Pearl Kettlekamp, Mr. N. H. Babcock, and Mr. E. B. Dullinger, were also named in preparation for the election of officers at the annual meeting in May. Mrs. Robert Van Pelt, president of the council, will act as district delegate at the conference in Springfield, April 18.

Mrs. Van Pelt was recently complimented by officials of A Century of Progress for her work last summer in preparing and presenting the skit "Fairs on Parade" for clubs and societies throughout the west side. She received an engraved testimonial signed by Rufus Dawes.

Newly elected officers of the Corkery association include Mrs. H. C. Haase, president; Mrs. Jacob Silka, first vice president; Mrs. Frank Keller, second vice president; Mrs. Clifford Plum, recording secretary; Mrs. Jessica Carrotcio, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Edward Kommer, treasurer, and Mrs. John Mosa, historian.

The next meeting of the group will be held at 1:30 o'clock Thursday, in the school assembly hall, 2510 South Kildare avenue. Mrs. Martha Hoppe, program chairman, has arranged for a program of educational films.

The Midwest council of Parent-Teacher associations will hold a board of directors meeting Thursday morning in the assembly hall of the Darwin school, 2314 North Albany avenue at 9:30, with Mrs. Charles Clauss presiding. The Midwest chorus will hold a card party at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow at Blackhawk park, Lavergne avenue at Fullerton avenue. Donations are 25 cents.

All civic organizations headed by the Forest Park chamber of commerce are coöperating in the production which is under the direction of Carl O. Behnke, head of the Forest School of Music.

GATHERS 5,000 INDIAN PIECES FROM HOME SOIL

C. H. Bragg Has Amazing Collection.

The romantic story of people who inhabited the west suburban area preceding the white civiliation is told in an amazing collection of Indian stone artifacts, the collection of Chester H. Bragg, 3201 Harlem avenue, Berwyn. The collection includes more than 5,000 pieces—arrowheads, tomahawks, domestic and garden tools, almost all of which Mr. Bragg picked from the earth of Cook county.

Mr. Bragg has been engaged in the hobby for less than two years, and he says he has found it much superior as a week-end recreation to playing poor golf. His enthusiastic assistants have been his two young daughters, Elizabeth and Margaret, each of whom returned with a worthwhile collection to their credit on their first day's hunt.

Sees Where Others Fail.

It is not unusual for Mr. Bragg to find from ten to 25 specimens of arrows, spears, and knives on a single afternoon search, and his discoveries are made on land that has been tramped over for generations by those with unseeing eyes. Often the bits of stone lie deeply embedded in the soil, with only a tip showing, but when excavated are found to be perfectly formed and carefully chipped, the work of artisans in centuries past.

Mr. Bragg credits Charles Palmer of Cicero, an amateur archeologist of long experience, for listing with him the sites in the Chicago area most apt to bring finds. A companion of Mr. Bragg in his hunts is Fred W. Jones of Berwyn, retired works manager of the International Harvester company.

As the Bragg collection has grown, the story of various tribes has unfolded. The flint arrowheads take many shapes according to the purpose for which they were used. There are tiny chips for the shooting of birds, and the especially designed arrowhead for the warrior which, attached to a split stick, loosened itself and became embedded in the body of the victim.

Tomahawks Are Notched.

Arrow makers, important men in their tribes, are shown to have been scientific in their creation of arrowheads that would whirl. Some of the tribes made five-point arrows, others had seven points, and still others were made with a jagged Christmas-tree effect. They range in color from milk-white to coal-black, and some of them have every hue of the rainbow. The tomahawks are notched to record the number of kills.

Mr. Bragg explained that interest in the hobby began in his boyhood when he lived in Iowa, 30 miles from the scene of the Spirit Lake massacre. He hunted enthusiastically for specimens in the neighborhood but with little reward. On reviving his enthusiasm, he discovered that he now lived in the midst of what was apparently one of the richest fields for stone artifacts in the country.

Former townsites, battlegrounds and favorite hunting spots have all been located by the bits of stones. They have indicated that Willow Springs road and 107th street was a center of Indian activities, that the site of the British Old Peoples home was once a battlefield, and that the plowed acres of the McMann farm were well trodden by moccasined feet.

While Mr. Bragg admitted that he had probably developed a peculiar instinct for finding the specimens, he had been able to lead others with equal success. He spoke of a family picnic at which every attendant went forth and brought back relics.

5,000 WRITE TO W-G-N HAILING 50,000 WATTS

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

W-G-N's new superpower transmitter is reaching out farther. In the wake of its 10th anniversary program THE TRIBUNE station has received more than 5,000 letters of congratulations, thanks and good wishes. These have come from coast to coast from 40 of the 48 states. And already there have been letters from Canada and Mexico. Those from other foreign countries will probably begin to pour in this week. Classification of the mail revealed that the territory served by THE TRIBUNE in the five surrounding states was blanketed by W-G-N's 50,000 watt transmitter. Chicagoans sent in more than 1,500 letters; downstaters nearly a thousand; Wisconsin, 588; Indiana, 278; Michigan, 271, and Iowa, 116.

Excerpts from several letters, follow:

Bloomington, Ill.: I listened to your station ten years ago on a one tube set and so can appreciate the improvement in high power and radio programs.
DAVID DEANE.

Union City, Tenn.: If each listener could have only one station, I would choose W-G-N. Your program last night was very interesting. I have listened to W-G-N for the last five years, as I have been in bed during that time. VIRGINIA NAILLING.

Milwaukee, Wis.: Congratulations, and may you have many more successful years in the radio world. As W-G-N fans from years back we too felt as though we had a part in your salute to the nation. The informality of it all made a big hit.
HELEN H. WALLS.

Sawyer, Mich.: With all the lights out except the dial light on the radio it was a perfect setting for your program, which I called a Symphony in Imagination.
MRS. MARIE E. RICE.

Waterloo, Ia.: W-G-N has always been my favorite station. I have always thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated your efforts to bring to the air the best to be had . . . I am so delighted I cannot resist thanking you for this great favor.
MRS. CHAS. ZAURIS.

Cedar Rapids, Ia.: Thank you for the most enjoyable evening I ever hope to spend. Our radio is tuned in on W-G-N from morning until night, week in, week out, and most of the artists presented tonight are old, familiar friends. I have not been able to find any other station that could approach it in high grade entertainment.
MRS. ROBERT LEITH.

Cedar Point, Ill.: I would rather listen to W-G-N than any other station on the air. W-G-N has variety and that to my estimation is what everybody likes.
ROSIE CERRI.

Chicago: W-G-N in its next ten years will step out again ahead as it always has.
JAMES HANNON.

Lafayette, La.: Your programs are of the finest and you have the best orchestra I've ever heard. I am a constant listener to your station and always intend to be.
STINSON DURIO.

Elwood, Ind.: Only storms or parties have kept us from listening to W-G-N. Last evening was an evening of unusual pleasure and entertainment. We have dialed the circuit and no programs are as clean and wholesome and perfect as W-G-N and I reiterate it is "The Aristocrat of the Air."

WLS 10th Birthday Party.

Following hard upon W-G-N, WLS will celebrate its tenth anniversary with a birthday party next Thursday evening to be broadcast from the Eighth Street theater.

Kemp Draws Crowd of 7,000.

On Easter Sunday, the day after he left W-G-N for a tour, Hal Kemp attracted a crowd of 7,000 at Riverview ballroom, Milwaukee—and turned 3,000 away. . . . Roy Atwell, the stuttering man of Fred Allen's program, flew in Wednesday for an appearance at the State-Lake. . . . The Lorraine Trio, newcomers at NBC, are Evanston Township High school girls. . . . Morton Downey is the new M. C. for Freddie Rich's Saturday night show. . . . Patricia Ann Manners is seeking copies of old songs that are probably not available at publishing houses for her "Musical Tin-Types" program at 9:30 Thursdays on WENR.

"Silken Strings" Is Silken.

"Silken Strings," the new Sunday night hosiery show with the orchestra under the direction of Charles Previn is probably the most aptly named program on the air. Previn's musical ensemble is composed mostly of experts from the Chicago Symphony orchestra which goes a long way toward explaining the smoothness of the program. And Mr. Previn is a skilful conductor. Tonight Mischa Mischakoff will be guest star. Jessica Dragonette is to be a guest next Sunday. She will come to Chicago for the show. It will be her first appearance here.

Conklin Pinches for Hickman.

Bronchitis having laid low Stanley Hickman, Earl Burtnett's keen tenor soloist, Gene Conklin has been substituting for him. Conklin used to be with Burtnett's old band which was taken over by Buddy Rogers. Buddy has another band now, however, and the old group has dispersed. Both Hickman and Conklin go well on the air. . . . Art Wright gives us the lowdown on that "page boy" on Leo Reisman's show. He's a real midget and has a six footer plus for a chauffeur. . . . Gerry Temple, the young tenor soloist, featured on a Sunday p. m. NBC show is known as Harry Jost out in Hinsdale where he was a grid star a couple of years ago. . . . Irene Beasley, that charming Tennessee singer, will be the guest star on the Palmer House Promenade Tuesday evening. Don Ameche, we thought, stole the show from Dorothy Gish last week.

CLARA, LU 'N' EM SIGN FOR 1935

Clara, Lu and Em, that is, Louise Starkey, Isobel Carothers, and Helen King, have contracted to continue their morning gab fest broadcasts over W-G-N and NBC. On the air over W-G-N since 1930, the girls have signed another contract which will include the remainder of 1934 and all of 1935 with THE TRIBUNE radio station. The girls are shown signing on the dotted lines as indicated by George F. Isaac, commercial manager of W-G-N.

WHEN TO GIVE CHILD FIRST DOG TO BE DISCUSSED

Practical information on dogs and thrilling dramatizations of true dog stories will be combined this week by Bob Becker in his broadcasts over W-G-N. Tomorrow night at 7 Bob will discuss the question of a child owning a dog and the age at which a boy or girl best can appreciate a canine companion. In this broadcast will be included a dramatized story of a dog that performed a thrilling rescue of a child which was caught in the mud of a tidal flat.

Note on Dillinger

Dear Larry: It used to be "Prosperity is just around the corner" . . . now it's Dillinger. Runways have been removed from burlesque theaters . . . from now on nothing will be over the heads of the audience. Insull is about the only one who's not looking forward to the day when his ship will come in. The Easter parade [as was expected] showed very little change in men's trousers, except that there were more seats with patches. . . . The world's champion optimist has been found . . . he's getting his miniature golf course in shape for spring business. Cordially,

FRED ALLEN.

Charlie Agnew Program Moves to 1:45 p. m. Today

Charlie Agnew's orchestra with the Singing Ensemble, Emrie Ann Lincoln and the Symphonic Girls, a harmony trio which has been heard on a transcribed program every Sunday at 4:15 p. m., will be heard at 1:45 p. m., beginning today.

Boynton to Give Talk on Durant's Book on Russia

The much discussed book, "Will Durant Reports Russia," will be reviewed by Prof. Percy H. Boynton at 7 o'clock this evening during his regular weekly book talk over W-G-N.

STOCK TO DIRECT ORCHESTRA IN PLAY BROADCAST

W-G-N to Carry Burlesque Program.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, directed by Dr. Frederick Stock, will be heard in a special and novel feature program over W-G-N tomorrow from 8:15 to 10:15 o'clock. This special concert by the entire orchestra will be the annual "Orchestra at Play" presentation given before an invited audience of subscribers to the orchestra's deficit fund.

W-G-N has broadcast exclusively all of the popular concerts of the Chicago Symphony this season, the final concert being heard last night.

Several novel arrangements of famous musical scores have been made for the program. Desirous of making the program something of a surprise party, the orchestra has not made public its program, but enough of the routine has leaked out to make it known that the subject of symphony music in general is being treated in a spirit of burlesque and high comedy.

For this purpose several well known symphonic compositions have been reorchestrated in a manner such as no symphony audience has ever heard before; a number of hitherto unheard of instruments will be added to the customary instrumentation; soloists and groups of the most able players of the orchestra will appear in special numbers which in an ordinary symphony concert would be considered not only light hearted but light minded. Just an evening of good clean fun, and symphony players can make it.

Comments and descriptions of the show as it progresses will be made by Announcer Pierre André and other commentators.

STORY OF TEXAS CAMP HURRICANE ON "HEADLINES"

The story of a terrific rain and wind storm which all but washed away a United States army camp in Texas will provide the subject for the "Headlines of Other Days" program tomorrow night at 9:15 o'clock. The storm swept the camp of Illinois men, who were in the army service on the expedition which was encamped at Brownsville, Tex., preparing for the trip into Mexico in search of the bandit Villa, and played havoc with the encampment. Several of the men were injured and for 24 hours Chicago families tried to get in touch with their sons and husbands who were in the Illinois regiments.

One of the Chicagoans in service at the Texas camp and who went through the storm was L. J. Lieberman. Mr. Lieberman will be in the W-G-N studios tomorrow night to tell his experiences during the storm and describe the scenes at the camp after the hurricane had swept on.

Blackhawks and Redwings Match on W-G-N Tonight

The third game of the championship hocky series between the Chicago Blackhawks and the Detroit Redwings will be played tonight at the Chicago Stadium and the final period of the match will be broadcast exclusively by W-G-N. John Harrington will open the broadcast at 9:45 p. m. with a description of the play of the first two periods of play before going into his play by play broadcast of the final 20 minutes of play.

"AN EVENING WITH FRIML"

LOUISE MELE.

ALLAN JONES.

Louise Mele and Allan Jones, stars of the new Rudolf Friml operetta "Annina," will be presented in a special program over W-G-N at 8:10 o'clock tonight. The program will be made up entirely of Friml's music and is to be known as "An Evening with Rudolf Friml."

Miss Mele and Mr. Jones are no strangers to Chicago stage and radio followers. Mr. Jones has made several appearances on W-G-N, while Miss Mele also has been presented over local stations as well as on a coast to coast network commercial air show.

Miss Mele's last stage appearance with Jack Donohue in "Sons o' Guns" and some of her other appearances included "Good News" and "Follow Through." Mr. Jones will be remembered in Chicago for his excellent singing in "The Student Prince," "Blossom Time" and his latest stage operetta "Bittersweet." Both Miss Mele and Mr. Jones are to be starred in the operetta "Annina," which opens tomorrow night at the Grand Opera house.

THE MARK OF THE MODERN GAS RANGE

Insist upon it before you buy!

When you look at gas ranges be sure to look for the "Tested and Approved" emblem. It is your guarantee that the gas range it identifies is really modern.

Before a manufacturer may adopt this famous seal, the model gas range it marks must pass rigid inspection by the Gas Appliance Society of Metropolitan Chicago. It must reach a high standard of efficiency. And it must provide certain specified features which make a gas range modern.

Go to your dealer now. Ask to see a gas range which has been "Tested and Approved." It will pay you to be familiar with all the marvelous improvements which have been made in gas ranges in the past few years, because they mean so much in easier and better cooking—in cooler kitchens—in saving time, effort and money.

Genuine "Tested and Approved" modern gas ranges are now being displayed by 200 authorized dealers in Chicago and vicinity. Most of them offer liberal terms with a small down payment.

Only authorized dealers—members of the Gas Appliance Society—are permitted to carry "Tested and Approved" ranges. Only gas ranges which have been laboratory-tested for quality, efficiency, economy and convenience are marked with the Gas Appliance Seal. Look for this emblem! It is your assurance of highest quality—your protection against inferior merchandise. On display by better dealers in all parts of Chicago and suburbs.

MY PICTURE- WHERE HAS THAT BEEN ALL THIS TIME ?
SIDNEY SMITH
I REMEMBER WHEN THAT WAS TAKEN - BY ONE OF THOSE TRAVELING PHOTOGRAPHERS-
MIN- WHY DON'T YOU HAVE THIS FRAMED ? A PICTURE OF ME THAT WAS TAKEN WHEN I WAS FIVE YEARS OLD-
OH, PAPA- CAN I SEE ?
LOOK AT THAT BUILD- AFRAID OF NOTHING- LOOK AT THOSE FISTS-LEMME SEE NOW!
AND MAYBE I COULDN'T USE 'EM AT THAT AGE- A CHIP ON THE SHOULDER ALL THE TIME-
GEE- I WOULD HAVE HATED TO HAVE HAD YOU MAD AT ME-
IN THOSE DAYS THE KIDS CALLED ME WILD CAT-
TODAY THE KIDS DON'T HAVE FUN LIKE WE USED TO HAVE- THEY DON'T DARE TO DO THE THINGS WE USED TO DO-
I HAVE TO LAUGH WHEN I THINK OF THE TIME I GOT SENT HOME FROM SCHOOL FOR DIPPING THE GIRL'S' HAIR IN THE INK WELL- — GEE!
THAT GANG THAT I USED TO GO WITH- WAS THAT A BUNCH-
WILL I EVER FORGET THE NIGHT WE PUT A TICK-TACK ON OLD JONES WINDOW- AND WHEN HE CAME RUNNING OUT WE PUT A PIG IN HIS HOUSE- WAS HE SORE-
GEE- I WISH I HAD LIVED THEN-
ONE HALLOWE'EN NIGHT WE HITCHED THE FELLOW S' HORSE UP THE WRONG WAY- AND PUT FRANK FUNK'S BUGGY ON TOP OF HIS BARN- AND SHAVED THE HAIR OFF OF BUD RICHEY'S HORSE'S TAIL AND DYED HIM GREEN- HAW! HAW! HAW!
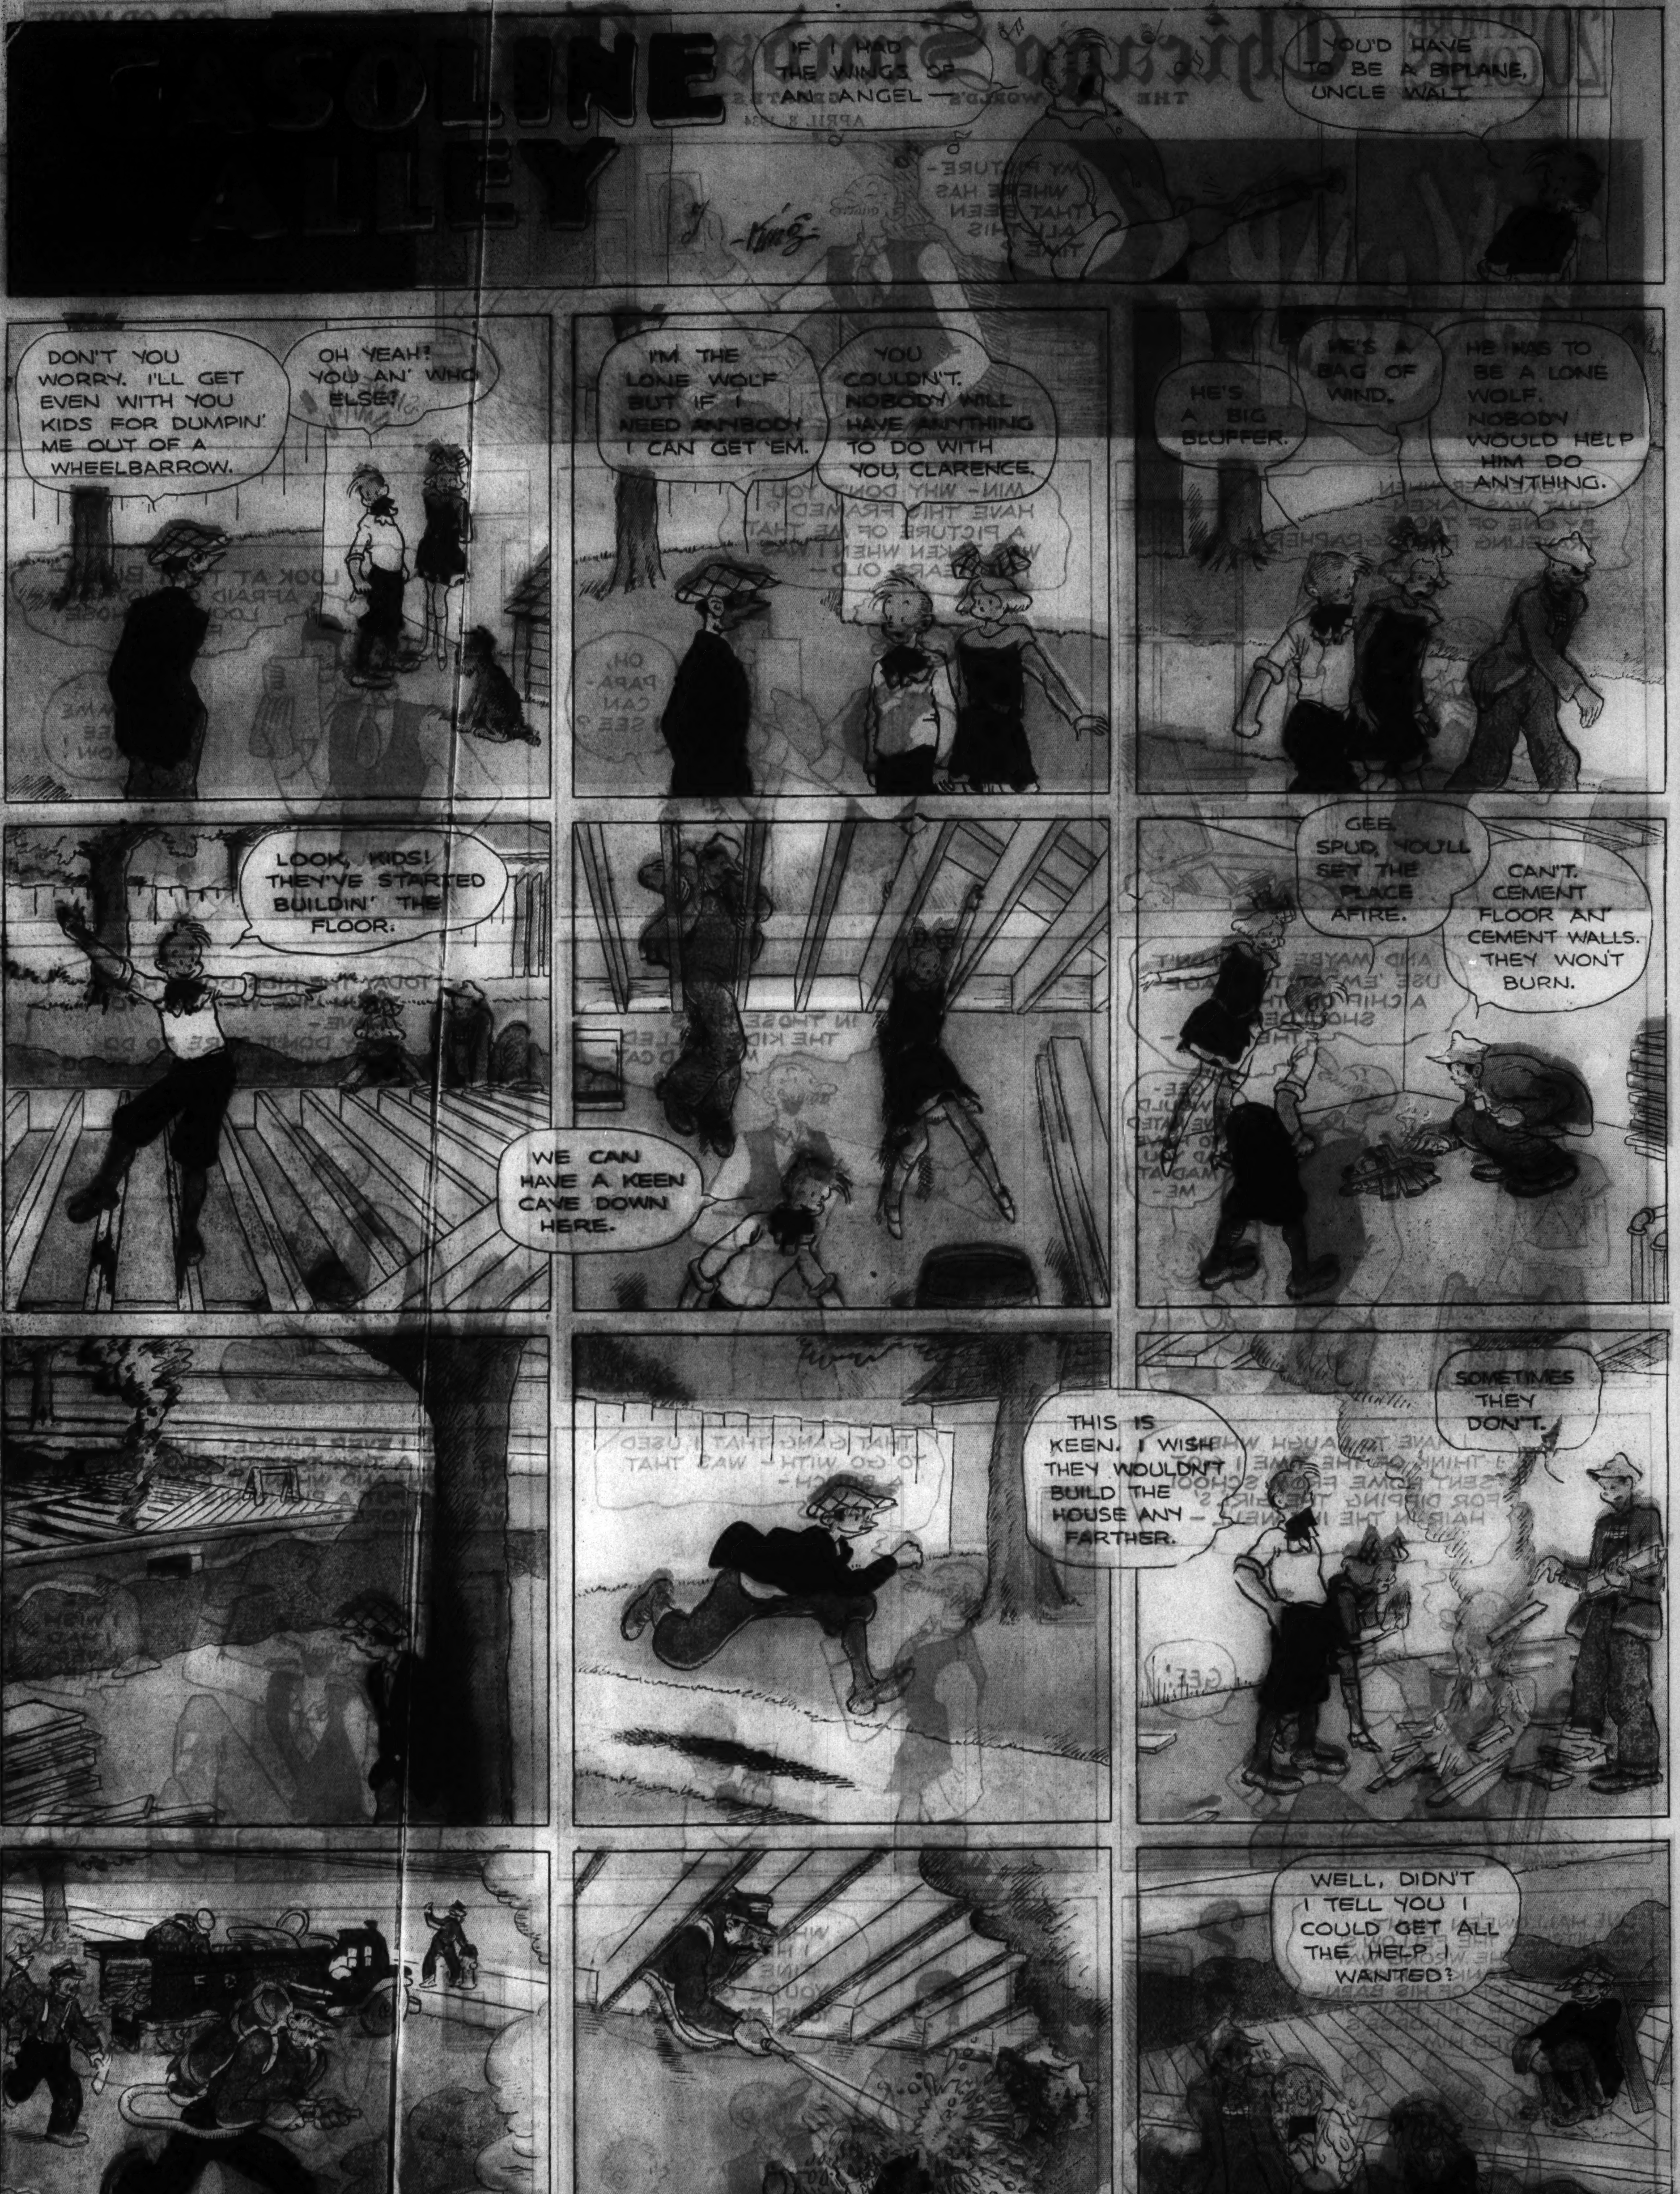
BOY! WAS THAT A HOT ONE-
WHAT'S THIS I HEAR ? FINE IDEAS YOU'RE GIVING YOUR YOUNG SON-
AND JUST YESTERDAY YOU WANTED TO WHIP HIM BECAUSE HE WAS A FEW MINUTES LATE FOR SCHOOL-

GASOLINE ALLEY



IF I HAD THE WINGS OF AN ANGEL—

OH YEAH! YOU AN' WHO ELSE?
I'M THE LONE WOLF BUT IF I NEED ANYBODY I CAN GET 'EM.
YOU COULDN'T. NOBODY WILL HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH YOU, CLARENCE.
HE'S A BIG BLUFFER.
HE'S A BAG OF WIND.
HE HAS TO BE A LONE WOLF. NOBODY WOULD HELP HIM DO ANYTHING.
LOOK, KIDS! THEY'VE STARTED BUILDIN' THE FLOOR.
WE CAN HAVE A KEEN CAVE DOWN HERE.
GEE, SPUD, YOU'LL SET THE PLACE AFIRE.
CAN'T. CEMENT FLOOR AN' CEMENT WALLS. THEY WON'T BURN.
THIS IS KEEN. I WISH THEY WOULDN'T BUILD THE HOUSE ANY FARTHER.
SOMETIMES THEY DON'T.
WELL, DIDN'T I TELL YOU I COULD GET ALL THE HELP I WANTED?

MEN.

If you live on the South Side or South Side Suburbs, let me set you up in a profitable business of your own, backed up by our prosperous company.

I have been in this territory exactly seven months, and have already set one hundred and forty-six men up in business for themselves, between Cadillac, Mich., and Mattoon, Ill., and still have thirty-four opportunities left.

I am in control of this territory of a business unique in character, merchandising an electrical unit that has no competition for which there is an ever increasing demand.

If on a personal interview you can satisfy me that you are honest, reliable and trustworthy, and really have a desire to succeed, willing to study and are teachable, you may be the very man I am looking for.

Our business is very profitable. Many of our associates earning as much as $50.00 on percentage basis in a single day, and after they become experienced handling our business receive a sizable monthly income, not regulated by seasons, as ours is a year around business.

Selling experience not necessary, as if you are selected you are thoroughly trained at no expense to you. Some of our most successful associates never sold anything before joining us.

We stand all the expense of your business, such as rent, light, heat, telephone, help, etc., and in addition to giving you merchandise on open account, carry all of your time payment paper.

You do not invest one cent with us. We finance everything.

Our business is depression-proof, as same has increased every month of the last four years, with 1933 our busiest year. We have thousands of satisfied customers in this territory and are considered one of the country's outstanding organizations. There are no strings connected with this offer, and if you can meet the above requirements you will be granted a personal, confidential interview, which will quickly determine our mutual interests. Apply Monday between 11:00 and 2:00, Suite 430, Hyde Park National Bank Bldg., 1525 E. 53d-st. Ask for E. T. Lovell.

DO YOU WANT WORK AT ONCE?

If you become one of our workers, you get everything you make, because you are dealing with a big international business that makes its own products and markets them through its own organization exclusively, leading world-wide in its branch of the electric unit field.

You would come into this business as other men have come—without prior experience. You might be a $100.00 a month man, a $150.00 a month man, or a $500.00 a month man. Nobody would hold you out of your just place, and you would get full comm. payments without ifs or ands. We can use men of moderate earning power as well as men of tremendous earning power, and neither interferes with the other. Often the men who started small learn how to increase their incomes under our expert guidance. It is our interest to bring you the maximum success you will attract through your own efforts.

Men of character living on the West Side or in any Western Suburb, who are accepted, will be financed in this business close to their own localities, yet they do not invest any money or buy any goods, or make any deposit. Character, health, neatness, and courtesy count above all else. You will be given a personal interview if you will call between 10:00 a. m. and 5:00 p. m., Monday, April 9. Room 329 at 9 S. Kedzie-av.

FIVE GOOD MEN!

The big world-wide company back of me has authorized me to select, train and assist five good men. I have succeeded in the past few months in putting several men, inexperienced in this business, into good comm. earnings almost from the first day they came into this business. I was born and reared in Europe, coming to this country just a few years ago. But after several trials of positions, many of which paid me well, I finally got into this corporation, leading throughout the world in electric unit manufacture and distribution, and am independent and without worry. No man will be accepted unless we give him a fair deal, and he must treat us the same, and be a real worker. There is money here—more and more as you gain experience in this business. I want North and Northwest Side men only—men of good character! If you wish to talk with me about this offer, be here not a minute later than two o'clock Monday afternoon, Room 215 at 1046 Wilson-av. Ask for Mr. Glade.

OUR SPRING EXPANSION

program is exceeding all expectations. An opportunity for a few neat appearing men, 25 years of age or over, to represent the largest retail Home Furnishings House in the middle west. We are laying a foundation for future purchasing among our numerous customers and are paying our representatives advance commission in full on a basis of average sales expectancy; also allowing a daily drawing account privilege if necessary while getting started. An intensely interesting and dignified program for those capable of conducting enthusiastic conversation. Can earn between $40 and $50 per week consistently. No night calls. Apply from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m. only.

"WHAT A LOCATION"

Perhaps you've said it yourself about this building. It's a natural exclamation when one passes 999 LAKE SHORE-DR.—right at the turn of the drive and commanding a magnificent view of lake and shore line. The apartments, too, are in keeping with the location; Library and living room in a wood paneling authentically reminiscent of old English country seats, a solarium, balcony opening off of two bedrooms, modern kitchen—servants' quarters in rear. Elev. Gentiles. Immediate or May 1 possession. Yet an outstanding bargain for those whose need is.

To Every Family in a Financial "Jam"

Household has been one of the largest family finance organizations for 56 years. We maintain 17 offices in Chicago and suburbs. We do the largest business in the Chicago area of any company operating under the Uniform Small Loan Law.

We believe we do the largest business because:

1. We offer good service at reasonable cost.
2. We only make loans that are helpful to the customer.
3. We do not "high pressure" people into borrowing.
4. We give free, authentic information on managing people's incomes.
5. We give free, authentic information on buying economically.

HOW LOANS ARE MADE.

Household makes loans only to families, that is to husband and wife on their signatures. They can be repaid in monthly installments over 20 months, or sooner. Loans are made on the basis of the information furnished by husband and wife. We do not question your boss, your neighbors, or the people with whom you do business. All of our offices are equipped so that your business can be handled in a private room.

COST OF HOUSEHOLD LOANS.

Last July we reduced the cost of all loans above $100 below the maximum permitted under the Small Loan Law. Thousands of families have since borrowed from Household at our reduced rate at a saving to them of many dollars.

Household invites earnest families to investigate the Household Loan Plan.

Each Month Thousands TAKE ADVANTAGE OF LOCAL'S SERVICE

It Will Satisfy You

Phone Your Request and immediately thereafter call at the office and obtain the money.

Service

Local was organized to make loans—in small or large amounts—to serve the needs of wage earners and salaried men and women. It is our aim to render this service quickly to everyone who requests a loan. At all of our branches, transactions are conducted in private offices by courteous employes.

Methods

We make loans on salary, ON YOUR SIGNATURE ONLY, without endorsers. Also on FURNITURE, AUTOS, or other PERSONAL PROPERTY. All transactions are confidential. Loans granted without notice to employer, friends, or relatives.

Rates

Local's rates on large furniture loans are less than the legal rate. All small loans at the regular legal rate. Charges are computed monthly on the unpaid balance.

Amounts—Terms

You can borrow any amount from $25 to $300; small loans receive the same courteous attention as larger loans. You make your own terms, 10 to 20 months, more or less. Regardless of the agreement you have the privilege to repay any day, week or month to reduce the cost.

AIR PATROL BRAVES MOUNTAIN PERILS

This British bombing squadron, stationed at Mosul in northern Irak, has the perilous job of patroling the mountains of Kurdistan on the borders of Irak, Turkey and Persia. More than an hour is required to fly over the mountains, which offer no possibility of a safe landing in case of emergency. The flight is made each week. [Acme Photo.]

Fashion's Pendulum Swings from Crepe to Taffeta and Back Again This Spring

By RHEA SEEGER

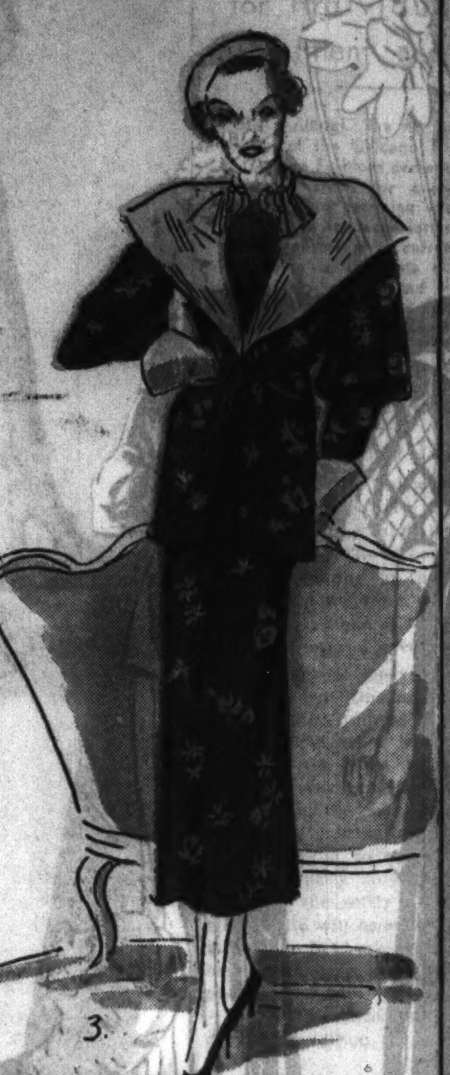
NEW PRINTS—an inevitable as a series of spring showers. Printed dresses, printed blouses, printed suits—everything goes into print in spring. But a print, this season, is vastly different from last year's editions, infinitely more sophisticated, more restrained, and flattering to any and every silhouette or streamline.

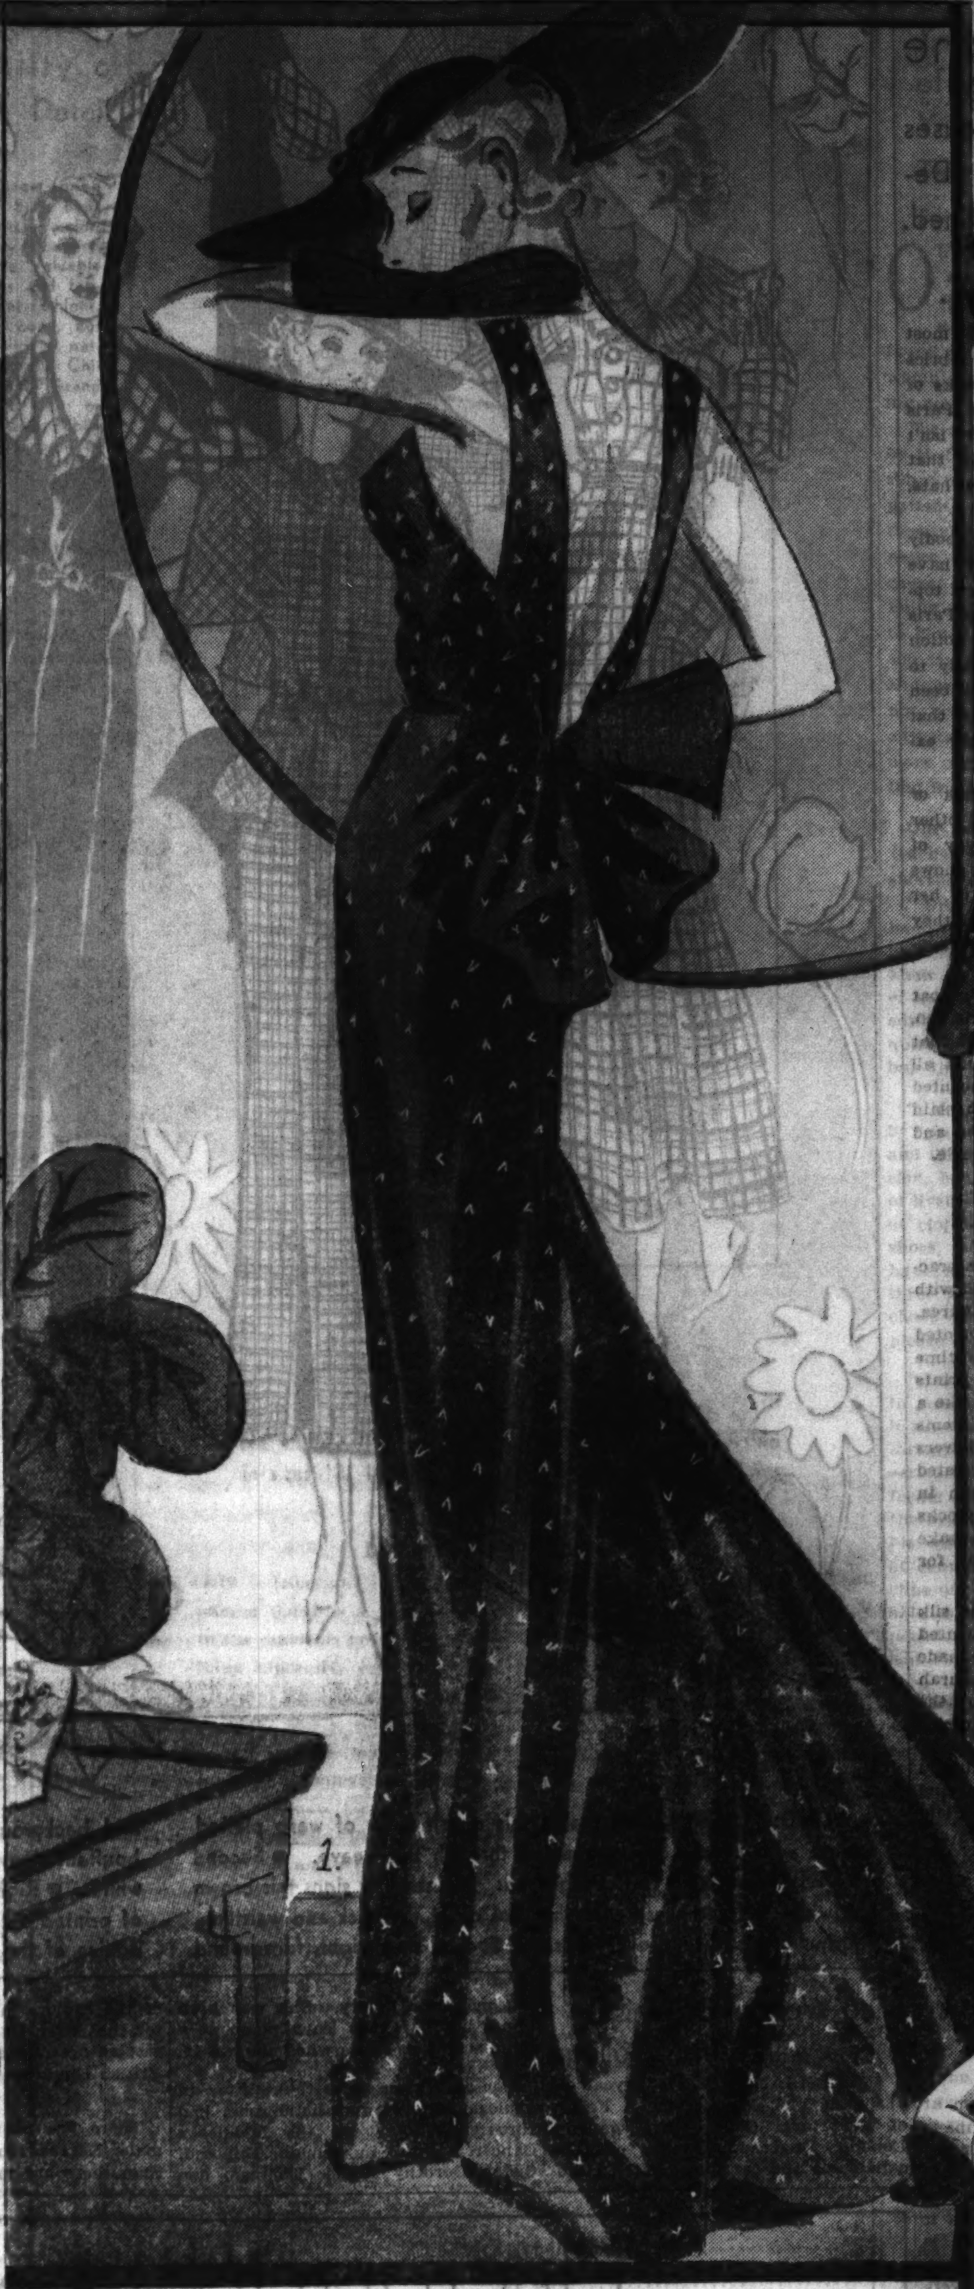
You'll see the greatest difference in dots . . . they are judiciously sprinkled over wide open spaces so that even difficult figures can wear them with good results. Most floral patterns are small and unassuming. Tricky little motifs are as tiny and retiring as the first spring buds. The most enticing swish of spring fashions are the costumes of taffeta, for printed or painted taffeta steals every show.

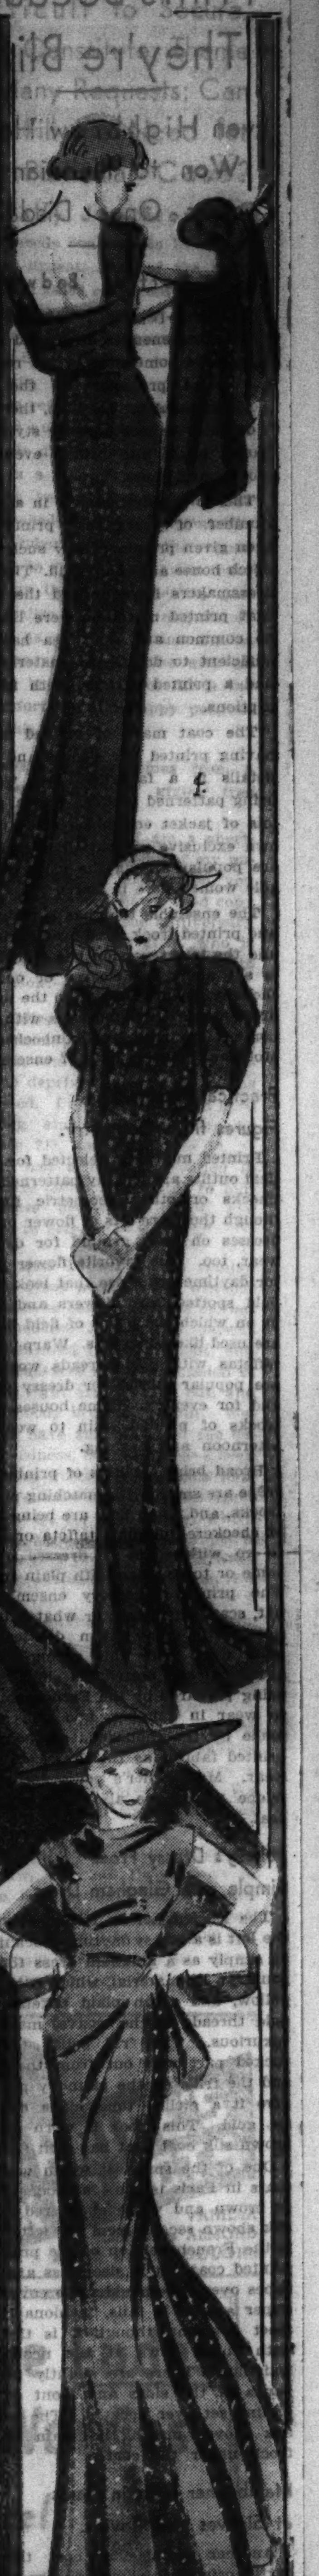
Two seductive taffeta creations have been sketched: two fascinating charmers that will be the life of your spring wardrobe. No. 1 is a most glamorous new evening gown made in the original model of inky black taffeta and sprinkled with tiny, tiny dots of shimmering silvery white like stardust. Notice the sleek smart silhouette smoothed down over the front and swept alluringly away to the back in circled flounces. A perky fin like a fish's finishes the deep V backline—or, rather, a pair of fins.

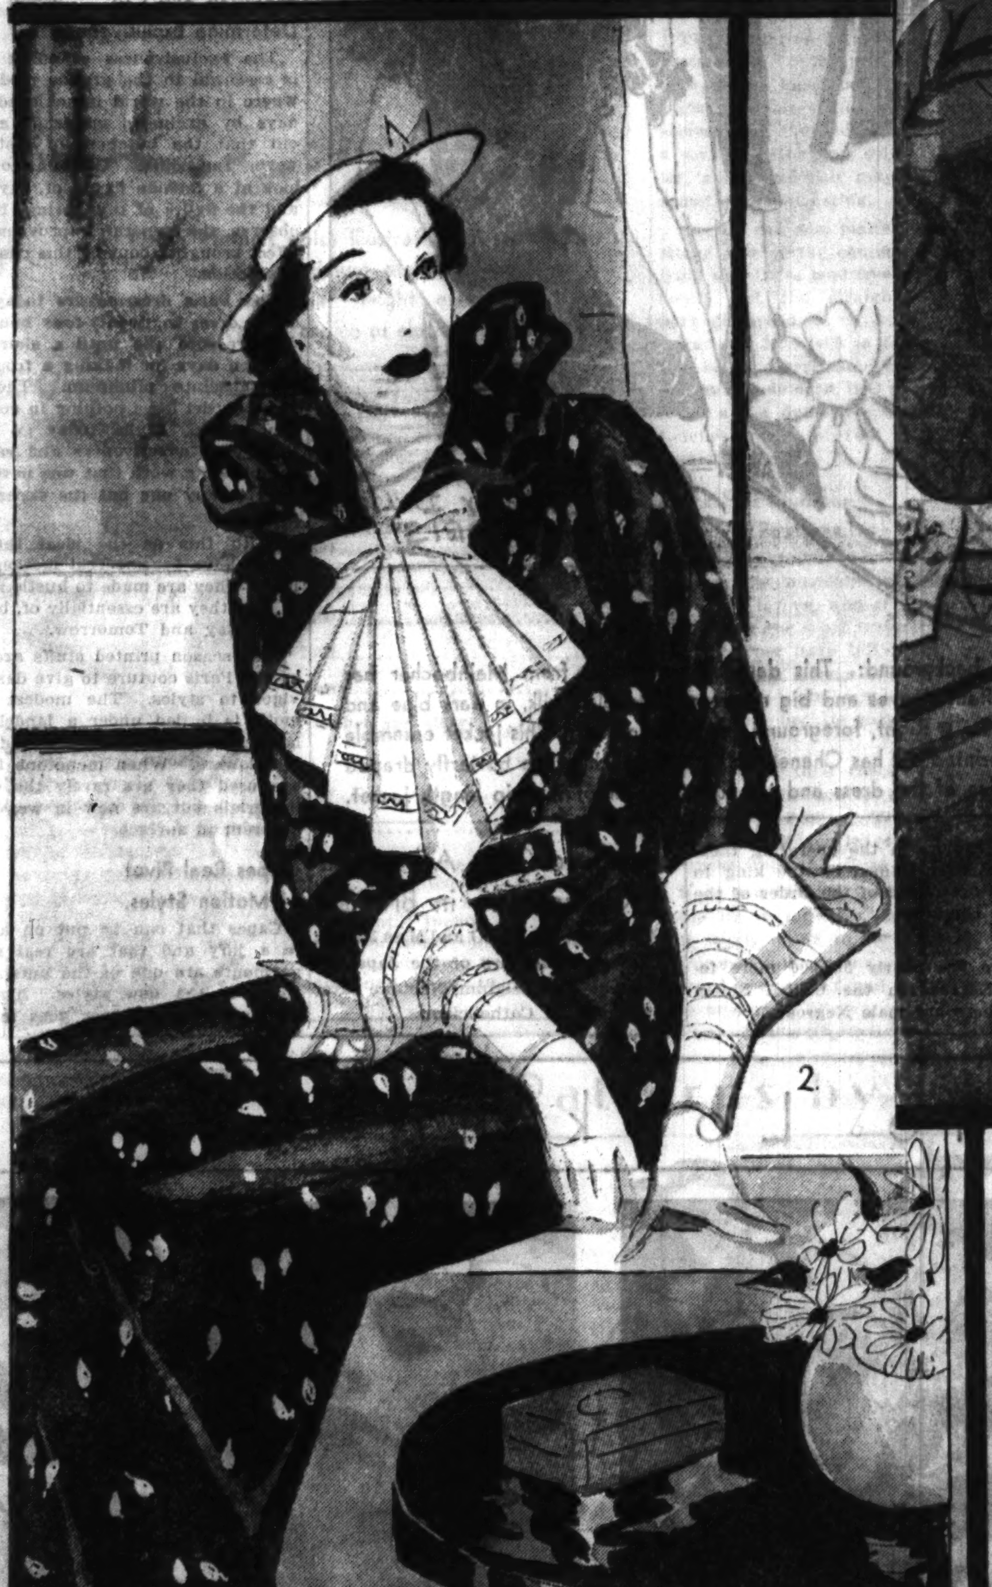
For street wear choose the dotted or painted taffeta suit illustrated in No. 2 . . . a trim little number—youthful, jaunty, and immensely chic. The design is just a wee triangular splash of glistening white on either black or navy blue, as shown in a Chicago shop. The sheer cuffs, collar, and jabot, lace edged white organdy, accent the design, while that rib hugging short jacket sports the newest feminine angle—a ruffled collar.

Consider crinkled printed crêpe seriously . . . especially if it is fashioned in a smart, flattering costume like No. 3. The dress claims long, tight sleeves, while the long length jacket is made with flaring short sleeves. The model we saw was finished with café au lait crinkled crêpe wide lapels and collar, and the printed silk was brown with tiny beige designs. No. 4 . . . the printed silk cocktail hour costume . . . is made with a long sweeping rather simple dress. It is unusual because of the cleverly draped square cut back exposure and absurdly ruffled high neckline in front. The separate jacket has new full sleeves.









●1: An evening gown of ebony black taffeta sprinkled with microscopic dots of shimmering silver white. The sleek silhouette is smoothed down over the front and swept alluringly away to circled flounces behind. A pair of fishlike fins finish the deep V backline and an enlarged version of the same fin forms the train. Satin slippers, matching gloves, and a cartwheel hat are the proper accessories. ● 2: A dotted or painted taffeta suit is the youthful number for street wear. The design is a tiny triangular splash of white. The ruffled collar—a distinctly feminine accent—is made of sheer organdy, as are also the cuffs and jabot. ● 3: Crinkled crepe is used to make a costume in the grande dame manner. The dress claims long, tight sleeves, the long length jacket flaring short ones. ● 4: Three views of a printed silk cocktail hour costume made with a long, sweeping, rather simple dress. A cleverly draped square cut back exposure, ruffled cuffs and jabot, full sleeves, and snugly fitting waistline make it unusual.

SKETCHED IN A CHICAGO SHOP.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

SOME of the most worn out adages are the truest. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is one of them. It applies in every walk of life—but in none more noticeably than in child guidance. Only there I'd like to rephrase it to the effect that an ounce of prevention is not only worth a pound of cure but that it's not one-sixteenth but sixteen times as easy.

Let us see then—what is the recipe for preventing so many of these troubles with young children—troubles which represent struggle and friction and—strangely enough—failure? For all the worry and punishment and nerves usually do result in flat failure.

One of the first ingredients is this: Don't think of what your little child does in terms of your own convenience. When your child does something or wants something, don't be annoyed (or even pleased) by it in terms of your own convenience.

For example, suppose your little girl is "helping" you. She's carrying the vegetables that the grocery boy has delivered from the table to the basket. You praise her and everybody's happy. Then she sees the bottle of ink that you've carried into the kitchen to make out a check with. She thinks she'll be especially "helpful," so she picks it up to take it to your desk. The cork is loose, she tips the bottle—and black disaster pours down the front of her pretty frock! If your one thought is "What a mess!" and if the inconvenience makes you think of her as naughty, you'll scold or punish—and it will really be another kind of black disaster for your child. You will be most unfair—she will be most unhappy—but even worse she will be utterly confused. She helped you and you liked it—she helped you again and although she showed the same spirit you scolded and looked at her in that cross way.

Be Sensible in Expectations.

But if she stood there in her plight, probably startled or even scared, you saw the intrinsic quality of her action—if you saw that it was no different from toting the carrots and cauliflower to the vegetable basket, then you could mop her off and change her clothes and explain quietly that it's safer for ink to be let alone—meanwhile resolving to put corks in more tightly in the future.

If you'd change your attitude on this score of personal convenience or inconvenience alone, you'd find the management of your child clearing up a lot. You would develop a sense of fairness, he would feel your justice—and children are keen to that—and he would be saved the confusion of not knowing which way you were going to jump next.

Another trouble preventive is an understanding of what your child needs and how much it is common sense to expect of him. Some people come by most of this knowledge intuitively—others acquire it by thought or study. Managing a young child is easy and life is smooth for both of you if you know, for instance, that he can't eat deftly or neatly at first, if you recognize his need for touching things, if you realize that he wants to be around you and share experiences with you, and if you sense his need for banging and shouting and climbing and crawling.

Respect Child's Dignity.

Another way to prevent behaviour troubles is to treat your child with some of the dignity and tact that you use with grownups. Add reasonableness to that and you get a fine combination for dealing with eating and sleeping and elimination habits. This combination of respect and reasonableness also makes you feel and show real interest in his doings and answer his questions patiently and carefully. Feeling him a really worthy and important little person keeps you from treating him as if he knew nothing and yet should do everything by rule and to perfection.

The last trouble preventive that I'll have space for today is something that should come to you early in your baby's life—if not before he is born. It is a realization that you must make space for him—not material space but space in your life. He takes up more than just the room he needs for sleeping and eating and playing. When your baby is born he changes your world. It has to be rearranged for him. If you will accept this change happily and plan your life accordingly you will prevent much of the impatience and irritability that unfit you to manage well your small son or daughter.

All this has to do with underlying attitudes—it is general, but more important than trying to change your ways on the surface.

INVIGORATING BEAUTY TREATMENT BEGINS WITH MILADY'S BACK

By ELEANOR NANGLE.

A BEAUTY treatment that begins on the back and ends with a perfect makeup is more than a blissful interlude, as countless women who patronize one of Chicago's finest salons can testify. It is a direct checkmate to the clutching fingers of time, at least so far as contour and skin texture are concerned.

The treatment is based on the theory that a woman's face and throat will remain youthful as long as the muscles and tissues are kept firm by an invigorating circulation and the skin itself kept lovely by cleansing, lubrication, stimulation, and protection. Sounds logical, doesn't it?

And it's pleasant. Trot down the boulevard to the beauty salon with us, lie back in a treatment chair, and give yourself up to the luxury of a professional beauty treatment. First a head band 'round your hair, a light blanket thrown over you, and your shoes off. Before slipping into blissful idleness you must sit up, your head drooping, while an operator, with magic in her fingers, cleanses your back from shoulders to waist with cream. Then comes a second creaming, this time a blend of a rich emollient and a bleach. Firm fingers fly up and down your spine, forceful hands flatten out your angel wings. No matter how taut, you are relaxed by this invigorating massage of the central nervous system. Circulation is steady and vigorous. Cream still on the back, you again lie back in the chair, and the facial begins.

A circulation ointment is applied to the throat and along the contour. It remains on the skin until it glows and turns pink. This removed, a blend of rich oil and cream is applied all over the throat and face, and the operator begins to "mold" with a firm yet caressing touch. Then come light whipping on the throat and smart patting under the chin. Patting, by the way, is the backbone of this treatment.

From the throat and chin the magic fingers go to the face, flying all over it with a rolling, patting motion which goes deep into the muscles, picking them up and lifting all the little lines that cast aging shadows. At last, with a delicate touch, come the movements around the eyes, so soothing that sleep is just around the corner. A special paste to combat eye wrinkles is gently worked in. Then all cream is removed and the skin is patted briskly with a mild, stimulating lotion to normalize the relaxed pores. A fragrant astringent lotion is applied to the throat, under the chin, and along the contour, and a "tie-up" is arranged to tighten all flaccid muscles. Looking like the white sister in your towel coif, you rest, nearly if not in sleep, for at least ten minutes. Life is more glorious than it's ever been. The skin glows, but nerves are nodding.

You awake from your blissful relaxation to the perfume of old fashioned pinks as an opalescent finishing cream is gently stroked in. A bit of ice, and then the perfect makeup for milady's type and color. Rouge and lipstick perfectly matched, powder which gives a live glow to the skin, a smudge of subtle eye makeup, and where are worlds to conquer?

Paris Sponsors Prints Because They're Blithe

Even Highbrow Houses Won to Plebeian Designs Once Disdained.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Even the most bitter enemies of printed fabrics have come over to the ranks of print promoters in the Paris world of fashion. In short, there isn't a detail of French summer styles that hasn't burst into prints, even hats, gloves, and shoes.

This is the first season in a goodly number of years that prints have been given prominence by such a top-notch house as Schiaparelli. The Paris dressmakers have hugged the notion that printed materials were likely to be common and that idea has been sufficient to damn any material that had a printed surface, with few exceptions.

The coat made of printed silk or having printed silk sleeves and other details is a favorite Paris way of using patterned fabrics. Chanel shows lots of jacket ensembles made of her own exclusive printed silks, and they are popular among the most fashionable women here in Paris.

The ensemble that has a plain coat and printed frock is all over Paris, too, and the latest version has a coat that is slit along the sleeves or open all the way down the front so the printed dress shows. Printed silks with plain borders are used by Mainbocher and Molyneux for this kind of ensemble.

Practical Outfits Use Figures from Geometry.

Printed materials selected for practical outfits are usually patterned with checks or other geometric figures, though there are lots of flower printed dresses on dark ground for daytime wear, too. The favorite flower prints for daytime are those that look like a field spotted with flowers and stems or on which the heads of field flowers are used like polka dots. Warp printed taffetas with gold threads woven in are popular fabrics for dressy frocks and for evening. Some houses make frocks of printed satin to wear for afternoon and evening.

Broad brimmed hats of printed silk crêpe are smart with matching printed frocks, and small hats are being made of checkered or plaid taffeta or surah to go with coats or dresses of the same or to be worn with plain frocks. The printed accessory ensemble of hat, scarf, sash, bag, or what will you goes with many plain dresses and suits worn here this spring. Plaid checkered and dotted kid slippers are being prepared by the French bottiers to wear in summer, and gloves are made by the thousands of the same printed fabrics as the dresses women wear. Mainbocher's polka dotted antelope gloves are also worn a great deal.

The Lucien Lelong frock shown at the left is a dressy daytime frock made as simply as a gingham dress for the country. Its material, which is brown, yellow, and green plaid taffeta with gold threads in the weave, makes it luxurious. The frill collar that is tucked part way out from the neck and the frills on the paunchy pockets give it a girlish tone. The buttons are gold. This frock is worn with a brown silk coat that has split sleeves.

One of the smartest warm weather coats in Paris is the Mainbocher coat of brown and white checkered surah silk shown second from the left. This is the French version of the practical printed coat. It is sleeveless and has capes over the shoulders to cover the upper arms. It fails, fashionably, to meet in front, though it is tied up with surah bows at the neck and waistline. There are slightly flaring bands at the sides and front of the hipline set over pockets. The brown silk gloves match the plain brown frock under the coat.

At the right on the seated and standing figures is reproduced a Chanel ensemble made of dark blue silk crêpe that is printed with gray and white scalloped motifs. The dress has a gored skirt and Chanel's new bloused waist with a butterfly draped front, fastened with bone buttons and bordered by a scalloped ruffle. The cap sleeves are trimmed with scalloped ruffles. The whole front of the bodice from the side seams is slightly gathered so it is soft and graceful. The hip length jacket is straight with three-quarters length sleeves scalloped at the edges, and it has a double ruffle collar around the neck. The Chanel hat is a white pancake shape covered with white petals and held on by a petal covered band around the back of the head.

1934's Fashions Are Nothing if Not Dynamic

Pep and Motion Take Place of Frills and Elegance in New Paris Frocks.

By Bettina Bedwell.

(Photographs in Picture Section.)

PARIS.—[Special.]—There is a new trend in women's fashions. It is changing the whole structure of styles, though some of the diehards who have been making styles these many years don't know it—yet. The changing conditions of our lives, produced in a great measure by the celebrated depression is partly responsible. Underlying this cause is another more fundamental one, which I will leave to the sociological experts.

The most obvious manifestation of this new deal in styles is motion. We buy our clothes in a hurry—we wear them with modern speed, and we tire of them on record time. This fact kills the old motive behind the designing of clothes. The Paris dressmakers have had to abandon their most cherished ideal—that of infinite pains, which demands an indefinite length of time to achieve. Fine hand work, which formerly was a sign and seal of the dress that came out of a great Paris designer's hands, has given way to more essential and modern things—lines, dash, and vigor. Not even the most meticulous Paris houses run up thousands of tucks by hand any more. They are too much on the move. What Paris gives us is a more rapidly changing mode that is more beautiful in effect but that can be done in super-rapid motion.

Materials and Cut Determine Exclusiveness.

The exclusiveness of effect which is essential to the grande mode anywhere in the world is achieved these days by exclusive materials and by cut that the butchers of cloth can never reproduce. One has only to look at a fashion figure of, say, 1928, and the figure of this spring, 1934, to observe the general improvement in effect brought about by this change in conception.

The Paris dressmakers today turn out a dress in twenty-four hours under pressure and until a short time ago ten days for making a frock was the absolute minimum. The new speed model loses nothing in comparison, either. Styles today go in for immediate effectiveness and sacrifice the plodding work that was never any good to any one but the expert anyway.

With this as the ideal the new styles have become real motion fashions. They are made to hustle around in, and they are essentially of, by, and for Today and Tomorrow.

This season printed stuffs are used by the Paris couture to give dash and vigor to styles. The modest violet motif is buried under a landslide of bold checks, plaids, stripes, and dashing flowers. When monotone fabrics are used they are rarely the classic materials but are new in weave and different in surface.

Capes Real Pivot of Motion Styles.

Capes that can be put on and off in a jiffy and that are real motion garments are one of the outstanding signs of the new styles. The real genius of the designer goes into the cut and shapes of the capes seen in Paris styles, and they come in a great variety of forms and lengths.

Two widely different conceptions of the cape are shown in the color photographs. They will give you an idea of how dashing and different this wrap can be. The long draped cape for evening, made of vivid striped flax chiffon is illustrated in the Alix Barton evening ensemble shown in the lower left hand corner. Another cape, simple and practical, but no less dashing, is seen in the photograph of a Molyneux ensemble for runabout wear, which appears in the upper right hand corner. Both these models have the speedy, streamline silhouette that is essential to 1934 chic.

The double cape is another phase of Paris styles. It is illustrated in the evening model from the collection of Jeanne Lanvin, shown in the center photograph of the top row. The green and silver cape around the shoulders is the wrap and the cape-tunic fastened on around the waistline is a transformation feature. Lanvin uses these double capes also on simple afternoon dresses.

Sleeves Stress the Streamlined Silhouette.

Sleeves that are like capes and that are much longer than necessary to cover the arms are part of the streamline styles of the season. Worth's printed afternoon ensemble, shown in the lower right hand corner, has these new sleeves, this time plaited and reaching to the knees. They are attached to a jacket that is fastened surplice-wise around the waistline. The brilliant flower print of this model does a lot to make it the vigorous, moving ensemble that is demanded today.

Flower prints like that of the Lucile Paray frock, to be seen in the upper right hand corner, are used all over for evening dresses. They are made moving and lively by super-sashes, ruffles, trains, and dashing decollettés.

Even beach ensembles come in to the new conception of women's clothes. Instead of being forced laboriously to get together a costume for the beach and another for swimming, the fashionable woman today buttons a skirt over her swim suit, as is done in the Alix Barton model in the center photograph of the bottom row. She drapes a couple of bands over the top and is dressed for all coastline activities. The shell cap and girdle of this model represent the exclusive touch that is always present in all of the great fashions of the season.

These styles are born to live out their brief day in a joyous effectiveness, to move about, and to be discarded without the regret we invariably felt in the past when we were forced by changing fashions to throw aside some garment which wore in its seams the long, painstaking effort that used to be essential to chic.

PARIS SNAPSHOTS

The new French handbags are in odd shapes. Some of them are cylindrical, others round, and others diamond shaped. Schiaparelli's calfskin handbags are plaited. Bags in bright colors or in patterned lethers or fabrics are also accorded this treatment.

Country frocks made of linen lace are a novelty from Ardanse. The lace is heavy and has a small pattern.

Marie Guy is making broad brimmed hats of black lace to wear with summer evening frocks or with formal afternoon dresses. They make you think of 1900.

With buttons, belts, and whatnots being made of seashells, the newest jewelry takes on the shape of cockleshells, and is made in clips, pins, and earrings, that are shell shaped and studded with jewels.

Lonely Widows Confide Sorrow of Their State

They Believe That Custom Gives All Advantages to Unattached Males.

By Doris Blake.

WHAT of the Lonely Widow? Recently we took up the question of the Lonely Widower because one told his story. But the Lonely Widow looks askance at the loneliness of the widower. Hers is the lonely problem, she contends.

There must be many lonely widows. There are many, as shown by the number of letters received from them.

One says: "Yes, what of the lonely widow? Being one myself and about to enjoy my forty-second birthday, I'll try to speak as one having authority. At that age I know it is traditional that the arrival of each subsequent birthday should be accompanied by weeping, and wailing, and gnashing of teeth, that is, if you still have teeth to gnash.

Widower Receives Most Conventional Latitude.

"It seems to me that of the two the widower is given generous conventional latitude and is able, with the sanction of society, to take the initiative that would end his state of loneliness. The widow is bound hand and foot by the ponderous chains of social custom, truculently forged by the world the very hour she became her husband's widow.

"The right sort of widow cannot attend a movie alone, can't be seen alone on the street after 9 o'clock, can't do any of the inconsequential things that might help a little without having shoulders shrugged or eyebrows lifted in cynical interrogation.

"Men and women at forty have reached the most attractive age of their maturity. They have a keener sense of values, a fuller appreciation of the best things of life, emotions are rich and mellow, and life should be at its best. A congenial man and woman at this age should find a joy in companionship that they have never experienced before. I am, of course, speaking of the right sort, or what is called "nice people." Men and women at this age still enjoy the theater, good books, the movies, are still interested in things that help make the world go round. Society frowns and has much to say against the widow who has a desire for male companionship, especially if she be attractive. I could never understand, even before I became one, why this attitude had so many sponsors. Surely a second desire for love and companionship is as legitimate as the first. Why should there not be a little love and romance left for those best fitted by experience to enjoy it?

Belittles Plight of the Lonesome Males.

And so, being a widow not quite half past forty, I feel that I must champion the cause of all of us against the widower who is lonely. Any man, whether he be widower, bachelor, or husband, is the pet of society where conventions are concerned and finds that if and when he realizes his desire for something more entertaining and enjoyable than the lodge or club he is able to ask some one to share his lonely evening. The widow must wait with patience and folded hands until some one decides to ask if he may come up and see her some time.

"There are any number of attractive, educated, interesting widows who would enjoy nothing more than sharing a lonely evening with a congenial companion. But the right sort, the refined woman, can't take the initiative. Her friends are usually concerned with their own husbands or are efficient business women who have never known love and marriage and therefore know nothing of the widow's problems. MRS. APRIL."

Lonely R. believes that the women of preceding generations had the advantage over the widows of today. Then there were larger families who, when married, did not crowd the older woman off the map. On the contrary the older woman was permitted an interest in her grandchildren, which was a good substitute for the companionships today's widow craves. After all, she argues, it is silly for a middle aged widow to be sitting around longing for a romantic career. It's against the natural course of events. Companionship, yes, but since it is almost impossible of attainment it looks as if, Lonely R. says, women must keep themselves prepared somehow against that middle and old age loneliness.

But how, she asks. And how, we ask. Since it is a pressing problem perhaps you widows who have learned the secret of a full life, although a manless one, might tip the lonely ones off.

Through the Looking Glass

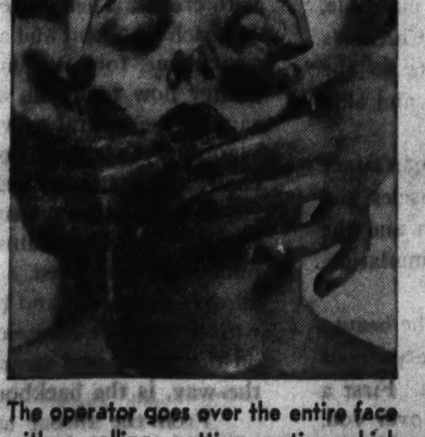
First step in the delightful treatment featured by a Chicago beauty salon is a back massage which induces complete relaxation and helps to promote a steady, vigorous circulation. The cream, a bleaching cream and a rich emollient, is left on the back all through the facial.

A circulation ointment, applied to the throat and along the contour, is allowed to remain on until the skin tingles and finally grows faintly pink.

Ointment removed and followed by lubricating creams, the operator molds the contour with a firm touch. This is followed by whipping on the throat and patting under the chin.



The operator goes over the entire face with a rolling, patting motion which lifts the muscles and attacks the lines that cast depressing shadows of age.

An eye wrinkle paste is applied around the eyes, and a light, delicate massage is given on the forehead and temples to complete relaxation.

The "tie-up." A fragrant astringent lotion is applied on the throat, under the chin and along the contour. The face is bound tightly in a towel and, with pads over her eyes, the client rests for at least ten minutes before the makeup which completes the treatment.

Woman's Charm Is Achieved by Adapting Garments to Figure

By Antoinette Donnelly.

HOW to be your height gracefully, if you are one of the tall girls, is a recurring problem. You do not want to look either too long drawn out or too helpless with "bent" poses.

Helen Vinson, one of the newer, younger actresses of Hollywood, transferred from stage to screen less than two years ago, and one of the leading beauties of the day, had this problem to combat, accentuated in movieland, where a fraction of an inch makes a lot of difference. Also, competing with the startlingly light blondes of the screen, is something a less vivid blonde has to meet. Of her problems, Miss Vinson says: "When you think of blondes, you immediately conjure visions of small, cuddly, little girls with platinum hair and big blue eyes," she observed. "Most of the clothes designed for blondes are for that type.

"So you can readily see that I have had to plan my wardrobe more carefully than the average blonde.

"To begin with, I am five feet six inches tall, in stocking feet. That means that I have to be particular about lines, and may not wear things that will add to my height. Garbo, Dietrich, and Kay Francis, being exotic types, can accentuate their height. As there's nothing foreign or exotic about me, I have to be careful always to look exactly as tall as I am, no more, no less. For it is usually tragic for a tall girl to try to make herself look small by cutting herself in half with ruffles, peplums, etc.

"Instead of achieving the soft, helpless appearance she is attempting, she usually succeeds in looking as if she had on her younger sister's frock, when she tries to make herself appear small.

"Another problem I have had is that of coloring.

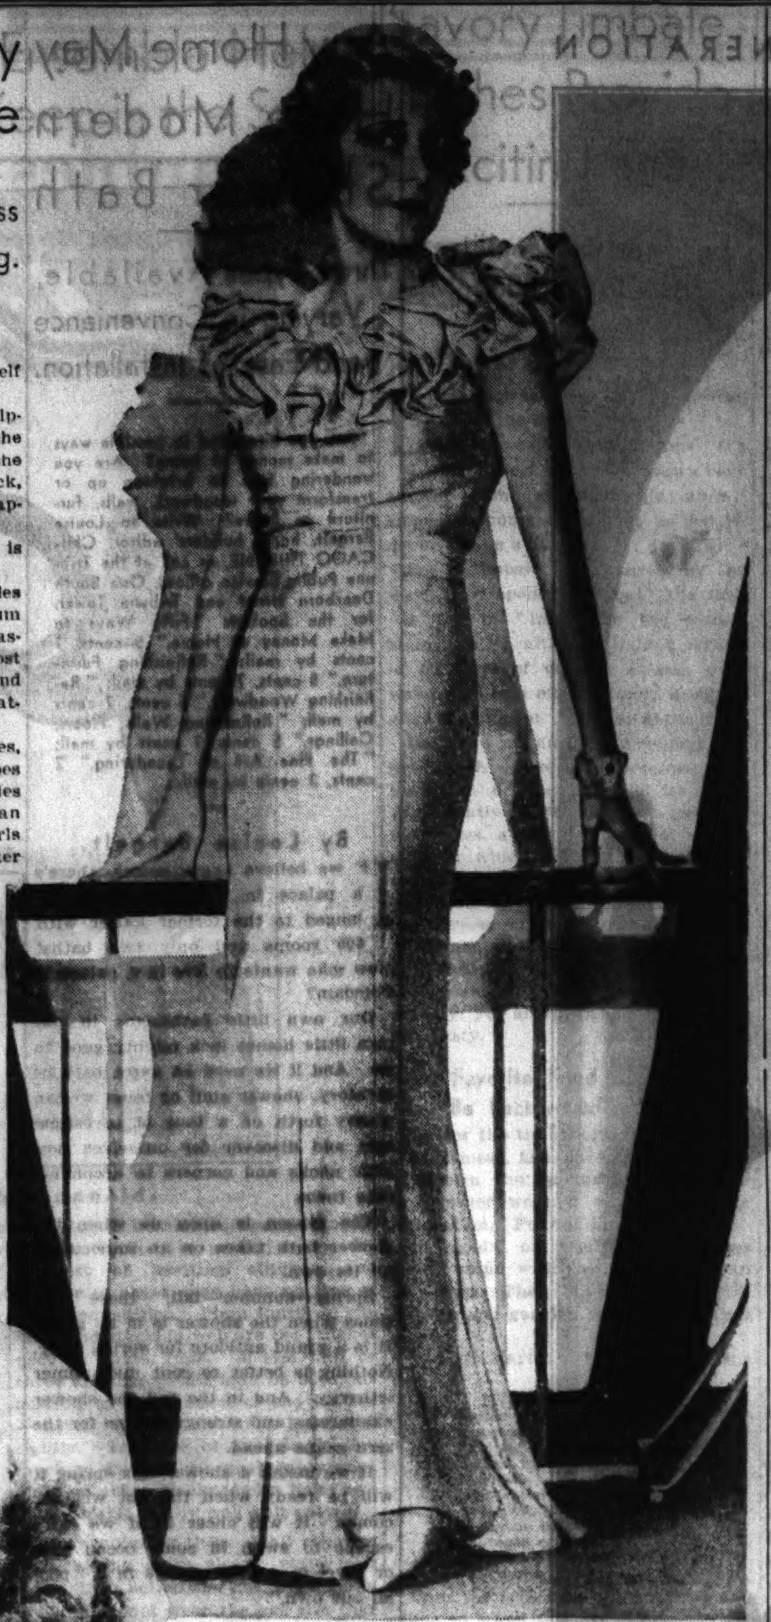
"White, either dead white or shades of off white, are splendid on platinum blondes, as are most of the ashy pastels. Golden blondes can wear almost any of the vivid pastels: pink, and blue, and green, and they are devastating in black.

"But a blonde with brown eyes, like myself, and hair that just escapes being chestnut, must choose shades that are darker and warmer than those usually prescribed for the girls whom gentlemen prefer, yet lighter and less vivid than those in which a brunette glories.

"I have found that a warm ivory is especially becoming for evening wear, with various shades of yellow-red almost as satisfactory. Of course, I like black, too.

"For the street, henna and a light, but dull, green usually work to the advantage of the brown eyed blonde, while even warm shades of brown may be very flattering at times.

"I think the girl of this coloring must beware of the cold, harsh shades, such as vivid blue or a purple-red.



Helen Vinson's poise illustrates how a tall girl may get the maximum of good appearance and not have her height exaggerated or stunted. Proper choice of clothes is the secret.

A girl of Helen's coloring, with blonde hair bordering on chestnut, and brown eyes, must select colors which are warm and not vivid. Not being decidedly light blonde, she must stay away from ashy pastels and bright shades.

Spring Styles Bring Trimness Into Spotlight

It's thrilling! The 48 page spring edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions presents, in color, delightful styles for every occasion and for every feminine age. Valuable suggestions for accessories and fabrics are observant of current fashions. The price is 15 cents a copy, but 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. By Clotilde.

THE crossed bodice and paneled skirt of pattern No. 2691 are slenderizing and length giving details. The dress is one that will be becoming to the majority of women, and no dress could be easier to make. It's one of those that you'll be apt to wear a great deal.

Two different sleeves are included in the pattern. One, as you see, is full length, with fullness let in at the elbows. The other is short and finished on the edge with a circular ruffle. A very graceful rever finishes the dress at the neck and, in most instances, a contrasting color or material will add to the beauty of the dress. A navy blue and white plaid silk with the softly falling revers of plain white will be smart, and another suggestion is to use a very fine striped brown and gray silk crêpe with plain gray for contrast.

Laced Bodice Is New Style Detail.

The attractive little dress made by pattern No. 2950 introduces a new note in the laced bodice. There are raglan shoulders, full length or short sleeves, and the neck is finished with a sort of Peter Pan collar. The collar, cuffs, and belt may be made of something contrasting.

As you can see, plaits are let in at either side of the center of the skirt front and these lend freedom of movement. Yet the straight line effect isn't disturbed.

Pattern No. 3499 is for an attractive street dress, smart and wearable and as simple as A B C to make. Yet it has a few out of the ordinary Paris touches which prevent it appearing monotonous.

Frock Has Number of Smart Features.

Such smart features are the tucked sleeves, the intricate looking cut of the front bodice, and the clever idea of slipping the scarf through an opening, allowing it to fall nearly to the waistline, yet always to stay in place. Printed or plain silk crêpes, wool challis, and necktie silks are delightful mediums.

When you tuck the sleeves bring the threads through to the wrong side and fasten securely. Then press the tucks flat. Never leave details such as these until the dress is finished.

Here is a dashing little sports dress made by pattern No. 2984 that you will surely want to include in your wardrobe this spring. It has the tailored smartness found only in exclusive models.

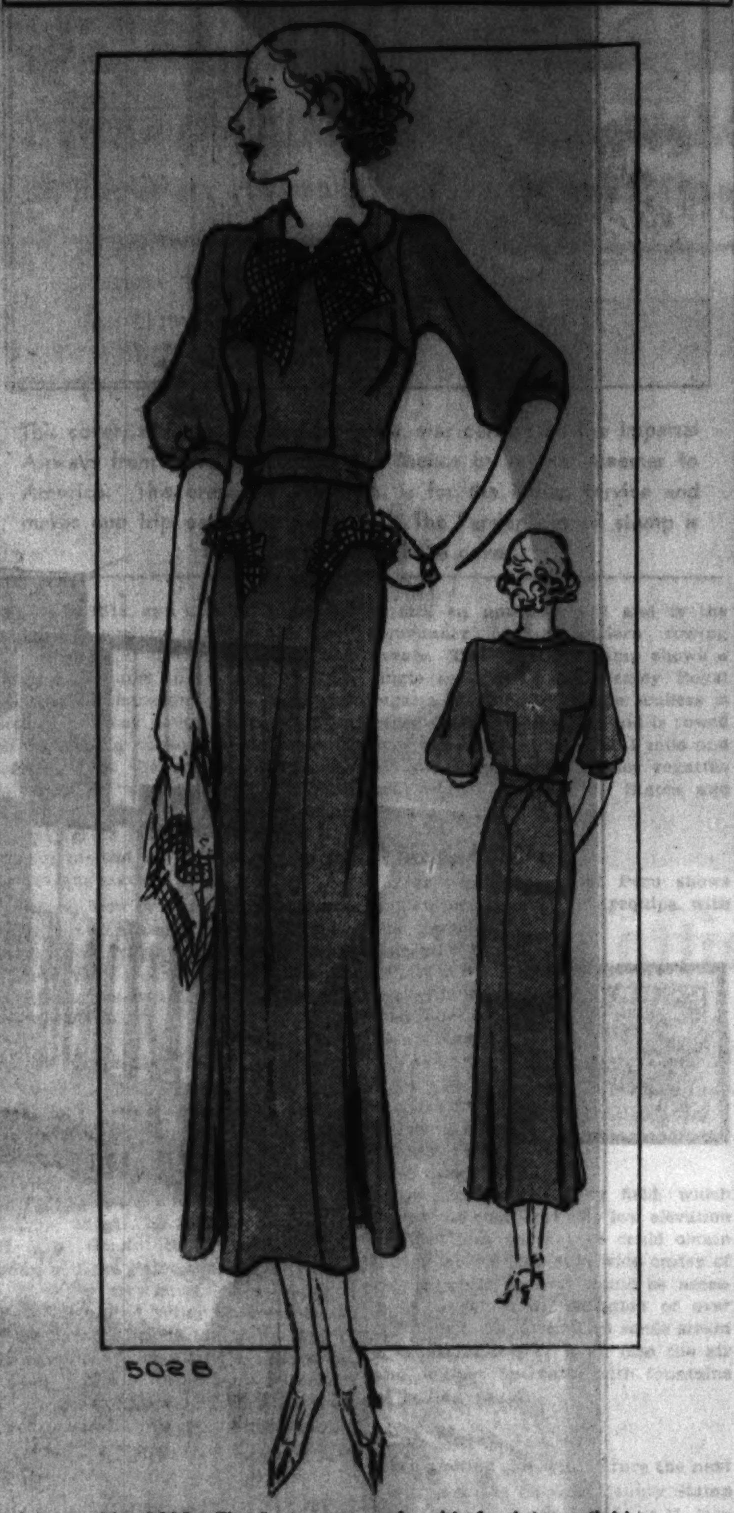
Simplicity of Paris Pattern Frock Is Its Principal Charm



No. 5028—The Paris pattern for this frock is available in sizes 12, 14 and 16, and in 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The pattern offered today is a Paris answer to the maiden's prayer for something supremely smart, and just as practical. This is a dress which you can make easily, for it is utterly simple, and it loses nothing in chic because of its simplicity.

Choosing the material for this model is going to be easy, too, for it looks best when you make it of a flat silk crêpe, or of a semi-sheer or sheer woolen. Make it of silk crêpe and you may wear it throughout the season. The original model, when it was shown at the summer openings in the Rue de la Paix in Paris, was made of dark blue crêpe de chine. If you wear this color well you cannot better it. If not, choose another practical shade, such as black, beige, gray, or brown. Blue fox brown is the newest shade of the last named color, and looks like the fur for which it is named. The tie and the ruffles on the pockets are made of checkered organdie, and you select a material in colors that brighten your dress shade. If dark blue, then blue and red, blue and green, or blue and gold organdie will be nice. A checkered band around the edge of one of your white handkerchiefs would give you a smart matching accessory.

The set-in panels, which begin just under the arms and extend to the skirt hem, are used a great deal by Parisian dressmakers in cutting spring frocks. There are pockets set under the hipline ruffles, but you needn't put them in if you prefer not to.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Invalid Chairs Are Most Difficult to Secure, Yet Constitute Theme of Many Requests; Can You Fill the Need for This Particular Case?

By Sally Joy Brown.

OUR needs continue to be varied and urgent. One of the most pitiful cases contacted lately requires the one article we have found most difficult to secure, and for which we have our most truly pressing requests.

The case referred to was sent to me by H. R., a nurse in one of our largest tuberculosis dispensaries. One of her patients is a colored boy of about twenty-one years of age, who has never reached full development because of tuberculosis of the spine. Being able to sit up would mean more to him than the average healthy person can realize. The chair may be old and worn as can be. A new one is not necessary; just any one with an adjustable back will make life a far more comfortable and happy proposition for this boy.

Our next request comes from a teacher who has been giving free shorthand instruction.

"Dear Miss Brown: I am a shorthand teacher and find some of my pupils cannot afford books. Do you know of any one who has a used copy of the Gregg Manual, the anniversary edition, for one of the girls, who is quite apt in her study but unable to buy the book?—MRS. R. K."

"Dear Miss Brown: I am a nurse by profession, but increasing years and illness, combined with the depression, have deprived me of this means of livelihood. I am very much in need of clothing and underwear, size 46; shoes, size 7D, and hose, size 10. I have not had a nursing position in three years, hence am unable to purchase these necessities. Will you please try to help me?—E. R. R."

"Dear Miss Brown: I am coming to you in great need, to ask whether it is possible to obtain a suit of clothes for my husband. Jan. 4, 1933, he was seriously injured in an accident, suffering a fractured skull, concussion of the brain, right arm terribly cut, and his entire body bruised and cut. We, of course, have suffered from the decline of business, but would have been able to keep going had not this happened. We have been on relief since last February, but our clothes, which even then were in need of replacement, have now become so badly worn out that we must come to you for help.

"It is humiliating to have to write to you in this way, as we have never before needed aid from any other source. We are middle aged people; have a son, but he, too, is unemployed. We cannot find any kind of work, and my husband has even tried selling from door to door to make our rent. We are now behind three weeks. We have borrowed from friends until we can do so no longer.

"My husband is a university graduate in law, has had three years in medicine, and formerly held an excellent position. His size is 42 coat; trousers, 38 waist. He is six feet tall. I need a pair of shoes, size 5C. If we could just get that much we would be so very grateful.—C. J. G."

You are not likely to cure your constipation with salts, pills, tablets or any of the habit-forming cathartics. But you can safely relieve this condition by gentle regulation with a suitable liquid laxative.

THE LIQUID TEST:

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Simple, isn't it? And it works! The right liquid laxative brings thorough bowel action without using force. An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, and perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna, a natural laxative; the dose can be measured, and the action thus regulated to suit your individual need.

If there are children in your household, don't give them any fad form of laxative, but use a healthful, helpful preparation like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Its very taste will tell you it is wholesome, and agreeable to the stomach. Delightful taste, and delightful action; there is no discomfort at the time, or after. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, all ready to take.

A Frank Statement Concerning Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

We believe the use of pills and tablets containing mineral drugs is rapidly giving way to gentle regulation of the bowels with a liquid laxative.

And we know it is a safe preparation for children and expectant mothers because it does not cause bowel strain or irritate the kidneys.

1934's Babies Get a Break in Nurseries

NEW things for nurseries! Fun making furniture for children! It's the wise baby that is choosing 1934 to be born in, for he's sure to pop into a perfectly delectable room, every piece in it designed for his comfort and amusement—if his father and mother have gone shopping for his things in the stores this spring.

There are plain cribs and fancy cribs, cribs with circus animals and woodland bunnies scampering over the head and foot, and baby beds that are bare of decorations but are painted the color of a nice, fat lollypop or a dish of vanilla ice cream. There are woolly white rugs for small toes to sink into, and play pens with rows of colored wooden balls to move about; there are lamps made out of china dollies and little clothes trees to hold a diminutive wardrobe.

This may be a democracy, but even a tiny prince or princess would ask nothing prettier than the nursery we saw fully equipped on the children's floor of a large Chicago store recently. All the furniture was painted a soft, pastel enamel in a shade hard to classify —sea green is the nearest we can come to it. The floor was a shiny black in contrast, and scatter rugs of creamy white cut wool were used. The walls, too, were white, and so were the simple ruffled voile curtains that hung under painted, scalloped valance boards to the sill.

There is a small sea green bureau having three drawers and an interesting scalloped lower frame. Over the bureau hangs a mirror and just beyond it is a clothes tree and a comfortable little rocking chair. On the walls are framed colored pictures of the little red hen, the three bears, and other beloved characters from children's stories.

So much for the charming nursery. [We forgot to say that one great reason for its attractiveness is its air of spaciousness and the fact that the furniture is all the same color, all simple, and minus furbelows.] Now let's step into the smaller play room, off this room. Here a washable rug is on the floor, there is a sturdy play pen, already occupied by a large, checked gingham Easter rabbit and a couple of rattles, and another crib, painted white this time, the sides being of fine mesh netting.

The Baby Has His Private Bath.

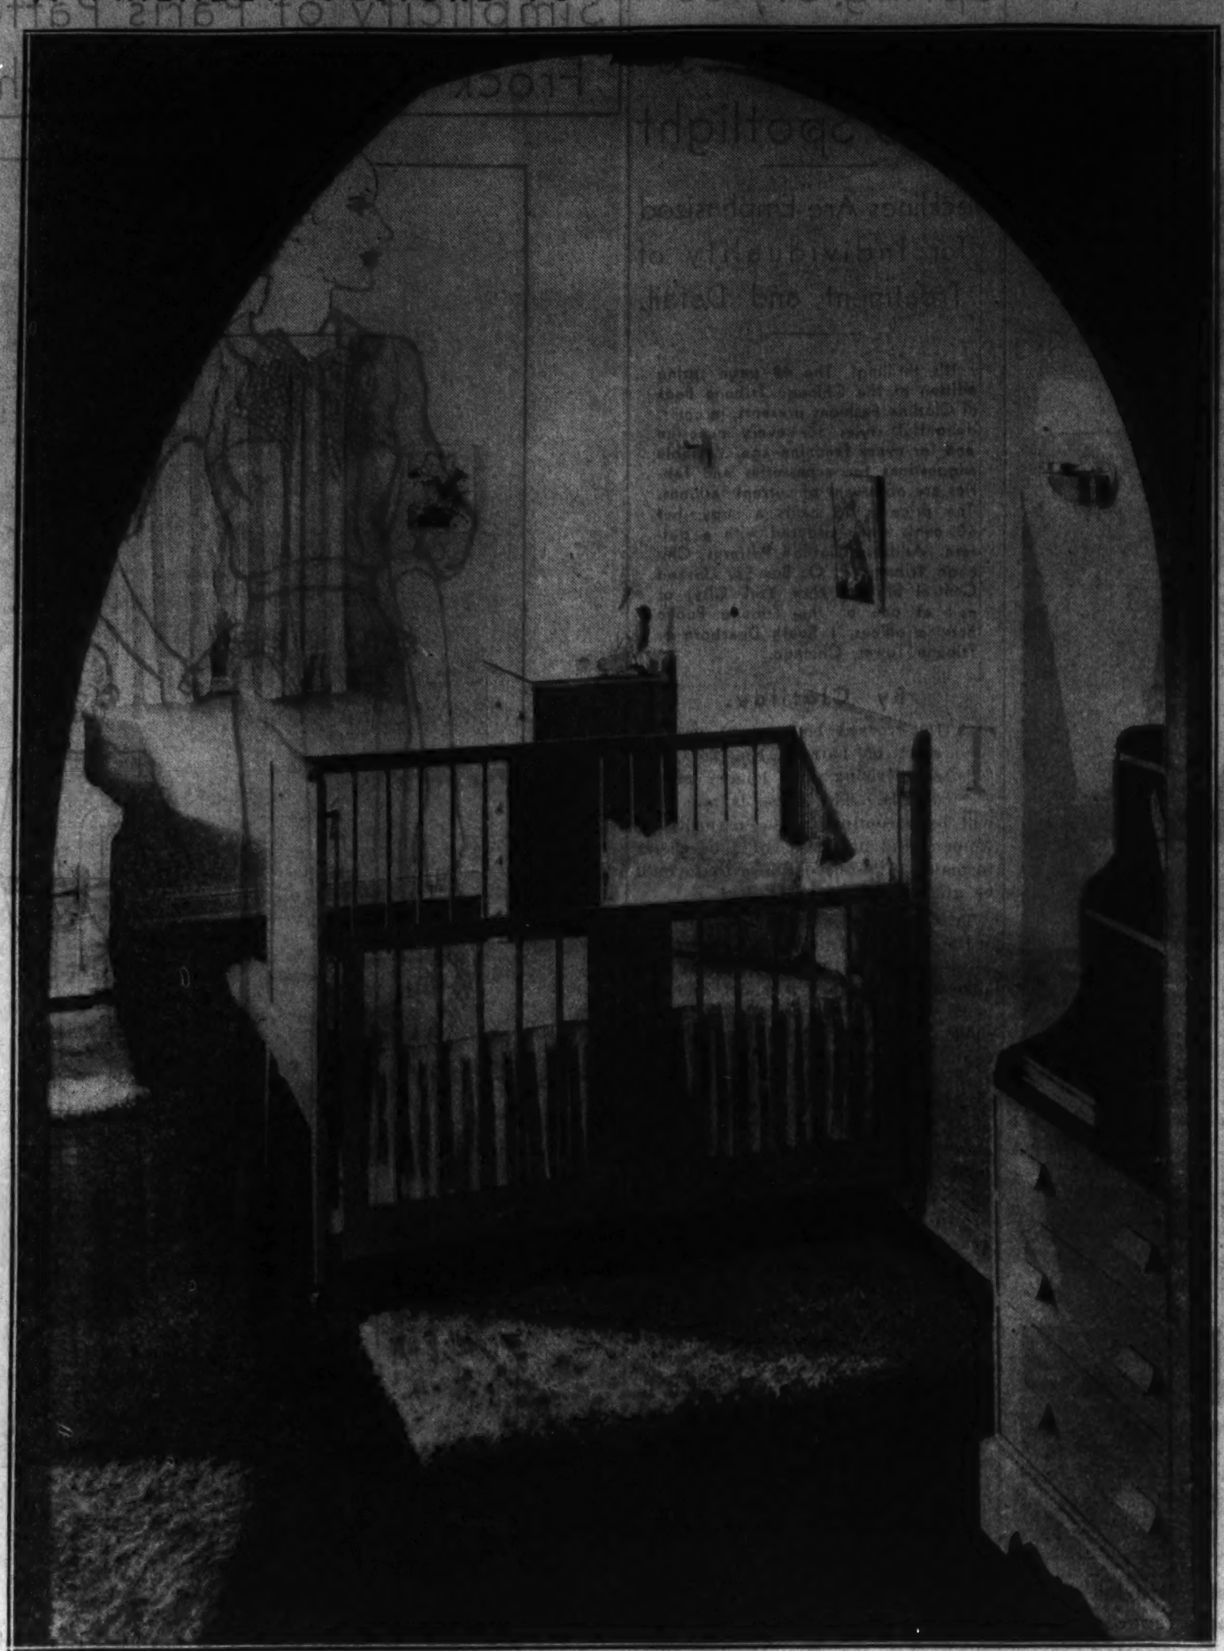
In this suite, also, baby has his own private bath and it is equipped with the latest gadgets for sterilizing milk bottles, heating them, etc. There are scales and a little silk basket in which his majesty lolls while he is being weighed, and in the tub is a white enamel standard holding his own small bath at a convenient height so that nurse does not have to bend over or get down on her knees.

And pasted at the right of the door, as you enter this amazing little bathroom, is a gayly colored measuring chart for a youngster to stand against. Pretty clever!

The walls are pretty. They have a pink colored dado, above which is a white wall paper with small polka dots in pink. At the window are curtains similar to those in the nursery and the wooden valance board is scalloped like those in the other room, also.

If you'd like to know about some of the new color schemes for the new furniture for children write me, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and I'll be glad to tell you.

A FRIENDLY GESTURE TO THE COMING GENERATION



Who wouldn't like to spend his first days in a sweet little nursery like this? Seen in the children's department of a Chicago store, the furniture is seagreen enamel, walls, curtains, and woolly rugs being white. The floor is painted a gleaming black. A love seat and armchair wear slip covers of white striped dimity.

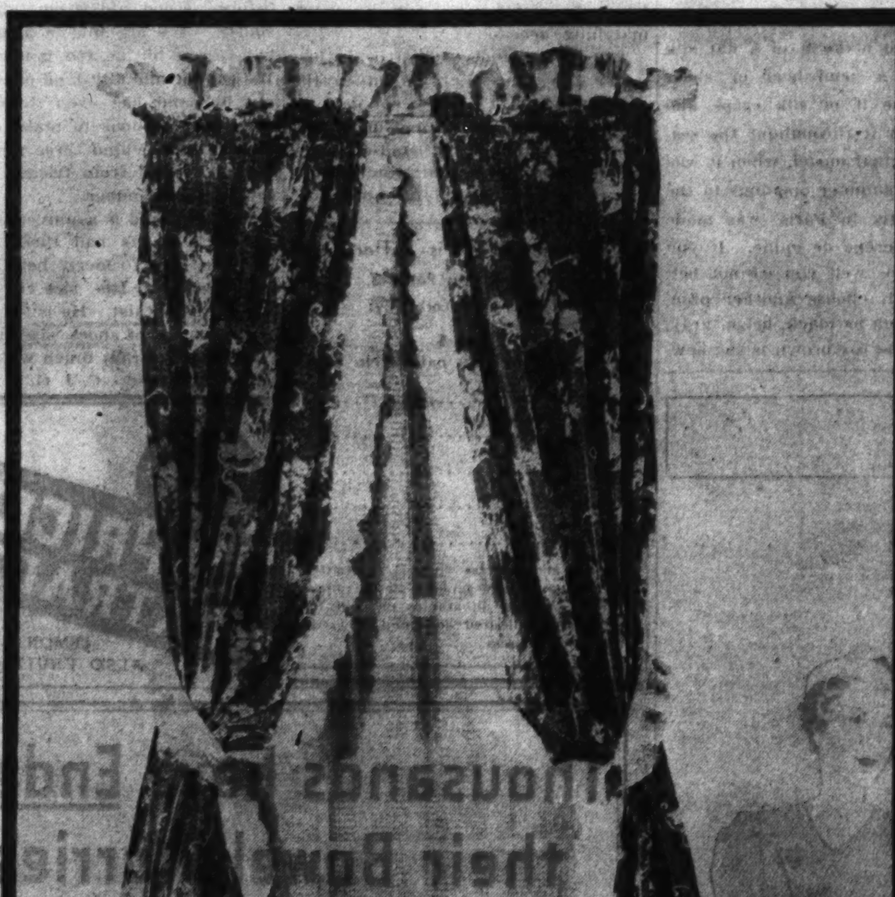
CONTRASTING WHILE THEY BLEND



Harmonizing rather than matching slip covers and draperies is the brand new style note this spring. In this display at the Merchandise Mart the chintz covering the chair was made especially to accompany the drapery material, the same colors appearing in both, but in a different design. These fabrics will be sold in stores in Chicago and all over the country.

Slip Covers, Draperies Differ Harmoniously This Season

Concord of Line and Color with Dissimilarity of Design New Formula.

"Spring and Summer Draperies," a new booklet by Claire Winslow, tells about the latest fabrics for windows; "Selecting, Framing, and Hanging Pictures" shows how to beautify your rooms with pictures. Each is 2 cents, 3 cents by mail. "Color Magic in Your Rooms" is 3 cents, 5 cents by mail. Address the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

By Claire Winslow.

THE slip cover is just as truly a sign of summer as is the first rose. And this year it is going to be just as lovely, too, for never were materials for furniture protection more beautiful, more colorful, more unusual than they are this season. Slip covers will not only save your upholstery and take away from it that hot, stuffy atmosphere, but will actually make over the entire appearance of your room, bringing fresh new beauty to it. And at a remarkably low price, too.

This year for the first time fabrics intended for this practical purpose were designed especially to harmonize with the new drapery lines. It's the smart thing, now, not to match your slip covers with your window draperies, but to ensemble them—that is, to get a chintz or a linen or a cotton that was planned to go with another of a different design. Thus, you have one thing at the windows and another on your sofa and chairs, but the same colors will appear in each fabric, there will be a perfect harmony of line, and the total result will be one of great smartness and real beauty.

As every one knows, Fortuny fabrics, Geneose velvets, are the acme of gorgeous drapery and upholstery materials. As they grow old gracefully through the years they fade slightly and become even lovelier. And are they costly?

This year, thanks to the cleverness of one man and the excellence of some of our American made cottons and linens, the Fortuny beauty has been transferred to inexpensive, nonfading, washable materials. They are called patina prints, for they copy even the faded patches of the old Fortunys, and have that lovely, soft coloring that usually comes only with age. They sell at the most astonishingly low price, and as we saw them in the wholesale display rooms at the Merchandise Mart they will be carried in retail stores all over the country and in Canada.

You can get them in old Italian red on a natural ground, in a shade called dregs of wine, in Adriatic blue [a green-blue], in amaranth, and in a coppery rust. And here's a touch of genius: the border is part of the fabric itself, so you won't need to buy any trimming.

Another grand new slip cover fabric that comes in a number of color combinations is called laurel stripe, has diagonal bands of one color, with another tone between on which are floral clusters, and is planned to accompany a material having simply the diagonal bands.

An ideal slip cover material for the country or summer house is a new sporting print that resembles a toile and is patterned with pictures of people golfing, sailing, playing tennis, motor boating, and generally disporting themselves in a holiday, out of doors manner. Again there is a wide color range.

A series of old English hunting prints by Morland inspired the designer of another good looking material. And always the prices are so reasonable that you'll want to do every room in the house.

Any Home May Have Modern Shower Bath

Three Types Available, Varying in Convenience and Ease of Installation.

Are you interested in possible ways to make money at home? Are you wondering how to brighten up or transform your woodwork, walls, furniture or floors? Write to Louise Bargelt, home builders' editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, or call at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for the booklets "Fifty Ways to Make Money at Home," 5 cents, 7 cents by mail; "Refinishing Furniture," 5 cents, 7 cents by mail; "Refinishing Woodwork," 5 cents, 7 cents by mail; "Refinishing Walls, Floors, Ceilings," 5 cents, 7 cents by mail; "The Fine Art of Laundering," 2 cents, 3 cents by mail.

By Louise Bargelt.

IF we believe eyewitnesses, there's a palace in Potsdam which belonged to the former kaiser with 600 rooms and only two baths! Now who wants to live in a palace in Potsdam?

Our own little bathrooms in our own little homes look mighty good to us. And if we need an extra bath or lavatory, shower stall or toilet we can scurry forth on a tour of investigation and discover for ourselves possible nooks and corners to accommodate them.

The season is upon us when the shower bath takes on an importance all its own.

Spring—summer—fall; these are times when the shower is in its glory. It is a grand antidote for spring fever. Nothing is better to rout midsummer lethargy. And in the fall the shower exhilarates and strengthens us for the zero snaps ahead.

If we install a shower this spring it will be ready when the hot weather comes. It will cheer us if we can't escape to swim in some ocean surf or revel in a daily plunge in a "pool all our own."

Some Units Serve as Both Shower and Faucet.

There are three types to choose from in selecting a shower for the home.

The first type, that is the type which is the easiest and least expensive to install, has divers trade names, but is in all cases simply an attachable shower. These showers come in such a variety of sizes and styles that it is no exaggeration to claim that there's not a type of tub which cannot be fitted with one.

Apartment dwellers as well as those who live in houses can own such a shower at slight cost.

There are units which serve both as faucet and shower. Depending on the kind of bath faucet one has, this unit is either attached to or replaces the existing faucet.

The shower riser pipe may be attached directly to the wall and connected with the spout of tub. The old tub spout is replaced with a new one having a diverter valve so that the water may be turned in to either tub or shower.

Where these diverter valves are automatic the lever drops back, ready to fill the tub, after the water has been shut off. In this instance the shower cannot come on until the bather lifts the lever. (No risk of an unexpected drenching here.) This type of shower may be had plated with nickel or chromium.

When one is modernizing a bathroom, planning on new water surfacings perhaps, the placing of the shower pipes in the wall is easily accomplished.

[And, speaking of washable wall coverings—if you are interested in different possible types, send stamped, addressed envelope for free leaflet on 30 different materials for bathroom and kitchen walls.]

A plumbing contractor may be able to find a way of concealing the piping with a minimum of wall breakage. (If a bathroom breaks up against a closet or storeroom there is nothing to prevent the shower riser pipe running up the wall of the room.)

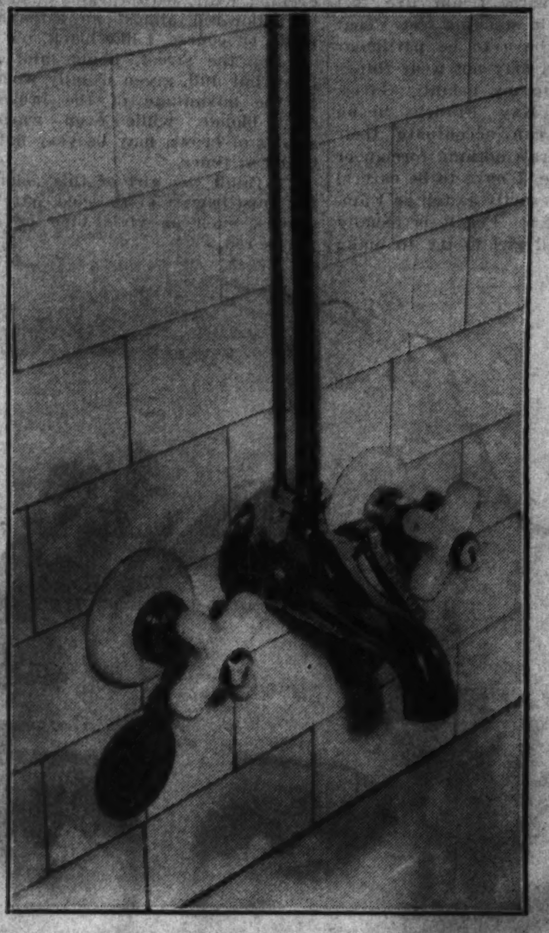
Sometimes we see the shower over the tub inclosed in a waterproof plate glass. If one wishes a really luxurious effect, art panels of colored tapestry glass can take the place of plain plate glass. Such a glass inclosure may be used with corner tubs as well as with recessed fixtures.

The shower stall, elaborate or simple as one wishes, can be built almost anywhere in the house. If a stall is placed in the basement—a nice idea where there are growing children—it can be of concrete, which is not expensive. Upstairs we see these inclosures of plate glass, tile, marble, steel, and so on, according to our preferences in lovely materials and our budget plan.

IMPROVED PLUMBING

An ideal type of tub shower is pictured, with piping concealed in the walls and all exposed parts of gleaming chromium. An excellent shower to install if a bathroom is in process of its modernizing.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]



No tub there is which cannot be nicely fitted with a brand new shower this spring. It can be an attachable shower, too, if we like, the type which necessitates no muss, nor fuss, nor breaking into walls.

HOW TO ORDER.

If you wish instructions for making the children's bathing suits illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Jean Macdonald, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago. Be sure to send name and address with your letter. Also state standard size of suit usually worn or age size.

By Jean Macdonald.

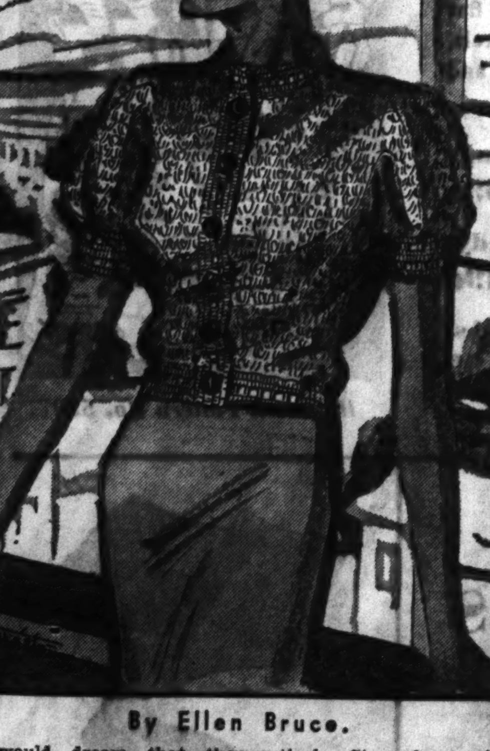
WHERE is the baby who does not rejoice in playing in the sand or making mud pies? Of course the appropriate sports costume is necessary even for the youngest set. All wool has no equal for these ensembles.

Beach rompers, so fashionable for grownups, are equally desirable for tiny girls. An extra slipover sweater with these shorts furnishes protection against wind burn on tender skins. Only two or three balls of yarn are required for the shorts illustrated today.

The suit with the narrow straps, illustrated above, is ideal for either boys or girls for beach play, and requires only two or three ounces of fingering or bathing suit yarn. Mother may knit them in a day, using the simplest of knitting stitches, and brother or sister need have no fear of style competition. Plain knitting, ribbing, and stocking web are the stitches used in these suits. A size two or three knitting needle may be used, according to the tension of the knitter—that is, whether she knits loosely or tightly. The size of the needle has much to do with the final appearance of the work. Slackness or holes are not desirable in any well knit garment.

When ordering these small rompers and bathing suits please state size worn — the actual age size, since many children do not wear the age size that correspond with their years.

Mercerized Thread Comes Back to Favor in Crocheted Blouses



By Ellen Bruce.

WHO would dream that the threads used for old fashioned lace work, those horrible antimacassars or "whatnot" covers made by our elders, would ever be the warp and woof of a smart blouse? Well, they are. They're being shown in the best styles.

The tailored blouse illustrated today is made of white mercerized thread in simple crochet stitches—various form of the attractive shell stitch, single and double crochet. The puffed sleeve, so popular at the moment, is done in double crochet. The standing collar affords an especially good feature in the well planned blouse. Buttons may be of crochet or in composition to match one's spring suit. A clever color detail, this. Not only does a lacy crochet blouse of this type furnish ample ventilation on a warm day, but it may be laundered frequently and easily and does not require an iron.

Crochet work is inexpensive and practical. Sizes for various figures are taken care of in special adjustments included in the instruction sheet. It remains for a crochet worker to use a steel hook for such raiment and to be absolutely certain that a sample piece is worked before the garment is started in order to practice the size of the stitch and gain an even tension. There is often a tendency to work neatly and evenly at the beginning and then suddenly speed up to finish the blouse in a certain time. Unconsciously one releases the tension to rush the work and the results are almost always fatal to style. Such action is bound to spell finish to the fit by causing a model to stretch. With all thread work, a firm stitch is one essential for complete satisfaction.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the short sleeved blouse illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

THIS WEEK IN THE GARDEN

Monday, April 9.

It is time to remove many kinds of small, potted, or flatted seedlings into a coldframe. Many of the early vegetables may be sown now, such as tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, and egg plant. If a few onion seeds are sown, large and early onions may be obtained.

A flat is an excellent container in which to sow the seeds. As soon as they are large enough to handle, transplant the seedlings into other boxes or flats. If a hotbed is ready the seeds may be sown in rows and later transplanted into another frame.

Tuesday, April 10.

On days when the ground can be worked improve the lawn. A fine seedbed and some plant food will stimulate the young plants. Sow grass seed broadctst, sowing twice in both directions to insure a good even stand. Use only the best seed to reduce the likelihood of many weeds. A mixture used in certain parks is 60 per cent blue grass and 40 per cent red top.

Wednesday, April 11.

Finish pruning shrubs and fruit trees. Shrubs should be kept open by removing all dead wood; old wood should be cut out and young wood kept in shape. The rule for pruning is to prune after flowering, but dead wood can be removed at any time.

Rambler roses should have all useless wood removed. Seeds of hardy annuals may be sown as soon as the ground is worked. Sow broadcast and not too thick. Hardy annuals include

Thursday, April 12.

Prune the clematis, trumpet vine, and climbing honeysuckle. Old lawns may be topdressed with rich soil. Fill depressions in the lawn for evenness. If the grass seems thin, sow new seed. Examine the perennial borders to see that no plants are suffering from a too heavy mulch. Do not be hasty about removing the covering of any plants for a late freeze may catch some of them.

Friday, April 13.

Start the fancy-leaved caladium bulbs. Place the bulbs in a flat of sand and when they are fairly well developed plant in suitable sized pots. Use a good, rich soil with some leafmold and good drainage. Continue to propagate tender bedding plants such as coleus, lantana, heliotrope, ageratum, alternanthera, marguerites.

Saturday, April 14.

Get ready to transplant house plants. If soil is not available on the place buy a supply from the florist or dig the upper surface from the garden. Mix with one-fourth well decayed compost and enough sand to provide porosity. If the house plant has grown spindly cut it back before shifting into a new pot. After potting water once and wait until the plant needs watering before watering again.

Wild Rabbit Is Trained in Tricks by Young Girl

TAMING a wild rabbit is the accomplishment of Miss Juliet Kindler, aged 17, of Lancaster, O. The pet obeys every word his mistress says. When told to love her the rabbit cuddles his head under her chin, when told to kiss her he proceeds to do it forthwith in the proper manner.

Savory Timbale Dishes Provide Exciting Meals

Versatile Array of Foods May Be Employed.

By Mary Meade.

LOOK not askance at your hostess if, at the next swanky luncheon, she serves you kettledrums! It's just an old, old custom and a very ancient dish, although it's known among epicures today not as kettledrum but as a timbale.

For a timbale [pronounced, by the way, as if spelled "tanbal," the first "a" as in "tan" and the second as in "ah!"], although it now arrives in all sorts of curious shapes, once was baked in a mold actually designed after the ancient timbal or kettledrum.

But show me an up and coming timbale which will remain contented with the form or the flavor of its great-great-relatives. So now we have, in the stores, a grand medley of shapes through which to hunt, some round, some bell-like, some even flat or angular. But, right up through the years, the purpose of each timbale has been the same, to bake itself in its mold to a sufficient firmness so that, when cooked and turned out, it can hold up proudly, yet all the while stay tender and tasty.

Your Favorite Food May Be Background.

As for the timbale itself almost any sort of meat, fish, cheese, or vegetable will form the background. To hold it together we add a milk and egg foundation. Pour it into greased timbale molds, or small custard cups which stand with their feet in a pan of water. Then bake. To serve it, unmold and garnish graciously with a sauce.

Today's starter calls for fish in the form of

1¼ cups milk.
2 egg yolks, beaten well.
½ pound raw halibut, skinned and boned.
1 taplespoon onion juice.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
½ teaspoon celery salt.
2 tablespoons parsley, minced.
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten.

Pour the milk over the crackers and allow to stand for one minute. Then add the beaten yolks and the fish, which has been run three times through a meat grinder. Add the rest of the ingredients, folding in the beaten whites. Now turn into well greased, individual molds and stand them on several thicknesses of paper in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake these in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] 20 to 35 minutes, or until a knife, when inserted, comes out clean. This makes 6 medium timbales, which should be turned out, garnished, and served with cream sauce.

Sweetbreads and Mushrooms Combine.

Then there's a food to which folks too often treat themselves in public, but which they neglect to bring home to the family. When made up into timbales it looks like this:

SWEETBREAD AND MUSHROOM TIMBALES.

3 tablespoons butter.
1½ cup chopped mushrooms.
1 sweetbread.
2 eggs, separated.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 pimento, chopped.
1-3 cup fine, dry, bread crums.
1 cup medium white sauce.

Prepare the sweetbread by soaking for 1 hour in cold water, then boiling gently for 20 minutes in salted water, to which the juice of ½ lemon has been added. Plunge into cold water to cool. Chop. Beat the egg whites and yolks separately. Now simmer the onion in the butter and mix with this the rest of the ingredients, folding in the beaten whites last. Turn into greased timbale molds, place on folded paper in a shallow pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 30 minutes, or until firm. Serve with a creamy mushroom sauce.

But let's give our timbales some overcoats. A lining for the molds is the thing. And, for a starter, make it

SPAGHETTI TIMBALES.

Butter timbale molds or custard cups and then line the inside and bottom of each with hot, boiled spaghetti, coiling it round and round the inside. Practically any timbale mixture which suits you may be turned into these nests and the timbales baked in the manner approved above.

Macaroni Timbale Makes Luscious Dish.

Or, change your mind and have a macaroni timbale. The long "pipes" may be wound around, but an even smarter way is to whack them off to a length which is just as long as the molds are high. Then stand them up close together all around the inside of the mold, pour in your meat, vegetable, fish, or cheese-egg mixture, and bake as described.

Red pimientos are something else which snuggle comfortably into the timbale mold. A luscious fellow appears when you line molds with canned pimientos and fill the cavity with a fish or chicken timbale mixture, baking as always. There are some lovable tomato and mushroom sauces on the market now which, when warmed, are the perfect companions for this special sort of timbale.

But where, oh where, are the Swedish timbales? you ask. And, I reply, they nearly didn't get in at all, being so different from those described above as to be almost out of the timbale class. Actually Swedish timbales are thin, crispy cases made from a light batter and fried on special timbale irons until ruddy brown. From the iron they are slipped off and used as cups for any of the creamed creations which usually find their way into patty cases or fried noodle nests.

Timbale Irons Come in Variety of Shapes.

Timbale irons you may find at any department store. They turn up in quite a variety of shapes and sizes, looking usually like small fluted cups with a gadget in the center of the inside bottom, into which may be fixed the long bent handle used in dipping the cases. So, if you've never tickled the family with Swedish timbales, let this be a lesson to you.

SWEDISH TIMBALES.

½ teaspoon salt.
2-3 cup milk.
1 egg.
1 tablespoon melted shortening.

Sift together the dry ingredients and stir in the milk and beaten egg. Add the shortening and beat well. Place some of the batter in a cup, then dip the timbale iron on the end of its handle, into deep fat. Heat the fat to 375 degrees F. Drain out the iron and dip it into the batter in the cup, allowing the batter to coat it only three-fourths of the way to the top. Return it to the hot fat and fry 1 to 2 minutes, or until the batter is golden brown.

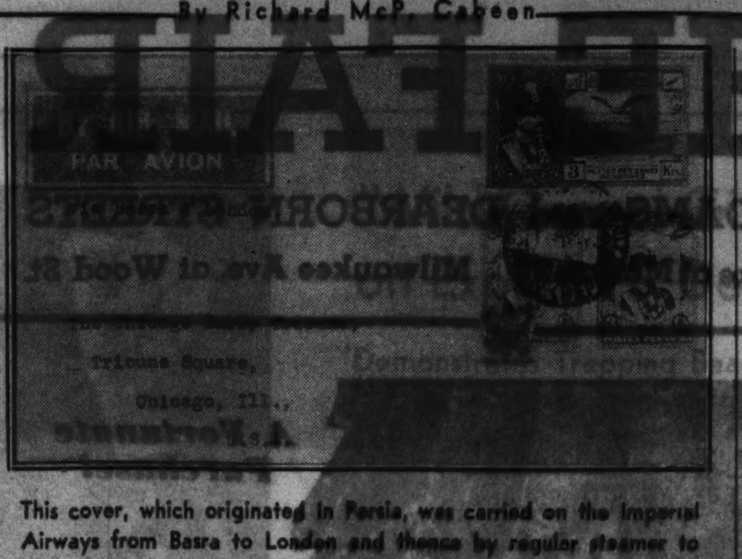
THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen.



This cover, which originated in Persia, was carried on the Imperial Airways from Basra to London and thence by regular steamer to America. This branch of the I. A. is for the Indian service and makes one trip each way per week. The Persian airmail stamp is shown at the top of the cover.

Order and system! Those are the principles explained in "Starting a Stamp Collection," a booklet newly prepared by Mr. Cabeen for beginners and initiates. Price, 3 cents; by mail, 5 cents. Address Richard McP. Cabeen, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

THE stamps of Russia, White Russia, Ukrainia, Bulgaria, and Serbia, with their so-called Cyrillic letters, are a difficult group for the beginner. A chart is given which shows how to transliterate the strange characters into Latin letters. This respelling will convert the Slavic words into others which are often easy to read.

Explanation. Column No. 1 numbers the characters for reference. Columns 2, 3, and 4, and spaces between show capital letters and lower case letters and a few modern variants. Column 5 shows the Latin equivalents and column 6 indicates in which language the character is used, for all do not occur in any one. Russia dropped characters 14, 42, and 46 in 1918, and uses 13, 8, and 32, which are similar, and she also abolished No. 39 at the end of words and often substitutes an apostrophe for it elsewhere. Character No. 41 is without sound, but has a softening effect on the preceding consonant and may be compared to the sound between the letters "d" and "n" of the word "pardon," correctly pronounced. Character No. 38 becomes "sht" in Bulgarian instead of the "shch" in the other languages.

Serbia, now a part of Yugoslavia, threatens to abandon the Cyrillic characters and Russia has recently issued stamps with inscriptions in Latin letters, but this will not affect the early stamp issues.

U. S. Historical Cover Catalog.

The 1934 edition of the annual handbook by Edwin H. Brennecke contains information on cacheted and first day covers, with description, number mailed, and pricing. Among the groups included are the covers of the U. S. S. Akron, the U. S. S. Macon, and the U. S. F. Constitution. The Graf Zeppelin and the Balbo tours and the covers flown by Byrd, Coste-Bellonte, Post-Gatty, and Wiley Post are listed. There are additions to former lists of bicentennial covers and a check list of the covers mailed during A Century of Progress Exposition, with a special section dealing with covers bearing commemorative stamps from 1893 to date.

New Loose Leaf Album.

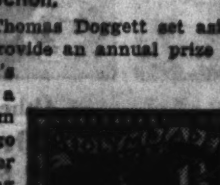
An improved loose leaf album has been placed on the market by Walter C. Sargent, inventor of the Naribo albums. The new album, which is named the "Saribo," gives an index of stamps and complete illustrations of the types of the various issues. Several sections are ready and more are to be announced each month.

Perforation Gage.

An entirely new idea has been introduced in the herringbone perforation gage recently gotten out by Charles W. Barnard, and collectors who use it will be pleased by the ease with which it is possible to check the perforations on mounted stamps. Heretofore it was necessary to remove the stamp from the album before comparing the perforations with the gage.

Sporting Section.

In 1715, Thomas Doggett set aside a fund to provide an annual prize of a waterman's coat with a silver arm badge, to go to the winner of a rowing race on the Thames. The contestants were limited to six young men who were not more than a year out of their apprenticeship as watermen. This race, known as "Doggett's Coat and Badge," commemorating the accession to the throne of England of George I., is still an annual event and is the forerunner of all modern rowing events. This Olympic stamp shows a single sculler. In the Henley Royal regatta the race for single scullers is called the diamond sculls and is rowed over the regular course of 1 mile and 550 yards upstream. Henley regattas are held in the United States and Canada as well.



A Stamp from Peru.

This recent stamp of Peru shows a view of the city of Arequipa with the famous volcano "El Misti" in the background. The line of the Pan-American Airways touches Arequipa and should the pilot care to climb from the landing field, which lies at the comparatively low elevation of 7,500 feet, so that he could obtain a view of the half mile wide crater of this gigantic cone, it would be necessary to obtain an elevation of over 20,000 feet. El Misti often sends steam a thousand feet or more into the air and deluges its crater with fountains of boiling water.

Club Notes.

An auction sale will feature the next meeting of the La Salle County Stamp club. This is in the charge of U. Roy Sewrey of La Salle, with M. J. Gemberling of Marseilles as auctioneer. All collectors are invited to attend.

ON THE THEATER PROGRAMS

Mme. Maria Jeritza, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company for ten years, is now making her first American appearance as an operetta star. She begins a Chicago engagement tomorrow night at the Grand Opera house, with "Annina."

'Wild Cargo' Gives Inside Dope on Explorers' Derring-Do Deeds

Demonstrates Trapping Beasts of Jungle and Bringing 'Em Back Alive Is Regular He-Man's Job; Critic Treads Timorously While Wells and Elliott Growl.

"WILD CARGO."

Featuring Frank Buck. Directed by Armand Denis. Presented at the Palace theater.

By MAE TINEE.

GOOD MORNING!

Another animal picture! Heaven help! and mesilf in a veritable jungle of critic-hungry explorers!

Behind on a bush—Carveth Wells—ready to let his assagai fly if I mention "lion!" Peering out from another fastness—Clyde Elliott—to spear me with his pen if I call a crocodile an alligator . . . ! While a crackle of apprehension warns me to beware else Frank Buck (appearing in person at the Palace with his new film, "Wild Cargo,") will catch me stumbling over a mistaken location or mention of a snake (?)—which may look like a snake to the unversed observer but is something entirely different to the man wise in the ways of the wild. . . .

Below: Sort of a "different" picture of Loretta Young, isn't it? Charming, though, we thought, when it came into the office. And so—we pass it on. You'll see Miss Young thus in the imminent photoplay, "The House of Rothschild."

Chicago Stage Gets Drama of Yorkshire Love

Nagel and Heming Stars in Fine Performance of "The Shining Hour."

By Charles Collins.

WHETHER completely credible or not in the central facts of of its story, the play called "The Shining Hour," which has come to the Selwyn to start a little renaissance of drama in Chicago, is an engrossing and at times an exciting slice of theater going. It contains an element of strangeness that provokes discussion among its audiences, and therefore it serves as a much needed stimulant to interest in the drama.

There is, moreover, a thrill in its acting. Conrad Nagel's performance as the married man who hears the siren's song in the voice of his sister-in-law, has surprising strength and wiry nervous power, especially in the last act when the character is on the verge of a mental breakdown. Mr. Nagel has spent years in cinema acting—a medium which, for technical reasons, does not require sustained effort in interpretation in the same degree as the stage. He returns to the drama, however, to manifest a veteran's skill. His contribution to "The Shining Hour" is impressive.

Miss Heming as Modern Lorelei.

Violet Heming, as the heroine—a somewhat vague and baffling character, as recorded by the author—conveys the cool quality of mental enchantment that is the heart of the romantic story. When the young Englishman who wrote this play about an eddy of passion in calm Yorkshire invented this character of Mariella, he thought of her, no doubt, as a symbol of the Lorelei—a woman who could not help casting a tragic spell upon the family she entered. Not by exotic glamor or physical lures, but by a disturbing, challenging power of the spirit, Mariella innocently brings doom into that placid farmhouse. Miss Heming catches and expresses this almost intangible mood.

One must speak of Nancy Sheridan, also, in emphasizing the fact that "The Shining Hour" has a first rate cast. She plays a gentle, sensitive wife who sees her husband falling in love with her sister and never whimpers; who calmly prepares to make the fantastic sacrifice around which the play's major crises are built; who voluntarily becomes a burnt offering to a bizarre notion about the romantic importance of extra-marital love affairs.

"Almost a saint," the author calls this character. But Miss Sheridan keeps the character warm with honest humanity. This performance, added to her excellent treatment of the shop girl in "Cynara" a year ago, marks Miss Sheridan as a young actress of fine gifts.

First-Rate Cast for Chicago Engagement.

The three other members of this cast are in line with their leaders. They contribute crisp performances of sharply etched characters — John Spacey as the good natured, unimaginative oldest brother [a retired civil servant]; John Halloran, as the loose, flippant youngest brother, and Kathryn Collier as the bitter-tongued spinster of the family. In every rôle "The Shining Hour" gets admirable treatment.

I am emphasizing the acting of this company because it represents a new tendency in Chicago theatrical activities. It was organized for a run here while the original troupe, headed by Gladys Cooper, the London star, is still engaged in New York. Such duplications here of New York hits are apparently the solution of our theatrical problem. We may expect to see a number of them next season. If we choose to pin the label "second company" upon them and avoid them as less desirable than the original article, so much the worse for Chicago as a theatrical center. In that case we will get nothing at all. This staging of "The Shining Hour" is proof that a "second company" can be a first rate organization; therefore let us rise to give it welcome.

Pungent Dialog and Characterization.

The dialog of "The Shining Hour" is alert and pungent, particularly in the first act, which suggests the author's future lies in comedy. Brisk, vivid, intelligent writing is a striking quality of the play. The characterization, moreover, is firm and persuasive. The sudden outbreak of tragedy, which closes the second act, is a drastic and unconvincing business, but the third act is an admirable recovery from this attack of blind staggers in the plot.

"The Shining Hour" suggested to me that the author had probably seen "Another Language," in which a glamorous sister-in-law is spiritually suffocated by her new family; that Ibsen's "Rosmersholm" had given him the idea of a wild-eyed suicide, and that the piano playing scene in Noel Coward's "The Vortex" had influenced his treatment of the third act. But these are merely the ideas of a dramatic critic talking shop. In spite of such affiliations with bygone plays "The Shining Hour" is a free agent and able to call its soul its own.

Shakespeare

A SHAKESPEARE season of twenty-two weeks opens at Stratford on Avon, England, April 16 with "The Tempest." Baliol Holloway, Dorothy Black, Roy Byford and Rachel Kempson will be leading members of the company at the new Memorial theater. "Henry V.," "Love's Labours Lost," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "Twelfth Night," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Julius Ceasar" and "Romeo and Juliet" are listed on the schedule, and it is likely that Reinhardt will make a production of "Hamlet" before the season closes.

A SONG AND DANCE GIRL

The art of Jinette Vallon is now being presented in the evening entertainments presented at the Congress hotel. She is a dancer and something of an acrobat. She sings likewise, projecting her songs in a persuasive, not to say magnetic, French accent. Her audiences like her.

Film Stars as Variety Team

TWO motion picture stars, in matrimonial alliance, lead the stage section of the program at the Chicago theater this week. They are Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyons, now making their first appearance here as a stage team. Miss Daniels contributes several songs, among them her hit number from "Rio Rita." Mr. Lyons is the funmaker of the skit, specially written for the stars by Edgar Allen Woolf. Cherniavsky's orchestra has a new overture called "Springtime" on its list of selections.

The State-Lake theater offers three stars on its current vaudeville program. They are: Roy Atwell, who has been prominent in many musical comedies and is now active in radio work; George Dewey Washington, Negro singer, and Paul Ash. Other acts on the bill are: Sid Page in "Pages of Fun"; Masters and Gautier, comedians; Hector and his trained animals; Boice and Marsh, comediennes, and Verne Buck with the State-Lake ballet. On the screen: "Love Birds," with Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts.

Frank Buck, the wild animal trapper, is the chief personality on the bill at the Palace theater. He talks about his adventures to supplement his new motion picture, "Wild Cargo." Pert Kelton, who had a film success in "Sunny," appears in songs and dances. Other vaudeville acts on the program are: Herb Williams, comedian, with Doris Ewing, Basil Whitfield, and Stanley Van Saxe assistants; Pettet and Douglas, comedians, and the Honey family, acrobats.

Benny Rubin, comedian of the screen and the stage, leads the vaudeville portion of the program at the Oriental theater. Others in the show are: Martha Raye, night club performer; Elaine Arden, Mario, and Lazarin; Maidie and Ray; the Three Brown Brothers; Ted Cook and his Melody Masters, and the Alton Streamline dancers. On the stage: "She Made Her Bed," with Sally Eilers, Richard Arlen and others.

'Wild Cargo' Is Inside Story of Animal Hunting

horrors, but a film calculated to give you an idea of just how "wild cargoes" are captured.

If you have an idea that all these bring-'em-back-alivers have to do is to plant a cage in the midst of the jungle, open the door, and call "Come, kitty, kitty, kitty . . ."—how wrong you are! How you have underestimated the work, the patience, the ingenuity which are necessary to secure unharmed specimens for the nation's zoos!

All the Tricks of Luring Snakes and Elephants Revealed.

I shan't detail Frank Buck's methods of luring his prey, but I will tell you they are fascinating to watch!

The film concerns Mr. Buck's adventures in Ceylon and thereabouts. It starts with the capture of wild elephants and from then on is revelation after revelation re the tricks of the explorer's trade. A tapir (?), a white water buffalo [?] a python—or m-m-mayb-b-be it was a cobra—to whom it may concern, don't shoot!—a leopard (?) . . . (The q. marks are just to show I know I MAY be wrong. White flags, so to speak.) Some of those cunning gibbons?—they're the comedians of the piece—and other specimens finally succumb to the gentleman from America.

It's a Film for the Whole Family.

There's only one fight—but it's a dandy! Between a python (?) and a black leopard (?). AND when another python [?] Oozes out suddenly and sinks triumphant fangs in the strong Buck arm—why THERE'S a thrill, my hearties!

What does the brave man do? Draws a revolver with his free hand and shoots off the snake's head. . . . !

In "Wild Cargo" you have a movie that's informative, actionful, both hair raising and amusing and magnificently photographed.

The scenes were all taken where they're supposed to have been taken. Any so-called "studio shots" were made right on the ground and "staged" for the sole reason that certain things might be made entirely intelligible to the observer. Mr. Buck is the narrator.

This is a "whole family" adventure film. Dad will like it as well as Sonny, and Mother and Little Sister can watch without momentarily expecting sights that will turn their tummies.

"SIX OF A KIND"

You've heard a lot via radio from George Burns and Gracie Allen. Now's your chance to see the air comedians. They are coming in "Six of a Kind."

A CHALLENGE TO YOU . . . . . .
"Honest-to-God Theatre! . . . I think the piece and the acting are a challenge to any play-going blood that still runs in the veins of this too-long complaining capital." —Ashton Stevens, American.

This Week Is a Gala One in Music Circles

Symphony, School Supervisors, Ted Shawn Offer Variety of Programs.

By Edward Moore.

A STIRRING and stimulating scene is being opened in the field of Chicago music this week. Four or five different types of orchestral concerts, a biennial convention of music supervisors which will amount to five days of intensive music festival, two different dance organizations, one giving a single performance, the other beginning a week's engagement, are only a rough classification of some of the events. There will be others.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra will be responsible for two events of widely differing character. Its twenty-eight pairs of subscription concerts will end on Thursday night and Friday afternoon. This would be considered a more or less conventional announcement it it were not that the Chicago Symphony orchestra can never be considered a conventional organization.

Orchestra to Play in Spirit of Burlesque and Parody.

But tomorrow night it plans something outside of its customary routine. Before an invited audience consisting of those public spirited citizens who have subscribed to the deficit fund it will present an entertainment called "The Orchestra at Play."

Here will be a complete program of the orchestra in its light-hearted and comic moments. No advance program has been issued, but it is understood that the spirit of parody and burlesque is running high. Extra and seldom heard instruments will be brought into play, certain revered and decorous compositions have been reorchestrated in a startling manner, individuals and groups from the orchestra will demonstrate that the most earnest practitioners of music are not always the most solemn in their practice, a master of ceremonies will make running comment thereon. For the benefit of those who wish to hear the program and are unable to get to Orchestra hall the program will be broadcast by station W-G-N.

Woman's Symphony to Give Strauss Opera.

While on the subject of orchestras, the Woman's Symphony orchestra will give its final subscription concert in the Congress hotel this afternoon under the direction of Ebba Sundstrom. Helen Hedges, soprano, will be the soloist, singing Zerbinetta's aria from Richard Strauss' comic opera "Ariadne auf Naxos," an excerpt seldom heard because Strauss wrote such terrifically high notes for it that only a few sopranos are ever able to encompass them. Miss Hedges would seem to be one of the few. The symphony will be the first by Brahms.

Turning to the convention, the Music Supervisors' National conference, to give it its official title, one finds events almost without number. Headquarters will be at the Stevens hotel. Several of the leading concerts will be given at the Auditorium. The Chicago High schools will present a program tomorrow night with a symphony orchestra from Marshall, Merle Isaac, conductor; an all-Chicago girls' chorus directed by Edith M. Wines, choirs from Roosevelt directed by Erhardt Bergstrasser and from Schurz directed by Le Roy Wetzel.

Convention Will Mean Continuous Program of Music.

Wednesday night's program will be by the in and about Chicago high schools with a chorus of 600 directed by R. Lee Osburn of Maywood and an orchestra of 230 conducted by William D. Revelli of Hobart, Ind. Friday night's event will be by a huge chorus of the supervisors directed by Hollis Dann, assisted by the Lane High school orchestra directed by Oscar W. Anderson.

Throughout the sessions there will be almost continuous appearances, demonstrations and competitions by soloists, vocal ensembles, string and wood wind ensembles, bands, and other orchestras. Plans are being made for the reception of something like 5,000 supervisors and about twice that number of students from grade schools, high schools and colleges.

Among the visiting guest conductors and speakers will be Walter Damrosch of New York, Sir Hugh Robertson of Glasgow, Scotland; Rabbi James G. Heller of Cincinnati, Georges Barrere of New York, Ernest H. Wilkins, president of Oberlin college; the Rev. D. F. Cunningham, LL. D., superintendent of the archdiocesan schools of Chicago; Frederick M. Hunter, chancellor of Denver university; Adam P. Lesinsky, president of the National School Orchestra association; A. R. McAllister, president of the National School Band association, and many others. Walter H. Butterfield is president of the conference. William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools, holds a high position on the local staf.

Shawn Will Restore Dance to Masculinity.

Turning to the dance, Ted Shawn and his company of six men will appear at the Blackstone theater this afternoon, and the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe will return to the Auditorium for a week beginning next Saturday afternoon.

Shawn announces that his program is an effort to restore the dance to its rightful place as the greatest of masculine art expressions. From primitive times down to within the last century or so, possibly two centuries, dancing was a man's occupation and was derived from man's chief occupations—war, hunting, religion, and labor. When women went into the dance the theme became that of love in its lyrical, mystic, and romantic aspects. Wherefore the Shawn program will be made up of primitive and religious themes, with special featuring of rhythms of labor and play.

With the return of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe there will be a revival of old delights and a presentation of new ones. The lovely company will begin immediately with some of the ballets that were not seen on its first visit. One of these is "Lac des Cygnes" (The Swan Lake) to music by Tschaikowsky, together with "Les Presages" to Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, the company's most magnificent achievement on its earlier visit, and "Le Beau Danube" to music by Johann Strauss, its most popular. On Saturday night there will be "Union Pacific," by Archibald MacLeish, with music by Nicholas Nobokoff, which has just been put into the répertoire and from which much is hoped because of its American theme, also repetitions of "Lac des Cygnes" and "Les Presages."

News of Interest to Lovers of Music.

St. Louis is opening its new $6,000,000 opera house auditorium and civic center April 21 with a season of grand opera. Under the management of Guy Golterman of that city, the company will include such artists as Lucrezia Bori, Elizabeth Rethberg, Giovanni Martinelli, and Emily Roosevelt, a cousin of the President. Gennaro Papi, musical director of the Chicago Grand Opera company, will direct all performances.

◆

The Paulist choristers announce a concert at Orchestra hall April 26, for the benefit of their summer camp school in northern Wisconsin. Directed by the Rev. Eugene O'Malley, the choir is now in its thirtieth season. Its musical merits are many and high, as attested by its annual concerts in Orchestra hall and its Sunday night broadcasts over station W-G-N.

◆

As another example of the sometimes noticed fact that one has to learn about Chicago from somewhere outside of Chicago, Paul Longone, manager of the Chicago Grand Opera company, is quoted in New York as saying that he will present Respighi's "La Fiamma" in the coming season of the company. It will be the first American performance of the work.

DANCING WONDERS

Dash of Drama at Gold Coast Room; Cabarets

Uptown Players in Cafe Performance of Comedy by Noel Coward.

FOR a change in cabaret routine the Gold Coast room in the Drake hotel has decided to give its patrons a taste of the drama. The feature of tonight's program will be the acting of Noel Coward's comedy, "Private Lives," by the Uptown Players. This group of amateurs has made a number of meritorious productions this season and has appeared in engagements at the Chicago Woman's club theater. If this performance finds favor among the customers the Gold Coast room will repeat the trick once a month, with supper, music, and dancing on the side.

● The new floor show at the Terrace Gardens in the Morrison hotel includes new numbers by the Ainsley Lambert ballet girls and a new line of chatter by Romo Vincent, master of ceremonies. Clyde Lucas and his California Dons supply the dance music. A juvenile Negro dancer named Showboy Jr. is an extra attraction.

● Colosimo's café has a new group of cabaret entertainers which includes Alvira Morton, soprano; Gene Gill, dancer; Enrico D'Alba, tenor; June Douglas, soubrette; the Two Budies, skaters; Del Estis, mistress of ceremonies, and Bob Tinsley's dance orchestra.

● The Paramount club, now under the management of Frank Howard, has a new program of amusement that contains Julia Gerity, a blues singer of the Sophie Tucker type; Miss Harriet, singing comedienne; Edna Rush, torch singer; the Pearl Trio, dancers; Phil White, master of ceremonies, and Keith Beecher's orchestra.

● Grace and Charlie Herbert are the featured entertainers in the spring program at the Opera club. They sing parodies on popular songs and other numbers of their own composition. The bill includes Jenesko and Accent, dancers; Lawrence Salerno, baritone; Edwina Mershon, interpretive dancer; a group of ballet girls and Tom Gentry's orchestra.

● The Southway café is helping to maintain the night club spirit on the far south side, its location being at 51st street and Stony Island avenue. A new program of cabaret acts is presented every week, with Dick Hughes as master of ceremonies.

● Dancing in a humorous vein is Ray Bolger's contribution to the current program at Chez Paree. He satires fan dancers, gigolos, adagio dancers, and other types of the hoofer species. Two weeks hence Bolger will start back to New York to begin rehearsals for a new Broadway revue under Shubert management.

● Jackie Heller, the Eight Evans Co-Eds, Allan Rogers, Jack Powell, Ralph Copsey, Paul McKnight, and Lee Mae and Alice Louise are active in the current floor show at the College Inn, in conjunction with Frankie Masters' band. A carioca number is featured by Lee Mae and Alice Louise.

● The Aragon ballroom will hold its annual springtime carnival next Thursday. On the same night the Trianon ballroom will make merry with a miniature bicycle race. Several professional cyclists will participate.

"CROSS COUNTRY CRUISE"

Mystery Lady Writes Drama of Richard II

THE playbills for "Richard of Bordeaux," the historical drama which Dennis King is bringing to the Erlanger theater next week, state that its author is Gordon Daviot. For the last year literary circles in London have been stirring with the question, "Who is this Gordon Daviot?" Now it can be told.

The right name is Agnes Mackintosh, and the lady's native heath is Inverness, Scotland, in the heart of the Highlands—a region rich with romantic and historic associations. Miss Mackintosh is reported to be an attractive woman, rather petite, slender, dark, agile; a good athlete, a splendid rider, and a fine specimen of a Highland gentlewoman. She is a relative of the Mackintosh of Mackintosh and a member of the famous family of Mackintosh Daviot.

She was born on July 25, 1896, at Inverness, where she spent her childhood and where she was educated at the Royal academy. In early girlhood she took a two years' course at the Austrey Physical Training college, Birmingham, England.

At 17 she wrote her first story, in a book made of the shiny white paper used for kitchen shelves and covered with brown wrapping paper. For her own amusement she wrote verse until she grew up; then short stories, then novels, then plays. Her first novel, "Kif," was published in this country by Appleton. She says: "'Kif' found a publisher without difficulty and received unanimous approval from the critics. So my literary path cannot be said to have been a thorny one."

The titles of her other published novels are "The Expensive Halo" and "The Man in the Queue," a detective story. Then came "Richard of Bordeaux," which was the hit of last season in London.

"Gordon Daviot" is said to have devoted seven years of study collecting the facts relating to Richard of Bordeaux, the son of the Black Prince, who became King Richard II. of England upon the death of his grandfather, Edward.

Richard was only 10 years of age when he began his reign. At 15 he married Anne of Bohemia, who died of the plague eight years later. Richard's uncles—the dukes of Lancaster (John of Gaunt), York, and Gloucester—were opposed to his ideals and his foreign policy. Their sons, the earls of Derby and Rutland, together with Arundel and the archbishop of Canterbury, joined forces in a demand that Richard abdicate the throne. This Richard did upon a promise that he was to be set free to go wherever he chose. This promise was broken. He was imprisoned in Pomfret castle, near Leeds, where on Feb. 14, 1400, his brilliant career ended in his thirty-third year—by murder, according to Shakespeare.

"SHIP AHOY!" SAYS PERT KELTON

When Jeritza Won Favor of Austrian Crown

MME. JERITZA'S Chicago engagement in Rudolf Friml's new operetta, "Annina," recalls an incident in the diva's career which had helped to bring her to world prominence. A similar occasion years ago won for her the applause of Emperor Franz Josef of Austria and proved to be her stepping stone to international fame.

There were two opera houses in Vienna, the Hofoper, or the imperial institution sponsored and largely supported by the royal family and the court, and the Volksoper, or the municipal company, which was a trying-out place for the younger artists. Mme. Jeritza was singing in the latter theater and might have waited a long time before entering the exclusive precincts of the Hofoper if she had not accepted an engagement to sing some light operas during the summer.

The director of the Ischl theater urged her to go there and sing comic opera instead of grand opera for a change. After some hesitation she decided to try it.

Her first appearance was as Rosalinda in "Die Fledermaus" and on the night of her debut Emperor Franz Josef was in the imperial box. The operetta was a favorite of his, and it was soon evident that he was enjoying every detail of the action and the score. Jeritza's singing of the "Czardas" number brought from the royal box a tremendous "Bravo," accompanied by ardent applause.

She was required to sing encore after encore until her throat became so dry that she had to stop. She stepped in front of the royal box, swept the emperor a curtsey, then put her hand to her throat and smilingly shook her head to show him that her spirit was willing but her voice too weak for the moment to go on. He understood, laughed, and nodded his head for her to continue with the rest of the play.

At the conclusion of the performance the emperor called his court chancellor and said: "Why has this charming creature been kept from me? I cannot understand why this wonderful voice has not been heard at the imperial opera. Must all singers at the Hofoper be old and ugly?"

Thus Franz Josef discovered Mme. Jeritza. Thus as a girl in her teens she entered the portals of her ambition to make her debut on the imperial stage of Vienna in Oberleithner's opera, "Aphrodite," based on the novel of Pierre Louys.

At the Hofoper (now the Republican Stadtsoper) she remained, building up her répertoire, which now comprises seventy-odd grand opera rôles.

WAMPAS WINNER IS HAPPY TODAY BUT ALSO BROKE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—One of the 39 Wampas candidates just had to win. Unlike some of the others, she doesn't have a husband who can support her, and her parents are not well off.

Once she was under contract, at a small salary, and managed to save a little money. Then, without work for several months, her savings were almost eaten up.

But she wanted to look as well as the other girls in the "show up" just preceding the voting. She drew all of her money from the bank—$100—and spent all but four dollars of it for a dress, shoes, hat, and accessories. With the four dollars she bought drinks for some of the boys she hoped would vote for her.

The fairly well to do husband of one of the candidates is said to have spent several hundred dollars on the campaign to have his wife elected. He gave a cocktail party, hired a press agent, sent out scads of literature and scores of pictures.

For some reason or other this girl was not elected.

One girl's campaign for baby stardom consisted of telephoning each one of the 113 Wampas members three times each—just to keep her name fresh in their minds. It was an effective method. Dorothy Drake is a baby star.

Two girls sent telegrams to the Wampas voters, which were delivered between the unseemly hours of 6 and 7 a. m. The boys were annoyed, apparently. Neither girl was elected.

Lupino's Home Is Center of Hollywood Fun

Screwloose College Is Its Name and All Its Guests Are Treated Rough.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—Everybody has heard about Hollywood parties. But like the bread and jam in "Alice in Wonderland" that's always tomorrow, these always some place where you aren't.

Now comes the actual and real habitat of Hollywood parties: Ida Lupino's house, newly established in the mountainous regions of Beverly Hills and yclept Screwloose college by the sign post along the road. Incidentally the sign post was taken exception to by the postal authorities who asked her to post the number of her house instead of the colorful cognomen.

● Screwloose college is quite a jernt and many are the giddy tales told of doings thereat. It's a rather large house presided over officially by the young and attractive mother of Ida, Mrs. Stanley Lupino, who is young enough to be sympathetic with the ideas of gayety of impulsive, youthful Ida. It has a huge swimming pool and practically everybody in town who is anybody has been dunked in it.

You've got to give up dignity when you visit Screwloose college or you won't be asked again. If your wardrobe can't stand being pushed into the swimming pool that's too bad for you for you'll miss a lot of laughs. Initiation at the Lupino jernt is being pushed unexpectedly and full clothed into the pool. How you take this prank settles your status. You're either a "stout fella" and a welcome guest from then on or you're promptly booked, as a "crab" and let alone in future.

The pool is surrounded by a tangle of fantastic lights and lanterns. Twenty different species of fish inhabit the waters thereof. If you catch one in your mouth you get a prize. Some folks darkly hint they're not real fish, but that's giving away trade secrets. If any one starts drowning think nothing of it. Duke York, life guard, always on duty in full dress suit and dance pumps, will dive in and rescue the victim. If the victim is not in real danger Duke may get dramatic and take off his trousers and pumps just to add suspense.

● Lunch or dinner or whatever the hour may prescribe the same food is served: sandwiches and beer. Sounds nice, but after serving, guest and sandwich and beer are carefully submerged in the pool. The sight of strong, hungry men snapping at floating and sinking bits of ham and rye is too, too excruciating to the Lupino sense of humor.

Organized games consist of teams of men starting at two ends of the pool and battling through to opposite ends for supremacy. Still another idea is playing pig-a-back, each young man taking a young lady on his back through the pool. You've no idea how scrambled that game can get. C'mup 'n' drown me sum' time. Ida and her pal, Ziewalzies, can always think up other aquatic sports if things run down a little.

An opening dinner party was given by Ida and her mother a couple of weeks ago. Jack Oakie, Judith Allen, Tom Brown, Cary Grant, Virginia Cherrill, and other folks came hopefully expecting dinner. Things started with soup and went on with soup through five courses till the guests caught on that they were being served soup. Knives went with it. When folks really acted hungry the practical Ida rounded up a lot of uncooked oatmeal and graham crackers.

● Later that evening everything from dishcloths to motor robes was used to dress the party up à la early Rome. Then two radios, a mechanical piano, and an amplified phonograph recording of Ravel's "Bolero" were offered the guests to inspire them to an en masse Isadora Duncan dance. Then sandwiches and beer followed, each guest being solemnly rolled into the pool as soon as served.

What the neighbors think of Screwloose college is as yet unrecorded. The wild hills resound, but as its all clean, honest fun there's little to be said. So far a month has rolled by and things still are holding together. It really is fun if your blood pressure can bear it and you don't catch cold easily.

● Janet Gaynor is occuping a lot of Gene Raymond's time since his return to town. Gene was spotted buying orchids which later appeared in Janet Gaynor's dressing room. Then they went to the theater together and to dinner. It has happened a couple of times and folks are wondering if the canny Janet is throwing up a smokescreen for somebody's benefit.

● Those illusion-destroying things one sees around sets: Jean Parker shedding her white silk civil war hoop skirts from her role in "Operator 13" to go to lunch; which she does in a white satin bridal bodice, orange blossom crown, and bridal veil—and brown slacks!

● George Brent after a couple of years of denials finally comes clean and admits no guy can stay married to a picture actress and have a career of his own. Ruth Chatterton is probably Hollywood's long distance denial record-holder. Other stars have fibbed about impending divorces but nobody quite like Ruth.

● Alan Dinehart, working with Nils Asther and Gloria Stuart in Universal's "The Humbug," will produce and direct his own play "Alley Cat" at the Pasadena Community theater shortly. If he has time he'll act in it, too.

● Grace Moore has gotten over pining for her ten acre estate at Cannes with its orange groves and vinyards and admits she's thinking of selling it and buying a California rancho, Hollywood style. Her husband, Valentin Pereira of Argentina, has turned actor, playing in Spanish films at Fox'. Grace is under contract at Columbia where she's making "One Night of Love," her first musical in three years.

'The Student Prince' Dramatist Dies in Berlin, 72 Years Old

WILHELM MEYER-FOERSTER, author of one of the world's greatest stage hits, "Alt Heidelberg," known to America as "The Student Prince," died in Berlin, Germany, March 18 after a long illness. The play has been translated into every modern language, and at present is being produced in Tokio in Japanese and in Johannesburg, South Africa, in English. Included among his other plays were "Invisible Chains," "Kriemhild," "A Bad Night," and "Sorely Tried." He was 72 years old.

THE VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Reply to "Just a Citizen."

My dear Miss Tinée: I've never done this before, but there's a first time for everything. It's a tentative protest as a result of reading a wrathful letter from one "Just a Citizen" in today's Sunday Trib. Goodness knows I'm not defending rash scenes in the movies one sees nowadays. At best they are superficial and a little absurd. But did it ever occur to our irate friend, I wonder, that he is a member of a huge public without whose approbation and patronage such types of pictures would never be made? There has been a great deal said about the "financial, criminal, money demons" in Hollywood—their luxury, their scandal, their fabulous fortunes. I know absolutely nothing first hand about the place, but common sense ought to tell you that these people, although perhaps they don't actually earn their salaries, at least work plenty hard for them. It's silly and childish to suppose that the total population of Hollywood is composed of cocottes and voluptuaries any more than that distribution of wealth in the Screen City exceeds that of any other place in being unequal. And I'm in a position to know about that! Picture people get a vast amount of publicity. Their most private and personal affairs are matters of public discussion. It's the price they pay for success. And don't ever kid yourself, Mr. Citizen, that your own friends and neighbors and business associates don't have just as lurid incidents in their lives as those you read about! It's the old story of the mote and the beam.

As for your children, did it ever occur to you to choose the movies you take them to? You don't feed them some of the foods which you may eat unharmed; you don't let them indulge in the strenuous mental and physical activity which is a part of your life, perhaps. You don't have in your libraries books which they shouldn't read or wouldn't understand, do you? Then why do you sally forth of an evening to a random movie without thinking of the type it represents, without inquiring as to its content or whether it's too adult and sophisticated for your youngsters. And another thing, boys and girls interpret books, movies, incidents according to their experience, and I doubt if your son was one whit embarrassed by the suggestiveness of Jean Harlow's embrace. To him they were merely a kiss, something he's heard about often. If he is a normal boy his thoughts won't linger upon what happened when the lights went out. Mine never did and they don't now. Why do yours?

I do think we could do without movies with crime as their subject, gangster stuff. They probably prove injurious, and most of them are very much exaggerated anyway, in view of the average experience. But why make so much to do about a thing which is inescapable? It's the old tale of the attempt of parents to keep their children boys and girls, which never succeeds and often frustrates its own efforts. Let your boy see what he wants to see, but suggest to him movies which he is capable of enjoying and understanding. There are countless fine and beautifully acted pictures, and I'll bet you anything that "Dinner at Eight" bored your son to tears—all except the humor, perhaps.

DAUGHTER OF A CITIZEN.

Editor's note: There are certainly two sides to every question, aren't there?

Anna Sten Is None Other Than Herself.

Dear Miss Tinée: The members of our club and I saw Anna Sten in "Nana," and, as usual, I agreed with you on nearly every point. But tell me, would it be unethical for you to admit, providing, of course, that it is true, that "Miss Sten" is none other than Marion Marsh with a brand new make up and Deitrichish personality? Of course, the effect was astoundingly perfect, and the disguise very difficult to detect, but every one of my club members, without exception, agreed with me and we just have to be convinced that we are wrong.

JEAN F.

Editor's note: Anna Sten is Anna Sten, my dear. She is not Marion Marsh. There is a resemblance, I'll admit.

The Clever Imitators in "Going Hollywood."

Dear Miss Tinée: Last night I viewed "Going Hollywood," and later there was an argument whether or not the three men who did the imitations of the popular radio stars actually did the singing and talking or whether recordings were used. Would also like to know who they are. Thank you. Very truly yours,

DOUBTFUL.

Editor's note: "The Three Radio Rogues." You're welcome.

Miss Barbara Graf, attractive daughter of the Robert J. Grafs, is ticket chairman for the supper dance the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids will give Saturday, April 14, at the Bal Tabarin in the Sherman hotel. It's for the benefit of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind.

Miss Jane Fortune, whose engagement to Joseph E. Nolan was announced recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Fortune, came back from an Easter vacation at the Virginia Hot Springs to plunge into active work for the Lighthouse Aids' supper dance.

Mrs. Eugene Edwards, whose husband is one of the faculty of the Northwestern University Medical school, is working on a card party the Women's Faculty club will give at the Drake Tuesday, April 17.

Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr., a member of the Lighthouse Aids, is busy these days with plans for the benefit they are giving soon. Mrs. Stanton, the former Rosamond Baker, is a local favorite.

Echoes of Easter, Current Gayeties, Fill Social Scene

St. James' Church Centennial a Highlight; Symphony to Entertain with Concert on Kettles.

By COUSIN EVE.

EASTER was our usual profound deception in weather. Bleak, cold, with a drop of rain, it was an abomination of desolation as to fashion, but church services were lovelier than ever. St. James' church at Huron street and Wabash avenue was celebrating its first hundred years. For the important event a new cover designed for the church programs by Edward Grigware, a Chicago artist of distinction, showed in a sequence of small vignettes St. James' history from Dr. Isaac Hallam in 1834 to Duncan Hodge Browne, who became rector in 1924.

Ushers Are Leading Citizens.

At the late service Sunday admission was by card through the side entrance, where an imposing body of Chicago's younger leading citizens served as ushers. These vestrymen—arrayed in so-called morning dress—were Robert G. Peck, Alan Dixon, Eames MacVeagh, Walter Miller, Henry Hooper, Frank B. Mulford, William K. Otis, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., George A. Berg, and Anderson Valentine.

Decorations were charming. The old church, remodeled with Florentine blue ceiling and walls faintly rose, had floral boxes of yellow tulips and jonquils the length of its visitors' gallery and organ loft. Here Leo Sowerby, noted composer-organist, was letting out joyous peals and crashing cataclysms of all sorts of harmonic sounds.

The high altar, massed with calla lilies and, above those, waving Easter lilies, blazed with candle light. Along the chancel rail was an effect of spring gardens: multicolored hyacinths, tulips, cineraria, growing. A procession, surpliced choir in snowy tunics, men and girls, small angel faced boys, carrying lighted candles, the high voices of the women proclaiming insistently "Christ is risen today."

Sat in Lincoln's Pew.

I was sitting in an historic pew. Back of me were Henry Hooper and his blooming wife with their children in the pew of Isaac Arnold, Henry Hooper's grandfather. It was in the Arnold pew that Abra-

Invitation from British Embassy a Social Accolade

Only Capital's Elite Bid to England's Parties; Gate Crashers and Country Cousins Barred.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Special.)—The most important event this last week, socially speaking (terrible phrase), was the musical Wednesday at the British embassy. When a heavy white card (made in England, by the way), heavily crested in gold, falls out of a correctly thick envelope and you read that you are bid to a party at the red brick palace high up on Massachusetts avenue you are likely to squeal, "Hurray, we've made the British embassy."

For to rate an invitation to the British embassy is regarded as something of a social triumph. Many other embassies yearn to be a little more particular about their guest lists, but many of them don't dare to refuse some of the gate crashers with which this town is filled. Better, they reason, to admit nine gate crashers than to turn away one really important personage.

● So, when word goes out in the papers that this legation or that embassy has issued cards for a reception, the procession of the "carders" starts toward that dwelling. Overnight they grow up, these dear, good friends—but entirely unknown—of the country which is giving the party. They leave their cards. They come right out in the open and telephone for an invitation. Nothing subtle about a social climber.

The distressed diplomat spends the next few days telephoning fellow diplomats, asking, "How about so-and-so? She wants an invitation."

● But gate crashing is cut to a minimum at the British embassy. Even the wife of a senator can't bring in an uninvited country cousin. Several of them have tried.

Perhaps that's why an invitation to the British embassy is so deeply coveted.

● It's an entirely personal observation, of course, but quite the nicest and most real newcomer I've met this week is Jay N. (Ding) Darling, the Iowa cartoonist, who has lately come here to head up the biological survey. Since this is an era of initials we might call him the triple F's. He's friendly, and forthright, and funny. He'd add a fourth F—for he dubs himself almost a fanatic on the preservation of wild life, the rehabilitation of forests, and the restoration of natural resources.

● "In all this talk of restoration," he told me, "you hear most about the restoration of the wild ducks. Some folks laugh when they talk about it and wonder why we get so excited about it. But I

History says that one Sunday the lady sitting in front of Mr. Lincoln wore a cape ornamented with a silk tassel which hung over the back of the pew. Absent-mindedly Lincoln played with this tassel. But let Cecelia De Wolf Erskine tell about it, writing to Joseph T. Ryerson:

"Just after Lincoln's nomination for President in 1860 he came to St. James' for morning service and sat in the Arnold pew. Lincoln was very attentive to Dr. Clarkson's service, but during the sermon became lost in thought and leaned forward to 'play' with a large tassel that hung on the hood of the cloak of a lady in front of him. My childish fear was that she might turn indignantly. But she never knew how honored that tassel had been."

The lady, by the way, still owns the pew, and I sat in it with Helen Walker Szukalska and Scott Linn, all of us ignorant of this pocket drama of seventy years ago.

Soft Darkness Prevailed During Sermon.

The Rev. Philander Chase was first bishop of the diocese and Dr. Browne in informal remarks preceding the sermon said that his most prized inheritance was a walking stick of Bishop Chase's which had been willed him by Bishop Anderson.

During the sermon at St. James' a soft darkness reigns, the only light a diffused radiance over the white robed figure of the rector, as impressive as it is appropriate. The most becoming flowers in that church were the red orchids worn by Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine with white gardenias, which covered the lapel of her fur coat. A blonde with delicate features, Mrs. Valentine's loveliness is proverbial. With her were Anderson Valentine and his tall brunette wife. Mr. and Mrs. Valentine were, dramatically enough, going straight from the Easter service to the fast train which bore them off on the first stages of their journey to London. There they will spend the next year. Anderson Valentine married his cousin, Katherine Valentine, whose mother, Mrs. Alastair Valentine, lives in London. There are two Valentine babes who go as well.

Musicians Scour Town for Crockery and Kegs.

Tomorrow night at Orchestra hall that important concert, strictly by invitation, given by the musicians of Chicago's Symphony Orchestral association. Called "The Orchestra at Play," it will give the guest subscribers, including only those who have contributed to the deficit fund, a chance to hear symphonic music done on nearly everything but musical instruments. For weeks Dr. Frederick Stock's merry men have combed the city with tuning forks, tuning in on all kinds of kitchen ware, crockery sets, kegs, kettles, and metal implements to find the desired sound vibration. Often they have been taken for escaped lunatics. Now that the rehearsals are over and the program set there is much excitement over the frolic. Charles Hamill, president of the Orchestral association, remembers another such jamboree at Kinsley's, which was a huge success and the talk of the town thirty years ago.

The most distinguished large party of last week was the Casino dinner in honor of Kenmore, the historic place in Virginia saved for the nation by patriotic women of the whole country. Many were the hostesses at the head of long tables of guests. Among them were Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, Mrs. R. T. Crane, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Mrs. Walter Templin, Mrs. Ralph Shaw, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. John F. Bass, Mrs. David Cooke Jr., Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman. Fashionable and pretty was the audience seated following dinner to hear Mrs. Meeker's lecture with pictures, "House Hunting in Africa." First there were slides of the brick loveliness of Kenmore and its beautifully modeled outbuildings.

South Africans Prefer Dutch Colonial Houses.

Then views from South Africa of distinctive houses at Cape Town done in the Dutch Colonial manner. These pictures prepared the eye and also created an appetite for the bonne bouche of the evening, which was a film of the delightful Arthur Meeker house in Santa Barbara done after these same South African ideals by their son-in-law, Ambrose Cramer. Absolutely original were these low gabled houses, each with its own definite personality.

Landscape gardening was done for the Meekers by Robert de Forest Jr. of New York. It includes a wide pool which reflects the strange beauty of this story book house, also the blue mountains en face.

Standing on a dais in black tulle evening frock with many colored flowers at the low cut neck, Mrs. Meeker lectured in her most natural and engaging manner. Afterwards, ladies usually critical proclaimed this an evening of elegance and distinction. And it really was a good party with no snores rending the air as has happened lately at evening lectures, where a darkened room leads to catnaps and wheezings.

Brewsters Life Savers During Lent.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brewster's Lake View avenue house has been a life saver in the way of social distraction in the last Lenten days. Following the large evening reception for Laurence Binyon of London was a supper at small tables for Clifton Utley's Tuesday current events class, which includes Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Johnston, Col. George T. and Mrs. Langhorne, Mrs. Joseph Patterson, Mrs. R. T. Crane Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Welling, and Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell, who brought with them their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Blake of Boston. Mrs. Blake, a striking, brilliant Englishwoman, was greatly admired.

On Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. Brewster had another supper for fifty people and a program of music by a pianist brought to light by Karl Krueger. These men accompanied the Brewsters to the festa Saturday night which marked the opening of an Italian restaurant in East Erie street.

This town is beginning to tilt over backwards in getting up the simple menu par excellence. Everywhere one goes is talk of lamb stew and beef stew, the latter of which I had at the Casino lately in absolute perfection. All of which is a mere preface to Mrs. Stotesbury's luncheon at Palm Beach arranged for British royalties, Earl and Countess of Athlone. News of this and of the accomplished hostess, now well again and handsome, has reached Chicago. Mrs. Stotesbury, utterly fed up with squab and chicken breasts, decided to give the royalties what she likes best in the whole world. And that was corned beef hash. It was a good bet, for the Athlones liked the hash and the party was a success.

Mrs. Alfred Granger's elegant, high nosed profile and silhouette are seen once more among us. Back from Washington, she was wearing at one of the several charming entertainments at the Walter Brewsters' last week, a dashing costume d'interieur with large polka dots. Mrs. Granger paints a vivid picture of a White House luncheon where, seated at the right hand of the President of the United States, she came under the spell of charm for which Mr. Roosevelt is famous. She found his personality irresistible. Mrs. Roosevelt was vivacious and merry, and the younger members of the family lively as crickets.

DISCUSSING PLANS FOR A BENEFIT

The former "Midge" Boericke was always one of the most popular debutantes and post-debutantes in Chicago society; so what is more natural than that she should remain equally popular as a young matron? She and her husband, William M. Walker Jr., have an attractive apartment at 3300 Sheridan road, where Mrs. Walker and a committee were discussing plans for a benefit to be given for the Mount Vernon seminary scholarship fund.

claim the project is much bigger than that. It is really the restoration of America to America."

When we asked him how he happened to develop an interest in the plan he said: "Nobody has to think up a stylish reason for being interested in this subject. You just have it, that's all."

● Fashionable and devout Washington [sometimes the terms are synonymous] turned out for Easter service last Sunday. Most of the South American diplomats, the majority of whom are Roman Catholic, and many of the European diplomats of the same faith, went to the famous St. Patrick's, or the widely known St. Matthew's. "Cave-dwelling" Washingtonians who have lived here for generations went to St. John's Episcopal church.

This brings to mind the story they tell of the man who wanted a certain government appointment from President Lincoln. He went to the White House, his pockets bulging with credentials.

He pulled them out, spread them anxiously before the President. Lincoln looked at them, handed them back to the applicant, and said gravely but with a twinkle in his eye, "Better save these. You may want to get a pew at St. John's some day."

At least that's the story they tell.

● Tomorrow afternoon comes an important musical event—a tribute to Nicholas Longworth. A sensitive musician, the late speaker not only played himself but was deeply and generously interested in music. Tomorrow's concert in memory of the music patron and performer will be given by the Friends of Music in the library of Congress.

In less serious musical key was Nick Longworth's organization of the "Tommy Tuckers." Like the boy in the rime who "sang for his supper," this genial crowd used to meet around at different members' homes, stage a concert, and then get fed for it. Mr. Longworth organized the group. Its members were distinguished folk from official, diplomatic, and residential circles here. Occasionally they meet now. But the zest has departed with the departure of their leader.

● Washington lion hunters are seeking to lure Clarence Darrow, newly come to town for work with the NRA, to their dinner parties. Without much success. Perhaps they don't know that he hates fancy foods, and, above all, loathes "party" desserts.

● Speaking of food, Vice President Garner—we have the word of his wife for this—likes lamb chops and prunes. Curious combination.

● A long time ago a French king wrote a pretty little tune called "Amaryllis." Not many Washingtonians pay much attention to the tune, but nearly all of them pay a great deal of attention to the bloom. This past week hundreds, no thousands, journeyed to the department of agriculture's greenhouses, there to view 12,000 amaryllis blossoms.

The pink flowers were lovely and the red ones were luscious. The tangerine colored ones were handsome and the delicate roses were charming. But the plant that everybody ohed and ahed over was the pure, pale, white blossom. Possibly because it, like an invitation to the British embassy, is the most difficult to get.

TO BE MARRIED NEXT FALL

Miss Virginia Elizabeth Porter, whose engagement to Richmond B. Phillips was announced recently by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving D. Porter of River Forest, will be married to the son of Mrs. G. Hamilton Phillips some time next fall. The ceremony will take place in River Forest after the Porters have returned from their summer home in the northern part of Wisconsin.

Picnicking Gives Fillip to End of Phoenix Season

Vacationists Take to Desert Where Bonfires Burn Bright, Cowboys Sing.

PHOENIX, Ariz.—[Special.]—The magic of a desert night with a full moon rising over the mountains, the camp fire burning brightly, and the cowboys strumming their guitars and singing the now familiar songs of the range—with every one joining in—will be a picture which will linger long in the minds of the guests after they have returned to Chicago and their various homes. The party was held out in Paradise valley and the more adventuresome guests came on horseback.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Thomas Taylor [Geraldine Swift] spent a day here en route to the Champie ranch at Castle Hot Springs where they plan to spend several weeks.

Younger Set Hunts for Eggs.

An Easter egg hunt, all sorts of swimming stunts and races followed by what makes any affair a real party to children—refreshments—took place Saturday afternoon at a local hotel. All their young guests participated. Dorothy Anderson, daughter of the Arthur Andersons, acted as one of the hostesses. Bruce and Eleanor Norris, Warren Salisbury, Laddie and Alexander Gardiner, Eddie Shumway, Catherine Woodruff and Lenore Cudahy were all there.

While the children are busy at the pool or riding the grownups are out on the golf course—or riding, too. The Arthur Andersons and Edward Shumways are out on the golf course every day while the Harold Smiths with their daughters, Anne, Elizabeth, and Joan; Frank McNair and Miss Caroline; Edward I. Cudahy and Robert and Lenore; the Addison Gardners and their children; the Arthur Andersons and Dorothy are out riding horseback every morning.

There will be a regular exodus of Chicagoans this week with Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, the Addison Gardners, the Joseph O. Watkins, Henry Stern, the Arthur Andersons, the Edward Shumways, and Frank McNair all leaving.

Hopi Indians Give Their Depression Dance.

Seven Hopi Indians, dancing by the light of the full moon around a camp fire on the desert, provided unusual entertainment at the last barbecue picnic of the year given by a Phoenix hotel. Particularly interesting was the hoop dance, which is the Hopi depression dance. To the beating of tom toms, the Indians must dance in and out of small hoops. Should the Indians make no error in this dance, prosperity may be looked for, but should one of the Indians make a misstep or fall, crop failure, or "depression" is prophesied.

Present at the barbecue were the Raymond Durhams and their son Raymond Jr. and daughter Betty. As their guest was Robert Hagey [Chicagoan], who is attending school with Raymond in Colorado Springs. The two boys have been spending their Easter vacation here. Also the Samuel Lyndes, Francis C. Farwell, Pullman Lowden, and the James Simpsons.

Mrs. Chadwick Gives Series of Informal Dinners.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Jelke of Chicago are prolonging their stay at Brazilian court, Palm Beach, and have been much entertained by their friends in the spring colony.

Mrs. Charles Harrington Chadwick, who has a few guests at Villa Today, gave several informal dinners during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rich recently entertained at a dinner in honor of John P. Oleson, Chicago banker, and Mrs. Oleson, who are paying a late visit to Palm Beach. Mrs. Rich and her children are members of the private swimming club.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair attended a dinner and dance Saturday evening at Villa Marina, given by John Sanford and Miss Sarah Jane Sanford. Mrs. Blair's sister, Viscountess Adare, was visiting at the home of the late Otto H. Kahn, New York banker, whose sudden death last week was a shock to Palm Beach society. With Lord Adare she remained until Tuesday this week, when they started for New York to visit Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke Yuille before sailing for England. Mrs. Blair entertained at a farewell dinner in their honor.

Noel Seeberg will return this week to Chicago, leaving his family at their Australian avenue villa in Palm Beach, where they spent all last summer.

N. Y. Society in Midst of a Big "Little Season"

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Now that the younger set has gone back to the halls of wisdom for the last crack at books before "finals" and commencement the town can get down seriously to the enjoyment of the "little season."

The social calendar is just as full at present as it was lean during Lent. And this past Lent, if I may be permitted to remark, was one of the dullest on record.

Most everyone is in town and there are no end of things for them to do. Far from the south come echoes of desertion. In Palm Beach the sun is high, and my informants write me, noses are beginning to peel and the Patio, Colony, Marguery, and Everglades are closing their hospitable doors — and more important — bars. Palm Beach avenue is deserted and the guards are gone from in front of the Beach club. But there is no need for mourning. Socially Palm Beach is back on the map again. Many notables in town are firm in their intention to build homes for next winter's sojourn. Madame Jacques Balsan, the former Duchess of Marlborough, Mrs. Fair Vanderbilt, her ex-kinswoman, and the grand duke Dmitri are among those who will build new castles among the palms.

Does Ambrose Clark Go to England for Clothes or Horses?

The various sets in Gotham are complete. Each has its own favorite cocktail bar, from the twin ones at the Waldorf and Ritz to the new Persian room at the staid old Plaza, or some prefer the Victorian stuffiness of the St. Regis, the intimacy of the Weylin, and the what-have-you of the Park Lane.

In fact New York is once more giddy and gay. The horse-loving set is cast down by the passing of the beloved Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock but is cheered by the vision of Ambrose Clark departing for Melton Mowbray in England. That is, 'Brose is ostensibly going to view a few races and talk horse to his British confreres. But the gloomier wags of Long Island insist the only reason the laird of the iland goes to Albion is to buy additions to his amazing wardrobe. 'Brose is famous for appearing in startling plaids and checks and giddy waistcoats. He has even gone in for a horsey hat that is a replica of the one made famous by Sherlock Holmes. A sort of fore-and-aft effect. The sad ones say that 'Brose is coming back to make certain that no matter what else happens on Long Island, his wardrobe will make every race meet a sensation.

London Season Has Place in Many Hostesses' Yearly Routine.

The young hunters too are ready to be off. As I told you exclusively some weeks ago Woolworth Donahue is off to Africa to join his friend and Safari-Leader Mike Cottar. His engagement to Dotty Fell is on again—but I'm holding my breath until Woolie gets back. I refuse to believe in their bona fides until I see them at the altar.

Mrs. Herbert Shipman is getting ready to move on London for the English season. Julie has taken a house in Upper Grosvenor street and will join the score of American hostesses who now consider the London season part of their yearly round of duties. All of which goes to make tighter the bonds of international society.

Those who are left in town [and that includes most everyone] before going to Newport, Southampton et al for the summer are finding lots to do. I've told you of the huge number of spring balls and dances, all charitable in intent. The hymenial calendar is choked—and if one gets a full afternoon of weddings and a full night of dances, there are delights for the early evening as well being offered in the gay White Way. The circus is in town and Gilbert and Sullivan are revived in "The Mikado" and "Patience" and "Pinafore."

ARRANGING THE FOLLIES

Mrs. Walter E. Hayne is a member of the committee in charge of the 1934 Follies of the South Shore Country club, to be given Friday and Saturday, April 13 and 14. A feature of the review this year will be "The Alphabet on Parade," a satire of governmental agencies, written by a member, Morrison C. Wood.

Miami's Season Closes; Society Now Northbound

Aiken, Asheville, Charleston Now Receive Yearly Influx of Notables.

By Putney Haight.

MIAMI, Fla.—[Special.]—The gaudy awnings, shades, cabanas, and furnishings of the smart winter palaces along the beaches, to say nothing of the brilliant bathing costumes of recent months, are ready to fold up and be tucked away for another season. Some of the large hotels are announcing another week of festivities, but it is a forced activity—the crowds which thronged the ocean sands, the race tracks, the golf courses, and other locations of outdoor winter diversion up to the last day of March are melting away just as late spring snows dissolve beneath the April sun.

Some of the veteran northern colonists, of course, remain. They have had experience with spring in the north. Others have started on a broken northward journey with an itinerary including north Florida resorts, Aiken, Asheville, Charleston, Augusta and the Virginia beaches. But the fire and vim have left the Florida Riviera for another year. The die hard northerners and bona fide residents are now starting a leisurely, lazy excursion into southern summer diversions.

Beach Clubs Close Lounge and Social Rooms.

The end was reached on Easter day when 60,000 people gathered at sunrise on Miami beach to join an impressive service held there. The next day the city was turned inside out with departures. Some of the exclusive beach clubs will remain open to members for another fortnight, but the lounges and social rooms will be dismantled and service clatter will no longer rend the air.

At many of them the gatherings of Saturday night ended the season. At the Surf club the closing days were marked by many friendly farewell gatherings. Among Chicago people noted at some of these were Mrs. Thomas M. Howell, Mrs. David Joyce, Mrs. E. D. Hurlbut, Mrs. Jesse L. Smith, Mrs. Harry Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. John Griffiths, Mr. and Mrs. James Goodwin, F. B. Moreley, Mrs. William F. Potts, Mrs. Charles P. Walgreen, Mrs. Paul Brauer, Mrs. Julius Schwill, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ford, Eugene Ford, Mrs. Elmer Swift.

Roosevelt Aids Attend Final Horse Race.

The last of the winter's horse racing took place Saturday. An interesting item in connection with the closing was that over $27,500,000 had passed through the pari-mutuels in Florida this winter at horse and dog racing tracks. This was about a third more than the previous year. Present at the final day's racing at Tropical Park were Col. E. W. Watson and Col. Marvin H. McIntyre of President Roosevelt's White House staff, who wait at Miami for the President to complete his fishing trip; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jack, Misses Katherine Eleanor and Marguerite Pringle, Mrs. Frank Kearns, Mrs. Charles Trimble, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Keller, Mrs. O. D. Perry, Dr. and Mrs. William T. Gilman, George Ade, Miss Margaret Eyman, and Mrs. M. L. Buckney of Chicago and vicinity.

Spring Party Benefits the Old People's Home

Board Will Have Affair on Friday to Swell Funds of German Institution.

By Ruth DeYoung.

BLACK cats may lurk in the offing and ghosts prowl in the night, but the members of the board of the German Old People's home, without a thought of superstition, announce that they will hold their annual spring benefit party next Friday afternoon, the 13th, at the Germania club.

In fact, by courting fate they expect to more than double their return to the home in Forest Park that cares so ably and well for old people of German extraction. The party is to be a "merry-go-round" starting at 2 o'clock and continuing with bridge, entertainment, and refreshment until, as the invitations suggest, "the sun comes over the mountain."

Institution Is Termed Model Home.

Mrs. Theodore Kuehl, president of the home, will be the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Beiser, Miss Anna Juergens, and Mrs. Henry A. Chatroop. Every board member, however, is working faithfully for the success of the party, pointing with due pride to the institution that directors of other philanthropic organizations have termed a model home.

Its history goes back to 1886, when the first building to house 75 needy old people of German descent was erected on a 20 acre site at 7825 West Madison street, Forest Park. A building to care for the infirm was added in 1909, and a trained physician and nurses were put in charge. Since then two more large buildings have been put up and dedicated.

Another Organization Holds Benefit Party.

Another of the very nicest of the spring benefits, the card party and fashion revue of the Sarah Hackett Stevenson Memorial home, is to be held at 1:30 Saturday in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Special significance is attached to the party this year, since the club is celebrating its 40th anniversary. Last year the home cared for 1,044 women and children, working on the motto, "Help first; investigate afterward." Miss Mary K. Shively, assisted by Mrs. R. H. Crowley, is chairman of the party. Miss Martha J. Moe is president of the home.

Card Party Aids Day Nursery Funds.

And still a third benefit! The Little Wanderer Day nursery will have its 29th annual card party Friday afternoon at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Because the board has given up its publication, the Little Wanderer magazine, cutting off its revenue from this source, it is interested more than ever in reaping a large return from the card party. The nursery is a daytime home for the children of working mothers. Free medical care, food, clothing, and schooling are provided. Mrs. Charester Ihle is the party chairman, with Mrs. Walter Hecht as cochairman.

Family Heirlooms Come Out of Trunks.

Hats and gowns that have been handed down as family heirlooms since revolutionary days will be taken out of their scented tissues this week for the party which the Chicago Colony of New England Women is to have Thursday noon at the Blackstone hotel. "Jerry," a comedy of revolutionary times, written and directed by Emma Lee Walton, is to be presented by a cast of members following the luncheon at 12 o'clock.

One of the gowns, which is to be used as a costume, is minus a lining, for history relates that this was removed to provide bandages for Washington's soldiers. After the play Miss Lillian Burgeson will give a brief program of songs. Mrs. Thomas Holmes is president of the colony.

Founder of Aid Celebrates Birthday.

When Mrs. Henry Gerstley celebrates her 75th birthday Tuesday her memory will hark back to the days in 1882 when she and a group of her young friends banded together for the purpose of visiting patients in Chicago's then existing hospitals. It was this group that later became the nucleus for the Chicago Woman's Aid.

Because the aid looks upon Mrs. Gerstley as its founder, and appreciates the energy and interest she has given to its work for more than a half century, it is giving her a birthday party, a reception, and tea at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the clubrooms at 185 North Wabash avenue.

Before her marriage Mrs. Gerstley was Jennie Rosenfeld, a native Chicagoan. At the time of the great fire of 1871 she lived with her parents on the site of the City club. She is the mother of two children, Dr. Jesse R. Gerstley and Mrs. Claude Benjamin.

Cook County Federation Elects Some New Officers.

As the result of its recent annual elections, the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs has new second and third vice presidents. Mrs. Myrtle L. Carpenter has been selected to succeed Mrs. Herbert V. Weed as second vice president, and Mrs. J. E. Trischmann has been made the third vice president to succeed Mrs. E. G. Klinger.

Mrs. Burnett D. Warner will continue another year as president of the federation. Others reëlected to office are Mrs. J. Willison Coffey, the first vice president; Mrs. Thomas Grice, recording secretary; Mrs. William C. McBean, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Walter J. Scott, treasurer.

Philanthropic Club to Install President.

When the Chicago Philanthropic club meets at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Joseph Urban room of the Congress hotel, Mrs. Ilka R. Hayman will be installed as president to succeed Mrs. J. R. Sensibar. Other new officers who will assume their positions are Mrs. H. H. Feingold, Mrs. Isidore Ferguson, and Mrs. Max Kocichek, first, second, and third vice presidents; Mrs. DeWitt Manasse, treasurer; Mrs. Isidore Schulhoff, financial secretary, and Mrs. Max Braun, recording secretary. At the present time the club is maintaining receiving homes for the Jewish Home Finding society, the Cardiac Clinic Aid, the clinic at the University of Chicago, and also a surgical unit at the Michael Reese hospital.

Deborah Club Has Spring Luncheon.

The Deborah Woman's club, which contributes so notably to the support of the Deborah Boys' club, will have its 33d annual spring luncheon at 12:30 Thursday at the Standard club. After a program by radio stars there will be a fashion revue. Mrs. Charles King Corsant will be introduced as the new president, to succeed Mrs. Harry L. Cahmann. Mrs. Louis Sontag is making the arrangements for the party.

France, America Have Largest Exhibits in International Water Color Show

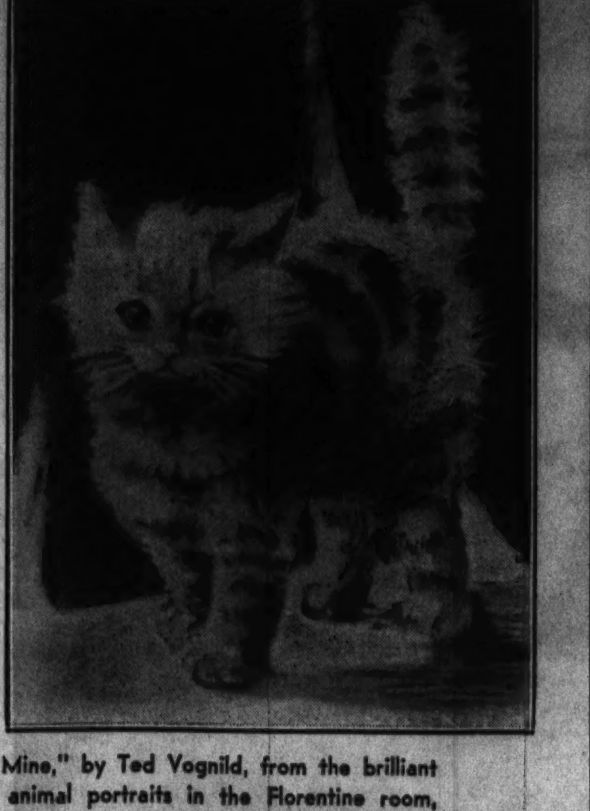
England Offers Fine Work in Smaller One; Grosz Does Germany Credit.

By Eleanor Jewett.

SEVERAL new exhibitions usher in the spring season. If size is the consideration, one must give first place to the international water color exhibit current in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. It is a comprehensive showing in a way and yet, as with most of our exhibits, lacking in parts.

The Chicago contingent, for example, still revolves about the pivotal fact that modernism has been the fashion in art for some time, and the same artists who exhibited in the Increase Robinson gallery and have been welcomed by the institute for many seasons past are again well to the fore. They are the radical, the modern, element in contemporary local art.

Their presence might be felt as a spur and as an advantage were the other side of the question presented with equal force. However, any water color show that leaves out such a colorist as Frederic M. Grant is not fair to Chicago and not truly representative of local conditions.



"Kitty o' Mine," by Ted Vognild, from the brilliant exhibit of animal portraits in the Florentine room, Congress hotel, under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of Fne Arts. The exhibit ends on April 30.

Edgar Miller Is Awarded First Prize.

Edgar Miller, a good craftsman, noted for his work in wood carving and stained glass, a member of the PWA committee, was awarded first prize, the Watson F. Blair prize of $600 for "Chickens," an impressionistic Easter card. Aaron Bohrod, first introduced by Mrs. Robinson's gallery and later given a one man show at the Art institute, was given the William H. Tuthill prize of $100 for "Division Street," a curious choice on the part of the committee on sculpture and painting of the Art institute who gave the prizes. It is a singularly ineffective [pseudo-French] piece of work. The Watson F. Blair prize of $400 was bestowed upon Earl Horter, known for his etchings and a member of the Art institute jury on etchings two years ago, for "Chinatown at Night."

Aside from the prize awards and local prejudice one finds much to admire in this exhibition. It is colorful and animated. The English section offers the stunning "Gypsies" by Augustus John, the fine "Valley Farmyard" by James McBey, and the smooth, satisfying craftsmanship of Sir D. Y. Cameron and Muirhead Bone in, respectively, "Tarff" and "Tubinger."

Lucien Simon Still Going Strong.

Germany, naturally, is represented with a large group of water colors by George Grosz—caricatures, cartoons on daily affairs. There is other German work but it does not make a lasting impression. It marks time in filling certain spaces in the gallery; one is glad to feel Americans are better than this, at all events, and to go on to something better.

The something better is the French division which is second in size to the American section. Lucien Simon, that splendid old master, still living and working into his seventies and eighties, is exhaustively represented. His work is good, sound, and forceful. It rings true and convinces one that all is not lost in the painting game. He covers a great deal of ground, from a French beach to Rio and back to the peasants of Brittany. Bahia, Brazil, churches, women, race track, riders, nuns, and a merry-go-round, life is a full pageant and Simon an able reporter.

Among the other French artists are Raoul Dufy, as nonchalant as ever; Jean Hugo, the delicate miniaturist in water color; Edy Legrand, Georges Rouault, Segonzac, and Vlaminck, whose vogue is practically extinct.

American Water Colors Fairly Representative.

The United States group is large and represents the country fairly well, with, one should bear in mind, a distinct tendency to accent the modern element. Many well known names are woven into the catalog: Randall Davey, Arthur B. Daviess, Glenn Colman, Adrian J. Dornbush, Ernest Fiene, Frances Foy, Lois Lenski, George B. Luks, Schnakenberg, Prendergast, Elisabeth Telling, Millard Sheets—one could fill paragraphs. It is better you go and see for yourself. The exhibition is a delightful change from that which preceded it in those same galleries.

The Arts club opened last Tuesday an exhibit of modern paintings from the collection of Earl Horter. One imagines Mr. Horter to be the same Earl Horter whose water color at the Art institute has just been mentioned as having received a prize.

Warshawsky Paints Paris Vividly, Sensitively.

The Anderson galleries, 536 South Michigan boulevard, are showing a brilliant exhibition of paintings by A. G. Warshawsky. This is one of the best exhibits in town and should not be missed. Here is a painter who has lived for years in Paris and knows the painting game inside out. He has watched the growth and gradual decline of modernism. He has kept his head, gone his own gait, painted his pictures as he chose to paint them, not as fashion dictated, and he has reached a definite goal. His work is sought by museums and private collectors. France decorated him this year with the Legion of Honor. The French government has bought several of his canvases for various museums, including the Luxembourg.

These honors are interesting, yet his work would stand up without them. The paintings are beautiful in color and in composition. They are fascinating in pattern. Watch the ribbon of spring trees creep by the gray bulk of Notre Dame. There is beauty for you and a thrill! Watch the green swirl of water under Pont Neuf. See Paris in late April, "La Cité," clouds, river, trees, a murmur of tantalizing music. For plain, direct speech look at the weather-beaten face of the "Woman of Brittany." Here is the master touch. Make no mistake, this is a brilliant show by a sensitive, perceptive, great technician and painter.

IN APRIL

By Eleanor Jewett.

A white cloud sails
Into the blue
Of an April sky
With a shower or two.

From the dusky earth
Of a flower bed
Yesterday's bud
Lifts a yellow head.

An early robin
With crimson breast
Searches the yard
For threads for a nest.

The sap is stirring
In shrubs and trees—
And boys play marbles
With muddied knees!

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, September 14, 1883.

DEAR JULIA: We have just come in from a golden wedding celebration—that of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Wheeler, dear old people whom we all love and honor. We were almost the only guests, aside from relatives. I am devoted to Mrs. Wheeler, and Will to her husband. Mr. Wheeler is a Vermonter, which Will thinks really insures fine character. Does the granite of the hills impart strength of purpose? It sometimes seems so.

Sandy and Arthur Wheeler, the bachelor son of the family, are chums, and pretty Mrs. Eugene Wheeler, a daughter-in-law, is one of Martha junior's close friends. So we were all there. Their house is at 463 Wabash avenue—that lovely neighborhood—and last night it was lavishly decorated with flowers. They have beautiful furniture and their handsome mirrors above the mantels reflected a pleasant sight. One of the new articles in the parlor was a fine bronze, "Golden Harvest," the gift of the sons—five in number.

No expense was spared in the supper, served by Kinsley at six o'clock. In the center of the dining table was a large oval wreath of goldenrod and marigolds laid on a piece of gold-colored silk. In the center of this was an inscription worked out in flowers: "Fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Hiram Wheeler and Julia Smith, Sept. 14, 1833." The menu cards were of white satin ribbon with a hand painted design of flowers on each. Mine was painted with goldenrod in the center. And the supper! It began with blue points and game consommé, continued with whitefish and roast venison with truffles; then followed broiled woodcock, which I do enjoy. After salad we had ices and cake and coffee—all most delicious. Johnny Hand's orchestra played during the evening.

It was fun to watch Mrs. Wheeler's face, as the presents were opened. One of the sons gave her two golden knitting needles. "But I use four," she laughed. So he promised to get the rest of the set. Her husband gave her a gold comb, or hair ornament, set with diamonds. It can be taken apart and used as a breast pin. Will gave Mr. Wheeler a gold-headed cane inscribed with his name and the date. I brought a thimble. Of course Mrs. Wheeler had a duplicate but she said sweetly that she would keep one upstairs and one in the library and find both most convenient.

The Wheelers are real aristocrats, and I am pleased to think I am of their circle, which includes many people of Grace church. Mr. Wheeler, when he came west from Vermont, first went to Niles, Mich.; then to La Porte, Ind.; then to St. Joseph, Mich. He came to Chicago in 1849, he told us tonight, to engage in the grain business, in which he has been prosperous. He was an early president of the board of trade, which means a great deal in Chicago. Even now, though he has been retired from business for some years, he likes to spend an hour or two each day in his old haunts. He is a great favorite, Will says, among the board of trade men.

There was much talk of old times during the evening, and one of the sons, George Henry Wheeler, told of earning a quarter on Saturdays in his youth by driving an old horse that walked soberly about the windlass in the top story of the grain elevator, hauling up the farmers' grain in buckets. How methods of handling grain have changed!

Letters from Albert A. Munger, the George Armour family, and the James R. McKays were read. The men of these families have long been partners of Mr. Wheeler in the elevator business. I always enjoy such a family visit—old and young present.

Too bad the Greeley relief expedition failed. Isn't it? I wish the navy wouldn't permit these polar expeditions. Love from MARTHA.

Arthur Wheeler, the only surviving son of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Wheeler, lives at 6 Scott street, with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Eugene Wheeler. Much of the furniture from the old home on the south side is kept, including the bronze "Golden Harvest," bought in 1883. The great mirrors are there, too, but in an apartment, they stand on the floor, not on mantels.

Interesting happenings of the week: Sitting before the fire in the Otto G. Schmidt home on Woodlawn avenue and hearing Mme. Julie Rive-King play her own compositions, "Bubbling Spring" and "On Blooming Meadows," popular for years, and tell of her music lessons with Liszt. Mme. Rive-King is 79 years young, and still retains her youthful vigor. Moderns heard the same evening were Francesca Falk Miller [Mrs. Franklin Miller], Phyllis Fergus [Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt], Rose Quong, Chinese actress, and Mrs. Edward C. Wurtele.

WHEN SPRING COMES TO SOUTHERN SWITZERLAND

All is not snow in Switzerland in the early springtime. The city depicted is Locarno, of peace pact fame, and in this instance only the peaks showed signs of winter.

[Acme Photo.]

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

A FEW things you may not know about places to go if you wish to get your full quota of summer sun tan.

Down on the edge of the south seas is a land that has managed to remain pretty much unknown in this day of universal knowledge. It is a land of mountains and jungle fastnesses where few white men have ever been and where the tribesmen still hunt—and, it is claimed, still eat—their enemies. It has mines of vast wealth, but they are kept inviolate by the best of all guards—heat and fever and pestilence. The name of the land is New Guinea.

You land at Port Moresby. There you find a handful of white men, carrying on in spite of the wrath of the sun god. There are perhaps a dozen frame buildings. A few motor cars help to bring in the sugar and copra from the plantations. Otherwise everything is as it has been for hundreds of years. Port Moresby is one of the fast diminishing number of outposts of civilization.

You go farther and find the villages where, in one room under a thatched roof, the Papuan is born, lives, makes love, and dies. His race is of the blackest. His people wear little or no clothes; their Sunday dress consists of extra ankle rings or coils. They bleach their hair with lime, scar their faces for beauty, and carry plugs in their ears and noses for ornament.

● If you're a sun worshiper, but don't care much for the tropical glare that sends white men to early graves, you can find it in milder form in Rome. You can even find a Temple of the Sun relic that will carry you 'way back into the B. C.'s.

On your rush through Italy stop for a moment in the Piazza of St. John Lateran. Before you rises the great basilica of St. John, mother church of the Christian world, superior in rank to St. Peter's itself. Turn to your left and you come to the entrance of the Scala Santa—the Holy Stairs, believed by the devout to have been descended by Christ at the time of his trial and crucifixion. Today the stairs are climbed by the pious on their hands and knees. In the center of the square stands the world's largest obelisk. Thirty-three hundred years ago it stood before the Temple of the Sun at Heliopolis, in Egypt.

It's a far cry from that temple to the St. John cathedral; from paganism to Christianity; from 1400 B. C. to the present day. Yet that is the history of the obelisk. And Rome is like that. It is a city of perpetual wonders.

There is the Pantheon, for instance. It was built eighteen hundred years ago as a temple to all the gods of ancient Rome. Today it is a Christian church. It stands with its original walls and the light in the interior still comes through the circular opening in the great dome.

After two thousand years the City of the Seven Hills remains one of the world's premier tourist attractions.

● Looking for a still cooler place? If you've been to St. Moritz in the winter time only you may not realize that it has summer time attraction as well. The sixty mile stretch of Engadine valley has vast areas of mountain slopes 7,000 feet above the sea and waiting for the hiker. If the sun gets too hot there are larch and pine to shield you. There are scores of villages where you may rub elbows with the Swiss and mingle in their provincial life. Above these looms some of the world's grandest scenery.

Switzerland is like that. The mountains, lakes, and valleys combine to give the visitor an almost infinite variety at every season of the year.

● Want to go even farther north? Try the Viking country.

Midsummer eve festivities and maypole dances dating back to medieval times will be reënacted this year throughout Scandinavia. The center of attraction will be Dalecarlia, where the program will evoke the midsummer madness in a manner resembling the primitive petitions to the sun god for a bountiful harvest.

Most of the festivals will begin at 6 p. m. on June 23. At that season the far northern scene is decorated with its most lavish hues. And on that night the sun never sets, but contents itself to hanging low on the horizon for an hour or so and then swinging upward for another day.

Once more it's a matter of worshiping the sun.

Peru Recalls Days of Vast Gold Treasure

Celebrates 400th Anniversary of Founding of Cuzco, Capital of Incas.

By Norman Ingrey.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 23.—[By Mail.]—Peruvians today revived the pageantry of viceregal times to celebrate the four hundredth anniversary of the Spanish foundation of Cuzco, the ancient capital of the Incas.

In the "golden city," standing by the massive masonry that puzzled the conquistadores and in the shadows of ancient temple ruins, Minister of Production Hector Bozas, as the representative of the president, confirmed the recent congressional proclamation of Cuzco as the archeological capital of South America and inaugurated the festivities on the spot where the Inca rulers amassed fabulous golden treasure and at the same time reduced their subjects to poverty and misery by a unique system of state socialism.

Oldest City in New World.

Cuzco, today the cynosure of the world's archeological eyes, claims to be the oldest New World city. Shaped like an amphitheater, it is perched on a table land in one of the main Andean valleys, surrounded by some of the most majestic, snow-howdahed peaks of the Cordillera.

The site testifies to the military strategy of the Incas. The great fortress of Sacsahuaman, where excavators recently made important discoveries and will continue at work during the celebrations, compelled an attacking force always to present its flank to the defenders. Sacsahuaman's main feature consists of three parallel walls, each more than 300 yards long, built with reëntering angles.

Another pass, leading to the Vilcomayo valley, was guarded by the wonderful fortress of Ollantaitambo, a complex of giant terraces crowned by a citadel. Some of the stones, beautifully cut and fitted, measure 25 by 12 feet.

Fifteen Hundred Human Sacrifices.

Historians and archeologists have revealed that the civilization of the Incas is to be compared with those of Egypt and China, but it was decayed and falling by the weight of its own rottenness when the Spanish conquistadores were attracted there by the stories of gold and silver and precious jewels to be found within the royal temples and palaces. Only ruins remain to testify to the power and grandeur of the old règime.

Among the temple ruins that remain are those of the Home of the Sun Virgins—the human fuel for the sacred fire offered in homage to the sun god. These sacrificed virgins are said to have numbered 1,500 and were selected from among the prettiest damsels of the outlying kingdom.

Most important of all is the crumbling Temple of the Sun, where the Incas accumulated magnificent objects of gold. The wealth, whose bullion value has been estimated at $200,000,000, was on its way to Cajamarca as a ransom for Atahualpa when the natives learned of Pizarro's treachery and the murder of the Inca. Furious with the Spaniards, they hid the gold, which has never been discovered to this day.

MANY FESTIVALS ABROAD ATTRACT WORLD TRAVELER

DRAMATIC, historical and musical festivals to be held in various European countries this summer are expected to be leading attractions for American tourists.

The Passion Play at Oberammergau, which will mark the three hundredth anniversary of its origin, heads the list as perhaps the world's most celebrated dramatic spectacle. Others are:

The William Tell Pastoral play at Interlaken, to be given in the open air every Sunday from June 24 to Sept. 9, by a cast of more than 350.

The Bayreuth festival, during which the bi-annual Wagnerian cycle of opera will be given in July and August by Frau Winifred Wagner.

The Munich festival, where the Mozart festival will run at the Residence theater coincidentally with the Wagnerian cycle at the Prince Regent theater.

The Malvern festival where, for the sixth year, various dramatic performances will be held in the Malvern hills of England.

The Shakespeare festival, from April 16 to Sept. 15, when the rèpertoire company of the Memorial theater at Stratford-on-Avon presents the great plays of the bard.

Shropshire Historical pageant, from July 2 to July 7, when thousands of performers will take part in a gigantic historical pageant celebrating the tercentenary of the Masque of Comus, written by John Milton.

The Eisteddfod glorifies the Welsh love of music in a choral competition at Neath, South Wales, from Aug. 6 to 11.

Travelers Skiing in Japanese Alps

SPORT loving Americans visiting the orient this year are being offered something novel in the way of amusements—skiing in the Japanese Alps.

After docking at Yokohama the travelers proceed by rail to Tokio and then to Ueda, where horse sledges are used to take them to Sugadaira, a mountain resort at an altitude of about 4,500 feet. There they are housed in a modern Japanese inn.

European trained skiing instructors are on hand for both beginners and old times. The ascent of Mount Nekko, 7,500 feet high, provides not only a marvelous Alpine view but every variety of snow padded slope a skiing enthusiast could wish for.

Erosion Discloses Village.

LERWICK, Shetland Ilands.—(AP)—Coast erosion at the southern end of the Shetland ilands has uncovered remains of a village and rough implements believed to be 2,000 years old.

Italy Builds New Road to Foot of Matterhorn Peak

LOSANCHE, Italy.—(AP)—One of the achievements of the Fascist roadbuilding program is being completed here. It is a new road to the foot of the Matterhorn Alpine peak, ending at 11,500 feet above sea level.

Alpine climbers are vexed by the construction, because it will open to tourists in motor cars a region hitherto reserved exclusively to the climbers. The highway will take Alpinists, however, directly to the foot of the mountain, a point they previously had to reach by a long ride on horseback.

The new road is only five and a half miles long. Work on it is slow, being limited to three months each year, since the rest of the time it is covered with snow. Most of the highway has been excavated from hard rock and strengthened by embankments to prevent landslides.

VAGABOND'S DIARY

THERE'LL be a lot of traveling done this summer, and some of it will be right here in Chicago. . . . Eighty-two miles of exhibits and attractions at A Century of Progress. . . . Things the travel-minded will have to see. . . . Old England, with its Norman tower, village green, market place, Sulgrave manor, and the Old Curiosity shop. . . . Colonial Village, with Mount Vernon, Old North church, Paul Revere's home, and house of the witches. . . . Lama temple, with its 28,000 piece Golden Pavilion of Jehol. . . . Tunisia, with its Bedouin families, snake charmers, veiled dancers, craftsmen, mosques and minarets. . . . Black Forest Village, with its ice skating, air-cooled restaurants, and Black Forest atmosphere.

● Have to go back some day to Görlitz, with its town clock, which hasn't been right in nearly 700 years. . . . Story is that in 1253 a conspiracy was hatched to murder the councilmen as they left the town hall at noon. One of the conspirators had a bad conscience; set the clock seven minutes ahead. . . . So the gangsters arrived on the scene too early, and were pinched. . . . Ever since then, in memory of the escape, the minute hand has been kept seven minutes fast.

● Like to be in Hamilton Tuesday, when the Bermuda flower festival opens with a parade of floats, decorated carriages and bicycles. . . . Everybody arriving on the liner from New York Wednesday gets a boutonniere or a corsage from a pretty girl. . . . Oleanders, hibiscus, gerberas—they don't grow like that anywhere except in Bermuda.

● Should have been in Nazareth last Sunday. . . . Pilgrim center for centuries. . . . Not much changed since the time of the Nazarene. . . . Mary's well at the foot of the hill. . . . Joseph's carpenter shop. . . . No charge for staying at the Franciscan hospice, but when you leave you make a small contribution. . . . Motor trips to the Sea of Gallilee. . . . Restful hills where Jesus walked and found peace for His soul.

● Not a bad idea to take one of those combined rail and boat tours to Washington and Virginia this spring. . . . All the historic spots of the capital, along with Norfolk, Jamestown, Yorktown, Hampton Roads, Old Point Comfort, Mount Vernon, and Alexandria. . . . And it can be done for around $50, from Chicago and return.

● Have to get back out west this summer. . . . Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone, with colorings more startling than those of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. . . . Jackson's Hole, once the last stand of the outlaws and now the last stand of the wilderness. . . . Dude ranches bringing back memories of Owen Wister's "The Virginian" and Ralph Connor's "The Sky Pilot." . . . Glacier, Zion, Estes, competing with Yellowstone as refuges for the weary.

● Right now, when spring is trying to make up its mind, I wouldn't mind being in Biskra. . . . 400 feet above the Mediterranean . . . an oasis of date palms . . . the thrill of seeing the Garden of Allah . . . drivers of Sidi Okba and Mishounesh . . . the Moslems at prayer, at play, at work . . . oriental setting against a background of casino, concerts, theaters, sports and races.

Natives Prefer Movies, Boxing to Bullfighting

By Maria Martinez.

MEXICO CITY.—[Special.]—An American girl tourist with whom I was having tea registered disappointment when she could gain little information from me concerning bullfighting. She was amazed when I told her that the blood and sand game is not Mexico's most popular amusement; that I was only one of millions of Mexicans who have never seen a bullfight, and that the movies—sport that doesn't feature killing something—and boxing are much preferred by the natives of this land. The lady invited me to see a bullfight with her.

As we bought tickets from a speculator at about prices a pair of ducats for a popular Broadway musical show would cost, even though he charged only the legal 10 per cent more than face value, before Mexico's biggest arena, a trim concrete bowl seating 25,000, not unlike an American football stadium, my friend doubted that bullfighting isn't popular in these parts. I assured her that a short watch would convince her that for one person entering the arena two hundred were going to the cinemas.

Former Newsboys and Bootblacks.

We got grandstand, front row seats beside the judges' pavilion. We enjoyed the crowd, which was animated but orderly, excepting for two arguers who were thrown out by cops. Yet a glance revealed that the fans are only one element of Mexicans. There were just a few women and several foreigners, apparently there for the first time. Two scholarly looking men, newspaper bullfight critics, were spiritedly debating the fine points of the previous Sunday's show. A dude beside us was reading a book on astronomy and a showy looking girl was complaining to her companion that she had failed to induce her civil engineer sweetie to become a matador.

As the starting bugle blared on the dot of 3:30, the announced beginning time, my friend glanced at her wrist and kidded me about Old Mexico's snapping out of delays. We relished the pageant of the parade of the fighters—mostly former newsboys, bootblacks, and soldiers lured to this dangerous profession by the prospect of much money and a dubious glory. Bullfighting used to be the Mexican poor boy's dream; boxing now is. The toreadors get from $50 for lesser lights to as much as $2,000 for ace matadors for a show of about an hour and a half.

No time was wasted. As soon as the fighters took their places the bugle pealed forth and instantly the first bull careened through a gate onto the sands. The bulls are starved for a day before the fight; they are bred and trained in ferocity, and as they reach the gate a man sticks them with a knife to increase their savageness. It was thrilling to watch the skill and nerve of the fighters and the play of gold and scarlet capes. But it wasn't nice when the blood began to run. A plucky matador was badly gored; another was pelted with oranges—the utmost insult—because he leaped behind a guard board just in time. The bull's horns crashed into the board with a bang like a cannon ball. Most foreigners left when the bull was bloodily slain and so did nearly all the women.

Popularity Is Waning Fast.

A ring official told us that no fighter has been killed in this arena's thirty years' history and that only two have died of injuries, the last one expiring in 1907. We decided to call it a bullfighting day after the second bull was killed in more gory fashion than was the first. We were both convinced that bullfighting is not for us.

Of the eight Mexican girls we met at supper that evening four had been to the movies that afternoon, three to a prize fight, and the other to a football game. Six of them declared they had never seen a bullfight and never wanted to and all denounced the "sport."

Bullfighting's popularity is waning fast. Mexico has two women bullfighters. They are plucky and do as well as male fighters, but they aren't popular with the fans. They are matadors, but their pay is only $60, against the $1,500 to $2,000 the men command. Their wage is no money at all for fighting the world's most savage and cunning bulls.

NATURE REARS A TEMPLE IN THE DESERT WASTES

Out in Bryce canyon, National park, in southern Utah, nature, aided by erosion, has reared the spectacular Bryce temple. This view shows its striking resemblance to the Lincoln memorial in Washington, D. C. In "real life" its spires are of many colors.

MODES OF THE MOMENT IN ETHIOPIA

Some bizarre effects in headgear are appearing in this country this spring, but none so fantastic as these. The peach basket design is quite the things among the Ethiopians.

Hurd Is Transferred to the Home Office

IT was announced last week that Joseph B. Hurd, general agent for the Matson Navigation company in Chicago, would be transferred to the home office in San Francisco and that he would be succeeded here by J. L. Berschens, now district passenger agent at San Francisco. The change will become effective Friday of this week.

Manchukuo Has Own Navy.

CHANGCHUN.—(AP)—Manchukuo now has its own navy in three gunboats recently launched at Kobe, Japan. The craft will be used chiefly against bandits on the Sungari river.

Yellowstone's Magic Shames Man's Efforts

Crazy Phenomena Mark Park as Place Apart from All Other Areas.

IT is hard to avoid envying the person who stands for the first time fifty yards away from a certain unimpressive limestone cone . . . half expectantly and half skeptically "waiting for something to happen."

After a few preliminary hisses and sputters, the impossible happens and a million gallons of boiling water bursts furiously forth in a roaring jet that mounts higher and higher until it reaches 150 feet as Old Faithful, headliner of the Yellowstone circus and pampered pet of geyserdom, performs again its spectacular stunt . . . on time to the split second . . . clocking off the 65 minute interval today, as it did yesterday, a thousand years ago . . . nobody knows how long.

It's All Too Impossible.

You will hear all kinds of explanations to account for the geysers and the other crazy phenomena which mark Yellowstone National park as a place apart from all other earthly areas. But none of the explanations sounds convincing. The theory plausible as to the Old Faithful-type does not account satisfactorily for the hundreds of lesser geysers that erupt incessantly; nor for the interminable plop-plopping of the multi-colored paint pots whose mushy surfaces are agitated by countless tiny steam explosions. What makes the "Black Growler" growl?

Here is a lovely pool whose water looks blue, while over there is one that looks decidedly green. Here is a spring of boiling hot water and only inches away from it a spring that is ice cold. What causes that? Try to figure out the technicalities of the Fishing cone, Biscuit basin, the pink steam rising from Amethyst pool . . . then give it all up and devote yourself to sheer admiration of the artistry with which nature, working with hot lime-bearing water and a microscopic plant life organism known as algae, built up the delicately fluted and marveously tinted terraces which cover many acres in the vicinity of Mammoth hot springs.

Taxing One's Visual Capacity.

Finally go and stand at the edge of the Grand Cañon of the Yellowstone and see a sight that taxes your visual capacity. Try to comprehend the masterpiece which the educated waters of this strange land have wrought as if to show mere man what it can do when it quits playing tricks and really gets down to business. Here is scenic splendor. Here is color strewed about and spilled down a thousand foot escarpment in the most extravagant use of yellow that is to be found anywhere in nature.

The Yellowstone cañon is half a mile wide, more than 15 miles long, and 1,200 feet deep in many places. At its head is the Great Fall of the Yellowstone . . . a mighty snow-white cascade that plunges over a heroic precipice in one of the earth's sublimest spectacles.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to The Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Are visitors admitted to Warwick castle, and, if so, what are they allowed to see? A. R.

The home of the earl and countess of Warwick has one wing devoted to a museum of pictures, fine armor, and ancient weapons. The gardens and park are planted with Lebanon cedars, oaks, elms, and beeches. Peacocks wander through the magnificent grounds. The place is open to tourists at stated times. Warwick dates back to the year 915, when Ethelfreda, daughter of Alfred the Great, built a fortress there to keep back the Danes.

Can you tell me something about the coming "Middle East" exposition at Tel-Aviv, in the Holy Land?—V. S. T.

It is scheduled for April 26 to May 26, and its purpose is to celebrate the fact that the age of speed, machinery, and progress is edging its way into the ancient precincts of Syria and awakening much of the Biblical territory. It will also be known as the Levant fair.

I'd like to know something about the Festival of the Redeemer at Venice.—O. R.

The festival, celebrating deliverance from the plague in 1575, is centered around the night fête in the grand canal. This year the date is July 15. On the following morning everybody adjourns to the Lido to see the sunrise.

It's a trip made to the far east each summer under the direction of Henry Landes, professor at the University of Washington and husband of former Mayor Bertha Landes of Seattle. This year it will leave Seattle June 23 and will pay particular attention to Japan, Korea, Manchuria, and north China, the districts which have been the center of world attention recently owing to the war clouds hanging over them.

Etiquet Editor Today Answers 20 Questions

Keeps Promise to Explain List of Social Problems Printed Last Sunday.

Questions pertaining to etiquet and correct social behavior are invited. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your letter. Address mail to Helen Bartlett, Etiquet Editor, Chicago Tribune.

By Helen Bartlett.

QUESTIONS without answers are quite useless. Last Sunday, in this column, there was printed a list of questions, relevant to present day etiquet, with the promise that the answers to those questions would be given today. Here they are.

If you have saved the questions you will be able to match them up quickly enough. If you haven't saved them, you had better write us for the complete set. It is available in mimeographed form. Answers without questions are even more meaningless than questions without answers.

Gifts Returned When Engagement Is Ended.

1. All presents, shower gifts, and wedding presents should be returned to the sender when an engagement has been broken. If a note accompanies the package it should contain no explanation for the change of heart, but just a tactful statement of the fact that the engagement has been broken.

2. As a general rule, Christmas cards are not acknowledged. But if a card has been received from a dear old friend you may want to renew the acquaintance by writing a letter. Or, if the card has been sent by a friend who you know went to a great deal of trouble to remember you, it is courteous to acknowledge the effort. We refer to a sick person or an invalid.

3. A ring with an emblem should be worn so that the emblem DOES NOT face the wearer.

4. When sending flowers on the occasion of a death in the family, address them to the person in deepest mourning, never to the deceased.

5. The groom and best man do not wear gloves during the wedding ceremony. The other men in the wedding party do.

When to Respond to Wedding Invitation.

6. Invitations to home weddings must be acknowledged. Invitations to church ceremonies require no response. If the church wedding invitation contains a reception card, the reception invitation must be acknowledged.

7. Veils may be worn during the day until six o'clock. After that time they should be turned back.

8. It is more discreet not to autograph photographs. If you must write something, make it impersonal, such as "With best wishes, Helen."

9. The monogram for the bride's linen and silver may be composed of the initials of her name before or after she is married. It may be either.

10. At the age of fifteen or sixteen a young man is privileged to use the title "Mr."

She Pays Expenses of Her Journey.

11. When a young man is entertaining a young lady from another city, he is expected to pay only for the entertainment during her visit, and for any meals that they may take together. He does not provide the train fare for the trip, nor is he responsible for her lodging expenses.

12. Women should wear their hats in the dining car.

13. A woman takes a gentleman's arm at formal affairs when going in to dinner and occasions of that nature.

14. A man is never addressed as Mr. Howard Pearson Sr. If there are two men who bear the same name, the younger identifies himself as Mr. Howard Pearson Jr. When the elder Mr. Pearson dies, the younger man is entitled to the name, and may drop the "Jr."

15. Bread and butter plates are not used at formal dinners.

Peas Are Eaten With the Fork.

16. Peas are eaten with a fork.

17. A salad, when it accompanies the dinner, may be placed on the right, if a beverage, such as coffee, is not being served at the same time. Otherwise it must be on the left to make room for the coffee cup.

18. Sherbet, when served with the meal, is eaten with a spoon.

19. All hors d'oeuvres which may gracefully be handled with the fingers may be eaten with the fingers.

20. The groom buys flowers for the bride's mother.

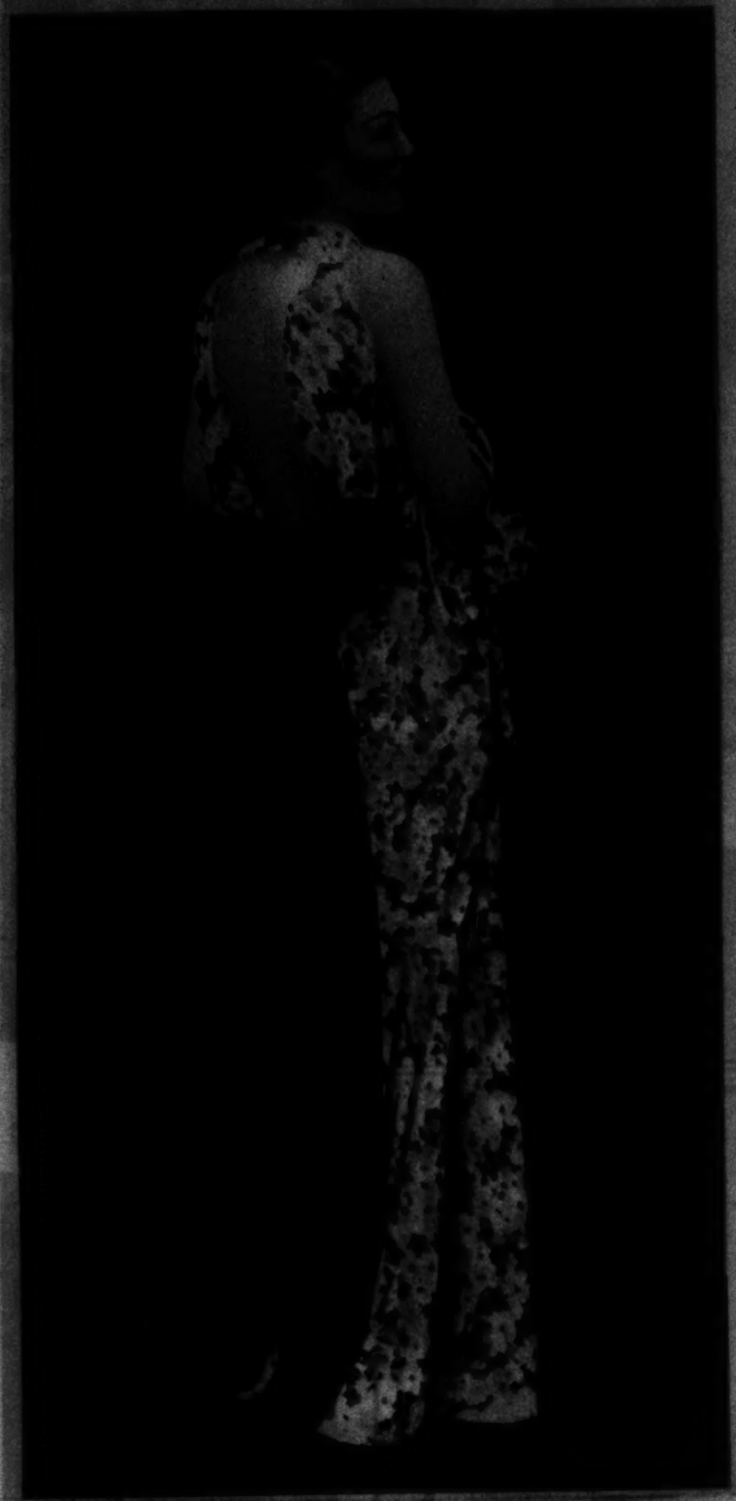
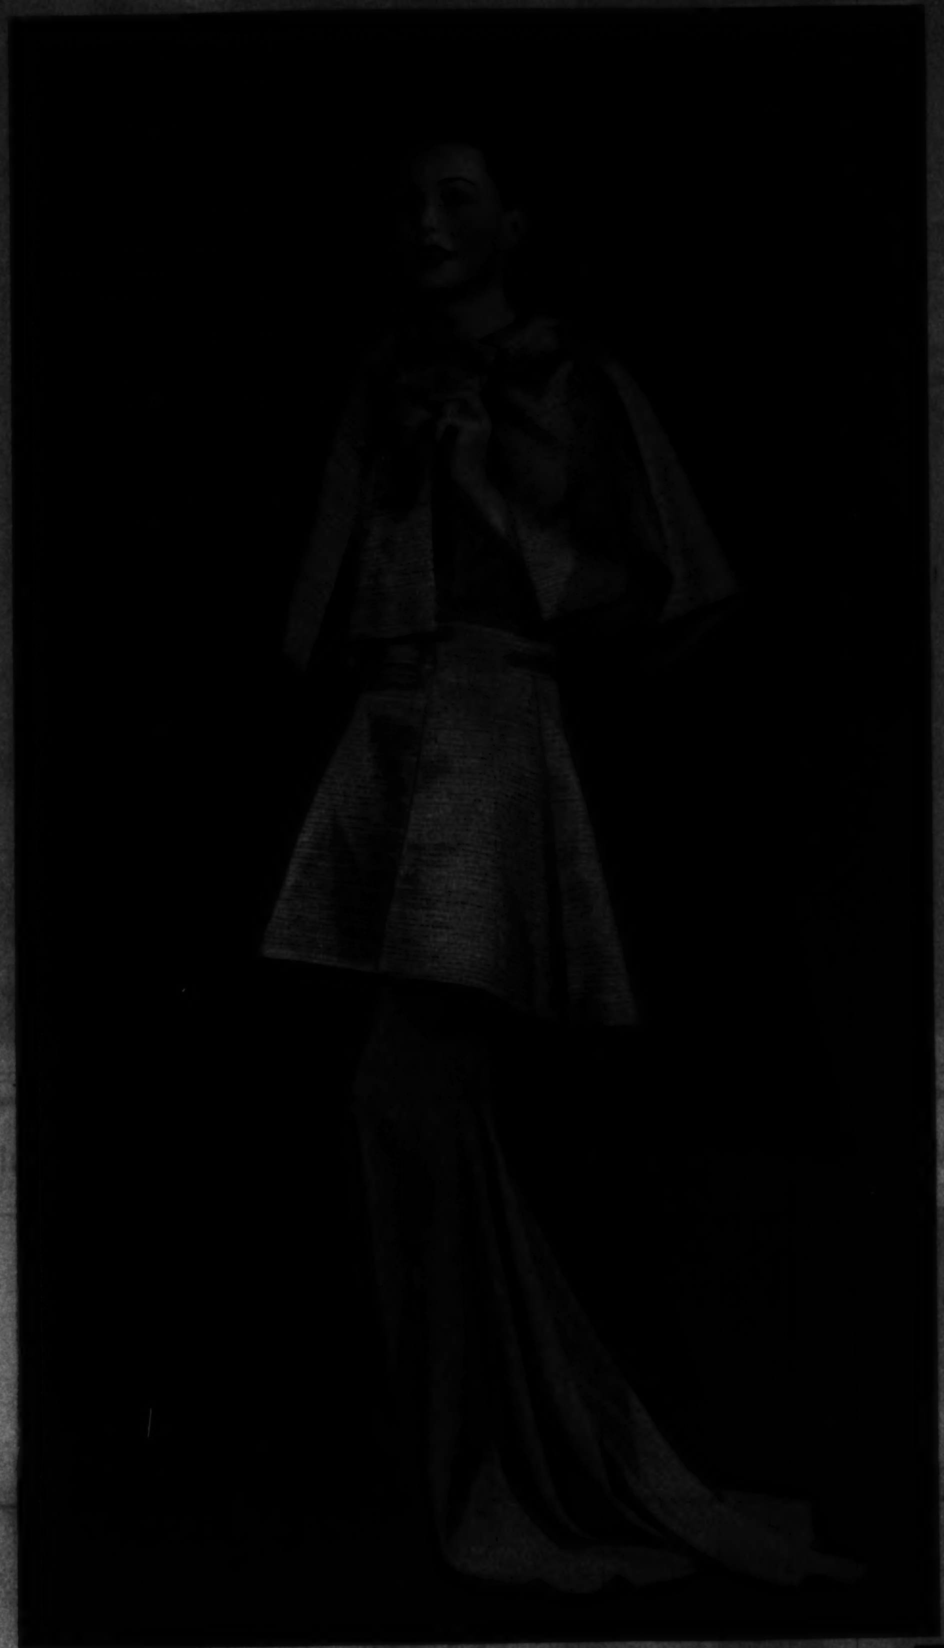
PARIS PRESENTS THE SPRING TRENDS



Backs are again bared to the waistline in the Paris evening mode after a winter under cover. This Lucile Paray frock of flowered crepe de chine has a full length sash of blue faille ribbon.



When the mannequin removes the stitched green and silver satin cape and skirt tunic of this Jeanne Lanvin evening frock she changes her toilette into something very formal, for there is a slim low cut frock of green crepe underneath.

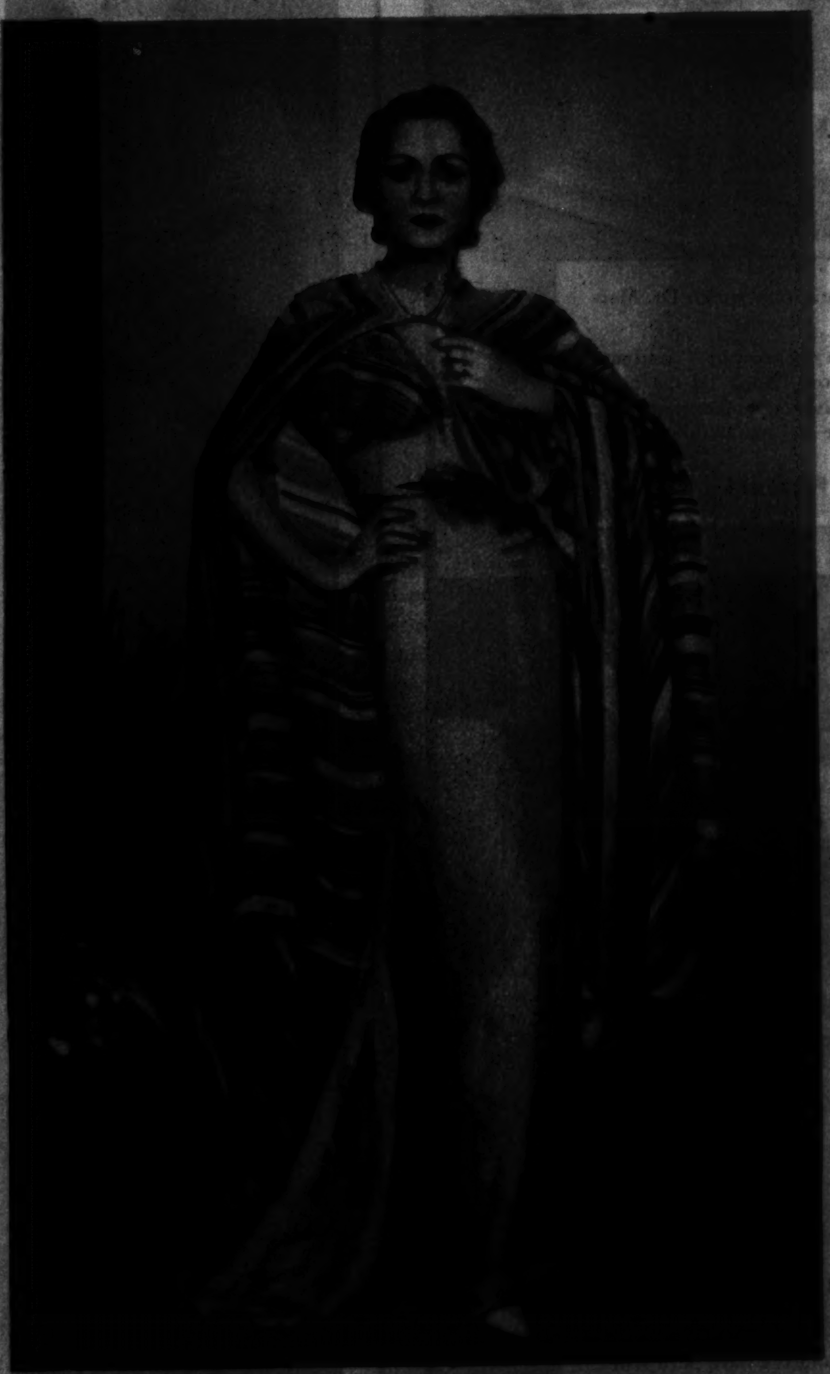
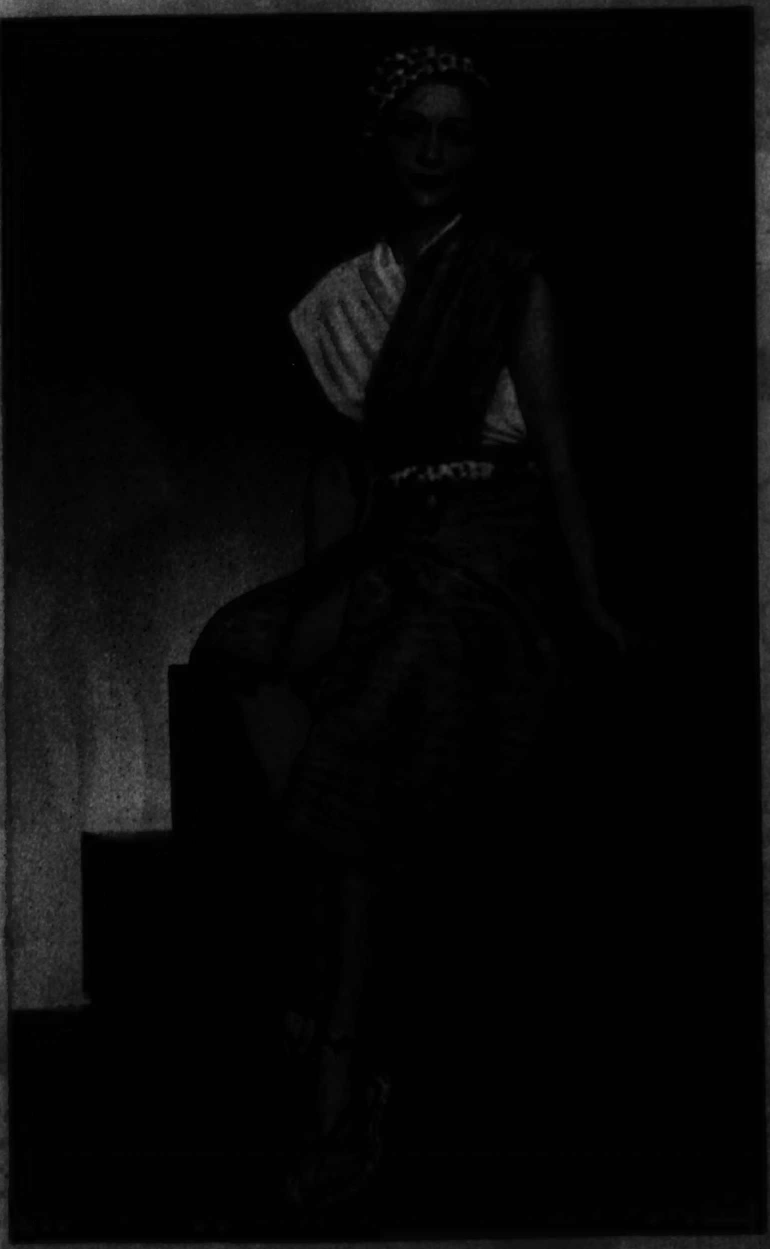
This Molyneux ensemble has the smart cape wrap and apron frock that Paris loves this season. It is made of sheer black and palest yellow crepe, and the bag matches. The hat is of white Milan straw with a cartwheel brim. Two white roses grace the neckline and the belt is black leather.



This is the glamorous evening ensemble that Alix Barton creates for hot weather. The cape and bodice are made of flax chiffon boldly striped, while the skirt is of rose beige flax chiffon.



Fashionable mermaids will wear caps of cockle shells, like this from Alix Barton. The girdle is also of shells and the skirt that buttons only at the top is made of cotton tweed. A band of the same red and white cotton tweed and one of white make the crossed bodice.

Worth signs this sumptuous formal afternoon ensemble, made of crepe de chine printed like an old-fashioned flower garden. The short jacket ties around the bodice and has pleated cape sleeves that are knee length.

In an article elsewhere in today's Tribune Bettina Bedwell writes of these fashions.

THE GIBSON FAMILY ✣ Sally Works Hard ✣ Big Brotherly Advice ✣ Julia Sasses Back!

"I LOVE CHOCOLATE . . ." says Sally dreamily, "it's so smooth."

"I like Sally . ." says Tad, "she's so smooth."

"You don't mean it, do you?" flounders Sally, dying for a poetic compliment to immortalize in her diary. "Of course, my complexion . . . well, Dr. MacRae said I'd be glad some day that he's brought me up on pure Ivory Soap—but—"

"It's easy on my eyes," decides Tad, "even when you have a dash of chocolate soda on your chin—"

BE KIND TO YOUR COMPLEXION WITH PURE IVORY SOAP

But Jerry's fat little hands are ready for a try! Every day in his bath, he tries to duck that floating Ivory—while pure Ivory gives to his precious young skin the gentle care which Dr. MacRae advised.

"An' when you grow up," continues Bobby Gibson, "don't let me catch you going sissy with funny-smelling soaps—we're real men in this family!"

AN IVORY BATH IS AN ODORLESS PLEASURE

Does "Beauty Magic" dazzle your eyes, too?

AT THE HOUSE PARTY, Babs shared a room with Peg who had a gorgeous complexion. Why, Babs could hardly wait to see what brand of "beauty magic" this girl used!

PEG DID HER BEAUTY STUFF out in the open. She was ready for bed after she'd washed her face with pure Ivory Soap and patted on a little cream.

"THERE AIN'T NO SUCH THINGS, no matter what you read in advertising," laughed Peg. "The main thing is to use a pure soap that won't coarsen your skin. My doctor said Ivory!"

THAT'S A FACT! Doctors advise Ivory—not only for complexions like Peg's and yours—but even for babies' touchy skins. Doctors trust Ivory's purity. And purity in a soap means absolutely gentle cleansing, which leaves the skin undried and naturally supple.

Try an Ivory wash-up tonight. See how easy it is to rinse every clear light bubble away. No dried, starched feeling! Ivory protects the soft youth it finds in your skin!

"TWO IVORY FLAKES" agrees Fagan, beaming at the Gibson's pretty maid.

"Try this special—it's just as good," horns in the fresh new clerk, who thinks Julia's looks are wasted on that fat guy, Fagan.

"I don't fall for that line, mister," sputters Julia, "I have to wash the nice things at our house, and I won't be responsible unless I have pure Ivory. Besides, the Ivory Flakes box's bigger . . . you can tell by the weight that it holds a fifth more soap!"

2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour	½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder	1 cup sugar
	2 eggs, well beaten
	1¼ cups heavy cream

1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add sugar gradually to eggs, and beat well. Add flour, alternately with cream, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased pan, 9 x 5 x 3 inches, in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour and 10 minutes. Spread Clever Judy Frosting on top and sides of cake.

CLEVER JUDY FROSTING

1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar	½ teaspoon vanilla
1 egg or 2 egg yolks	2 to 4 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate, melted
¼ cup milk

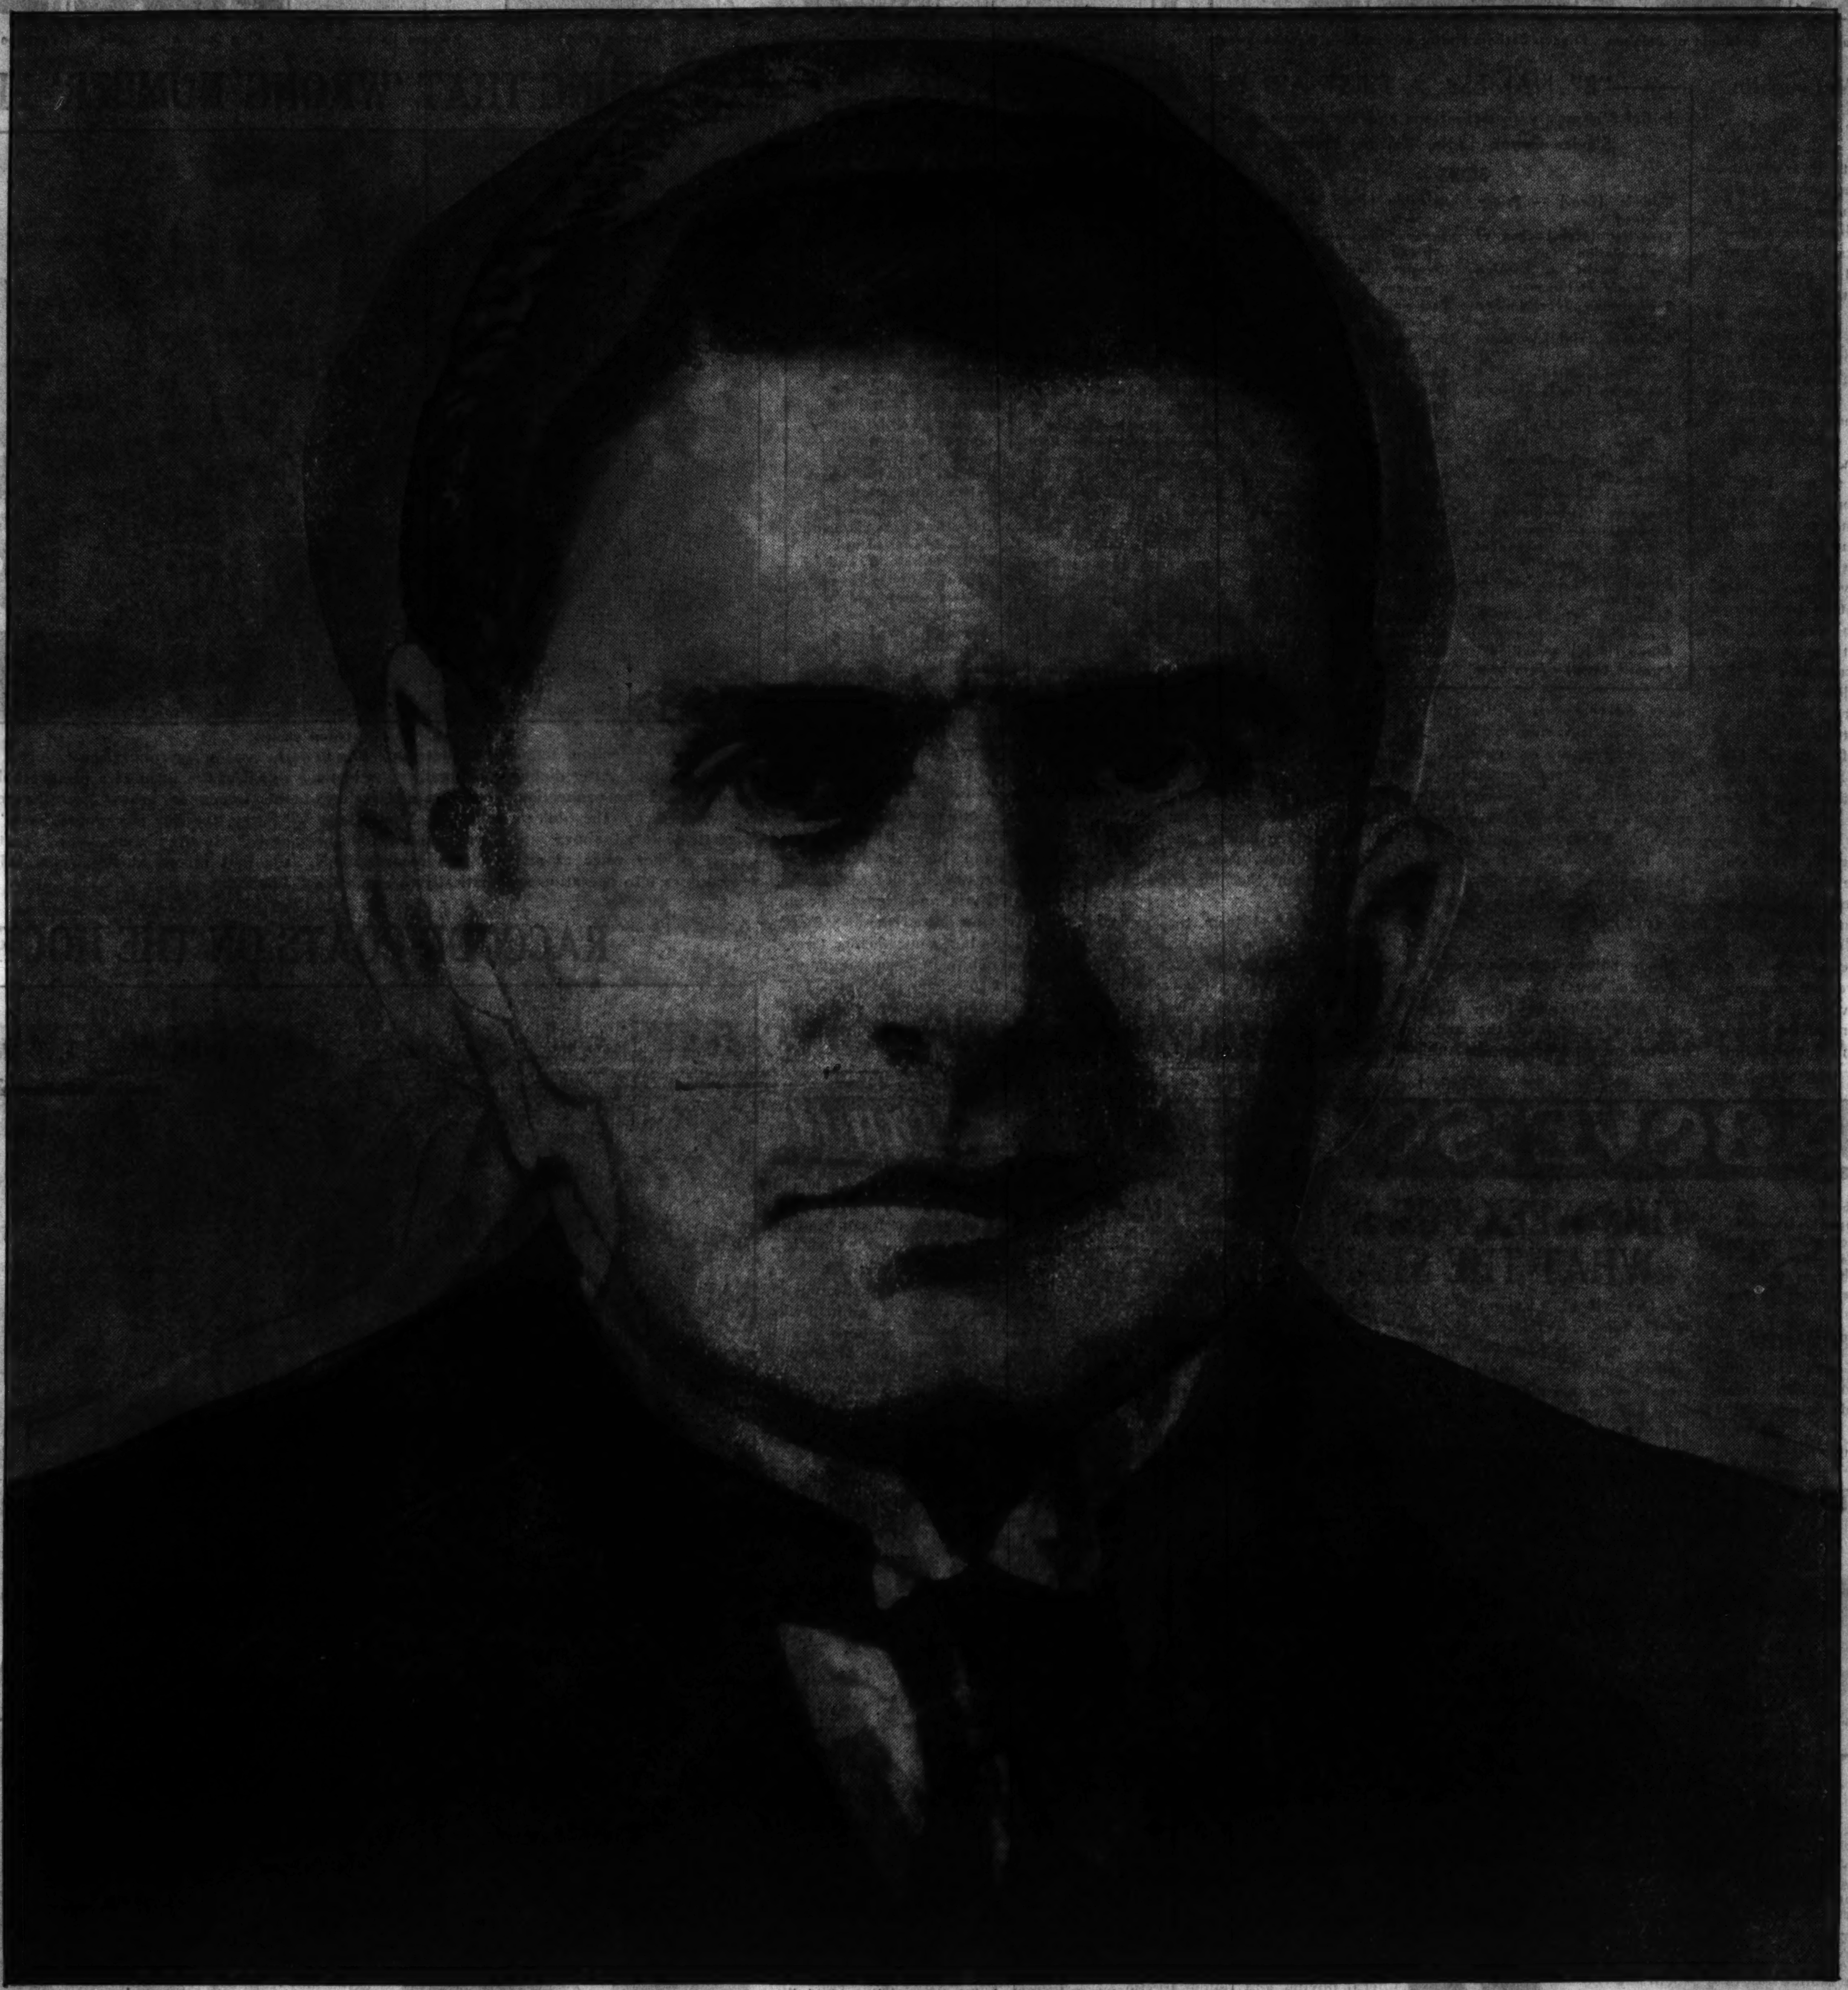
DICTATORS: THE COMPOSITE IRON MAN



THE eyes have it. Most striking characteristic of each of seven of the world's dictators, pictured below, is a piercing, intelligent gaze. Hence, the composite picture of all of them (minus feature-concealing mustaches), which might be called the portrait of a superman, is distinguished by the expression of the eyes. It will be noted also that none of these rulers of nations has a weak chin, and that there are other minor similarities of features. These men control with wills of iron the destinies of millions; each in his own nation is the supreme authority. They are Engelbert Dolfuss of Austria; Adolf Hitler of Germany; Joseph Pilsudski of Poland; Benito Mussolini of Italy; Joseph Stalin of Russia; Kemal Pasha of Turkey, and Nicholas Horthy of Hungary.

Dolfuss, whose reign as chancellor of the Austrian government often has been threatened, only recently has triumphed over a serious revolt of socialistic elements.

The meteoric rise to power of Adolf Hitler and the sensational character of his dictatorship in Germany have been widely and thoroughly publicized. Mussolini, first of the all powerful dictators and still the most powerful man in Europe, has become a name symbolical of the new order of things in Italy, and is considered the model for several of the later and lesser dictators. Of the other four, Stalin is the strongest; but it may be questioned whether his power is as absolute as that of Mussolini. Horthy, scion of an old Magyar family, might voluntarily relinquish his power. Mustapha Kemal, although an iron ruler, is also a political enigma, while Pilsudski is today a very old man.

NAMES are so intimately associated with personalities that their traditions, their derivations, and their evolutions from one language into another provide an absorbing topic—especially to parents seeking appropriate names for the most recent additions to the family circle.

Last Sunday in this section, a list of given names beginning with the letter A was presented as the first of a series, together with data on the origins and the significance of several of the most widely used. Today the series continues with the initial B group.

It is of interest to note that in the dawn of history, in the Old Testament era, names conferred by parents on the eventual patriarchs of the Hebrews were descriptive phrases, which have been handed down from generation to generation. Thus Joseph was so called because he was not the first child, the old Hebraic translation of the name being "Addition." When Benjamin was born, his mother, Rachel, feeling that his birth must cost her own life, called him Benoni, meaning "Son of sorrow," which his father modified to Benjamin, interpreted "Son of my right hand."

Thus many names in use today originated in the old Hebrew tongue, being varied somewhat in spelling and pronunciation as they were adopted by other nations and races. Many more hark back to the Teutons and reflect meanings closely associated with the deities and the warlike spirit of the people who first used them. These include many references to battle and to animals. The various traits of the latter — strength or cunning or speed — were commemorated in Teutonic titles. Few names in this category were suggested by complexions, which frequently inspired the Keltic clans — "the ruddy," "the yellow," "the dark," "the white," being applied in numerous instances to distinguish a man or a maid.

Some names beginning with B originated thus:

Baldwin — Derives from Baldr, which in several of the ancient tongues meant a prince. In Anglo-Saxon it appeared as Baldric, or princely ruler. The father of William the Conqueror's Matilda was Baldwin

Bryan—From the root brig, indicating forge or strength. Had its origin in mythology in the god Briareus also known as Aegeon, after whom the Aegean sea is named.

Bob—Evolved from the original Hruadperaht, a Frankish name meaning bright fame. From that form came another, Ruprecht, and thence Rupert, which was Anglicized to Robert. Bob is a familiar diminutive.

Bernard—Probably from Biornhard, first used by the Franks, meaning "resolution of a bear," ergo, steadfastness.

Berenice—Comes from the Greek word for victory, which was applied to a goddess as of the feminine gender, and became a favorite with princesses of the Greek kingdoms of Syria and Egypt. From there it came into Herod's family.

Blanche—Is a contradictory term, meaning white in some languages and black in others. As applied to Anglo-Saxons it means white (all colors) rather than black (absence of color).

SOOTHING THAT 'WRONG NUMBER' FEELING

(Acme photo.)

WRONG telephone numbers are less annoying in London. After dialing your number there and failing to get the connection, your ears and feelings are soothed by the dulcet voice of Miss Helen Everett, pictured above. She was chosen for the quality of her voice to make a film record. This record goes into operation automatically to announce the reason for connection failures. Instead of a busy signal in the form of a disagreeable series of buzzes, the Londoner hears Miss Everett's voice saying, "Sorry, the line is engaged," or "Sorry, there is no reply." In the picture Miss Everett is shown making the first record at the Dollis Hill research station, London.

RACCOON COATS ON THE HOOF

RACCOON coats are quite familiar to all who attend college football games, but the animals that produce the fur from which they are made are not so often in the public view. The mother and young raccoon pictured above were caught out by the cameraman only because the youngster had inadvertently, or mischievously, escaped from the family nest in the dead limb of a tall tree. Usually raccoons leave home only after dark. The name raccoon is believed to be a corruption of the American Indian word "arrathkune." The animals are omnivorous beasts and wash their food before eating it.

HOW THE RADIO FAN CAN APPLAUD

ONE of the greatest drawbacks in the profession of radio entertaining, according to the entertainers, has been the lack of contact with the audience. Many successful stage and concert performers have failed on the radio because they were deprived of that invisible, indefinable something which an audience in a theater transmits to the performer on the stage. Hereafter, due to an invention perfected by Dr. Neil Hopkins, pictured above with his wife, this obstacle may be overcome. The invention is what might be called a radio "applause machine." It is a device by which radio listeners, by pressing a button, may indicate whether or not they liked the program.

Look for your birthday or the group in which it appears throughout the following notes—it may be mentioned more than once. Mark it with a pencil wherever you see it, and then pay attention to the counsel given.

THIS WEEK FOR EVERYBODY: WHAT THE STARS FORECAST

Favorable this week for entertaining if you were born Feb. 13-March 8; pay your social debts. Combine the social with occupation, if possible, if you are a native of May 11-June 4. Men of Oct. 14-Nov. 6 and women of Nov. 29-Dec. 22, if eligible, can make this week pleasant in love affairs. The romantic and artistically creative are powerful now in the lives of those born April 6-29 and Dec. 1-24—make it count in some original manner. Also romantic for those born Nov. 29-30, and June 5-8.

PERSONAL

Personality is the label on your bottle of ability and talent. Take steps toward improvement, especially if born Feb. 13-March 8, March 31-April 3, or Sept. 17-Oct. 10. This last mentioned group can make forward strides now in self-development and consequent rewards financial and otherwise; grasp your opportunities, Ricardo Cortez, Paul Muni, and Phil Cook. Take your responsibilities seriously if born Jan. 30-Feb. 22; you really wouldn't enjoy life if it was all French pastry. Those born March 31-April 23 should avoid too strenuous enthusiasm, anger, and intellectual fevers this week—avoid dangerous ideas, too. Favorable for planning writing buying and selling, if you were born March 7-30. The sands are shifting in your affairs if you were born April 2-25, Aug. 9-Sept. 1, or Oct. 15-23.

This applies particularly to those married in the groups mentioned. If you are old enough and have the right mate, now and for the next few weeks, at least, looks favorable for taking the important step if you were born March 15-April 7. Remember the right mate is more important than a favorable time for marriage. If in this group just mentioned or born Aug. 17-Sept. 9, and already married, renew your vows and make the home happier than ever. Deal with those younger and their affairs, if born Oct. 14-Nov. 28. Be cautious in legal matters, including those of matrimony, if born Aug. 2-26 (note overlap on part of this group) Sept. 8-Oct. 26.

SCANDAL

Avoid the cause and you avoid the effect. Be wise in regard to what makes scandal, particularly if born March 8-May 17, including all of April, or Sept. 8 to Oct. 2. Avoid self-undoing.

Deal directly with those above you if born Feb. 20-March 2 (but control emotions), April 9-19, Aug. 24-Sept. 4, or Oct. 12-23. Avoid clashes with the boss, socially, occupationally, or in governmental relations, if born June 28-July 22. Avoid tests of popularity, stick to your knitting, if born April 26-May 20.

If born Sept. 8-13, March 31-April 4, March 6-10, June 6-10, June 16-July 10, Aug. 17-Sept. 9, or Sept. 17-Oct. 10, your birth date has been mentioned before, but is here stated again because you can make financial progress this week and in the near future; go to it and build on all opportunities, while taking into consideration also the influences mentioned previously. Avoid impractical financial spasms if born July 9-Aug. 1, or May 7-30; be advised, Ginger Rogers, Richard Barthelmess, and former King Alphonso. Take no chances in money matters if born Dec. 25-Jan. 16; hold expenses to minimum. Avoid changes in finance or estate if born Dec. 30-Jan. 21 (note overlap with last group.)

IN THE CAST OF A JUNGLE MOVIE

FRANK BUCK, whose nickname "Bring 'Em Back Alive," was acquired because of his extraordinary exploits in capturing and bringing back alive wild jungle beasts from Africa, India, and other far places of the world, recently completed filming a new movie of wild animal life, soon to be released. The accompanying pictures are scenes from the movie, which was filmed entirely in the jungles of India and the Malay peninsula. A wild elephant hunt is one of the more exciting episodes of the picture. The hunt scenes show a tame elephant charging into a herd of wild pachyderms. Headquarters for Buck and his technical staf were established at Johore and most of the scenes in the movie were taken near that place. Buck devoted some of the time spent in the jungles to his favorite pastime and profession of capturing wild animals on his own account. One of these, a rare black-faced golden gibbon ape, became a favorite pet at the headquarters of the movie expedition. Other strange beasts which Mr. Buck captured for transportation back to the United States included a rhinoceros hornbill, strange tropical bird of the Indian jungles; a tapir, anteater, and a two-ton baby rhinoceros of the armor-plated species. Buck's reputation as an expert wild animal hunter has been thoroughly exploited in recent years by publishers and movie producers. His first movie was the film, "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

RUN WITHOUT GASOLINE

This British-made automobile uses charcoal gas for fuel.

Another foreign-built car, which runs on gas distilled from wood.

RECENT successful experiments in foreign countries with automobiles driven by fuel other than gasoline have led to glowing predictions that motorists soon will be able to drive their cars at far less expense than at present. Pictured above are two examples of successful motor vehicles operated by gas derived from wood. The top picture is an illustration of a British car which uses charcoal gas for fuel. The car is equipped with a gas-producing machine. It was tested officially within recent weeks in the annual 1,000 mile "rally" of the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain. In the test run the car was driven by Alen Hall and Bosworth Goldman, who are shown in the picture. The lower picture shows a motor lurry which uses gas distilled from wood for fuel. The lorry was exhibited at the spring fair at Prague, Czechoslovakia. The cost of fuel for the two motor vehicles is estimated at half that of gasoline. The fuel-producing equipment of both vehicles is compact. The charcoal container and gas producer of the British car is about the size of a suitcase.

PRESERVING CZARIST SPLENDORS

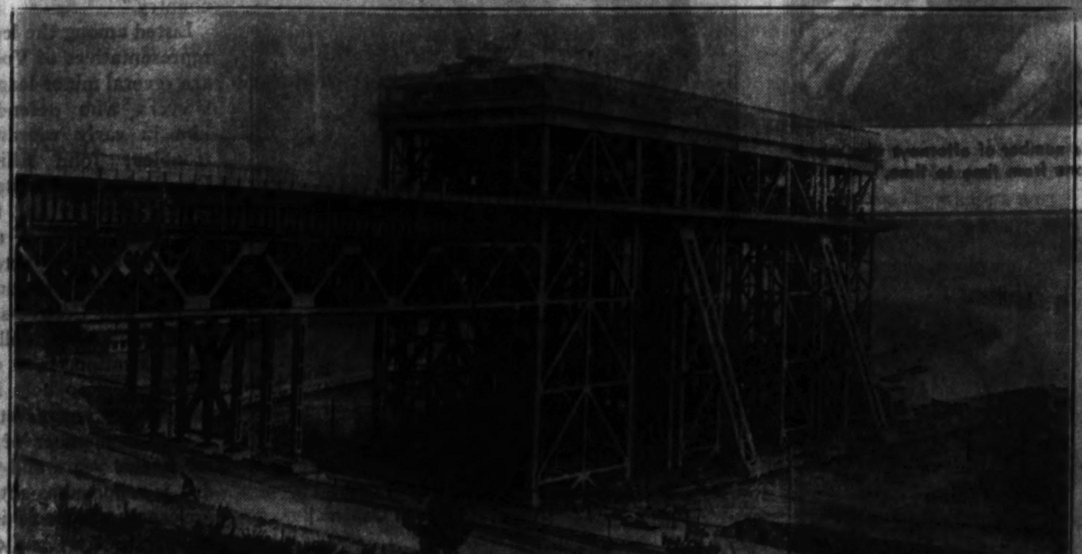
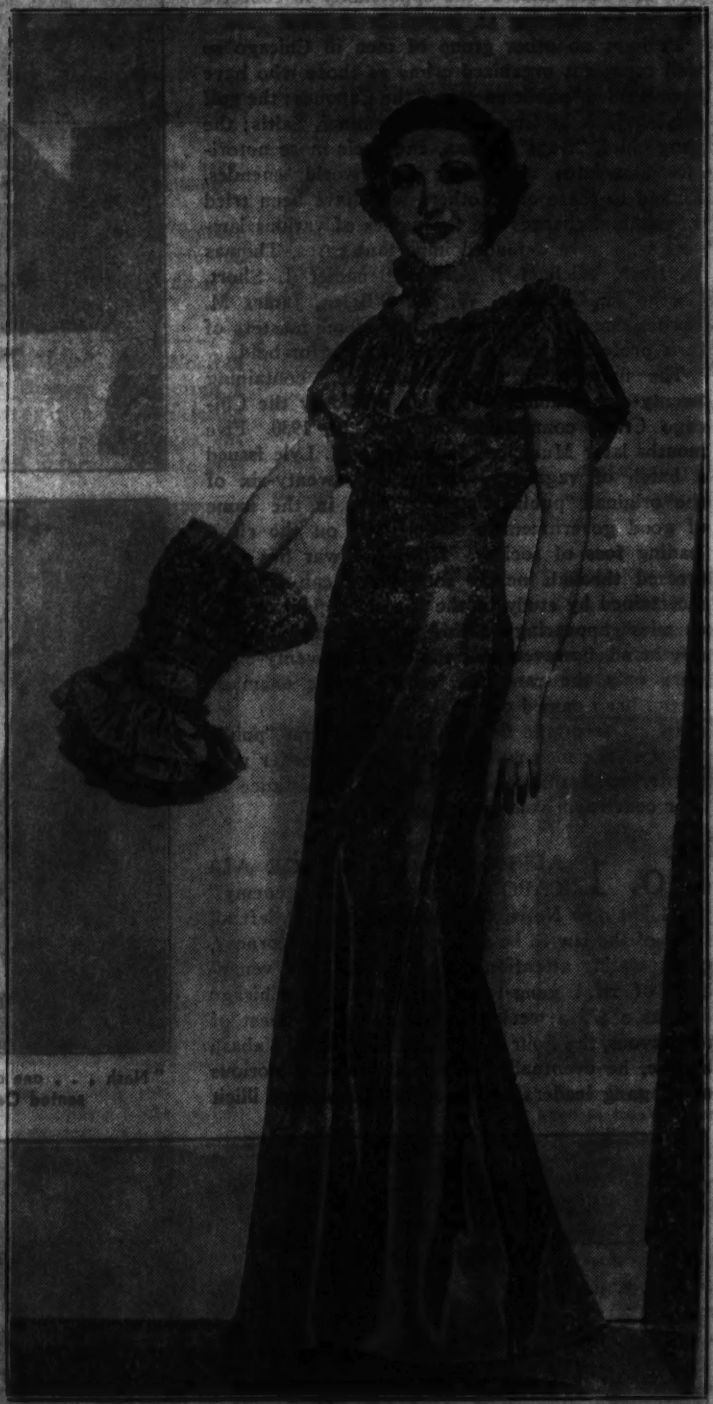
AN ORNATE reminder of Russia's past is this interior view of the private train of Czar Nicholas II, last of Russia's imperial rulers. The train was placed on public exhibition at Peterhof, near Leningrad, on the occasion of the seventeenth anniversary of the overthrow of the czarist government. It was on this train in 1917 that the czar signed his abdication. The train is luxuriously equipped throughout and is adapted for transportation over both Russian and foreign gauged tracks.

WORLD'S LARGEST SHIP ELEVATOR



WORLD'S largest is the distinguishing term applied to this ship elevator located at Niederfinow in the province of Brandenburg, Germany. Seven years were required to complete the elevator, the purpose of which is to raise vessels from the level of the Hohenzollern canal and the plain of the Oder river. The mechanism is different from that employed in the ordinary ship lock in that the vessels are hoisted in the elevator and not raised by hydraulic pressure. Barges of a displacement of one thousand tons can be hoisted easily in the lift of the plant within the space of twenty minutes.

TAFFETA WITH A MUFF



FOR a perfectly swishy evening, and to captivate the proper number of dancing partners, Genevieve Tobin advocates a dashing evening costume of strawberry red taffeta which boasts a matching muff. The sophistication in the princess line of the floor length dress is balanced by the youthful charm of the collar with its deep gathered ruffle. The high waistline is a popular feature of the current mode and emphasizes the slim lines of the comedienne's petite figure. Not the least of the charms of such a toilette is the persistent rustle of the taffeta. The flirtatious little muff shouldn't be attempted unless you're the type that can handle it gracefully—remember how our grandmothers used to practice the gentle art of manipulating a fan?

"PUBLIC ENEMIES" FIGHT BEST THROUGH LEGAL MOUTHPIECES

ORGANIZED crime's strongest ally is the criminal lawyer. It cannot flourish for long in a modern civilized state, provided law enforcing agencies are honest and sincere, without the assistance of the most cunning of attorneys, experienced in scenting out every winding path in a maze of statutory contradictions and technicalities.

Deprived of the help of lawyers who know how to take advantage of weak spots in the law, habitual criminals are certain to meet quick and sure justice. And even with the courtroom aid of the best talent obtainable in the criminal law profession, the man who makes a career of crime sooner or later is likely to see that career collide with fate in the form of conviction. With public indignation aroused against organized crime, a state's attorney striking out fearlessly at evil, judges active and alert, and policemen doing their duty—all of these developments witnessed in Chicago within the last year—gangsters, gunmen, and common hoodlums are finding that even the efforts of their attorneys are unable to save them.

The old maxim that says "crime does not pay" is only a general truth, applicable usually to the end but not always to the middle of a criminal's career, for organized crime has reaped fortunes in cities such as Chicago. It is this big money in the hands of the criminal that has attracted to his defense the so-called master criminal lawyer—the legal acrobat who knows how to save his client's hide and still keep his own hands clean in the lawful if not always in the moral sense. It is this same big money that helps the criminal lawyer provide himself with a fine home, luxurious offices, memberships in exclusive clubs, costly automobiles, and all other evidences of worldly success. Also attracted by the wealth of the criminals are some of the smaller fry of the legal profession, ranging from the struggling young attorneys, who, through politics, have been turned out of their jobs as assistant prosecutors, to those members of the bar who are plainly shysters. Then, too, there are lawyers who do not specialize in defending criminals but who now and then seize at the opportunity to collect a fat fee by entering an important criminal case.

Perhaps no other group of men in Chicago so well represent organized crime as those who have been termed "public enemies," the Capones; the golf playing Jack McGurn; the beer runner, Saltis; the gang chief, "Bugs" Moran, and their more notorious associates and their underworld enemies. Linked to these or to others who have been tried on criminal charges are the names of various lawyers who have defended important cases, Thomas D. Nash, Michael J. Ahern, Benedict J. Short, George H. Guenther, W. W. O'Brien, James M. Burke, Emmet Byrne, and others, some masters of their profession, others merely cunning or bold.

The first list of "public enemies," containing twenty-eight names, was made public by the Chicago Crime commission on April 23, 1930. Five months later Municipal Judge John H. Lyle issued a batch of vagrancy warants for twenty-six of the original "public enemies," thus in the name of good government declaring war on the city's leading foes of society. How that war has progressed through nearly four years can best be ascertained by study of the list of original "public enemies" appearing on this page. It must be remembered, however, that the original twenty-eight were only the vanguard, other "public enemies" having been named on subsequent lists.

Picked from the first dozen of the first "public enemies" are men who battled law and order with greater or less success through the assistance of their courtroom voices—the lawyers.

No. 1

ALPHONSE (SCARFACE AL) CAPONE, once "public enemy" No. 1 but now No. 40,886 at Atlanta prison, left all fears of the law to be attended to by his attorneys, concentrating attention on his fears of the vengeance of rival gangsters. Appearing in Chicago first as a $75 a week bouncer at the toughest of rendezvous, the Four Deuces, at 2222 South Wabash avenue, he eventually became the most notorious of all gang leaders and head of the biggest illicit booze combination in Chicago. For years he was immune from police interference. For years he was so well provided with funds—once estimated to be worth 20 million dollars—that he was able to retain the services of clever criminal lawyers. For years he outwitted his enemies, who had placed a price of $50,000 on his head, or brazenly bluffed them with the aid of his hard-bitten band of bodyguards.

When everyone was wondering why Capone of the evil reputation was not tossed into jail and kept there, he was constantly in and out of his home at 7244 Prairie avenue, in attendance at sporting events, or to be seen riding about the city in an automobile. At ball games, escorted by his bodyguards, he was a bigger attraction than the hardest-hitting home run slugger.

In the sanguinary bootleg war, which started on Sept. 7, 1923, with the slaying of Jerry O'Connor, a beer runner, and which claimed hundreds of victims in the seven years that it raged, Capone was a smiling and suave figure, the great "untouchable" of the underworld. When George (Bugs) Moran, rival gangster, said of the Valentine's day massacre of 1929, in which seven of his henchmen were slain, that "only Capone kills like that," Al merely laughed.

So well protected on all sides was Capone that the only case in the bootleg war in which it appeared likely that he might be prosecuted was that in connection with the machine gun killings on April 27, 1926, at Harry Madigan's saloon at 5615 West Roosevelt road, of William H. McSwiggin, assistant state's attorney, Thomas Duffy, beer peddler, and James J. Doherty, whom McSwiggin once had prosecuted on the charge of murder. The case dragged until July 29 of that year, when Capone appeared before Chief Justice Thomas J. Lynch of the Criminal court. Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman said to the judge:

"This complaint (warant charging murder; Capone was not indicted) was made by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker on cursory information and belief. Subsequent investigation could not legally substantiate the information."

The case, in which Capone was represented by Attorney Thomas D. Nash, was dismissed by Judge Lynch. Nash, of the team of Nash and Ahern, with offices in the Conway building, was only one of a number of attorneys who represented Capone from time to time. In August, 1927, this same Nash, a leader in the Democratic party in Cook county, bought a $30,000 home at 9948 South Hoyne avenue. As a candidate for the board of review in the autumn of 1928, Nash was bitterly attacked by his opponent, Edward R. Litsinger, who said of his Democratic rival:

Mr. Litsinger at that time charged that Nash not only had defended Al Capone but also Ralph Capone, a brother; James Donegan, Joe Montana, Tony Capazio, Bernard McCone, John Pettitti, Joseph Collando, Emanuel Scott, Frank Lanciano, Albert Alselmi, John Scalise, William Kusack, Dominick Caruso, James Cappola, Harold Croarkin, Eugene Geary, George Garines, and Ralph Sheldon. Records of the aforementioned cases show that they ranged in their charges from gun toting and conspiracy to manslaughter and murder.

Though Capone served ten months in a Philadelphia prison on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon, he always was able to elude or defeat the law in Chicago—that is, until he finally was put away by the government for income tax evasion, despite the efforts of a battery of defense lawyers captained by Michael J. Ahern, a resident of 4536 North Mozart street and No. 2 of the Nash and Ahern team. Capone's principal defense in that famous case, in which he drew ten years in a federal penitentiary, one year in the county jail, and a fine of $50,000, was that he had lost his money on the horses. He was found guilty Oct. 18, 1931, in Judge James H. Wilkerson's court. Six days later he was sentenced. On May 4, 1932, he entered Atlanta prison.

TONY (MOPS) VOLPE, Capone gangster and "public enemy" No. 2, has much for which to thank his lawyers. He enjoys freedom in the land of the free, however, not because of a final triumph of his lawyers but because neither Italy nor Argentina will receive him as a citizen.

Ordered deported on Feb. 27, 1931, by the secretary of labor, Volpe fought until May 22, 1933, when the United States Supreme court ruled that he would have to leave the country. But neither Argentina, the land of his birth, nor Italy, where he spent his childhood, would have him. Since then he has been literally a "man without a country."

Listed among the legal representatives of Volpe are several minor league lawyers who defended him in early vagrancy troubles; John Elliott Byrne, former assistant state's attorney and for ten years "ace" of the federal district attorney's staf, who conducted his fight against deportation; and Congressman Frank R. Reid, Aurora politician and payroller of a former Chicago city administration, who entered the deportation case in an effort to help Byrne save his client from a compulsory voyage at sea.

Reid, a member of the house of representatives for twelve years and with a long record for voting dry, is reported as entertaining ambitions to run for governor of Illinois in 1936. Byrne of late sticks strictly to law; has offices at 38 South Dearborn street.

RALPH (BOTTLES) CAPONE, brother of Al and "public enemy" No. 3, recently discharged from McNeil iland penitentiary after having done time for income tax frauds, is one who has leaned heavily upon criminal lawyers throughout his checkered career. Coming to public attention first in gun toting, election fraud, and liquor cases, and finally being sentenced on June 16, 1930, to three years in prison on an income tax conviction, Ralph Capone is well acquainted with courts and lawyers.

Among the attorneys employed by him from time to time appear the names of Tyrrell A. Richardson, with offices at 188 West Madison street; Dennis M. Kelleher and George N. Murdock, and the previously mentioned Michael J. Ahern of the team of Nash and Ahern.

Richardson has made frequent appearances for Capone hoodlums. In addition to appearing f Ralph Capone he represented "Machine G Jack" McGurn, the only man ever indicted in t St. Valentine's day massacre, and "Golf Bag" Sa Hunt, who originated the idea of concealing death-dealing automatic shotgun in a golf ba Richardson, who once served as assistant stat attorney and who later had ambitions to becom judge, is said to have been the attorney to wh was detailed the task of taking care of "Scarfa Al's" boys in the lower courts. Because of the ch acter of this practice he was considered an effici specialist in certain types of criminal defense. W the gangsters' cases reached the federal or s courts the defendants were represented by Ah or others of his caliber. So when Ralph Capo tax trial began before Judge Wilkerson the att neys defending him were Kelleher and Murdo On Nov. 4, 1931, three days before Capone enter Leavenworth prison, from which he subsequent was transferred, Ahern appeared in an eleven hour effort to save him from a federal cell. As result of the striking off the records of prohibiti cases, no charges now stand against Ralph Capo

FRANK RIO, "public enemy" N 4 and chief bodyguard of Al Capon a stolid hoodlum who now is said to be a west si gang boss, early in his career of crime earned t name of "Slippery" through his ability to squi out of theft charges and to evade trials. Being unimaginative fellow at the best—or the worst— left his thinking to his lawyers. It is more th probable that his reputation for immunity rest upon the activities of his attorneys rather th upon his own achievements.

Rio began attracting considerable attention early as 1919, when, according to old newspap accounts, he was arrested on the charge of robbi a South Michigan avenue fur shop at a time wh eight indictments for alleged automobile thefts we hanging over his head. He was at liberty when h was arrested in the fur theft case on bonds aggregating $43,500, signed by Cæsar Dal Pino and Tony La Porta. In the following year, when taken as a suspect in a $25,000 robbery, Rio obtained his liberty on a writ of habeas corpus.

In January, 1922, the much-arrested Rio, at liberty on bonds totaling $130,000 for various crimes, including mail robbery, was surrendered by his attorney in connection with the murder of Police Sergeant Charles A. Paldina. And so on through piles of old newspaper clippings appears the name of Rio, charged first with this offense and then with that, until 1928, when he was given in public print the doubtful

In 1929 Rio went to prison in Philadelphia with Capone, the two charged with carrying concealed weapons. Capone at the time was reported to be fleeing the vengeance of the friends of the murdered John Scalise, Albert Anselmi, and Joseph Guinta, and perfectly willing to go behind steel bars for safety. Rio and Al served ten months for that offense. On the arrest of the two in the Pennsylvania city, Capone was smiling and loquacious, but the stolid Rio, on being asked to make a statement, said:

"Get me a mouthpiece [lawyer] and I'll talk."

Attorneys of the eastern city who appeared for the pair, Bernard L. Lemisch and Cornelius Haggerty Jr., charged that the police were trying to "railroad" the hoodlums to prison.

In 1930 Rio was taken before Judge Lyle in a contempt case based on the gangster's alleged cursing of a bailif. The judge later announced that the six months' sentence he had imposed in the case would be vacated if Rio apologized to the bailif. But the gangster refused to apologize. Judge Lyle then declared the matter too petty for a six months' sentence, and Rio went free. Representing him at that time, as had been the case in previous instances, was a well known lawyer and politician who since has died.

In 1931, at a time when he was mentioned in underworld rumors as a successor to his chief, Capone, Rio still bore the charmed life of yore, being able to get out of a vagrancy charge in Judge Francis Borrelli's court in the amazing time of thirty seconds because of the state's failure to produce evidence against him. In June, 1932, Rio was discussed as a possible subject for deportation. Nothing apparently came out of the plan, for the former bodyguard of Capone today is reported firmly intrenched as a new west side gang boss.

The brief remark, "Get me a mouthpiece and I'll talk," attributed to Rio under questioning in Philadelphia, was a true key to his character and plain evidence of his faith in the ability of criminal lawyers. He never talked, it is said, except upon the advice of attorneys. That, perhaps, is the principal reason why he has spent comparatively little time in jail, though he often has been in trouble.

Lawyers for Rio—and there have been a number of them—have been able in virtually all cases to remain in the background through their lack of importance, attracting no attention to themselves, but serving their client efficiently. Cases in the lower courts, as pointed out previously, were usually handled by lesser lights of Capone's legal staf. And Rio was more often in the lower courts than the state courts. Just cunning enough to leave everything to his lawyers.

No. 5

JAMES BELCASTRO, "public enemy" No. 5, bearing the title of "king of bombers," for years has been in frequent if not constant need of the services of criminal lawyers. On his list of legal defenders appear the names of Thomas D. Nash, who represented him in bomb cases; Elliodor M. Libonati, with offices in the 100 North La Salle building, and Albert Filetti, who appeared for him on Sept. 9, 1933, when he was found guilty under the vagrancy law in the court of Judge Robert J. Dunne.

Belcastro was involved in 1929 in the trial growing out of the murder of Octavius Granady, Negro candidate for committeeman in the Twentieth ward, but the charge against him was nol-prossed. He was hunted in the murder of John Genaro in 1930. And he himself was shot five times in 1931.

Whenever a bombing occurred the police were told to look for Belcastro. If he could be found he was questioned, but in most cases allowed his liberty at once. Once, when a bomb factory was raided, Belcastro was found not twenty feet away in an areaway, calmly drinking coffee. But the evidence didn't stick.

Only twelve days ago Belcastro and a companion, James Catuara, were seized and taken to the city detective bureau to be questioned about recent bombings of independent milk stores.

JACK (MACHINE GUN) McGURN, reputed executioner of the Capone gang, "public enemy" No. 6, and so skilful at golf that he dared to enter the Western Open at Olympia Fields last August, was found guilty under the vagrancy act on Sept. 6, 1933, by a jury in Judge Thomas A. Green's felony court and sentenced by the judge to six months in the Bridewell. Permitted to roam under bail of $10,000 put up by Robert A. Marcus, he succeeded on Nov. 2 last in getting the bond reduced to $3,500. The case now is almost forgotten. Attorney at that time for McGurn, whose real name as well as golf-playing name, is Vincent Gebhardi, was one Benjamin Feldman.

". . . McGurn and Louise were indicted under the federal charge of conspiracy to violate the Mann act . . . sentenced on July 21, 1931, by Judge Walter C. Lindley, the gangster to two years . . . his blond girl to four months . . ."

McGurn, whose automobile is said to have contained a radio tuned to local police calls, and whose closest squeak was when he was shot down in the cigar shop of a hotel at Rush and Ontario streets in March, 1928, has made considerable legal practice for Chicago barristers. When facing prosecution in connection with the St. Valentine's day massacre of Moran hoodlums he produced Louise Rolfe, who swore that McGurn was with her in a loop hotel at the time seven gangsters were mowed down with machine guns in a North Clark street garage. Louise became known as McGurn's "blond alibi." To get the suspect out of that so-called hot spot at the time required the services of the ready-witted Messrs. Nash and Ahern, the same members of the legal profession named in connection with gangsters mentioned earlier in this article.

After McGurn and Louise had been arrested on Feb. 27, 1929, in room 1919-A of the Stevens hotel, their troubles were put into the court of Judge Francis Borrelli, who turned them loose on the following July 26 on the grounds that the state's attorney's office had failed to prove that the couple were not legally wedded. Connected in a legal way with that affair in addition to Nash and Ahern was an attorney of their office, Roger Kiley, former football star of Notre Dame, former gridiron coach, and at present alderman of the Thirty-seventh ward.

Because of alleged trips taken together to Florida and Mississippi, McGurn and Louise were indicted under the federal charge of conspiracy to violate the Mann act. They were found guilty and sentenced on July 21, 1931, by Judge Walter C. Lindley, the gangster to two years in Leavenworth and his blond girl to four months in jail. On the day that the couple heard their sentence pronounced they entered court with their attorney, former Municipal Judge Harry F. Hamlin, living at 5252 Wayne avenue and with offices at 123 West Madison street.

Said Lawyer Hamlin before the judge made known the sentence: "This was just a plain, ordinary love affair. Similar ones occur often in modern life. The government chose this one couple out of a thousand for prosecution."

In the following February, when the case was in the United States Court of Appeals, Attorney Hamlin, assisted by former Judge Charles G. F. Wahle of New York, argued that at most the government had proved McGurn and Louise guilty only of adultery, that no element of commercialism was involved, and that there could not have been three conspiracies to violate the white slave act, as the government charged.

McGurn and Louise were married in Waukegan in May, 1931. The sentence imposed by Judge Lindley was reversed on Nov. 7, 1932, by the United States Supreme court.

Attorney Hamlin, who fought McGurn's legal battle through the government courts, has been a figure in Chicago Republican politics for years, serving two terms in the Illinois legislature, filling the offices at different times of assistant corporation counsel, assistant attorney general, and assistant federal district attorney, and serving on the Chicago Municipal bench. He was a major in the World war.

ROCCO FANELLI, "public enemy" No. 7, identified with west side gang interests, a henchman of former City Collector Morris Eller, and once accused—but not indicted—in the Valentine's day massacre, early in his career became possessed of an evil reputation, despite his professorial appearance, greatly augmented by his big horn-rimmed spectacles. His acquittal and that of three others on May 22, 1929, when the four, all Eller lieutenants, were tried in Judge Frank Comerford's Criminal court on charges of assault and kidnaping of C. Ray Hanson, a Chicago Bar association poll watcher, were the result of adroit lawing on the part of a battery of smart attorneys.

"Rocco Fanelli . . became possessed of an evil reputation . . ."

"Attorney Short . . . dean of a group designated as 'criminal lawyers' . . ."

". . . George H. Guenther . . . also . . . of criminal defense fame."

That was the third trial growing out of alleged election violences involving Eller and his henchmen. Those acquitted with Fanelli were State Senator James B. Leonardo, Sam Kaplan, and John Armando. After the verdict Leonardo said: "The jury has spoken for me. I do, however, want to thank my attorneys for the fight put up in my behalf." The lawyers to whom he extended his thanks on that occasion were Thomas D. Nash, whose name appears frequently on these pages, Benedict J. Short, and George H. Guenther.

When Fanelli made his successful fight to keep from being involved in the wholesale killing of the Moran gangsters he was represented by Attorney Roland V. Libonati, with offices in the 100 North La Salle building, the same building in which are located the offices of Elliodor M. Libonati.

". . . Benedict J. Short . . . a resident of 2552 North Kedzie boulevard . . . has appeared . . . in a number of important criminal cases."

Attorney Short, whose endeavors in the interests of the Eller henchmen were so successful, is dean of a group designated as "criminal lawyers," an authority on and a collector of pistols, and a resident of 2552 North Kedzie boulevard. He has appeared from time to time in a legal way in a number of important criminal cases. Guenther, whose domestic troubles were aired in public print at intervals during the period from 1925 and 1932, and of whom it was alleged in a divorce case in November, 1928, that his annual income was more than $15,000, also is a lawyer of criminal defense fame. Short and Guenther have offices in the Otis building.

LAWRENCE MANGANO, No. 8 of the "public enemies" and often a suspect under police interrogation in connection with gambling, kidnapings, and bomb outrages, enjoys liberty today through his natural ability to give satisfactory answers to highly personal questions and also to his inclination to place explicit trust in competent criminal lawyers.

His cafe and gambling dive, the Minerva Athletic club at 522 South Halsted street, was bombed in 1926. Later a police raid on his establishment was followed by the bombing of the home of Police Capt. Luke Garrick. A charge of malicious mischief lodged against Mangano in connection with the Garrick bombing was dismissed by Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden. When Mangano defeated a vagrancy charge in 1930 he was represented legally by Attorney Roland V. Libonati. When Mangano appeared before Judge Thomas A. Green with the startling request for a warrant for the arrest of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker for alleged false imprisonment, he was represented by Attorney Rocco De Steffano, a widely known lawyer and politician, with offices at 201 North Wells street and with residence at 801 South Ashland avenue. De Steffano formerly was an assistant corporation counsel and an assistant attorney for the Forest Preserve.

JACK GUZIK, soft spoken and pudgy one time business manager of the Capone booze and vice syndicate and "public enemy" No. 10, said goodby to Chicago April 7, 1932, when he was started to Leavenworth to begin a prison term of five years and one day for income tax fraud.

His attorney in the income tax case before Judge Charles E. Woodward, in which he drew a $17,500 fine as well as the prison sentence, was Capt. William F. FRANK DIAMOND, brother-in-law of Al Capone and No. 11 and the most stylish dresser of the "public enemies," has been in trouble more than once in gun toting cases. In 1928 he drew six months on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon; in 1930, when he was picked up on a similar charge, Judge Peter H. Schwaba quashed the case on the grounds that the police had no right to search a gangster without first obtaining a warant—a judicial action which temporarily set back a move at that time to disarm hoodlums. Attorney John F. Cashen appeared for Diamond in that case.

Diamond's uncanny record for obtaining court continuances was made the subject of newspaper comment as recently as March 17. In less than three months of 1934 he obtained six continuances in a vagrancy case; in 1930 he got twenty-three continuances in a gun toting case.

AN ALL FEMALE RACE OF TROPICAL FISH

Aquarium room in the museum of zoology at the University of Michigan, where Mollienisia experiments were made.

MOLLIENISIA, a family of tropical fish commonly called "mollies," or "sailfins," has been under intense study for the last two years by Dr. and Mrs. Carl L. Hubbs of the University of Michigan zoology department in connection with the parthogenetic characteristics of one type of the fish, known as the Mollienisia "formosa." This branch of the Mollienisia family is all female and produces only females. According to the theory of the Hubbses, the all-female Mollienisia race is the result of the hybridizing some time in the past of two other branches of the family, namely, the Mollienisia latipinna and the Mollienisia sphenops. Through raising thousands of Mollienisia of all three types Dr. Hubbs established that the all-female Mollienisia "formosa" can and does mate with any type of male Mollienisia, but the female offspring have none of the characteristics of the male. These offspring, too, can mate with any other type of Mollienisia male, but produce only females like themselves. This is scientifically known as a form of parthogenesis. Pictures of the three types of Mollienisia are shown in the accompanying illustrations. The latipinna group occurs along the east coast from the Carolinas to Yucatan, the sphenops group is found in eastern Mexico from Monterey to Panama, and the all-female race occurs in the vicinity of Brownsville, Texas.

THE four letters of the alphabet presented in the accompanying chart include characters which have been little changed since earliest times. The letter L, although it underwent considerable change in its transition from the early Phœnician to the early Greek alphabet, finally reverted to its original form only slightly modified. This is clearly illustrated in considering the Phœnician symbol and the Latin symbol in comparison with the Greek lambda, resembling an upside down V. Another letter which has undergone little change from earliest times is the character M. The position of this letter was 13 in the Phœnician and Greek alphabets, 12 in the Latin, and 13 again in the languages of western Europe. Written originally from right to left in Phœnician and Greek, the first stroke was longer than the others. In Latin the letter was written from left to right and the final stroke was equalized with the others. In Greek a similar four stroke letter with equal length strokes represented not M, but S. The next letter of our alphabet, N, has had the following position to M throughout history. Perhaps the most interesting fact about N is the variety of its phonetic values. It can represent an alveolar, dental, guttural, or palatal sound. The letter O has had a circular form since earliest times with the rare exceptions of some of the ancient alphabets, in which it occurs as a diamond shaped or square figure. In the early Greek a dot was sometimes in the center of the circle, and in Ionic Greek a separate symbol existed for the long O sound. This was named Omega. Omicron was the name for short o. In Phœnician the name for O was Ain. The Greek omega was a later development of the symbol than omicron and its history therefore is more complete. Egyptian hieroglyphs having the values of the corresponding letters L, M, and N are ideograms representing the figures of a lioness, an owl, and a zigzag line, depicting water. The last of these symbols is quite prevalent in hieroglyphic writing.

PRODUCING ACTORS FOR THE MARIONETTE SHOW

Making a marionette. The skeleton is constructed of cloth, rags, and paper. The feet are weighted with buckshot. The features are painted on the head.

After the skeleton has been made, the marionette is dressed. The clothing is made separately and then sewed on the puppet.

MANUFACTURING marionettes is the intensely interesting occupation of Miss Lucille Fink of Chicago. Puppet shows long have been a popular form of entertainment in Europe, and in recent years they have been gaining in popularity in the United States. The process of creating a marionette is complex and demands a high degree of artistry and skill. Miss Fink begins the process by sculpturing the head of the doll in plastic clay. When this model is finished, a piece of wet buckram is placed over the clay model and smoothed carefully over the features. When the buckram has dried on the clay, four layers of paper are pasted over it and the cloth and paper mask is removed from the clay. Next a skeleton fashioned of twisted pieces of cloth and paper is constructed. The clothing of the doll is then sewed to the skeleton, the feet of which have been weighted with buckshot. The paper head, having been painted, is attached to the body, as are nine strings. The other ends of the strings are attached to a wooden frame, which is held by the operator. Tilting the frame causes the dolls to move.

Finished dolls. To each marionette has been attached nine strings. The strings are attached to the front and back of the head, one to each shoulder, one to each hand and each knee, and one to the back.

AUTOMOTIVE NOVELTIES

EXTREMES of streamlining in automobile design, introduced commercially at the recent automobile shows in this country, are not the only new developments in motor cars, as the above pictures reveal. At the motor exhibition in South London a new racing car, built specially for dirt tracks, was displayed. The car has a six foot wheel base to allow for skidding and is powered by a nine horsepower motor of the front wheel drive type. Another motor car novelty, a three wheel motor street sweeper, was a feature of the recent motor show in Berlin.

PATRIOTIC FROCK

BY way of combining patriotism with chic, Evelyn Venable (who only recently crashed into the front ranks of celluloid somebodies) introduces this daytime frock in the colors of Old Glory—red, white and blue. The material is navy blue crepe; the belt is of bright red leather, and the lingerie jabot is white. The dress doesn't depend entirely on its color scheme, however, for smartness. It also boasts one of the elbow length capes that have returned on a wave of favor to liven up the spring mode, and which lends just that swagger touch needed to turn a practical but unexciting dress into the favorite costume of almost any girl.

Another Man's Wife

By Mrs. Belloc Lowndes

SYNOPSIS

Rex Chandos, ace racer, meets and falls madly in love with Delia Seaton. Delia, beautiful but self-centered, is the wife of Jim Seaton, world-famous cricketer. Delia, under the spell of the masterful Rex Chandos, begins a double life. Her husband receives an injury which necessitates the amputation of a leg. Her once-wealthy father, facing disgrace, commits suicide, leaving nothing but debts. The Seatons' income is reduced to slightly over three pounds a week. Chandos, to get money for Delia, accepts dishonest work. He gets a country home with rent free for Delia and Jim, with a secret cottage near by for himself and Delia. Dr. Wentworth, from the village, becomes interested in the Seatons. His heiress wife, Juliet, is a chronic invalid. His mother and his cousin, Jane Galt, who adores him, live next door. Delia gives Jim an overdose of a sleeping drug which Dr. Wentworth had left. Dr. Wentworth believes Jim took his own life. There is no inquest.

INSTALMENT XI

AFTER that at once terrible and delicious emotional storm during which he and Delia Seaton had been whirled into each other's arms, Harry Wentworth had put his car in the garage and gone for a long walk across Meltham common.

All the glory and exultation which had filled him during that blinding experience had fallen away leaving him face to face with his blistered conscience. He was aware, as only a medical man could be aware, of the awful strain Delia Seaton had gone through that morning. And he asked himself, in an agony of shame, how he could have come to take advantage of her highly strung condition.

He had constant cause to be alone with women who became violently emotional through grief, and sometimes they were very attractive women. Some of them, as he could not help knowing, would welcome sentimental consolation administered by such a man as himself. But never had it even occurred to him to offer such consolation.

He blamed himself bitterly now for having been so often to the Thatched house this last summer and autumn. And there had always been a good excuse for his going there. Again and again he had spent an hour with Jim Seaton at a time when Delia had been in London, and when he had known she would be in London. But he did not remember those times now. What he recalled with sharp upbraiding were the many times he had gone there with an aching longing just to see her face, just to touch her hand when saying good-day and good-by.

AT last he turned into the circular drive which led to what, after all, was his own front door. To his surprise, that door opened and Jane Galt walked out of the Old Manor.

"How is poor Delia?" she asked.

"She is still suffering from shock," he said in a low voice. "I've arranged everything as well as I could and they're going to move the poor chap's body to the mortuary this afternoon."

Jane said hesitatingly, "Juliet already knows of Mr. Seaton's death."

"Does she?"

"She sent over a message and asked me to come in and see her, as she wanted to know all about it. And, Harry——"

"Yes?"

He disliked talking of his wife to his cousin. And Jane very seldom mentioned Juliet.

"She actually wants Delia Seaton to come and stay at the Old Manor from tomorrow for a bit."

He stiffened into startled attention. Delia living as his own and his wife's guest at the Old Manor? He must prevent that.

"I thought Juliet didn't like Mrs. Seaton?"

"I don't know that she likes her exactly, but she wants an excuse to prevent her Aunt Matty from coming here."

"How d'you mean?"

"The old lady has got to see her London dentist, and she wrote and asked if she could stay here for a week. Juliet hates having her and she evidently thought that if she asked poor Delia Seaton to stay it would make an excellent excuse for not having her aunt."

Harry looked anything but pleased.

"I'm afraid I encouraged her," she went on, "for I told her what of course is true, that Delia Seaton could live practically almost entirely in that pleasant bedroom and sitting room which have been shut up for so long. That little suite of rooms has a bathroom and even a staircase to itself."

He said in a firm tone: "I don't think Mrs. Seaton can possibly stay with us. She will be having to see people on business. Also there will be her friends—though they have been shockingly neglectful, to my thinking. Some of them are sure to want to see her now. She'd really be happier in Mrs. Deal's lodgings, at any rate for the first week or two."

"I'm afraid Juliet will be greatly upset if Delia doesn't come to the Old Manor. In fact, she made me write her a note while I was there, and we sent it off to the Thatched house a few minutes ago. You know how keen she is about anything once she's set her heart on it. She hates the thought of her aunt coming here just now. I don't quite know why."

"She loathes all her relations,"

he said quietly. "They used the house like a hotel before we were married. Also Juliet suspects Aunt Matty of wanting her to give that son of hers some of the money she came into lately."

He waited a moment. "For the matter of that, I don't see why Juliet shouldn't give the young man five thousand pounds. After all, all that money might have been left to him. It was just an accident it was left to Juliet."

"You will never make her think that."

"No, I don't suppose I shall."

He sighed uneasily. Money had become simply dross to this man. And it was true that what he himself earned he gave almost entirely away.

Suddenly he exclaimed: "I want to tell you something, Jane. Something I've never said to you before."

She threw him a quick glance. What could he have to say to her? She knew him far too well to suppose that he was going to say anything against his wife.

"Let me say, just this once, how—how grateful I am to you for all your goodness."

She tried to laugh, but she failed. "I wish I could do more for you, Harry."

"You do everything," he said. "Everything in the world. I don't know how I should go on living if it were not for you——" He did not add as she expected him to do, "—and mother."

SHE walked away, her head high, tears rolling down her cheeks. When he had turned the corner in the drive of the Old Manor she stopped and fought hard for self-control.

Poor Harry! Her heart's love. What had made him marry the foolish, small-minded, silly woman with whom she had just spent a trying half-hour? But he had married her, and there was no help for it now.

As for Wentworth himself, it was in a turmoil of various emotions that he turned his latchkey in the lock of the front door.

When inside the high-ceilinged, spacious hall he waited for a few moments for he felt unfit both in body and mind for the kind of discussion which lay before him. Yet he was determined that Delia Seaton should not come and live under what, after all, was now his roof.

He went on at last along the wide corridor from which opened his wife's sitting room.

Juliet was lying, as usual, on a couch. There was an open letter in her hand, and on the pale blue silk-embroidered coverlet lay an envelope.

She looked up with an eager smile. "Is that my Romeo come to see his little Juliet?"

"Romeo" felt moved, and shame flooded his burdened mind. This poor soul, whatever her defects, loved him with all the heart she had.

He sat down. He knew all too well what was coming, and also how entirely unimportant it was—in a sense.

"I've asked that poor Mrs. Seaton to stay here for a bit. I wrote her a note just now, and here is her answer."

He took a sheet of paper from his wife's hand and felt a touch of surprise on seeing the sprawling, untidy looking writing. He had thought Delia's penmanship would be something delicate and beautiful, like herself.

The Thatched House,
Tuesday afternoon.

Dear Mrs. Wentworth:

How awfully kind of you! Of course I shall be only too happy to accept your invitation to stay with you for a fortnight from tomorrow. Thank you for your words of sympathy. I feel utterly miserable.

Yours sincerely,
Delia Seaton.

Then the die was cast!

"You're glad, aren't you, Harry? I partly did it to please you. I know that poor man was your pet patient."

He could see that she wanted him to praise her, so he said: "It was very kind of you. I'm glad you thought of it, my dear."

He loathed himself for telling two such lies. Juliet had not been kind; she had simply consulted her own convenience. And he was very sorry, not glad, that Delia Seaton was coming here to the Old Manor.

When young Mrs. Wentworth's fine motor car arrived at the Thatched house to take Mrs. Seaton to the Old Manor the chauffeur was secretly surprised at the smartness of the small suitcase and at the opulent looking dressing case he was asked to carry. Delia was only taking with her those of her frocks, day and evening, which were black, gray, mauve, or white. Everything else she left locked up in the cupboardlike room where she had kept her dresses and coats.

And then began for young Mrs. Wentworth's guest an existence, to tell the truth, of deadly dullness.

The master of the house, with whom she had supposed she would be thrown constantly, she seldom saw, excepting when he happened to be in to late dinner. In fact, it soon became clear that he was deliberately avoiding being alone with her. As for her hostess, at the end of a few days Delia felt there was nothing about her past and present life she did not know. Juliet was fond of talking about herself and those of her neighbors with whom she was on terms of acquaintance. As to the world outside Meltham, she felt a real concern in the doings of smart London society. When she discovered, as she soon did, that the young widow who was now her guest knew some of the people who were constantly mentioned in those columns, her interest in Delia Seaton quickened surprisingly, and soon Delia found it worth her while to amuse her hostess with tales of even stale scandals.

Soon there came one hour in the day to which Delia looked forward eagerly. That was the hour when Jane Galt would come and carry her off for a good tramp.

Jane was secretly surprised that during that hour of walking Delia never spoke of the future, and seemed quite content to live in the dull present. But then she would remind herself that after all the poor girl had undergone an awful shock.

That view was shared by Jane's cousin. "It will take her a long time to get over that fearful shock," he said more than once.

When with Jane, Harry was able to be himself, though even so he guarded with jealous care what he regarded as a shameful secret—his instinctive passionate love for the young widow who was now living under his roof, but of whom he had forced himself with a stoic determination to see as little as possible.

DELIA SEATON had been at the Old Manor two days over a fortnight when late one afternoon, just as she was settling herself down to her usual gossiping talk with Juliet, as the guest had now been bidden to call her hostess, suddenly that lady observed in a somewhat hesitating voice:

"I've been wondering whether you've made any plans. I mean about what you're going to do after leaving here? I'm afraid I can't ask you to stay on here after tomorrow."

"That will be quite all right," Delia heard herself saying, and then her hostess went on, awkwardly.

"You see I know that it's rather worried my husband, having a visitor in the house." She never called him "Harry" to any one excepting to her mother, and to his cousin. He was always either "my husband," or "the doctor." "Of course he would never say so, because he's almost ridiculously kind, but he's never really happy unless he and I are alone together."

Delia looked straight into the pallid face, the red rimmed eyes, and "I can well understand that," she observed.

"Since you have been here the doctor has been out of the house much more than he generally is. My husband is essentially a home bird!" And young Mrs. Wentworth laughed.

"There are some nice lodgings in the village kept by a Mrs. Deal. I sent my maid today to see if they were empty, and I ventured to engage them for you for one week, as you said you couldn't bear to go back to the Thatched house. Mrs. Deal only charges three pounds a week, and I felt sure you could afford that."

"O, yes," said Delia dully. "Of course I can afford that."

Often to herself, and even to Jane Galt, she had complained of the kind of life that she was leading at the Old Manor. But now she realized how very comfortable she had been here, lapped in a kind of old-fashioned luxury which had been delicious after months spent in the squalid discomfort of the Thatched house.

Did something of what the unhappy Delia was feeling reach the selfish heart, the small, mean mind, of Juliet Wentworth? Maybe it did, for she said quickly: "You and I will always be friends, dear."

"Thank you," was the almost whispered reply.

The other went on cheerfully: "I think it would be nice if you would come here every day about six o'clock."

Said Delia, "I don't suppose I shall stay long at Meltham, for several people have asked me to stay with them."

"What sort of people?" asked Juliet inquisitively.

Her question was never answered, for the door opened and Harry came into the room.

"Mrs. Seaton feels she has had enough of us, darling! So she is going tomorrow to Mrs. Deal's lodgings, just for a little while, before she starts off on a round of visits."

HE could not help showing astonishment. "Leaving us? Why that?"

But Delia, to the sudden relief of Juliet played up. "People are beginning to want to see me," she said in a low voice. "And I feel it will be better for me to be on my own."

She tried to smile brightly, but Harry Wentworth sensed that she was deeply troubled.

Feeling as if she would burst into tears, Delia got up now and left the room so quickly that he hadn't even time to open the door for her.

For a moment he hesitated. He felt an overwhelming impulse to follow her so as to say how sorry he was that she was leaving the Old Manor. And then he knew it would be foolish to do that. It would do no good to either of them.

What could have happened? Juliet looked ruffled.

"It'll be very nice for Harry and Juliet to be alone together again, won't it?" she said caressingly, and then she put out her hand and took his in hers. "Say you'll be glad to be again with your own little wife, with no one in between?"

But at that he revolted. "Why, I hardly ever saw Mrs. Seaton. Her being in the house made no difference to me at all."

"Yet you've been out much more since she came here than ever before," and she took her hand away.

"There's been much more illness about. There always is at this time of the year," he said listlessly.

"I can't help thinking that our little Delia won't be a widow long. People think her so awfully pretty, Harry."

"Do they?"

"Have you ever heard of a man called Rex Chandos?" she asked.

"Yes, I have." He waited a moment. "I believe he's a racing motorist."

"That's the man I mean! Rex Chandos must be a great friend of Delia Seaton. Perhaps he's to be her second husband."

"Why d'you think that?"

"He telephoned three times some days ago, while she was taking a walk with Jane Galt. And he left a message that he would be at the Thatched house at seven the same evening. She certainly met him then, for she was in such a fidget that I said I felt tired at 6:45, and away she went!"

"I suppose he was a friend of Seaton's."

"I suppose he was. But that isn't all! I think he must be the same man who has hung about on the common outside this house several times waiting to catch Delia on her way to go out with Jane. MacNab saw him once, and she described him to me. He was exactly like this!" She produced a newspaper illustration from her coverlet and handed it to him.

Harry Wentworth gazed in silence at the ugly, powerful face of the man against whom he had warned Delia Seaton.

"I nearly showed that picture to her just now! Then I thought it would be rather horrid to do that so—so soon after her husband's death."

"It would have been very horrid to do such a thing," he said coldly.

"That's just what I thought. Though I think she does deserve a little teasing for seeing a man on the sly after having been a widow less than three weeks."

"I don't see anything sly about it."

"Don't you? I do."

THIS time he made no answer, and Juliet, giving a quick look at his moody countenance, told herself that after all it was a very good thing that Delia Seaton was leaving tomorrow.

As she left Juliet's sitting room Delia Seaton felt not only hurt but angry, too. How shameful that she should be thrown aside like an old shoe—while asked, nay, almost ordered, to come in every day to entertain a silly woman with whom she had nothing in common!

And there was another thing. While at the Old Manor she had been able to keep Rex Chandos more or less at bay. It would be impossible to do that when she had moved into lodgings.

She would have far preferred not to marry Chandos for some months, but he was insisting on an almost immediate marriage, and now she felt that there was nothing else left for her to do.

Mrs. Roby had been, as usual, very kind keeping an eye on the Thatched house, and even taking in any parcels and letters that had arrived there during the last fortnight. Delia had not been to see the woman who was her one real friend in Meltham for some days, and now feeling very unhappy and disinclined to be alone, she put on her outdoor things and made her way to the Robys' little villa.

She was greeted with the words: "So you're leaving the Old Manor tomorrow? I heard the news from Mrs. Deal. It's a shame young Mrs. Wentworth is shooing you out like that."

"She's not shooing me out exactly."

"O, yes she is, and it's too bad, for there must be a lot of spare rooms in that house. One would have thought, too, that her new big bit of luck would have put her in a good humor."

A big bit of luck to Juliet Wentworth? What could Mrs. Roby mean? "Has anything special happened to her?" she asked.

"Only that she has come in for another fortune."

"I suppose she's very well off?"

"Well off? I should think she was! Didn't you know that she used to be called, even in London, the Meltham heiress? Why, she's a millionaire!"

Delia smiled derisively. The Wentworths lived in what appeared to their present visitor a very quiet way. True, there was a large staff of woman servants, and it was plain that a very great deal of money must be spent on the gardens and the many hothouses.

"There's nothing to smile at," said Mrs. Roby tartly. "Mr. Fradell's will was proved at over eight hundred thousand pounds, and it came out that he had made a huge settlement on his daughter just over three years before his death."

"Eight hundred thousand pounds?"

DELIA stared at Mrs. Roby.

"She's got far more than that! She must have well over a million and a half pounds."

"I wonder the doctor goes on working," said Delia at last. She was astounded to hear this news about Juliet Wentworth.

"The doctor works because he would hate to live on his wife, and I must say in his place I'd do just the same! Still, stingy Juliet is tremendously fond of her Harry. I've heard that when they were first married she was always sending to Bond street for all kinds of wonderful jeweled studs and links and tie pins, but of course it showed what a goose she was to have thought he cared for that sort of things. It's a pity she wasn't a boy, for she'd have made a good business man. Half of her ailments are imaginary—I know Dr. Purves thinks so, and he's her doctor."

"I should have thought her husband would have been her doctor. She'd save on that," said Delia, and suddenly she laughed.

Mrs. Roby looked at her, surprised. "A doctor never attends his own family, Delia. It wouldn't do, especially in this kind of case, where the wife is so very rich."

Delia was now twisting a little piece of the ball fringe of the tablecloth in her fingers with a nervous movement. "D'you mean that if Juliet Wentworth died the doctor would get all her money?"

"Why, of course he would! She worships him. Besides, she hasn't anyone else to leave it to."

ROLAND

LOCATED two miles south of route 18 at Plano and three miles west of Yorkville, in Kendall county, Illinois, The Chicago Tribune's experimental farm is being planted to spring crops and groomed for the view of thousands of visitors who plan to watch its progress, if not to learn more intimately the life of the farm.

The farm is to combine typical modern farming with attempts to explore new crops and new methods which might become profitable to middle west farmers. More than fifty different crops are to be grown on the farm. They will be planted—and well marked for visitors—along the road which runs from Yorkville to Plano. The wide variety of experiments contemplated accounts for the use of 1,300 acres of land along the beautiful Fox river. A picnic grove is being provided in the woods near the river, where also will be found a pure fresh-water spring. A guide also will be provided.

Readers of The Daily Tribune's feature, "Day to Day Story of the Experimental Farm," by Bob Becker, will want to preserve this perspective map for reference or to take along when visiting the farm.
